If the parasol is spotted in one panel and the rest are in good condition, the spot can be concealed by embroidering a large oval medallion in self colors or white with the monogram of the owner in the middle.

A unique effect was seen recently in a parasol which had a lining of pale yellow. This was covered with net in almost the same tone and the ruffle was briar-stitched in reddish brown.

CHAPTER XXX.

The Laugh of a Woman.

Within an hour, Marion, working over a hat in the trimming room, was startled to hear the cottage door open and to see Dicksie quie unconcernedly walk in. To Marion's exclamation of surprise she returned only a laugh. "I have changed my mind, dear. I am going to stay all night."

Marion kissed her approvingly. "Really, you are getting so sensible I shan't know you, Dicksie. In fact, I believe this is the most sensible thing you were ever guilty of."

"Glad you think so," returned Dicksie, dryly, unpinning her hat; "certainly hope it is. Mr. McCloud persuaded me it wasn't right for me to ride home alone, and I knew better than he what danger there was for him in riding home with me—so here I am. He is coming over for supper, too, in a few minutes."

When McCloud arrived he brought with him a porterhouse steak, and Marion was again driven from the kitchen. At the end of an hour, Dicksie, engrossed over the broiler, was putting the finishing touches to the steak, and McCloud, more engrossed, was watching her, when a diffident and surprised-looking person appeared in the kitchen doorway and put his hand undecidedly on the casing. While he stood, Dicksie turned abruptly to McCloud.

"Oh, by the way, I have forgotten something! Will you do me a favor?"

"Certainly! Do you want money or a pass?"

"No, not money," said Dicksie, lifting the steak on her fork, "though you might give me a pass."

"But I should hate to have you go away anywhere—"

"I don't want to go anywhere, but I never had a pass, and I think it would be kind of nice to have one just to keep. Don't you?"

"Why, yes; you might put it in the bank and have it drawing interest."

"This steak is—Do they give interest on passes?"

"Well, a good deal of interest is felt in them—on this division at least. What is the favor?"

"Yes, what is it? How can I think? Oh, I know! If they don't put Jim in a box stall to-night he will kill some of the horses over there. Will you telephone the stables?"

"Won't you give me the number and let me telephone?" asked a voice behind them. They turned in astonishment and saw Whispering Smith. "I am surprised," he added, calmly, "to see a man of your intelligence, George, trying to broil a steak with the lower door of your stove wide open. Close the lower door and cut out the draft through the fire. Don't stare, George; put back the broiler. And haven't you made a radical mistake to start with?" he asked, stepping between the confused couple. "Are you not trying to broil a roast of beef?"

"Where did you come from?" demanded McCloud, as Marion came in from the dining room.

"Don't search me the very first thing," protested Whispering Smith.

"But we've been frightened to death here for 24 hours. Are you really alive and unhurt? This young lady rode in 20 miles this morning and came to the office in tears to get news of you."

Smith looked mildly at Dicksie. "Did you shed a tear for me? I should like to have seen just one! Where did I come from? I reported in wild over the telephone ten minutes ago. Didn't Marion tell you? She is so forgetful. That is what causes wrecks, Marion. I have been in the saddle since three o'clock this morning, thank you, and have had nothing for five days but raw steer garnished with sunshine."

The four sat down to supper, and Whispering Smith began to talk. He told the story of the chase to the Cache, the defiance from Rebstock, and the tardy appearance of the men he wanted. "Du Sang meant to shoot his way through us and make a dash for it. There really was nothing else for him to do. Banks and Kennedy were up above, even if he could have ridden out through the upper canyon, which is very doubtful with all the water now. After a little talk back and forth, Du Sang drew, and of course then it was every man for himself. He was hit twice and he died Sunday night, but the other two were not seriously hurt. What can you do? It is either kill or get killed with those fellows, and, of course, I talked plainly to Du Sang. He had butchered a man at Mission Springs just the night before, and deserved hanging a dozen times over. He meant from the start, he told me afterward, to get me. Oh, Miss Dicksie, may I have some more coffee? Haven't I an agreeable part of the railroad business, don't you think? I shouldn't have pushed in here to-night, but I saw the lights when I rode by awhile ago; they looked so good I couldn't resist."

McCloud leaned forward. "You call it pushing in, do you, Gordon? Do you know what this young lady did this morning? One of her cowboys came down from the Cache early with the word that you had been killed in the fight by Du Sang. He said he saw you drop from your saddle to the ground with Du Sang shooting at you. She ordered up her horse, without a word, and rode 20 miles in an hour and a half to find out here what we had heard. She 'pushed in' at the Wickiup, where she never had been before in her life, and wandered through it alone looking for my office, to find out from me whether I hadn't something to contradict the bad news. While we talked, in came your dispatch from Sleepy Cat. Never was one better timed! And when she knew you were safe her eyes filled again."

Whispering Smith looked at Dicksie, quizzically. Her confusion was delightful. He rose, lifted her hand in his own, and, bending, kissed it.

They talked till late, and when Dicksie walked on the porch McCloud followed to smoke. Whispering Smith still sat at the table talking to Marion, and the two heard the sound of the low voices outside. At intervals Dicksie's laugh came in through the open door.

Whispering Smith, listening, said nothing for some time, but once she laughed peculiarly. He pricked up his ears. "What has been happening since I left town?"

"What do you mean?" asked Marion Sinclair.

He nodded toward the porch. "McCloud and Dicksie out there. They have been fixing things up."

"Nonsense! What do you mean?"

"I mean they are engaged."

"Never in the world!"

"I may be slow in reading a trail," said Smith, modestly, "but when a woman laughs like that I think there's something doing. Don't you believe it? Call them in and ask them. You won't? Well, I will. Take them in separate rooms. You ask her and I'll ask him."

In spite of Marion's protests the two were brought in. "I am required by Mr. Smith to ask you a very silly question, Dicksie," said Marion, taking her into the living room. "Answer yes or no. Are you engaged to anybody?"

"What a question! Why, no!"

"Marion Sinclair wants to know just one thing, George," said Whispering Smith to McCloud, after he had taken him into the dark shop. "She feels she ought to know because she is in a way Dicksie's chaperone, you know, and she feels that you are willing she should know. I don't want to be too serious, but answer yes or no. Are you engaged to Dicksie?"

"Why, yes. I—"

"That's all; go back to the porch," directed Whispering Smith. McCloud obeyed orders.

Marion, alone in the living room, was waiting for the inquisitor, and her face wore a look of triumph. "You are not such a mind-reader after all, are you? I told you they weren't."

"I told you they were," contended Whispering Smith.

"She says they are not," insisted Marion.

"He says they are," returned Whispering Smith. "And, what's more, I'll bet my saddle against the shop they are. I could be mistaken in anything but that laugh."

CHAPTER XXXI.

A Midnight Visit.

The lights, but one, were out. McCloud and Whispering Smith had gone, and Marion was locking up the house for the night, when she was halted by a knock at the shop door. It was a summons that she thought she knew, but the last in the world that she wanted to hear or to answer. Dicksie had gone to the bedroom, and standing between the portieres that curtained the workroom from the shop, Marion in the half-light listened, hesitating whether to ignore or to answer the midnight intruder. But experience, and bitter experience, had taught her there was only one way to meet that particular summons, and that was to act, whether at noon or at midnight, without fear. She waited until the knocking had been twice repeated, turned up the light, and going to the door drew the bolt; Sinclair stood before her, and she drew back for him to enter. "Dicksie Dunning is with me to-night," said Marion, with her hand on the latch, "and we shall have to talk here."

Sinclair took off his hat. "I knew you had company," he returned in the low, gentle tone that Marion knew very well, "so I came late. And I heard to-night, for the first time, that this railroad crowd is after me—God knows why; but they have to earn their salary somehow. I want to keep out of trouble if I can. I won't kill anybody if they don't force me to it. They've scared nearly all my men away from the ranch already; one crippled-up cowboy is all I have got to help me look after the cattle. But I won't quarrel with them, Marion, if I can get away from here peaceably, so I've come to talk it over once more with you. I'm going away and I want you to go with me; I've got enough to keep us as well as the best of them and as long as we live. You've given me a b[illegible] n. I accept it, girl—"

"Don't call me that!"

He laughed kindly. "Why, that's what it used to be; that's what I want it to be again. I don't blame you. You're worth all the women I ever knew, Marion. I've learned to appreciate some few things in the lonely months I've spent up on the Frenchman; but I've felt while I was there as if I were working for both of us. I've got a buyer in sight now for the cattle and the land. I'm ready to clean up and say good-by to trouble. All I want is for you to give me the one chance I've asked for and go along."

They stood facing each other under the dim light. She listened intently to every word, though in her terror she might not have heard or understood all of them. One thing she did very clearly understand, and that was why he had come and what he wanted. To that she held her mind tenaciously, and for that she shaped her answer. "I cannot go with you—now or ever."

He waited a moment. "We always got along, Marion, when I behaved myself."

"I hope you always will behave yourself; but I could no more go with you than I could make myself again what I was years ago, Murray. I wish you nothing but good; but our ways parted long ago."

"Stop and think a minute, Marion. I offer you more and offer it more honestly than I ever offered it before, because I know myself better. I am alone in the world—strong, and better able to care for you than I was when I undertook to—"

"I have never complained."

"That's what makes me more anxious to show you now that I can and will do what's right."

"Oh, you multiply words! It is too late for you to be here. You are in danger, you say; for the love of heaven, leave me and go away!"

"You know me, Marion, when my mind is made up. I won't leave without you." He leaned with one hand against the ribbon showcase. "If you don't want to go I will stay right here and pay off the scores I owe. Two men here have stirred this country up too long, anyway. I don't care much how soon anybody gets me after I round them up. But to-night I felt like this: You and I started out in life together, and we ought to live it out, or die together, whether it's to-night, Marion, or 20 years from to-night."

"If you want to kill me to-night, I have no resistance to make."

Sinclair sat down on a low counter-stool, and, bending forward, held his head between his hands. "It oughtn't all to end here. I know you, and I know you want to do what's right. I couldn't kill you without killing myself; you know that." He straightened up slowly. "Here!" He slipped his revolver from his hip-holster and held the grip of the gun toward her. "Use it on me if you want to. It is your chance to end everything; it may save several lives if you do. I won't leave McCloud here to crow over me, and, by God, I won't leave you here for Whispering Smith! I'll settle with him anyhow. Take the pistol! What are you afraid of? Take it! Use it! I won't want to live without you. If you make me do it, you're to blame for the consequences."

She stood with wide-open eyes, but uttered no word.

"You won't touch it—then you care a little for me yet," he murmured.

"No! Do not say so. But I will not do murder."

"Think about the other, then. Go with me and everything will be all right. I will come back some evening soon for my answer. And until then, if those two men have any use for life, let them keep in the clear. I heard to-night that Du Sang is killed. Do you know whether it is true?"

"Here! Use it on Me!"

"It is true."

An oath half escaping showed how the confirmation cut him. "And Whispering Smith got away! It is Du Sang's own fault; I told him to keep out of that trap. I stay in the open; and I'm not Du Sang. I'll choose my own ground for the finish when they want it with me, and when I go I'll take company—I'll promise you that. Good-night, Marion. Will you shake hands?"

"No."

"Damn it, I like your grit, girl! Well, good-night, anyway."

She closed the door. She had even strength enough to bolt it before his footsteps died away. She put out the light and felt her way blindly back to the workroom. She staggered through it, clutching at the curtains, and fell in the darkness into Dicksie's arms.

"Marion, dear, don't speak," Dicksie whispered. "I heard everything. Oh, Marion!" she cried, suddenly conscious of the inertness of the burden in her arms. "Oh, what shall I do?"

Moved by fright to her utmost strength, Dicksie drew the unconscious woman back to her room and managed to lay her on the bed. Marion opened her eyes a few minutes later to see the lights burning, to hear the telephone bell ringing, and to find Dicksie on the edge of the bed beside her.

"Oh, Marion, thank heaven, you are reviving! I have been frightened to death. Don't mind the telephone; it is Mr. McCloud. I didn't know what to do, so I telephoned him."

"But you had better answer him," said Marion, faintly. The telephone bell was ringing wildly.

"Oh, no! he can wait. How are you, dear? I don't wonder you were frightened to death. Marion, he means to kill us—every one!"

"No, Dicksie. He will kill me and kill himself; that is where it will end. Dicksie, do answer the telephone. What are you thinking of? Mr. McCloud will be at the door in five minutes. Do you want him in the street to-night?"

Dicksie fled to the telephone, and an excited conference over the wire closed in seeming reassurance at both ends. By that time Marion had regained her steadiness, but she could not talk of what had passed. At times, as the two lay together in the darkness, Marion spoke, but it was not to be answered. "I do not know," she murmured once wearily. "Perhaps I am doing wrong; perhaps I ought to go with him. I wish, oh, I wish I knew what I ought to do!"

CHAPTER XXXII.

The Call.

Beyond receiving reports from Kennedy and Banks, who in the interval rode into town and rode out again on their separate and silent ways, Whispering Smith for two days seemed to do nothing. Yet instinct keener than silence kept the people of Medicine Bend on edge during those two days, and when President Bucks' car came in on the evening of the second day, the town knew from current rumors that Banks had gone to the Frenchman ranch with a warrant on a serious charge for Sinclair. In the president's car Bucks and McCloud, after a late dinner, were joined by Whispering Smith, and the president heard the first connected story of the events of the fortnight that had passed. Bucks made no comment until he had heard everything. "And they rode Sinclair's horses," he said in conclusion.

"Sinclair's horses," returned Whispering Smith, "and they are all accounted for. One horse supplied by Rebstock was shot where they crossed Stampede creek. It had given out and they had a fresh horse in the willows, for they shot the scrub half a mile up one of the canyons near the crossing. The magpies attracted my attention to it. A piece of skin a foot square had been cut out of the flank."

"You got there before the birds."

"It was about an even thing," said Smith. "Anyway, we were there in time to see the horse."

"And Sinclair was away from the ranch from Saturday noon till Sunday night?"

"A rancher living over on Stampede creek saw the five men when they crossed Saturday afternoon. The fellow was scared and lied to me about it, but he told Wickwire who they were."

"Now, who is Wickwire?" asked Bucks.

"You ought to remember Wickwire, George," remarked Whispering Smith, turning to McCloud. "You haven't forgotten the Smoky creek wreck? Do you remember the tramp who had his legs crushed and lay in the sun all morning? You put him in your car and sent him down here to the railroad hospital and Barnhardt took care of him. That was Wickwire. Not a bad fellow, either; he can talk pretty straight and shoot pretty straight. How do I know? Because he has told me the story and I've seen him shoot. There, you see, is one friend that you never reckoned on. He used to be a cowboy, and I got him a job working for Sinclair on the Frenchman; he has worked at Dunning's and other places on the Crawling Stone. He hates Sinclair with a deadly hatred for some reason. Just lately Wickwire set up for himself on Little Crawling Stone."

"I have noticed that fellow's ranch," remarked McCloud.

"I couldn't leave him at Sinclair's," continued Whispering Smith, frankly. "The fellow was on my mind all the time. I felt certain he would kill Sinclair or get killed if he stayed there. And then, when I took him away they sprang Tower W on me! That is the price of not having a conscience, for I haven't any, but of listening to the voice that echoes where my conscience used to be," said the railroad man, moving uneasily in his chair.

Bucks broke the ash from his cigar into the tray on the table. "You are restless to-night, Gordon—and it isn't like you, either."

"It is in the air. There has been a dead calm for two days. Something is due to happen to-night. I wish I could hear from Banks; he started with the papers for Sinclair's yesterday while I went to Oroville to sweat Karg. Blood-poisoning has set in and it is rather important to us to get a confession. There's a horse!" He stepped to the window. "Coming fast, too. Now, I wonder—no, he's gone by."

Five minutes later a messenger came to the car from the Wickiup with word that Kennedy was looking for Whispering Smith. Bucks, McCloud and Smith left the car together and walked up to McCloud's office.

Kennedy, sitting on the edge of the table, was tapping his leg nervously with a ruler. "Bad news, Gordon."

"Not from Ed Banks?"

"Sinclair got him this morning."

Whispering Smith sat down. "Go on."

"Banks and I picked up Wickwire on the Crawling Stone early, and we rode over to the Frenchman. Wickwire said Sinclair had been up at Williams Cache the day before, and he didn't think he was home. Of course I knew the Cache was watched and he wouldn't be there long, so Ed asked me to stay in the cottonwoods and watch the creek for him. He and Wickwire couldn't find anybody home when they got to the ranchhouse and they rode down the corral together to look over the horses."

HAT STRIKE NEARS END.

Manufacturers Will Probably Concede the Union Label.

According to the statement of some of the manufacturers of the Orange district, the action of the Connecticut hat factories, which were the instigators of the fight for the abolition of the union label, in capitulating some time ago to the union is responsible for the steps now taken by the Orange and Newark men, toward the arbitration of the differences, which it is now believed will end in the early settlement of the strike, probably within one week.

The Orange manufacturers, some of whom saw ruin in the future if the trouble continued much longer, resented the action of the Connecticut men and foresaw also that the efforts of the Connecticut concerns to get the bulk of the soft hat trade would end in the destruction of the industry in Orange. They therefore concluded that the wisest course was to make a settlement of some kind without delay.

Ernest R. Connett and Eugene V. Connett, Jr., of the firm of E. V. Connett & Co., with John J. Booth, vice-president of the No Name Hat Manufacturing Company, got their heads together and induced Governor Fort to take an interest in the move for settlement. The conference yesterday followed, the result of which will be the appointment of three arbitrators, one by the manufacturers, another by the union and a third by the Governor. It is practically agreed now that the men will be taken back, with the label, and the only thing that remains to be settled is the length of time for which the scale of prices, agreed upon shall be effeteive. The manufacturers want it to be for ten years, or at least for five, but the union, it is expected, will try to have the time made shorter.

Another point upon which there may still be discussion is the wish of the manufacturers to have union cards issued to some of the strike breakers now employed in their shops. It is expected that the union will demur on that point, but even so, it will be adjusted eventually.

JERSEY'S BUMPER CROP

Products for July Far Exceed Any Month in History of Southern Section.

IMPROVED SHIPPING FACILITIES

Pennsylvania Railroad Has Been Conducting a Campaign in Behalf of Agriculture Interests.

More perishable freight was shipped by farmers of Southern New Jersey during the month of July than in any previous month in the history of that section. A million and a half dollars worth of produce was distributed over the New England States, the Middle West, and Canada from points located on the West Jersey & Seashore Railroad, a part of the Pennsylvania Raildoad system.

In July, 1907, the value of produce shipped by farmers of the six lower counties of New Jersey was $746,800. In 1908 the estimated value of the shipments was $1,178,000, while July of this year shows an increase over 1908 of $385,600. The total number of cars used to transport this freight was 3,909—over 37 miles of cars if placed end to end.

Two thousand, three hundred and twenty-two cars of potatoes were shipped from Southern New Jersey in July, while it required 1,047 cars to haul the tomatoes offered for transportation. The other 540 cars were loaded as follows: Apples, 5; berries, 148; clams and oysters, 165; fish, 148; peppers, 19; poultry, 46; mixed carloads, 9.

In the last three years the Pennsylvania Railroad has been conducting a development campaign in behalf of the agricultural and commercial interests of New Jersey. Commission merchants, and buyers all over the country have been supplied with lists of reliable growers and shippers in that section, and the result has been that the market for Southern New Jersey produce has been greatly widened. In addition, to enable the farmer to market his products quickly and secure the most advantageous prices, special schedules have been established and trains known as "Preference Freight" trains have been operated. These have rights over all other freight trains, and put the produce in the markets in the best possible condition.

That the campaign conducted by the railroad, together with the establishment of fast freight service and the improvement of its facilities, has put the farmers in Southern New Jersey in touch with the consumers of a very wide area is indicated in the following distribution of the July shipments from that section:

Twelve hundred cars were sent to Jersey City and New York, 628 to Camden and Philadelphia, 418 to Boston, 258 to other points in Massachusetts, 257 to Newark, 263 to Pittsburg, other points in Pennsylvania 144, other New Jersey points 55, New York points 216, Ohio 80, Chicago 17, Maryland points 2, Connecticut 150, Vermont 9, New Hampshire 57, Maine 27, Rhode Island 86, Toronto 19, Montreal 15, and Michigan 8.

The shipments in 1909 show an increase of 964 cars over 1908, and 1,831 cars over 1907.

OLD COPPER MILLS BURNED.

$100,000 Loss to Hendricks Bros. at Soho—Fire Protection Lax.

The copper rolling mills of Hendricks Brothers, which were more than a century old and were situated at Soho, a section of Belleville, were practically destroyed by fire yesterday with a loss approximating $100,000. A watchman discovered the blaze just at the 150 employes were going to work about 5 o'clock in the morning. He immediately telephoned to Belleville, but there were no police in the station at that hour.

Newark sent an engine, but the fire had a big start when it arrived. The hose was too short to reach to the enarest hydrant, so that the fire men were forced to drop into the Second River near the mills and pump the water from this source.

Later the Belleville Fire Department arrived, and by coupling the two hoses together, the firemen were enabled to stretch a hose 2200 feet long to a hydrant. In so doing they crossed the tracks of the Greenwood Lake branch of the Erie Railroad, so that all traffic from Montclair and Bloomfield to New York was stopped for a time.

Several hundred commuters were forced to walk two miles to the Lackawanna Railroad in order to reach their destinations. There were many minor injuries but no fatalities and the fire was under control at 8 o'clock. The cause is thought to have been an overheated chimney.

The Hendricks Brothers have constantly opposed the annexation of Belleville to Newark, as they always maintained that there was a sufficient fire and police force. It is largely due to the lack of these that the mills could not be saved yesterday.

It was reported immediately after the fire that Tiffany & Co. had just sent $20,000 worth of silver bullion to the mills to be rolled, but the officials of the Hendricks company later denied this as untrue.

There will be no preaching service in the Methodist church tomorrow. Sunday-school and Epworth League at regular time. On Wednesday night Rev. P. C. Bascom, of Bound Brook, will have charge of the prayer meeting.

A CORKING GOOD TIME

More Than Five Hundred Guests Enjoy an Ideal Day at Rockaway.

SENATOR JOHN KEAN SILENT.

Vivian Lewis' Boom for Governor Is Launched—Buxton Would Decline Nomination for Assembly.

The Union County Republican Committee with several hundred guests went to Rockaway beach Saturday and from the reports of "those present" it was a great day for the excursion. Ideal weather, a good vessel and a prodigious amount of fun were the contributing factors to one of the most pleasant outings ever held by the association.

It was a jolly crowd that boarded the Isabella at Elizabeth Saturday morning, 500 strong they were aboard by twos and threes until ten o'clock, the announced hour for starting there was hardly room for any more. About this time, however, a message was received from Vivian Lewis stating that he had been delayed and to "please hold the boat," or words to that effect. So the boat did not leave the city dock until nearly half past ten.

Councilman Herbert Buxton came rushing up in his big motor car at three minutes before ten, closely followed by United States Senator John Kean, in his red touring car. Senator Kean, State Treasurer "Uncle Dan" Voorhees, "Brother Ham Kean and County Chairman Frank H. Smith sought a quiet spot on the after hurricane deck and soon after starting were joined by Mr. Lewis. There followed an hour's confab in which it was apparent to an observer that no matter what happened to the the rest of the voyagers things were breaking pleasantly for at least one of the members of the party.

The trip down through the Kills and out into the lower bay was delightful and it was so cool that many who had taken the precaution to bring light overcoats with them quietly put them on and proceeded to enjoy the cool breeze which was blowing up strong from the southeast. Down below on the main deck ample provision had been made for the comfort of the inner man. A fine lunch and drinkables of all sorts were lavishly handed out and no one who had an appetite could complain of lack of things to satisfy it.

As the boat neared the outer bay the timorous ones, those who were afraid of mal de mer, sought the spots where the motion was least, because of the choppy sea brought up by the wind. But it was all unnecessary. No one was sick and the sun came out strong and betokened an admirable day's outing. The early morning promises of bad weather were not carried out.

The great question of the site for the local postoffice was one of the topics of conversation and brought out nothing new regarding its location although several plots of ground have been under consideration.

A development not entirely unexpected was the announcement that Mr. Buxton would not consider a nomination for the assembly this year. However, Mr. Buxton feels that if his friends want him to again run for councilmanic honors he will be glad to accept. The reason he could not see his way clear to accepting a nomination for the assembly is his business interests which preclude his giving the time that such a post requires.

As far as could be ascertained nothing definite was arranged regarding the gubernatorial aspirations of Mr. Lewis, but it seemed to be in the atmosphere that his name will come before the convention and that he will have the support of the party.

The boat arrived at Rockaway at 12:45 o'clock and three quarters of an hour later the tables were groaning under the weight of the good things which the capable committee

PLAINFIELD SCHOOLBOY SECOND TO RALPH ROSE

All the newspapers are saying pleasant things about R. J. Lawrence, the Plainfield boy, who in the colors of the New York Athletic club, won the preliminary put in the sixteen pound shot and in the final of that event was second to Ralph Rose, the champion, and beat out Talbot the former champion, at Seattle on Saturday.

Lawrence's put would in ordinary company have put him in a class by himself, but at Seattle he was up against the best athletes in this country. Lawrence is a mere boy compared with his rivals and his put of forty-seven feet six inches stamps him as one of the best in the country.

Lawrence was a Leal's school graduate and a member of last years Y. M. C. A. team, and showed up prominently at the association meets. At Newark last year he made the members of the association look up and take notice by his work in the weight contests. In Brooklyn, too, his uniformly good work stamped him as a comer. It is predicted that in another year Rose will have to look out for this young man in the shot put and hammer throws. Rose's put in this event was 50.26 feet, or about two and three quarter feet better than Lawrence's.

WOULDN'T COOK MACARONI SO FATHER BEAT HER

Andrew Robert, a diminutive West End Italian, whose Lord Dundreary facial decorations have won him the name "The Goat," has a patriotic love of macaroni. Fellow lodgers in Robert's home made merry at a chirstening yesterday afternoon, and there was lots "on the side." These facts, assorted as desired, brought about the be-whiskered man's arrest by Patrolman Saffron and Saunders, and Judge Runyon's edict that he pay a fine of $8 at his hearing this morning in the city court.

Robert's daughter was the cause of the mix-up that brought the police and the neighbors, and broke up the christening party. She refused to cook macaroni for the "padre" and although she is the feminine of the "Great Big Brudda 'Sylvest'" type, the irate parent sailed in and gave her a severe punishing for her disobedience.

Robert can't talk United States, but through an interpreter he told the court that he was "pretty well stewed" as a result of chirstening libations below-stairs, and "between drinks" he came up to his rooms and ordered his daughter to prepare him some macaroni. The Italian Amazon refused, and Andrew and she started an indoor marathon, when he made for her to enforce obedience. The woman was finaly cornered and the irate father administered sundry blows of correction, tearing off most of the young woman's clothes in making the capture. The punishment proved more interesting than the christening, and everybody came upstairs to get in on the "parental authority" number.

Then the cops came, and Andrew went. This aroused universal sympathy, and started the Italian populace toward headquarters, where unsuccessful efforts to have the be-whiskered man freed lasted until late at night. At police headquarters today, there was no sign of the disobedient daughter, and neighbors say that she and her god-father, starting out to intercede for the "padre," went off to Dunellen on a little social junket. A scandal has started, and the police will investigate.

Daniel J. Buckley.

Daniel J. Buckley, of Grandview avenue, died yesterday afternoon after a lingering illness in his forty-sixth year. Mr. Buckley came to Plainfield several years from Summit, where he was in the hardware business for many years. Three sisters survive him—Mrs. George Mehl and Mrs. Catherine Sutton, of Plainfield, and Mrs. John Green, of Binghamton, N. Y. The funeral will take place tomorrow morning at St. Joseph's church, North Plainfield, Rev. Father Miller officiating. The interment will be in St. Mary's cemetery.

Treat at Baby Camp.

The children at the King's Daughters' Baby Camp on the mountain were treated to a bountiful supply of ice cream and cake last Saturday afternoon, furnished by the "Loyal Circle of King's Daughters" of Netherwood. Several members of the circle visited the camp and spent pleasant afternoon in giving the children a good time.

DEDICATE Y. M. H. A. HALL

Mayor Townsend, Rabbi Ruthman and Falk Younkers Among the Speakers.

SAMUEL ROTHBERG PRESIDES.

Object of the Association is to Uplift and Uphold Judaism—Building Cost $5,000.

The new hall of the Y. M. H. A. on Grove street was dedicated yesterday afternoon. The exercises were well attended and included speeches by Mayor Townsend, of the borough, Rabbi Ruthman and Samuel Rothberg, president of the association.

Judge William Newcorn was to have been the chairman of the meeting but could not attend on account of illness. In his place Samuel Rothberg, the president, acted in that capacity and introduced the various speakers. The first speaker was Mayor Townsend.

The Mayor welcomed the association to the borough and complimented them on the good work that it had done. He took special notice of the efforts of the officers of the association, under whose direction the association has prospered and has broadened and made more active its scope.

Falk Younkers, secretary of the Y. M. H. A. of New York, was the next speaker. He told of the work of the association of which he is secretary. 3,000 Jewish young men are in his association, and as a result of his experience he gave some valuable points of advice to the local body.

Rabbi Ruthman gave a talk in Hebrew and offered his services to the association. Harry Feinberg, who has been the superintendent of the Y. M. H. A. Bible school, organized three years ago, was the next speaker. He explained the work that is being done by the Bible school and told of the moral support that it needed. A stirring speech by Henry Rosenbaum to the officers and members aroused much enthusiasm. He said that the only support that the association wanted was not financial, but otherwise as well.

Samuel Rothberg, the president, was the last speaker. He gave a brief history of the association and its growth and state, some of its accomplishments and objects. The object of the association, he said, is to uplift and uphold Judaism. He asked for the heary co-operation of all in the work, and explained that moral support was fully as much needed as financial support.

Superintendent of Schools Henry M. Maxson and H. C. Krebs were to have spoken, but they did not return from their vacations. Mayor Fisk was also prevented from being present. Special music was rendered by a chorus of children from the Bible school under the direction of David J. Wolfe. Music during the intermission was furnished by Naylor's orchestra.

The association is raising $2,000 to make alterations and additions to the hall. It is planned to fit up the basement with class rooms for the Bible school, and a twenty-foot addition will be put on in the rear. Upstairs the auditorium and lecture room will be located. When this is completed the total cost of the building will have been $5,000. The association is in a prosperous condition and has accomplished much good in this city.

VICE-CHANCELLOR WALKER TO BE ACTING CHANCELLOR.

Before starting on his vacation today, Chancellor Mahlon Pitney filed an order with Chancery Clerk Samuel K. Robbins, designating Vice Chancellor Walker, of Trenton, to act for him during his absence from the State. The Chancellor has gone on a vacation in the Maine woods.

Acting Chancellor Edwin R. Walker announced that from now until the Chancellor's return, he would arrange his vacation matters so that he would be at the State House every morning for the purpose of disposing of any matters that will need his attention. He will hear motions, rules to show cause and any other matters that would properly come before the Chancellor, if he was in the State.

Welcomed Returning Superintendent

Ira W. Travell, assistant superintendent of the Hope chapel Sunday school, was given a cordial welcome when he resumed his Sunday school duties yesterday, after a six weeks' absence in Europe. Mr. Travell will continue his work at the chapel until September, when he and his family will remove to Morristown, where he has been appointed superintendent of schools.

MISS CLARA SHEPPARD BRIDE OF GEO. SANDERS

Miss Clara Sheppard, daughter of the late Captain Charles Sheppard, and George Sanders, of Orchard place, were married this morning at the home of the Rev. Dr. Cornelius Schenck. The wedding was simple and was witnessed by the Misses Elizabeth Sanders and Mildred Everett and Mrs. Clifford Brokaw.

Immediately after the ceremony the young couple left for the south, where they will spend a two weeks' honeymoon. Mr. Sanders is head clerk at Neuman Brothers' grocery store, and Miss Sheppard was formerly cashier there. On their return from the honeymoon Mr. and Mrs. Sanders will live in this city at the home of the groom.

BITTEN MAN CLIMBS TREE; BULL-DOG HANGS FAST

Atacked by a bull-dog belonging to Borough Clerk Fred Martin, J. Newton Drake, of Somerset street, had his legs severely lacterated and his clothes torn as he hung suspended from a tree near Martin's bungalow on Johnson's drive Saturday afternoon. Seeing his predictament those at the bungalow came to his assistance, but it was necessary to pour three pails of water over the angry dog before it would loose its hold. Mr. Drake, who was painfully injured, had the bites cauterized by Dr. D. C. Adams, and is confined to his home.

Mr. Drake was attacked as he walked past the bungalow on his return from a mountain walk. The dog rushed out, without provocation, Mr. Drake says, and seized him by the leg. Struggling to free himself, Mr. Drake ran for a tree near by and climbed it. The dog hung on, although swinging clear of the ground. Mr. Drake's shouts brought help. It is reported that he will bring suit against Martin for his injuries.

JUDGE LEWIS S. HYER DIES AT RAHWAY

Judge Lewis S. Hyer, an old time newspaper man and one of the staunchest Democrats in Union county, died at his home in Rahway yesterday after a short illness. The funeral will be held from Trinity Methodist church in Rahway Wednesday afternoon at 2 o'clock.

Judge Hyer was born at Freehold on March 1, 1839, and was in his seventy-first year. His father was Aaron P. Hyer and his mother's maiden name was Gertrude Cottrell, both natives of Monmouth county (now Ocean county). In 1855 he become a "printer's devil" in the office of the Monmouth Democrat, an soon showed ability as a printer, and advancing to the post of chief of compositors soon was put in charge of that department of the paper. In 1863 he worked for the New York Journal of Commerce for three months, but changed for a position on the National Democrat, of Rahway. He leased the paper for a year and finally bought it.

Judge Hyer was not an office seeker, but at the earnest solicitation of his friends accepted the nomination for Mayor in 1874, and won what was then a splendid victory over his Republican opponent, who had been in office for several years. He was successively appointed clerk to the Board of Chosen Freeholders and City Clerk and finally a judge of the court of Common Pleas by Governor Ludlow. He was a member of the Methodist church in Rahway and retired from active business several years ago.

OLD DISPUTED QUESTION LEADS TO FIGHT AND FINES.

James Shannon, a moulder of this city, and Fred Conklin, a painter of Howard street, North Plainfield, had a disagreement over the relative advantages of Plainfield and North Plainfield in front of a hotel on Somerset streets, the borough, Saturday night. Their arguments led to fists.

The men were fighting with the advantage slightly in favor of this city, when Marshal Kellar and Chief Weiss swooped down upon them and placed them under arrest. When arraigned before Recorder Dolliver this morning each was fined three dollars. Both paid the money.

OVERFLOW MEETING AT THE NETHERWOOD CAMP

Every seat in the large auditorium at the Netherwood Fresh Air Camp was occupied yesterday and extra camp stools were required to accommodate the crowd. The 4 o'clock services at this camp seem to increase in interest and popularity as the season advances and yesterday's service was no exception to the preceding ones.

The meeting was in charge of B. F. Hadley and the talk was by Rev. F. G. Snowden, pastor of the Madison Avenue Presbyterian chruch, Elizabeth. Mr. Snowden gave a highly interesting talk on the subject of snakes, taking his text from Numbers 21: 4-9. This talk was so absorbing that the usual commotion among the children was absent, even the grown-ups listened eagerly to the development of the lessons evolved from the "fiery serpents" which Moses banished from the camp of the Israelites.

This was Mr. Snowden's second talk at the camp, hence the large attendance. Whenever he is announced to speak here is always a big audience to greet him. The music, too, was an attractive feature of the afternoon service. Mrs. J. A. Rawson and Mrs. Robert Humpston rendered solos, and a quartet composed of Mrs. Humpston, Mrs. Rawson, Mr. Hadley and D. M. Runyon sang two beautiful selections. Percy Mygrant, of Fanwood, assisted with the cornet, while Clifford Braider and Mrs. Humpston presided at the organ. Next Sunday a rare treat is in store for those who attend and everybody will be welcome.

CITY COURT "REGULARS" GET HEAVY SENTENCES.

Elizabeth Vardon and Sheridan Jones, colored, a couple of "regulars" at police court, got heavy sentences from Judge Runyon today upon their arraignment for drunk and disorderly conduct on week-end sprees. The woman was sent to the county jail for sixty days, and Sheridan will spend the next forty days in the human safe deposit vault down the road.

Sheridan was arrested on Liberty street Saturday night by Patrolman Saffron, when a big cargo of liquor made him hilarious. At police headquarters today, he said he had been robbed just before his arrest. The robbery story is an old one with the colored man, although it is dressed up differently after each arrest. In sentencing him, Judge Runyon said that his prison term would keep him safe from possible robbery for more than a month. Jones didn't look real grateful as he went back to his cell.

Mrs. Vardon's vocabulary got her in trouble again, as usual. She thought she had a grievance against her son-in-law, but the liquor she had taken brought about many cases of mistaken identity, because she applied epithets universally, not forgetting to save some of the choicer three-star brand to direct against the police after she was locked up.

PLAINFIELD THEATRE IS UNDER NEW MANAGEMENT

Messrs. F. F. Proctor, Sr., and Harry S. Sanderson, the new lessees of the Plainfield theatre, took possession this morning, and Harry C. Egerton, the new manager for the playhouse, is now in charge there. Plans for a great many improvements, that are sure to be appreciated by patrons, will be effected shortly. As no shows are booked for the house until Saturday, an opportunity will be given to thoroughly clean and renovate the house.

Among the changes planned by the new management will be a women's retiring room on the first floor adjoining the main entrance, and there will also be a ticket office window there for the exclusive use of women. Manager Egerton has had an extensive experience in the theatrical business and is thoroughly equipped in every way for the position here to which he will devote his entire time. The attractions booked for the coming season are the latest Broadway successes.

Mr. Sanderson has been assured by Klaw & Erlanger, whose attractions will be booked here, that they will give their personal attention to the shows to be sent here. There will also be an occasional presentation of popular reportoire shows at popular prices.

MR. AND MRS. DEBELE HOME FROM DRIVING TRIP.

Mr. and Mrs. William Debele returned Saturday night from a two weeks' driving trip throughout the southern and central parts of New Jersey, and a rail journey to points of interest in Delaware, Washington, D. C., and other large cities.

The trip included visits to the Du-Pont powder works and to the new Union station in Washington. Wednesday of last week was spent in fishing and a drive of 45 miles through a steady rain storm to Atlantic City was made the following day. At Hammontown, Mr. Debele met many of his old schoolmates. An old time dance with accordian music was held, and the men engaged in remininscences of boyhood days.

Trolley Car Roudy Fined.

Because John Dever, who lives on Pond place, made himself objectionable to women passengers on a main line trolley car coming up from Roselle last night, he was arrested at the trolley stand upon the complaint of George Morton, of East Second street. Dever had taken several drinks, and his mood was a cross between the scrappy and the loving. All the men in the car seemed to rouse him to anger, while the women gave him maudlin pleasure. He especially had it in for Morton, who was travelling with his wife, and followed him up for a scrap. Judge Runyon made it $15 or twenty days at the hearing this morning, and Dever paid.

ENGAGE IN FIERCE FIGHT

Two Brick-Yard Employees, Alone, Quarrel at Shanty Home.

ONE IS IN THE HOSPITAL.

Green, Who Had a Grudge Against Johnson, Leaves Him Unconscious—His Quick Capture.

Benjamin Green, colored, of Mountain avenue, is being held in the borough jail to await the result of injuries he inflicted upon Richard Johnson, another negro, during a fight between the two near the Hand brick yards yesterday afternoon. The injured man is in a serious condition.

Green administered a terrific beating to Johnson and after knocking him about until he was senseless, left him in a shanty at the Hand brick yards on Mountain avenue, while he fled out of the borough. The prompt action of borough Chief Marshal George Weiss, coupled with some clever detective work, resulted in the capture of Green exactly one hour after the injured man was discovered in the shanty by fellow employes.

Johnson and Green, who are both colored, live in a shanty near the brick yards on Mountain avenue, where they are employed. Yesterday morning they had an argument and endeavored to settle their dispute with fists. This they started to do but were soon stopped by other employes of the brick yards. This apparently closed the incident. But the men have cherished an animosity for each other for some time, and did not intend to let things drop so easily.

Consequently when the rest of the employes of the place left the yards to attend the baseball game in Scotch Plains, yesterday afternoon, Johnson and Green renewed their fight. No one was around to interfere and it was literally a fight to a finish. Green was considerably battered up, but Johnson was badly injured. His jaw was knocked out of place, so that one bone stuck up through the cheek, and his other facial and bodily injuries were equally as bad.

When Green had finished up Johnson in this inhuman manner, he picked up his senseless body and threw it in the shanty where they lived together. He then closed the door, gathered up a few of his possessions and beat a hasty retreat.

When the party returned from the ball game at 5:30 o'clock, they found Johnson lying in the shanty. Edward Britton immediately telephoned to Chief Weiss who called Dr. Pittis and Dr. Dundon. The former got there and treated the injured man. He was found to be stabbed in the mouth. The ambulance was summoned and Johnson was taken to the hospital. Up to this morning he had not regained consciousness and was said to be in a very critical condition.

Chief Weiss was the first to arrive on the scene and after Johnson had been taken to the hospital, he started an investigation as to the whereabouts of Green. He was finally located on Fourth street, this city, at the home of his brother, just as Green was about to leave town. AUTO BUSES WILL BEGIN SCHEDULE THIS WEEK.

The Plainfield Auto-Bus Company expects to have their buses ready for regular trips this week. It is possible that Wednesday will see the inauguration of the regular service between Plainfield and Metuchen. The finishing touches to the buses are being put on today and it is the intention of the company to take a party consisting of the stockholders and guests, including newspaper men on the initial trip, which will take in several of the principal streets of this city and over the proposed route through South Plainfield, Oak Tree and Metuchen.

It is the intention of the company to have a fixed schedule of trips which will depend somewhat upon the actual conditions of the passenger traffic after the preliminary trips have been made. Inquiries have been frequent of late as to when the service will be started and the company will surely be ready for the public within a day or two. Everything points to a successful venture for the auto-bus concern.

GOLF.

Although this country is still far behind Great Britain with regard to its treatment of golf professionals, it may be said that the present season is showing a decided improvement on this side of the water. In England and Scotland the "pros," that is, those of class, are kept busy for months at a time fulfilling engagements. When not taking part in some open or invitation trournament the favorites are in demand for exhibition purposes, quite different from existing conditions in this country, where the professional is not looked upon as an especial attraction.

Almost from the time the game was introduced into this country the American showed a decided preference for his own divot-slinging round representing 100 or more strokes than for a match between experts. As one amateur aptly put it: "I would rather play over the course myself than see a match between the two greatest professionals that ever lived."

While that sentiment continues to a certain degree it is also evident that the path of the professional in the United States has become a deal smoother of late. Months ago the announcement that Tom Vardon was coming here to accept a four months' engagement with the Onwentsia Club caused followers of the game to speculate as to his probable success in competitions against the leading professionals in the States. Consequently when the brother of the redoubtable Harry reached this port the day before the national open championship at Englewood there were those who thought that all he had to do was to go there, play his seventy-two holes and win the crown, the same as the other Vardon had done some nine years before.

The fact that many believed that Tom Vardon, who had never classed with his brother, could without the slightest preparation step up to the tee and win the open title against America's strongest resident professionals only serves as another illustration of the wholesome respect Americans continue to retain for foreign importations. They neglected utterly to take into account the rapid advancement the game has made in this country during the last decade. During the tournament at Englewood Vardon expressed himself as highly pleased with the course and it is a matter of record that in one of his rounds he reeled off a seventy-five, yet he failed to get in the money.

In other words, the class is here now much the same as abroad, although it is but natural that the advantage should still rest with the "pros" in Great Britain. Their many more opportunities for indulgence in competitive golf may be attributed now as the chief, if not the sole reason for whatever advantage lies in their favor. Vardon at Englewood had to contend against great odds. In addition to his lack of practice he was only one against a hundred. That is why he could not with reason be made a favorite at Englewood and on that same basis no one professional from here could hope to take part in an open abroad and meet with any degree of success.

LOCAL AMUSEMENTS

Like the proverbial babbling brook, that rousing and easily best of all musical farce comedies, "McFadden's Flats," seems to go on forever. This season Messrs. Barton and Wiswell, of New York, present the piece with an entire new book and cast. In fact there is nothing left to remind one of the old production save its title. Although in years past the farce was considered great, it is safe to say that this season is far superior than heretofore. This spectacular fantasy or vaudeville gaiety excels in magnificent magnitude and splendor any previous production. It harbors more capable comedians, has a concourse of singing and dancing girls who know how to wear stunning costumes in bewitching style, contains humor that is fresh and up-to-date and song hits and euphonious ensemble numbers that should appeal to the most critical ear. The fun is hilarious and continuous and the scenic adornment is of an elaborate and pretentious nature. "McFadden's Flats" will be the attraction at the Plainfield theatre, Saturday afternoon and night, August 21.

SPECIAL ELECTION DAY NOT LEGAL HOLIDAY.

Attorney-General Edmund Wilson has rendered an opinion to Governor Fort, upon request, to the effect that Tuesday, September 14, the day of the special election upon the constitutional amendments, will not be a legal holiday. This means that the banks in the State will not close that day and that the legal holiday restrictions will not apply to bank papers.

Attorney-General Wilson based his decision on an opinion rendered in 1897 by Samuel H. Gray, then attorney-general, to John W. Griggs, then Governor, with reference to the election that year on September 28 on the amendments to the Constitution. The question was whether or not the act of 1895 regulating holidays applied.

That act makes any "general election day" a holiday. Attorney-General Grey held that the election on the amendments was not a general election day, but a special election, and that therefore the act referred to did not apply. On that ground he ruled that the day was not a holiday. Attorney-General Wilson quotes this opinion to Governor Fort and concurs in its findings. He says that the question propounded by the Governor is the same as that raised in 1892, except that the act of 1895 was amended this year. He points out that the amendment only applied to Good Friday, and therefore does not affect this proposition. He rules that the day will not be a holiday.

WHOOPING COUGH AT EIGHTY.

Mrs. Catherine Stephens, mother of Miss Ida B. Stephens, State secretary of the New Jersey Christian Endeavor Union, is convalescent in Washington street, Hackettstown. Three weeks ago Mrs. Stephens, although fourscore years old, developed a serious case of old-fashioned whooping cough. The attacks of coughing were so severe that her life was despaired of and a trained nurse was placed in constant attendance.

Although now able to be about her home, the effects of the attack are still apparent, Mrs. Stephens remembers having had the whooping cough when a child.

THE GREATNESS OF MAN

Rev. Charles A. Dunn Delivers a Masterly Sermon at the Union Service.

THE SOURCE OF POWER.

Divine Describes Two Classes of Great Men, as Exemplified by Daniel and Joseph.

"Thy gentleness hath made me great," taken from II Samuel, XXII, 36, formed the text of an interesting sermon by the Rev. Charles E. Dunn, of Philadelphia, at the union service in the Methodist church last night. The service was well attended and many remained afterwards to shake hands with the former Plainfielder.

The text fell into two divisions: the greatness of David and the source of its power. "There are two classes of great men in the world," he said, "those whose greatness is a steady moral grandeur unmarred by great sins, as for example, Daniel and Joseph, and those whose great sainthood is stained with great sinfulness. David belonged to the latter class. Perhaps the greatness of David may impress itself upon us in two ways. We may consider him a great sinner, and we may consider him a great saint. In his sin, considering him as a sinner, and in his ruin, there are traces of his greatness. Greatness is seen in the ruin that sin makes of men as well as in the perfected morality that illustrates and conditions it. Is it not so in nature and art? Who could behold the ruins in Rome, Athens, Egypt, etc., without being impressed with their former grandeur? So it is with man. His ruin, not only his moral grandeur, impresses us with his greatness.

"But we pass from this to a more pleasant task. David's greatness is seen in his great sainthood. It is this moral uprising that makes David truly great. Men have exalted the earthward at the expense of the godward. For instance: Alexander, Frederick of Prussia, Napoleon, Lord Bacon. What a contrast: Gladstone and Bismark!

"The source of David's greatness lies in the text, 'Thy gentleness hath made me great.' Literally this means meekness, condescension, littleness of God. This makes men great. Wonderful thought. We can understand how man's lowliness before God makes him great; but the thought of the text is the reverse of this. It is the littleness of God making men great.

"Now it is not easy to bring this thought to its proper proportion. Men have thought that the great lever by which we are lifted to God is the greatness of God. David frequently emphasized this thought. In the Old Testament the greatness of God as seen in great things is emphasized. In the New Testament all is different. But is it not true that the literal gentleness of God makes men great?" He then brought illustrations from the life of David to illustrate his point.

DENTISTRY IN TURKEY.

Crude Methods Are Practised in the Interior.

Consul William W. Masterson, of Harput, has learned something of the manner in which persons are fitted for the dental profession in Turkey and just what is required to secure a permission to practise, concerning which he writes:

There seem to be no dental colleges in the empire and a person desiring to become a dentist must fit himself as best he can, generally by attaching himself to a practising dentist and reading such treatises on the subject as he can secure. After the candidate has fitted himself to pass an examination before the Imperial Medical Board at Constantinople on elementary branches of surgery, anatomy and medicine, and a few other topics prescribed by the board, he is given a certificate permitting him to practise dentistry, but, as I understand it, there is no regular board of dental surgeons before which the applicant must appear for examination.

In this interior country the practise of dentistry could hardly be designated by the term "profession." The persons who follow the calling are frequently barbers, who pull teeth in connection with their tonsorial duties, and I have upon one occasion met a shoe maker who carried on the dental profession as a side line.

With no greater preparation for practising dentistry than is required, it need hardly be said that the work done is very crude, that the method of procedure with patients would seem unbearable to Americans, and, as a consequence, the principal work of a dentist is pulling such teeth as are no longer fit for service and in making artificial teeth of a crude and most un comfortable pattern.

Some few dentists in the larger interior cities have dental engines of foot power pattern and a small supply of tools for filling teeth, but the greater number of dentists confine themselves to pulling teeth and making artificial sets. Such an appliance as a modern adjustable dental chair is not known, an ordinary house chir answering the purpose. Where teeth are to be pulled only, the barber dentists in the villages require their patients to sit on the ground, as in this manner a stronger grip may be secured on the aching molar.

In line with other improvements, the dental profession will be placed on a higher basis, and more rigid examination will be required; also schools for the proper teaching of this great profession will be inaugurated. At present the followers of the calling have no conception of its possibilities, and such dentists are not in a position financially, if so inclined, to purchase a well-appointed stock of instruments, appliances, and accessories such as pertain to a dental office as understood in the United States. This, however, does not apply to the up-to-date dentists of Constantinople, Smyrna, Beirut and other large coast cities who are graduates of European and American dental schools.—Consular Reports.

FIRST AID TO INJURED.

Not every one knows what to do when burnt; nor is it the time to learn remedies when touched by fire. Every household should have some preparation for quick relief of burns and bad cuts.

It is not enough to know what to do, but the means of doing it must be at hand. The wise woman with children has a convenient shelf, where is stored a package of absorbent cotton, rolls of bandages, court plaster, surgical scissors, soft pieces of old linen, antiseptic washes, witch hazel, some good salve, a bottle of carbolic acid labeled poison, a cake of antiseptic soap, a hypodermic syringe, a hot water bottle, turpentine, a roll of mustard plasters, lime water and lineed oil.

While any severe burn or cut should mean a doctor, much can be done to aleviate pain until he comes.

For burns a soothing application is equal parts of linseed oil and lime water. Soak lint or strips of linen in this mixture and renew whenever necessary.

A slight burn kept soaked with witch hazel will soon cease to pain. If this is not at hand cover tightly with ordinary kitchen soap and dredge the wound with flour.

Another simple remedy for burns is made by adding to a cupful of olive oil a teaspoonful of carbolic acid. Apply bandage soaked in the mixture.

A bad bruise can be eased by applying turpentine. This is also excellent if one has hun a nasty nail into the flesh.

In case of a deep cut wash it out well with warm soapy water and then with some antiseptic solution. There are many of these that can be bought ready prepared, and your physician will tell you a good one. A weak solution of carbolic acid is easily prepared—a half-teaspoonful of the acid to a tumbler of water.

If the clothes seem to have stuck to a wound do not tear them off, but soften with warm olive oil the parts that adhere, having first cut away the clothing close to the wound with sharp scissors.

For a bad sprain put first under hot water and then under cold. Keep this up until the doctor arrives. Or bandage the wound in some of the clay preparations recommended to reduce swelling and pain.

Boiled Frosting.

Put into an agate saucepan one cupful fine granulated sugar and one-third cupful of hot water. Cook without stirring until it spins a thread when a fork is dipped in. Have ready the white of one egg beaten stiff with an eighth of a teaspoonful cream of tartar. Pour the boiling sirup slowly into the egg, beating steadily until a good consistency for spreading. Flavor with vanilla. One-half cupful chopped almonds and two tablespoonfuls powdered chocolate may be added to this frosting when one wishes a change.

had prepared for the excursionists. After the fish had been served, at a given signal the whole company arose and sang "The Star Spangled Banner," accompanied by the orchestra, and the throngs around the pavilion, outside of the diners, joined in the really thrilling singing. Each course after this was interspersed with some popular song. "Harrigan" was there both musically and in the flesh, and made a great hit.

When the coffee came along Andrew McCardle, to whom the success of the event was largely due, read a cablegram from State Senator Ackerman, which said: "Best wishes for a pleasant excursion and a safe return. Best wishes for Calvert and Smith." This was greeted with cheers and a tiger. Many of the excursionists took the opportunity for a dip in the ocean during the four hours alloted to them to take in the sights before the return trip was begun.

On the return trip the boat reached Elizabeth at 9:45 at night, but the Plainfield delegation had to wait at Elizabeth for a train until 11 o'clock, getting home at 11:30. Contrary to expectations there were no speeches made at the dinner so that no extra work developed upon the correspondents.

Among the Plainfield contingent on the boat were: Winfield S. Angleman, William Townsend, Howard Woolston, Justice Hezekiah Hand, Judge William Newcorn, Robert Newton Crane, Postmaster E. H. Bird, Harry Runyon, W. L. Hetfield, Jr., Horace Adams, Julius Williams, Charles Matt, John H. Cose, R. S. Craig, W. A. Craig, Charles Dunham, Frank Randolph, Frank Linke, Alexander Ayres, Joseph Bowman, Geo. Foster, George J. Tobin, Charles Ward and John Mortimer.

When about to leave the dock at Rockaway it was discovered that several of the party were not on board the boat, which was several yards away with her nose pointed homeward. An attempt was made to return to the dock for those who were left, but owing to the rough sea it was found impossible. So it turned out that everybody who went to Rockaway on the boat did not return on her, which also accounts for the early arrivals on Sunday morning. The names of those left behind could not be asctertained this morning.

TWINS OF EIGHTY CELEBRATE.

They Have Three Brothers and Their Aggregate Years Are 400.

Mr. and Mrs. Samuel P. Hunt, of Pleasant Valley, near Pennington, are holding a family reunion in honor of the eightieth birthday of their twin uncles, George W. Hunt, of Harbourton, and David H. Hunt, of Titusville. The twin brothers have one brother over eighty and two others who are nearly the same milestone. They are William Smith Hunt, of Trenton, who will be eighty-four this fall; Enoch Hunt, of Pleasant Valley, who is seventy-nine, and Wilson Hunt, of Trenton, a mere youth of seventy-seven. The sum of the ages of this remarkable quintet is four hundred years.

Notwithstanding their years these men enjoy the best of health and may be found daily engaged at their respective occupations. William Smith and David H. are in the wheelwright trade, George W. and Wilson are farmers and Enoch is a carpenter. They attribute their excellent condition to the practice of following "Poor Richard's" homely saying, "Early to bed and early to rise makes a man healthy, wealthy and wise." They are also strong believers in total abstinence.

ATTRACTIVE SERVICE AT MOUNTAIN CAMP

The 4 o'clock service at the King's Daughters' Baby Camp yesterday afternoon was unusually interesting and largely attended. The meeting was in charge of George E. Hall. The local corps of the Salvation Army were present and added materially to the attractiveness of the program, which included Scripture reading by Mrs. Capt. Hewitt, and two duets sweetly sung by the Misses Sadie and Julia Price. Capt. Hewitt led the singing throughout the meeting, assisted by Miss Miriam Hall, pianist; Martin A. Korff, violinist, and E. H. Guest, cornetist.

The talk to the children was given by Mrs. J. M. Tier, the superintendent of a large and highly successful primary department in the Trinity Reformed Sunday-school. Mrs. Tier held the close attention of children and adults alike, as in her pleasing way she told stories about several of the prominent Bible characters. The lessons which the speaker drew from these stories appealed to both young and old in the meeting; and no one could listen to her earnest words without being helped and encouraged to live a truer Christian life.

The camp never looked more attractive than it did yesterday, located as it is on the top of the mountain, with a magnificent view that is well worth the trip to see, and many people from Plainfield and vicinity took advantage of the perfect weather to attend the service and visit the camp. The stage was taxed to its utmost capacity to accommodate the people who attended the service; in addition to which two automobiles made several trips from the trolley to the camp. These Sunday afternoon services have become an attractive feature of the King's Daughters' Baby Camp, and have already resulted in much good to the children and mothers who are privileged to spend a little while on the top of this beautiful mountain.

JERSEY'S ELECTION METHODS.

Gov. Fort Explains the Proposed Fifth Constitutional Amendment.

Gov. J. Franklin Fort in a letter to the First Ward Republican Club, of Montclair, seeks to dispel any doubt as to the meaning of the proposed fifth amendment of the New Jersey Constitution, which relates to the election of Assemblymen. Gov. Fort in answer to the questions submitted by the club says:

"The amendment now pending was drawn for the express purpose of not only making it lawdful, but to require that the Legislature should divide each county into districts so that Assemblymen should be elected from each district—elected by the voters of that district only.

"The pending amendment provides that after each Federal census the Legislature shall divide and arrange each countyl into a district or districts for the election therein of a member or members of the General Assembly. The intent is perfectly clear and the proposed amendment when construed in the light of our past history is free from any ambiguity. Those who wish to compel the election of Assembly in legally constituted districts of less territory than a whole county, in counties to which more than one Assemblyman is apportioned, should support the fifth amendment."

Under the clause of the present Constitution of New Jersey for a quarter of a century or more the counties were divided by staute into Assembly districts, and one Assemblyman was elected from each by the voters of each. About fifteen or more years ago the Supreme Court decided that under the Constitution this method of district election was not permissable, but that all the voters of each county must vote for all Assemblymen apportioned to such county.

Escaped from Rahway Reformatory.

The Plainfield police were notified to be on the lookout yesterday for three young men who had escaped from the Rahway reformatory yesterday afternoon. They did not get to this city as they were picked up Policeman Higgins of the Elizabeth force, who succeeded in capturing but one of the three. The one caught was Samuel DuBois, colored. The other two, Thomas Finley and Meyers Forman, are supposed to be in hiding in Elizabeth. Every exit from the city is being closely watched for the fugitives and it is expected they will be in custody before night.

Died From Lockjaw.

George Pettiford, the nine-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Pettiford, colored, of 316 Filmore avenue, died at Muhlenberg Hospital, yesterday morning, from lockjaw, the result of running a splinter in his foot a week ago. The best medical skill was employed, but the lad died in terrible agony. The funeral will be held from the home of the parents tomorrow and Rev. Lewis Vaughn will have charge of the services.

Miss Mabel Stevens, of Grandview avenue, spent the week end with Miss Clyde Slater at Manasquan.

Miss Belle Williams, of Jackson avenue, left today for Manasquan, where she will visit her sister, Mrs. Julia Williams, at the bungalow colony there.

Drunk—Attacked Stranger.

Edward Britton, while under the influence of liquor at the fireworks entertainment Saturday night, saw a colored man whom he mistook for an old enemy and proceeded to punch him. Marshal John Reimann, who was on duty in the park saw the row and attempted to separate the combatants. In the operation the marshal's clothing was torn and before the fighting Britton was landed in the lockup Reimann's clothing was in shreds. This morning Borough Recorder Dolliver imposed a fine of seven dollars on Britton which he paid. The colored man who was attacked was a total stranger to the police and did not appear this morning to press the complaint.

Mrs. Julia McCann.

Mrs. Julia McCann, widow of the late Charles McCann, of 448 West Third street, died this morning after a lingering illness. Mrs. McCann is survided by two sons and three daughters. The children are Edward and Charles McCann, and Mrs. Albert Squiers, and the Misses Catherine and Julia McCann. Notice of the funeral will be published tomorrow.

Miss M. Clara Hunter, of West Fourth street, has returned home after several weeks sojourn at Birchwood Terrace, Lake Hopatcong.

TWO NOTED JURISTS FAVOR AMENDMENTS

Why Pitney and Van Syckle Are For Judiciary Changes.

To the Press and Public of New Jersey:

Gentlemen—In the New York Press of the 15th inst. appeared a brief but pithy paragraph challenging the motives of "some wily old jurists who have friends in line for executive consideration" advocating the adoption of the proposed judiciary amendments.

I wish to present the other side of the proposition.

To characterize ex-Supreme Court Justice Bennet Van Syckle and ex-Vice Chancellor Henry C. Pitney, the father of the present chancellor of New Jersey, as "wily old jurists" is not a proper appreciation of these men.

Van Syckle and Pitney are two men whose lives have been pure and noble so long that there are few men alive who can remember when they earned their high reputation. No man alive can remember a single act or deed of either man which dims the luster of his life. Van Syckle is a Democrat, Pitney a Republican. Both are so aged that their remaining days among us can be but few. Van Syckle is seventy-nine, Pitney eighty-two. Both are men with unimpaired mental activity. Pitney still continues his bank work and enjoys travel. Van Syckle delights every one who comes in contact with him and is still occasionally in active practice as counsel in large cases. Pitney was a judge of our equity court for eight years. Van Syckle was a justice of our supreme court for thirty-five years. Van Syckle resigned five years ago, Pitney resigned two years ago, both because they wished to live long and in perfect health. Their advanced years would not permit of their giving the old number of hours a day to their work and they had too much spirit to continue to hold their judgeships and not do their full share of the work.

Rich in experience and learning, pure and noble in spirit and intent, they are devoting their remaining energy to aid in the adoption of these amendments only because they wish to contribute something more to their native state which has so signally honored them. They are not "wily old jurists." Pitney favors the change in the courts, although its effect would be to deprive his own son of his present exalted position as the highest judge in the entire state of New Jersey.

Just a word as to what these judiciary amendments will do. Their purpose is not to give "four lawyers fat jobs." They actually reduce the number of judges and result in the state paying out less money to its judges. They do not change the law or equity procedure or the basic law of our state. They are intended in the interest of the people of the state of New Jersey and suitors in her courts to provide a more speedy trial and determination of issues. Suitors want their cases finally decided quickly. The independent court of appeals is intended to bring this about. The court sitting only as an appellate court will be able to dispose of all its business each term. The present appellate court, having other duties to perform, cannot even hear a cause until six months after, in fairness to suitors, it ought to be heard and will be heard by the new court. Most of the injustice done by courts to suitors is caused by delay.

The proposed amendments will again make it possible for the supreme court judges to try cases in the counties, giving litigants in counties the right to try their cases before the county judge or the supreme court judge. The supreme court judges by the present cumbrous system are hardly ever able to go to their counties.

The courts as at present constituted were established about sixty-five years ago and were admirably well suited to New Jersey's needs for many decades. For the past fifteen years it has grown more and more apparent that a new system of courts was necessary to avoid delay. Governor Voorhees, Governor Murphy and Governor Stokes have all recognized it. Governor Stokes appointed the commission which prepared the constitutional amendment in order to get the relief necessary. A number of legislatures have recognized the need for the proposed amendments. These amendments have been passed by large majorities in the legislatures of last year and the year before. They have been approved by large majorities of the lawyers in the county bar associations and in the State Bar association. I can fairly say they meet with the approval of the circuit court judges. They favor the amendments, although their adoption by the people puts their court out of business and at the end of their terms their judicial usefulness. The vice chancellors seem to all approve the proposed amendments. The press of New Jersey seems to be almost unanimously in favor of the amendments. The present governor of New Jersey, who sat for many years in the supreme court and court of appeals and is thoroughly familiar with the court needs of the state, favors these amendments. The present chancellor approves the amendments, although they do away with his pre-eminence.

The lawyers of the state will not be affected one way or the other by the change of the courts. The change will slightly decrease the number of judges. The lawyers will have to study anew the system of courts, but that will be about as far as the proposed changes will affect the people at large. The courts will go on and on just the same. The suitors will be the only ones affected. They are the only ones interested. They will find their causes determined much more quickly, which is what the suitor needs. It is one of the great duties of a wise state government to provide efficient courts. State government is dependent on a prompt and fair administration of justice by its courts. That is why Governor Voorhees, Governor Murphy, Governor Stokes and Governor Fort have successively advocated and favored the proposed change in our courts. The amendments have been well and carefully considered by successive legislatures and governors. Now they are before the people for adoption or rejection. The State Bar association has appointed a committee to give such information as it can to the press and the public. Practically without funds it cannot do very much, but the proposed amendments have been repeatedly printed in the papers. Careful explanation has appeared in the public press. The majority of the New Jersey newspapers seem to be in favor of them. I believe the proposed amendments will furnish much better court facilities to the people of our state. I voted for them in the house of assembly and favor them now.

Knowing the disinterestedness of ex-Justice Van Syckle and ex-Vice Chancellor Pitney and the purity of their motives in advocating the adoption of the proposed judiciary amendments, I cannot let go unchallenged this pithy challenge of their motives. Yours very truly,

CHARLES E. HENDRICKSON, JR

How to Vote.

These amendments are of vital importance to the fundamental law of the state, and it is surprising that the people do not take more interest in them. The amending of the constitution is of vastly greater importance than the electing of some official.

At the top of each amendment two words will be printed on the ticket to be voted. These words are:

FOR AGAINST

If you vote for the amendment just run your pencil through the word against in this way ~~AGAINST~~. You will then vote for the amendment.

There are five amendments on the ticket, and you will need to mark out the word "against" in that way five times where it occurs on the ticket to vote for all the amendments.

EVERY CITIZEN SHOULD VOTE. In this case it is not only a privilege, but a DUTY.

The election takes place at a SPECIAL election held over the entire state on TUESDAY, SEPT. 14, 1909.

OLD COACH IS ON SHOW.

Relic in Seattle Exemplifies Mail Transportation Growth.

In the mail transportation department of the government exhibit at the Alaska-Yukon Pacific exposition there is one relic of other days which appeals to the pioneer and exemplifies in a vivid way the Titanic strides even in recent years, in the matter of mail transportation. It is an old-time Rocky Monutain mail coach, the property of S. S. Huntley, of the Yellowstone Park Transportation Company, and is still in a fair state of preservation, though showing unmistakable signs of hard usage.

The coach was first used in the early seventies in the Montana mail service between Helena and Bozeman, making the trip once each week. The coach was captured by Indians in 1877 and was only recaptured after a long pursuit and severe battle. Many persons of note and national prominence have ridden in this coach.

General Garfield, prior to his election to the presidency, was once its passenger. President Arthur in 1883 was indebted to it for services rendered and General Sherman in 1877 made a trip from Fort Ellis to Helena, a distance of 108 miles, in eight hours, being drawn by six horses which were relayed every twelve miles. The coach is of the Concord type, having no springs whatever, but the body is supported by huge leather straps on either side, which gives it the peculiar rocking motion associated with old-time coaches.

Two of a Kind.

"After all," said the man who was good at sizing up, "people are pretty much alike the world over."

"What now?" asked the man who was never good at guessing.

"Well, everybody buys more or less truck, either for ornamental purposes or because they think it may come in handy some time."

"I don't follow."

"Well, Patterson over there growled a lot because his wife bought an iron stag for the front lawn. Said it might be nice to look at, but would never help 'em to get anywhere."

"And—"

Whispering Smith

By Frank H. Spearman

Copyright, 1900, by Chas. Scribner's Sons.

Whispering Smith's hand fell helplessly on the table. "Rode down together! For God's sake, why didn't one of them stay at the house?"

"Sinclair rode out from behind the barn and hit Wickwire in the arm before they saw him. Banks turned and opened on him, and Wickwire ducked for the creek. Sinclair put a soft bullet through Banks' shoulder—tore it pretty bad, Gordon—and made his getaway before Wickwire and I could reach the barn again. I got Ed on his horse and back to Wickwire's, and we sent one of the boys to Oroville for a doctor. After Banks fell out of the saddle and was helpless Sinclair talked to him before I came up. 'You ought to have kept out of this, Ed,' he said. 'This is a railroad fight. Why didn't they send the head of their own gang after me?'—naming you." Kennedy nodded toward Whispering Smith.

"Naming me."

"Banks says: 'I'm sheriff of this county, and will be a long time yet!' I took the papers from his breast pocket," continued Kennedy. "You can see where he was hit." Kennedy laid the sheriff's packet on the table. Bucks drew his chair forward and, with his cigar between his fingers, picked the packet up and opened it. Kennedy went on: "Ed told Sinclair if he couldn't land him himself that he knew a man who could and would before he was a week older. He meant you, Gordon, and the last thing Ed told me was that he wanted you to serve the papers on Sinclair."

A silence fell on the company. One of the documents passing under Bucks' hand caught his eye and he opened it. It was the warrant for Sinclair. He read it without comment, folded it and, looking at Whispering Smith, pushed it toward him. "Then this, I guess, Gordon, belongs to you."

Starting from a reverie, Whispering Smith reached for the warrant. He looked for a moment at the blood-stained caption. "Yes," he said, "this, I guess, belongs to me."

CHAPTER XXXIII.

Duty.

The stir of the town over the shooting of Banks seemed to Marion, in her distress, to point an accusing finger at her. The disgrace of what she had felt herself powerless to prevent now weighed on her mind, and she asked herself whether, after all, the responsibility of this murder was not upon her. Even putting aside this painful doubt, she bore the name of the man who had savagely defied accountability and now, it seemed to her, was dragging her with him through the slough of blood and dishonor into which he had plunged.

The wretched thought would return that had she listened to him, had she consented to go away, this outbreak might have been prevented. And what horror might not another day bring—what lives still closer to her life be taken? For herself she cared less; but she knew that Sinclair, now that he had begun, would not stop. In whichever way her thoughts turned, wretchedness was upon them, and the day went in one of those despairing and indecisive battles that each one within his own heart must fight at times with heaviness and doubt.

McCloud called her over the telephone in the afternoon to say that he was going west on the evening train and would not be over for supper. She wished he could have come, for her loneliness began to be insupportable.

Toward sunset she put on her hat and started for the post-office. In the meantime, Dicksie, at home, had called McCloud up and told him she was coming down for the night. He immediately canceled his plans for going west, and when Marion returned at dusk she found him with Dicksie at the cottage. The three had supper. Afterward Dicksie and McCloud went out for a walk, and Marion was alone in the house when the shop door opened and Whispering Smith walked in. It was dusk.

"Don't light the lamps, Marion," he said, sitting down on a counter-stool as he took off his hat. "I want to talk to you just a minute, if you don't mind. You know what has happened. I am called on now to go after Sinclair. I have tried to avoid it, but my hand has been forced. To-day I've been placing horses. I am going to ride to-night with the warrant. I have given him a start of 24 hours, hoping he may get out of the country. To stay here means only death to him in the end, and, what is worse, the killing of more and innocent men. But he won't leave the country; do you think he will?"

"Oh, I do not know! I am afraid he will not."

"I do not think I have ever hesitated before at any call of this kind; nor at what such a call will probably some time mean; but this man I have known since we were boys."

"If I had never seen him!"

"That brings up another point that has been worrying me all day. I could not help knowing what you have had to go through in this country. It is a tough country for any woman. Your people and mine were always close together and I have felt bound to do what I could to—"

"Don't be afraid to say it—make my path easier."

"Something like that, though there's been little real doing. What this situation in which Sinclair is now placed may still mean to you I do not know, but I would not add a straw to the weight of your troubles. I came to-night to ask a plain question. If he doesn't leave the country I have got to meet him. You know what, in all human probability, that will mean. From such a meeting only one of us can come back. Which shall it be?"

"I'm afraid I don't understand you—do you ask me this question? How can I know which it shall be? What is it you mean?"

"I mean I will not take his life in a fight—if it comes to that—if you would rather he should come back."

A sob almost refused an answer to him. "How can you ask me so terrible a question?"

"It is a question that means a good deal to me, of course, and I don't know just what it means to you; that is the point I am up against. I may have no choice in the matter, but I must decide what to try to do if I have one. Am I to remember first that he is your husband?"

There was a silence. "What shall I say—what can I say? God help me, how am I to answer a question like that?"

"How am I to answer it?"

Her voice was low and pitiful when her answer came: "You must do your duty."

"What is my duty, then? To serve the paper that has been given to me, I know—but not necessarily to defend my life at the price of his. The play of a chance lies in deciding that; I can keep the chance or give it away; that is for you to say. Or take the question of duty again. You are alone and your friends are few. Haven't I any duty toward you, perhaps? I don't know a woman's heart. I used to think I did, but I don't. My duty to this company that I work for is only the duty of a servant. If I go, another takes my place; it means nothing except taking one name off the pay roll and putting another on. Whatever he may have done, this man is your husband; if his death would cause you a pang, it shall not be laid at my door. We ought to understand each other on that point fairly before I start to-night."

"Can you ask me whether you ought not to take every means to defend your own life? or whether any consideration ought to come before that? I think not. I should be a wicked woman if I were to wish evil to him, wretched as he has made me. I am a wretched woman, whichever way I turn. But I should be less than human if I could say that to me your death would not be a cruel, cruel blow."

There was a moment of silence. "Dicksie understood you to say that you were in doubt as to whether you ought to go away with him when he asked you to go. That is why I was unsettled in my mind."

"The only reason why I doubted was that I thought by going I might save better lives than mine. I could willingly give up my life to do that. But to stain it by going back to such a man—God help me!"

"I think I understand. If the unfortunate should happen before I come back I hope only this: That you will not hate me because I am the man on whom the responsibility has fallen. I haven't sought it. And if I should not come back at all, it is only—good-by."

He saw her clasp her hands convulsively. "I will not say it! I will pray on my knees that you do come back."

"Good-night, Marion. Some one is at the cottage door."

"It is probably Mr. McCloud and Dicksie. I will let them in."

CHAPTER XXXIV.

Wickwire.

McCloud and Dicksie met them at the porch door. Marion, unnerved, went directly to her room. Whispering Smith stopped to speak to Dicksie and McCloud interposed. "Bob Scott telephoned the office just now he had a man from Oroville who wanted to see you right away, Gordon," said he. "I told him to send him over here. It is Wickwire."

"Wickwire," repeated Whispering Smith. "Wickwire has no business here that I know of; no doubt it is something I ought to know of. And, by the way, you ought to see this man," he said, turning again to Dicksie. "If McCloud tells the story right, Wickwire is a sort of protege of yours, Miss Dicksie, though neither of you seems to have known it. He is the tramp cowboy who was smashed up in the wreck at Smoky creek. He is not a bad man, but whisky, you know, beats some decent men." A footstep fell on the porch. "There he comes now, I reckon. Shall I let him in a minute?"

"Oh, I should like to see him! He has been at the ranch at different times, you know."

Smith opened the door and stepping out on the porch talked with the newcomer. In a moment he brought him in. Dicksie had seated herself on the sofa, McCloud stood in the doorway of the dining room, and Whispering Smith laid one arm on the table as he sat down beside it with his face above the dark shade of the lamp. Before him stood Wickwire. The half-light threw him up tall and dark, but it showed the heavy shock of black hair falling over his forehead, and the broad, thin face of a mountain man.

"He has just been telling me that Seagrue is loose," Whispering Smith explained, pleasantly. "Who turned the trick, Wickwire?"

"Sheriff Coon and a deputy jailer started with Seagrue for Medicine Bend this morning. Coming through Horse Eye canyon, Murray Sinclair and Barney Rebstock got a clean drop on them, took Seagrue, and they all rode off together. They didn't make any bones about it, either. Their gang has got lots of friends over there, you know. They rode into Atlantic City and stayed over an hour. Coon tracked them there and got up a posse of six men. The three were standing in front of the bank when the sheriff rode into town. Sinclair and Seagrue got on their horses and started off. Rebstock went back to get another drink. When he came out of the saloon he gave the posse a gun-fight all by himself, and wounded two men and made his get-away."

Whispering Smith shook his head, and his hand fell on the table with a tired laugh. "Barney Rebstock," he murmured, "of all men! Coward, skate, filler-in! Barney Rebstock—stale beer man, sneak, barnyard thief! Hit two men!" He turned to McCloud. "What kind of a wizard is Murray Sinclair? What sort of red-blood toxin does he throw into his gang to draw out a spirit like that? Murray Sinclair belongs to the race of empire-builders. By heavens, it is pitiful a man like that should be out of a job! England, McCloud, needs him. And here he is holding up trains on the mountain division!"

"They are all up at Oroville with the Williams Cache gang, celebrating," continued Wickwire.

Whispering Smith looked at the cowboy. "Wickwire, you made a good ride, and I thank you. You are all right. This is the young lady and this is the man who had you sent to the hospital from Smoky creek," he added, rising. "You can thank them for picking you up. When you leave here tell Bob Scott to meet me at the Wickiup with the horses at 11 o'clock, will you?" He turned to Dicksie in a gentle aside. "I am riding north to-night—I wish you were going part way."

Dicksie looked at him intently. "You are worried over something," she murmured; "I can see it in your face."

"Nothing more than usual. I thrive, you know, on trouble—and I'm sorry to say good-night so early, but I have a long ride ahead." He stepped quietly past McCloud and out of the door.

Wickwire was thanking Dicksie when unwillingly she let Whispering Smith's hand slip out of her own. "I shore wouldn't have been here to-night if you two hadn't picked me up," laughed Wickwire, speaking softly to Dicksie when she turned to him. "I've knowed my friends a long time, but I reckon they all didn't know me."

"I've known you longer than you think," returned Dicksie with a smile. "I've seen you at the ranchhouse. But now that we really do know each other, please remember you are always sure of a home at the ranch—whenever you want one, Mr. Wickwire, and just as long as you want one. We never forget our friends on the Crawling Stone."

"If I may make so bold, I thank you kindly. And if you all will let me run away now, I want to catch Mr. Whispering Smith for just one minute."

Wickwire overtook Smith in Fort street. "Talk quick, Wickwire," he said; "I'm in a hurry. What do you want?"

"Partner, I've always played fair with you."

"So far as I know, Wickwire, yes. Why?"

"I've got a favor to ask."

"What is it—money?"

"No, partner, not money this time. You've always been more than liberal with me. But so far I've had to keep under cover; you asked me to. I want to ask the privilege now of coming out into the open. The jig is up so far as watching anybody goes."

"Yes."

"There's nobody to watch any more—they're all to chase, I reckon, now. The open is my kind of a fight, anyway. I want to ride out this man-hunt with you."

"How is your arm?"

"My arm is all right, and there ought to be a place for me in the chase now that Ed Banks is out of it. I want to cut loose up on the range, anyhow; if I'm a man I want to know it, and if I ain't I want to know it. I want to ride with you after Seagrue and Sinclair and Barney Rebstock."

Whispering Smith spoke coldly: "You mean, Wickwire, you want to get killed."

"Why, partner, if it's coming to me, I don't mind—yes."

"What's the use, Wickwire?"

DEFEAT FAST NORTH ENDS

Plainfield A. C. Triumph Over Elizabeth Club by a Score of Eight to Three.

JOHNSTON'S FINE PITCHING.

Hann and Meyer Lead Locals in Hitting—Springer and Knauer Twirl for the Visitors.

The fast North End A. C., of Elizabeth, was defeated by the Plainfield A. C. on the Clinton avenue grounds, Saturday afternoon, by the score of 8 to 3. Johnston was selected to do the twirling for the locals and deserves credit for the excellent game he pitched. His deceptive curves were used with good effect and he was invinvible at critical stages of the contest. Moran, who has been doing the backstop work for the G. & T. V. Club lately, was sent behind the bat and his classy all-round work, especially base throwing, was one of the features.

Hann and Meyer led in hitting for the locals, the former securing two two-base hits and a single and Meyer had three singles to his credit, all made when they were most needed. They also pulled off some classy inside playing that kept the opposing team guessing.

Luthman proved to be in a class by himself as a third sacker and plays the position like a veteran. Byard also covered first base in regular Hal Chase style and the outfield took care of several difficult fly balls. McDonough made a hard running catch in the last inning that brought the fans to their feet.

The North Ends sent Springer to the firing line and he stayed there for six innings. Although he pitched good enough to win an ordinary game, the locals were able to bunch their hits off him at the proper time. He was replaced by Knauer in the seventh, who struck out four batsmen and allowed but ont hit. Stanley did some clever work as catcher as the locals found out. The entire infield was fast and well drilled in inside play. Warren and Palmer led the batting for their team. Warren secured two two-base hits and Palmer's two-bagger in the second inning came at the right time. The contest was not started until 4:30 as the trolleys were not running on scheduled time at Elizabeth and delayed the visitors. Manager Pope was congratulated upon securing such a strong attraction. SO. PLAINFIELD DEFEATS ATLANTIC FIELD CLUB

The South Plainfield Baseball Club won another victory yesterday by defeating the Atlantic Field Club, from Perth Amboy, by a score of 5 to 3.

Thomas, of South Plainfield, showed great form, getting ten strikeouts, walking one man and allowing but one hit. It looked as though he would have a no-hit, no-run game to his credit, up to the sixth inning, when a couple of errors allowed three runs to score, and in the eighth inning Koyen secured the only hit made off his delivery.

Tommie Mullen was behind the bat and handled Thomas' benders in fine style. His hitting was a feature of the game, a home run and a single being his share.

Hann and Hanson also did good work with the stick getting a two-bagger and three-bagger respectively. Toolin starred for his team throwing bases like a shot and allowing very few men to steal on him.

The home team out hit the visitors getting nine clean hits and scoring all their runs on hits. The Amboy team scored all three of their runs in the sixth inning on two errors.

South Plainfield will play the fast Delta Athletic Club from Keasbey, next Sunday at South Plainfield.

LOST IN THE NINTH

Plainfield Neglects Opportunity to Tie Score and Win Out

AFTER A BATTING RALLY.

"Dave" Driscoll's Aggregation Takes Fourth Contest in the Series By a Score of 9 to 8.

But for the indecision of Washburn in the last inning, Plainfield might have tied the score, and possibly won the game with New Brunswick, Saturday afternoon. As it was the visitors from the Middlesex county seat went home with the victory of 9 to 8.

The game opened with the advantage for the visitors. Ortleib let the first two batsmen walk. W. Stallings then sacrificed, advancing the first two to second and third bases, and E. Stallings two base hit brought Harter and Driscoll home. Another run was also scored in the first innings. The second inning was likewise; three more runs, making a total of six, to the one run for the Plainfielders. At the end of the sixth inning the game stood 8 to 2 in favor of the visitors. They relaxed a little in their play, and Plainfield scored two runs in the seventn, to one by New Brunswick, which incidentally, was the last to be scored by them. Plainfield played a steadier game though. Neither scored in the eighth, but in the ninth, Plainfield bade fair to tie the score.

CHnton let Boyd walk to first base. Emery singled and Martin bunted. This left the bases full. The timeliness of Martin's bunt, let Boyd in home. On Washburn's hit to right field and the wild throw back to home, Emery, Martin and Barnes all crossed the home plate. Washburn was on third, when they were still hunting for the ball in the bleachers and might easily have come home, tying the game. The man who was coaching him at base held him there, though, and as a cnsequence, no more runs were scored, so New Brunswick left the field, victors by the narrow margin of one run.

For individual work O'Loughlin showed up well with three hits, while Jack Martin for New Brunswick played a fast and faultless game. Emery's work was creditable.

PLANS CONFERENCE OF JERSEY MAYORS

To better regulate excise conditions in the different cities throughout the State, Mayor Victor Mravlag has planned a conference of all New Jersey's Mayors, which, if his idea meets with general approval, will probably be held in Newark in the fall. At the proposed conference there will be a general discussion of the excise laws, especially that law which applies to Sunday closing. It is possible that an excise measure may be drawn up at the conference and submitted to the State Legislature.

Mayor Victor Mravlag said yesterday that Mayor Haussling, of Newark, told him a few days ago, when asked about the plan, that he would support it if Mayor Mravlag took the initial steps. "I intend to take the step," Mayor Mravlag said yesterday. "I fully believe that the Governor would support the plan. He could hardly do otherwise if the big cities of the State were behind the movement. If we decided upon a plan for the better regulation of excise conditions and it did not prove effective after a reasonable trial, it could, of course, be easily repealed, or revised to suit the needs of the majority.

"It is well known that the present excise condition throughout the State is unsatisfactory. In some places there is a flagrant disregard, while in others the law is enforced. According to my platform pledge I will enforce the law here. So long as it is in the statute books, regardless of the divers views that are held regarding it, I will enforce it."

Mayor Mravlag say that the plan he has in view will give the Northern cities of New Jersey more home rule. "My plan," he says, "will probably result in the enactment of the law that would place the excise question on an economic instead of a religious basis. It would also remove from politics a question which is a thorn in the side of both political parties."

Although Mayor Mravlag has not yet learned the sentiment of the chief executives of other municipalities regarding his plan he has been greatly encouraged by the promise of the support of Mayor Maussling, of Newark, and expects that Jersey City, Homoken, Bayonne and Paterson will fall in line.

Mrs. C. Kochlien and Miss Carrie Kochlien, of Liberty street, and Miss E. Ballentyne, of Martinsville, left today for a two weeks' sojourn at Asbury Park.

COUNTY ASSEMBLY TICKET

Republicans Will Name Schwartz, Pierce and Thompson, 'Tis Said.

MR. KIRSTEIN WILL RETIRE.

First Ward Wants a Councilman-Member-at-Large — Another Member of the City Executive Committee.

There is no doubt but that the Republican candidates for Assembly this fall will be Carlton B. Pierce of Cranford; Augsuts F. Schwartz of Elizabeth, and Lloyd Thompson of Westfield. Alfred Kirstein, of Rahway, having declined a renomination, or having intimated that he would under no circumstances accept one, leaves the field clear for Mr. Thompson, who it is said, will be the only likely candidates to succeed Mr. Kirstein.

But this does not mean that Rahway will be left out entirely from representation in the apportionment of political preferences, and as Mr. Thompson withdrew last year when he learned that Rahway and Elizabeth were out with candidates, some recognition will have to be given.

As to the offices of County Register and County Clerk it is practically assured that Frank H. Smith, of this city, will get the nomination for the former and James C. Calvert, of Elizabeth, the nomination for the latter offices. Both of these men have been tried out in their respective places and have been found equal to the duties of them. The endorsement received from State Senator Ackerman will no doubt go a long way toward strengthening the possibilities of the nominations going the way pointed out above.

It may be supposed that this combination was resolved upon at the recent outing of the County committee, but such is not the case. The matter was scarcely discussed.

In city affairs there is a strong probability of an effort being made for changes in the ward representatives of councilmen-at-large. It has been said that the First ward is anxious to have a representative of this calibre and even at the cost of sacrificing one of the present incumbents. The second, third and fourth wards now represented by F. L. Montgomery, C. C. Randolph and W. W. Wilson, respectively, will no doubt seek renomination, but the "New Idea" people have 'ideas" of their own and will undoubtedly put forward candidates of their own and in spite of the fact that numerically the first ward is scarcely entitled to a councilman-at-large, will make a desperate effort to work in a man for the honor in that ward.

The fact that another district has been added to the second ward will give that ward an extra representative in the city executive committee thus adding to the Republican forces on the board.

MISS ETTA RAYBERT DELIGHTS SUMMER COLONY.

A large and enthusiastic audience composed of the cottagers and visitors filled to overflowing the spacious ball-room of the Seaside Park Yacht Club at a concert given by the Upsal Banjo Club, of Germantown, Pa., Saturday night. Miss Etta Raybert, soprano, accompanied by Miss Lillian A. Force, of this city, took part in the program and Miss Raybert completely captured the audience, responding to several encores.

Miss Force and Miss Raybert are guests of Mr. and Mrs. E. E. Walling, of Germantown, who have a cottage at Seaside Park. The committee in charge of the musical comprised Mrs. E. E. Walling, of Germantown, and Mrs. C. M. Crowell, of Moorestown, a sister of George Cornwell, of this city. Dancing was enjoyed afterward.

Smalleytown Bridge Bids Opened.

The Somerset and Morris County Boards of Chosen Freeholders met at the line bridge near Smalleytown yesterday and opened seven bids for the new bridge at this point over the Passaic river. They found the bids so complicated that no decisions as to what would be done or who would get the contract were possible. Another meeting will be held next Monday to settle these two questions.

HERBERT ALESSI CAUGHT

Murderer of Carmine Catalino and Pietro Ciaccia Found in Detroit.

HE CLAIMS SELF DEFENSE.

Tells Police He Feared the Banditti Would Get Him—Glad to Return to Elizabeth.

Herbert Alessi, son of Mrs. Maria Alessi, who is accused of killing Carmine Catalino and Pietro Ciaccia in Elizabeth last week, has been located in Detroit by the police of that city. He was found sleeping in the room of a friend and it was through the knowledge that Alessi had a friend in Detroit that the police of Elizabeth caught the fugitive so easily.

Alessi declared that he was glad to be arrested as the "banditti" would have gotten to him sooner or later and carved him. He declares also that he acted in self defence when he fired the shots which killed his two enemies. There was, of course, a woman in the case and jealousy lies at the bottom of the tragedy, so it is alleged.

In his statement to the police, which is corroborated by the woman, Alessi was to have married on the day of the double murder. Catalino had been looking for Alessi all the day and had threatened to kill him because of his success as a suitor for the hand of the comely widow. It is said by the Italians of the neighborhood where the killing took place that Catalino lured Alessi to a lonely part of the city and in company with Ciaccia attempted to kill him. In trying to shoot Catalino Alessi's bullet went wild and struck Ciaccia, who subsequently died, but the next bullet found the correct billet and Catalino keeled over.

Samuel Schleimer, who has been retained to defend Alessi, has said that so far as he knew no obstacle would be placed in the way of the police who will bring Alessi back from Detroit to stand trial in Elizabeth. The Prosecutor's office is busy gathering evidence and it is expected that County Detectives Galatian and Captain Peters will leave for Detroit today. Alessi's brother, Dennis, is still being held as a material witness at police headquarters. Assistant Prosecutor W. L. Hetfield, Jr., was in Elizabeth yesterday looking into the case.

COTTAGE PLACE ITALIAN WANTED FOR ASSAULT.

Andrew Rubba, the Italian who was fined at the city court yesterday for beating his daughter because she refused to cook macaroni for him at their West End home Sunday afternoon, today swore out a warrant before Judge Runyon for Dominick Rivieragao, of Cottage place, wanted on a serious charge. Rivieragao, who has been employed as a switch oiler by the P. S. C. has left town.

Josephine Rubba was the victim of the attempted assault. Rivieragao, who has a wife and five children, is her god-father, and the two started for police headquarters late Sunday night to intercede for Papa Rubba and get him freed, if possible. The girl didn't know the location of the police station, and the pair got on a trolley car together. She asked where they were going, and Rivieragao told her that they must see Judge Runyon. The girl fought her would-be assailant, and escaped.

Inquiry at Rivieragao's house by the police revealed the fact that he had left town Sunday night. He told his wife that he was going to desert her and marry Josephine, and he took all his money with him.

Scotch Whiskey Bests Scotchman.

Frank Kenney, a Scotchman, whose home is on Lee place, took many, many drinks of his native "whiskey" at an East Front street saloon last night, and became decidedly personal in his remarks about certain persons. He was ejected and later mixed blows with Charles Messler, of Watchung avenue, who sought to quiet him. Messler was knocked down and his clothes torn by the irate fighting Scotchman. Kenney was arrested by Patrolman Sweeney, and as no one appeared against him at his hearing before Judge Runyon today, sentence was suspended.

Judge in New England Hunt.

Lewis E. Waring, of West Seventh street, will be one of the judges at the run on September 11, of the Berkshire Hunt club at Lenox, Mass. Mr. Waring is master of the hounds of the Watchung Hunt Club, of this city.

DEMOCRATIC EXCURSION

Annual Outing of the Union County Politicians Tomorrow.

CHARLES A. TOWNE TO SPEAK.

Eloquent Jerseyites on Jaunt to Famous Long Island Resort—Milk to Drink.

The Union County Democratic committee will enjoy its annual outing tomorrow at Wetzel's Grove, College Point, Long Island Sound. The boat will leave the City dock, Elizabeth at 10 o'clock in the morning and it is expected to return at 9 in the evening. At the grove a sumptuous dinner will be served and there, away from the madding throng, eloquence will hold sway for the greater part of the afternoon.

Among the noted Jerseymen who are expected to attend and speak are Frank Katzenbach, former Mayor of Trenton; Joseph Tumulty, of Jersey City; Johnson Cornish, the spellbinder from Washington, and Congressman Campbell. Charles A. Towne, whose reputation is national will also address the gathering. Besides these fluent speakers more than a hundred acceptances have been received from prominent men all over the State.

Undoubtedly several heart-to-heart talks between the leaders and their earnest follows will be the outcome, although it is stated by one of the leading men of the State that he does not think it wise to be laying plans thus early in the season. It is possible, however, that some of the speeches will covertly outline the coming campaign. It is a well known fact that Mr. Towne is seldom silent on occasions like this and no doubt a good bit of his fatherly advice is in store for those whose ambitions are to be put to the test in the fall.

Speaking of things to eat—there will be all kinds of refreshments on the boat including a large quantity of pure milk, of which the county men are exceedingly fond. It has been said that the Democrats have shown good sense in their selection of a place to hold their formal feast, as no such thing as a badly served or cold dinner ever gets by the owner of the Long Island resort.

BACK FROM AUTO TRIP.

Hackensack Woman Guided Machine All the Way Without Serious Mishap.

Mrs. John R. Ramsey has returned to her home in Hackensack from San Francisco, to which city she safely guided an automobile party, arriving there over a week ago. Miss Hermine Jahns, one of the four women on the trip, came east with Mrs. Ramsey as far as Chicago. Mrs. Powell and Mrs. Atwood, the other members of the party, are visiting relatives and friends on the Coast.

"On the whole, our trip was successful," said Mrs. Ramsey yesterday. "We had some trying experiences in heavy storms and bad roads, but on a trip covering four thousand miles one must expect some unpleasantness. We had no accidents, however. Our tires troubled us some, due to the rocky roads, but that was also expected."

SAM CUNNINGHAM SIGNS CONTRACT WITH JOE WEBER.

Samuel Cunningham, who has been treasurer of the Plainfield theatre, from the time it was opened until the recent change was effected, whereby Proctor & Sanderson became lessees, has signed a contract with Joe Weber for the coming season to manage one of the six companies now presenting Edward Locke's famous play, "The Climax."

Mr. Cunningham will assume his new position September 1. At present he does not know which company he will be with, whether he will go on the road or be located in New York. Since coming to Plainfield Mr. Cunningham has made a host of friends. He had several offers and today decided to accept the one made by Joe Weber. He will remain in Plainfield until September.

Mrs. Henrietta C. DeLany.

Mrs. Henrietta C. DeLany, mother of Miss Olive DeLany, the city nurse for the King's Daughters, and the Misses Hazel and Autumn DeLany, died at 2 o'clock this afternoon in her apartments in the New Madison, on Madison avenue. Death was due to a complication of diseases, including paralysis. She had been ill for the past year and recently her condition was such that her death was momentarily expected. Mrs. DeLany had been a resident of this city about fifteen years. She was a member of the Park Avenue Baptist church, and had a large circle of friends and acquaintances. The notice of funeral will be given later.

POCKET KNIVES WEAPONS IN POOL ROOM FIGHT

Using their pocket-knives to settle a dispute about a pool game at a Madison avenue "pool parlor," Nathan Scott, colored, of South Second street, and Joseph Pritchard, colored, of West Third street, cut and stabbed at each other in a running fight around a pool table late last night. As a result, Pritchard is so badly cut up that he was unable to appear in police court this morning, and Scott must stay in a cell until tomorrow, when the case will be brought up before Judge Runyon.

Scott, who is but slightly injured, surrendered a short-bladed pocket-knife, very dull, at police headquarters after his arrest and said that he had only used it in self defense. He has a slight cut across the palm of his right hand, which he said he got when he tried to grab Pritchard's knife. His head is also injured.

The arrests were made by Sergeant Overbaugh and Patrolmen Nolan and McNamara, who went out on an alarm to headquarters at about 11 o'clock. Pritchard was pretty badly cut up and an examination by Dr. Jefferson C. Anderson showed stab wounds and cuts in his back, it is said. His wife reported today that he would be unable to come to police court, and the case has been postponed until tomorrow. Questioned in his cell, Scott said that the fight started about a pool game, on which there had been a bet made.

COUNTY REPUBLICANS ARE PLANNING DOLLAR DINNER

The Union County Republican Committee me at Elizabeth last night and discussed the dollar dinner to be given at Turn Hall, Elizabethport, on September 22. It is expected that seven hundred people will sit down to dinner that night and elaborate arrangements are being made for the annual affair.

There was also some discussion regarding the proposed constitutional amendments to be voted on September 14. The committee, it was learned, had not familiarized itself thoroughly with the provisions and it was announced that it would have something more to say on the subject later.

County Clerk James C. Calvert today received word from the Secretary of State that 64,000 ballots had been shipped to Elizabeth for the September election. That will allow 2½ ballots for everyone of the 25,000 voters in the county.

The county committee last night also received an informal report from the committee on outing. All the returns are not in yet, and a complete report will be made later.

Last Excursion Thursday.

The season's final excursion to Asbury Park will be held Thursday, when the shore outing will be under the auspices of Warren chapel. The time scheduled provides for a long stay at the shore, and the seaside trip presents a rare opportunity for a day of benefit and recreation.

Will Oil Borough Streets.

Several borough streets will be treated with oil in a day or so. The carload of oil ordered by the Borough Council at its last meeting has been delivered. It will be applied as soon as the weather permits.

—Under the direction of Street Commissioner A. J. Gavett West Front street, Sycamore avenue and a few other adjoining streets have been given a second coating of oil as a dust preventitive.

He has none of the characteristics which go to distinguish the hawk;
He is not at all green like the parrot, although he can certainly talk;
And he doesn't seem like a canary, for yellow in him is unheard.
So we'll label him thus—rara avis—which stamps him a very rare Bird.

ONE DAY'S RAINFALL TRIPLES JULY'S RECORD

Without any idea of starting off with a bit of exclusive news, be it said that it rained yesterday. It's also raining, intermittently, today.

The veracity of these statements being undenied by any who had to be out-of-doors in the past two sunless sun-circles, here's another: The rainfall yesterday was more than three and one-half times the amount of the rainfall for the entire month of July. To follow out the policy of this paper and be real accurate, the rainfall yesterday was 4.92 inches. Now, July's rainfall record was 1.39 inches. Dividing, we get 3.5395—and then some. Q. E. D. Today's precipitation is not taken into consideration in this figuring.

But, like one Eva Tanguay, the farmers, commuter gardeners, James E. Martine and Judge William N. Runyon all say "I don't care!" as they splash hither and yon in the wetness. For rain means good crops, and the 4.92 inches consignment looks good to the gardens, where it has been for many hours a case of "the big drink." Everything you see offered for sale in the grocers' "green goods" departments, will be benefited, in kind, as it were.

Hear what John Neagle, the local weather-man, says: "The rainfall of yesterday is the heaviest twenty-four-hour rainfall for August, since 1888. On August 22 of that year 5.72 inches of rain were recorded. Last year, 4.08 of rain fell on August 26. In recording yesterday's rainfall, it would be well to note that the rain commenced at 8:30 o'clock Sunday. At 8 o'clock the following morning, the rainfall was 0.39 inch, at noon, 1.61 inches; in five hours, 1.82 inches; in six hours, 2.44; in six and a half hours, 2.64 inches; in ten hours, 4.20 inches; in twelve hours, 4.48 inches; in twelve and a half hours, 4.53 inches—a total for the twenty-four hours of 4.92 inches."

Of course, brooks were swollen, streets flooded and workmen kept busy cleaning out choked storm sewers, but the trolleys ran, the electric lights burned, and the streets were dustless.

Electric Light Pole Falls.

An electric light pole fell on Lincoln place near Grove street last night. Wires were tangled and one fire alarm signal was sounded as a result. Public Service Corporation linemen set up a new pole and repaired the lines this morning.

Funeral of Mrs. McCann.

The funeral of Mrs. Julia McCann, who died yesterday morning will be held Thursday morning from the house at 8:30 and at St. Mary's Roman Catholic church at 9 o'clock. The interment will be in St. Mary's cemetery.

Will Enjoy Sight-Seeing Trip.

Mr. and Mrs. David Anguerbauer, of East Third street, left yesterday for a ten days' sight-seeing trip through New York State. They will spend a few days at Troy and will also visit Lake George before they return.

"SPITE" BARN ERECTED; WILL BOROUGH BUY?

Michael Gallagher, of Dunellen, is still holding to his original intention of keeping a roughly constructed barn on North avenue, that place, in the heart of the business section, despite the protests of his neighbors and business men. Gallagher, it is said, built the structure out of spite because he lost some street sprinkling work, which is now being done by another party through one of the Dunellen councilmen.

Offers to buy the property haven't reached Mr. Gallagher's price, and threats to burn it have not yet been made openly, but he has received some anonymous letters. Apparently, Gallagher is trying to stir up a lot of sentiment against the "spite house" so as to get the borough to pay him a big price for the property. He was sick for some time, and immediately after he recovered a suit was brought against him on a civil charge. This aroused Mr. Gallagher's ire and now it is alleged he is trying to get his revenge.

SURPRISE PARTY FOR ALBERT M. LEDERER.

Albert M. Lederer was given a surprise party at the home of John C. Van Dyke, 255 East Fifth street, last night which was attended by a large number of friends of the family. Mr. Van Dyke was formerly Mr. Lederer's teacher in Trinity Reformed Sunday school. The evening was pleasantly spent with instrumental and vocal music rendered by Mr. Lederer and her two daughters, the Misses Alberta and Lucille. C. W. Runyon sang a solo accompanied on the harp by Miss Trabel.

The occasion was Mr. Lederer's birthday and in honor of the event the table was beautifully decorated in red and white and bore a birthday cake decorated with candles numbering the years of Mr. Lederer's life up to date. The illuminated cake made a very pretty appearance on the table. The guests departed at a late hour wishing Mr. Lederer many happy returns of the day.

Funeral of Daniel J. Buckley.

The funeral of Daniel J. Buckley, who died in North Plainfield last Sunday, was held this morning at St. Joseph's church, in the borough, where a solemn mass of requiem was celebrated by the rector Father Miller. The pallbearers were four brothers, nephews of Mr. Buckley—Frank, Edward, Vincent and Timothy Carroll. The interment was in St. Mary's cemetery.

Green's Trial Now On.

The trial of Benjamin Green, colored, of Mountain avenue, who severely beat Richard Johnson, another colored man in Hand's brick yard Sunday afternoon is being held this afternoon before Justice of the Peace Thomas Snape. Johnson is still in the hospital and is resting more easily today. He will not be brought from the hospital to testify in the case.

BOROUGH MAN DROWNED?

Leonard Yung Reported to Have Attempted Suicide in Passaic River.

WIFE CONFIRMS THE REPORT.

Last Seen in Plainfield Thursday—Could Find No Work After Signing the Pledge.

Word was received in this city this afternoon that Leonard Yung, of 22 Somerset street, was drowned in the Passaic river at Paterson yesterday. The details of the drowning are meagre; but so far as is known the description of the drowned man coincides with that of Yung. The drowning looks like suicide, as he was driven desperate for want of work.

Mrs. Yung said that her husband left this city early last week and had not been seen since. He was last seen Thursday riding on a main line trolley car out of town. Just previous to this he came to his house and packed two dress suit cases. He had been out of work for some time, and recently served a three day sentence in the borough police headquarters for drunkenness. When released he vowed never to drink again. In turning over a new leaf he first attempted to find work, but could do nothing in that direction in this city or borough. He next tried New York, but here, too, it was said, he could find no work. Just before he left town Thursday he said that he was going to Passaic to find work. This lends additional emphasis to the rumor.

Yung was employed at Muhlenberg hospital for a while, but lost his position because of his persistent and heavy drinking. He then worked for several local barbers and each time lost his position for the same reason. It was in a fit of dejection that he became intoxicated one night and created a disturbance at his home on Somerset stret. His ill fortune made him treat his wife badly, it is said, and Mayor Townsend sentenced him to three days in the borough jail as a consequence.

His efforts to find work since his release from jail have been fruitless, and this, coupled with his misfortune in his home, probably led him to attempt suicide. Mrs. Yung and other relatives are now investigating the rumor. When seen by a Daily Press reporter this afternoon, she said that she too had heard the rumor this morning and was waiting to hear of the details of the case.

TAKES NEW HUSBAND AT 81.

Pennsylvania Woman Smokes Pipe in License Clerk's Office.

The Pittsburg marriage license office issued a license yesterday afternoon to Mrs. Evalina Hall, eighty-one years old, of Turtle Creek, Penn., and Robert B. Wright, fifty-one, of the same town. John Hall, sixty-two, son of Mrs. Hall by a previous husband, testified that his mother was "of legal age." The couple will be married Thursday night.

Mrs. Hall, who owns a large farm, is the mother of twelve children. Her husband dying four years ago, she created a sensation in the license office by insisting on smoking a clay pipe and giving advice to younger women who were bashfully waiting to get their marriage licenses.

Demands Child Labor Laws.

President Cornelius J. Ford, in his address at the opening session of the New Jersey Federation of Labor at Atlantic City yesterday, demanded that more strict laws relative to child labor be enacted. He attributed failure of efforts to make federated labor a power in political and economic life to the depression of the past two years and the increased efforts of corporations to disrupt trade organizations.

LOCAL AMUSEMENTS

This season "McFadden's Flats" is destined to enjoy the most prosperous year it has ever had. The enduring farce which has outlived and outraced all of its competitors, will have an entirely new dress, new features, surprises and music. It has been rewritten, reconstructed and renovated and will be presented for the first time in its new form at Plainfield theatre Saturday afternoon and night. The principals have been selected with great care, and each one is cast in a part particularly suited to his or her particular ability. There are numerous features, made up of bright and original ideas and the many infusions and changes made it necessary to add a new equipment, at least as far as scenery was concerned. Up-to-date tuneful music dominates and numerously clever thought-out ensemble arrangements and specialties that serve to introduce a bevy of spirited young ladies, elaborately costumed, form one of the chief features of this up-to-date entertainment.

Buying on the Club Plan Is the Easiest Way

SOME FACTS ABOUT THIS POPULAR PLAN WHICH SHOULD INTEREST YOU

THERE are those who while not possessing much in the way of tangible assets, owning no property, perhaps, preferring that others should bear that burden, like to have well-furnished homes and who take as much pride in them as the wealthiest people.

There are those who, while not having much money in hand, have a generous and steady income which is as sure as anything earthly can be.

Situated as they are it is somewhat difficult for these people to secure a credit account, and if they could, they would not be able to pay in thirty days, as charge customers are expected to pay for all that they might wish to buy when furnishing a home.

It is to these people that our Household Club Plan appeals most strongly because it enables them to buy the bigger and more costly furnishings at the lowest cash prices and arrange for the payment according to their ability to pay.

This is not an instalment plan, as instalment plans are generally known, and "anybody's" credit is not good. Only worthy persons are entitled to club membership, and they are not taxed exorbitant prices to cover the losses occasioned by selling indiscriminately, as instalment houses do. It is not a plan to make more profits on goods but to make the buying easier for you and thus to broaden our field of operations.

Anyone who can make it plain to us that they are steadily employed, that they are sober, industrious people, can participate in our Club Plan. The initiation fee is nominal and depends upon the amount you wish to buy. Upon the payment of this fee you are entitled to purchase goods up to a certain amount at our regular cash prices, which are all plainly marked, and at the time of purchase you are expected to pay one-tenth of the entire bill. For instance, on $100 worth of goods you pay us $10.

After that you pay by the week or month, as suits you best, whatever amounts are agreed upon. You pay no interest—not a cent of it.

We confine club accounts to the purchase of larger articles, such as Furniture, Carpets, Rugs, Upholsteries, Pictures, Sewing Machines, Refrigerators, Stoves, Baby Carriages, and Talking Machines, the smaller articles in the general lines of dry goods and wearing apparel not being included in the plan.

The Club Plan is particularly advantageous to young folks just going to housekeeping, as it enables them to start in completely furnished without suffering from the financial strain that usually comes at this period of life.

There are no embarrassing features in our Club Plan—no publicity, no unexpected demands, no harsh treatment whatever. We have thousands already enrolled in our clubs and the scheme is working out to the entire satisfaction of both our patrons and ourselves, every curtesy being extended to club members that is extended to customers running the biggest regular accounts.

We invite all steady-goings people to take advantage of the Club Plan of buying furnishings for the home.

FACTS ABOUT SOME COFFEE

Why It Should Be Thoroughly Roasted and Immediately Excluded from the Air

True quality in any coffee lies in the richness in certain oils and essences which can only be developed through proper roasting. Roasting is therefore a most crucial operation; and if insufficient roasting much of the delightful aroma of coffee is lost, and it is neither agreeable to the palate nor exhilarating in its influence. Furthermore, no other food product is so susceptible to foreign influences as coffee in the roasted state, and to retain its perfect condition it should be instantly excluded from the air.

The coffee that best typifies all of these higher states of perfection is the Hotel Astor Coffee. Hotel Astor Coffee is blended from the finest grades of properly aged coffee, carefully cleaned, thoroughly roasted by an exact and scientific process and instantly packed for family use in hermetically sealed one and three pound tins. It is the same coffee in every respect as that served now and always at the famous Hotel Astor, New York, and possesses a delicious fragrance and fine, rich, mild coffee taste that easily distinguishes it from all other coffees.

Buy a tin of Hotel Astor Coffee to-day. Its delightful flavor and splendid strength-sustaining qualities will surprise you. Sold by nearly all good grocers. But if your grocer does not, write the importers, R. Fischer & Co., 193 Franklin street, New York City, giving his name and address, and they will tell you where you can get it.

GOLF.

One of the best illustrations of the increasing interest taken in high class golf professionals in this vicinity was furnished in June when Alec Smith and Isaac Mackie were brought together for thirty-six holes at Fox Hills. On neutral ground it was figured that the odds were in Smith's favor, but the contention was made that Mackie would be invincible over his home green. How the rivals fought it out hole for hole throughout that entire day followed by one of the largest galleries seen hereabouts in years; how each man got inside the record in the afternoon and how Smith gained the verdict by the scant margin of one up, is now a matter of history. It demonstrated so clearly, however, the increasing demand for affairs of this kind that the club's officials shortly afterward brought about a four-ball match in which Smith and H. H. Barker teamed up against Mackie and Jack Hobens.

This match attracted golf rs from far and near and as a four-ball contest between experts generally does, kept the gallery on edge from start to finish. First one and then another of the quartet would bring off some exceptional shot, probably the most spectacular of all being Barker's 3 at the 500-yard thirteenth hole. Smith and Barker ruled favorites and as results proved they justified the confidence placed in them by their admirers by winning handily. So successful was the affair that the Fox Hills Golf Club has planned to bring off another attraction along similar lines in the fall.

George Sargent's sudden rise to fame as a result of his winning the national open championship tournament at Englewood with a record total of 290 caused so much talk that several exhibition matches were arranged for him shortly afterward. His attempt to play the best ball of two amateurs over the lumpy Forest Park public links in Brooklyn met with indifferent success and the same may be said of his clash with Gilbert Nichols at Van Cortlandt Park. Both matches were watched by large galleries. On neither occasion did the new champion display his true form, nor did he appear at his best when he defeated Herbert Strong at Apawamis.

Toward the end of the month the annual open amateur championship of Ireland—as distinct from the close championship—will be held at the course of the Royal Dublin Golf Club, at Dollymount. Players from all parts of the United Kingdom take part, the present holder being J. F. Mitchell, of the Royal Musselburgh Golf Club, Scotland. The visitors are as yet too strong for the best Irish amateurs, the main value of the competition being to stiffen up the game of the native players. Dollymount is one of the best championship courses in the world.

The next tournament in the Metropolitan Golf Association district will be for the Herald cup, representing the championship of greater New York, at Van Cortlandt Park on September 2 to 4. The beaten eight will play for a cup presented by John P. O'Connell.

GOVERNOR TO TAKE VACATION WITH AUTO.

Now that his camp life labors are over for the summer Governor Fort has planned to go on an extended automobile vacation. Accompanied by Mrs. Fort and Miss Fort he expects to leave Sea Girt today or Thursday for a trip into the Adirondacks, where he will put in several weeks touring. He will spend one week on the way by stopping at Greenwood Lake, and will, also, be the guest of the Colgates during the stay in the mountains.

The Governor feels he has earned a vacation this summer and intends to make it a restful one. He will endeavor to keep in touch with Trenton, however, and any affairs of State which might require his attention while away will receive it. Upon his return he will take up his residence for a month or so at his Spring Lake cottage.

COLEMAN HOUSE LAWN STILL CAUSING TROUBLE.

Representing the Monmouth Hotel Company, which owns the Coleman house, Asbury Park, and of which he is president, Frank B. Conover, accompanied by J. Otto Rhome, made formal demand Saturday on Tax Collector William A. Harrison for the tax certificate on the Coleman House lawn, bought in by the city in June for unpaid taxes for 1907.

Under advice from City Solicitor James D. Carton Mr. Harrison refused to give up the certificate to Mr. Conover, who tendered in cash the principal, interest and costs of taxes due. Mr. Conover, evidently angered, declared that he would cause mandamus proceedings to be instituted at once to compel the city to surrender the certificate to the hotel company.

WILLIAM WINTER LEAVES THE TRIBUNE.

William Winter, widely known as a dramatic critic, has resigned from the New York Tribune, with which he has been connected since 1865. Rumors that Mr. Winter objected to the censoring of his articles before they were printed in the Tribune have been prevalent for some time, and the report yesterday that he had left the newspaper was verified by the following announcement made by Mr. Hart Lyman, editor of the Tribune:

"Mr. Winter has resigned from the Tribune entirely of his own accord and much to my regret, and I have no reason to expect that he will reconsider his decision.

"I thought it right not to publish a small part of the large amount of matter he wrote for the Sunday Tribune of August 8. Mr. Winter did not agree with me, and his resignation followed, much to my regret, as I have said."

When he was asked whether the elimination of part of Mr. Winter's article had been because of its length or because of conflict with the Tribune's editorial policy, Mr. Lyman declared he did not wish to say anything further.

Aside from his work as a dramatic critic, Mr. Winter is known widely as the biographer of many of the most prominent stage celebrities. He is also the author of many popular books which do not concern the stage.

SOCIETY OUT IN FORCE AT WESTFIELD RACES.

Westfield society was out in force, both the summer colony and regulars, at the races Saturday afternoon at the Fair Acres Track. There were four events. Eight horses faced the starter in the 2.45 trot. Metaline, owned by W. R. Hutcheys, won all three heats, the fastest time being 2.37½. Princess Virginia, C. W. Sorter, second; Ithyn, C. B. Smith, third. The 2.30 trot called out five entries. Lady Sidnut, C. B. Smith, won; best time, 2.31½. Billy W., W. Wortendyke, second; Queen, R. W. French, third.

There were only three entries in the 2.26 trot. Hartwood Bell, J. Osborne, won; best time, 2.29. Maude C., R. L. Edwards, second; Fred V., Frank Irving, third.

The 2.24 pace was the most hotly contested race of the day. There were seven entries. The Rector, W. H. Evans, won in 2.20½; El B., A. Atwater, second, and Jim Dick, Nelson Taylor, third.

This meet was not a regularly scheduled event, but put on at short notice. It was at first proposed to close the season with a big meet on Labor Day, but the races have proved so popular that there will probably be one more after the big event.

FORT WILL NOT DISCUSS ATLANTIC CITY CASE.

Governor Fort yesterday refused to be drawn into a discussion of the Atlantic City situation. He denied that any request had been made of him to "come over into Macedonia and help us," and expressed the opinion that, so far there seemed to be no need of Gubernatorial interference. He declared, however, he looked to the county authorities to fully enforce the law.

Effort to interest Governor Fort in the Atlantic City situation are not likely to be as fruitful as they were last year. At least the Governor has so far shown no desire to bother himself about the Sunday question and has carefully avoided any discussion of the subject. Those who have conversed with him, however, say he is not inclined to get involved in the matter, and that the resort will this season have to fight its own battles without any help from him. So far a series of affidavits have been mailed him by leaders in the Lord's Day Alliance, and he has been importuned to take a hand in stopping Sunday sales of liquor. It is understood these have been referred to Prosecutor Goldenberg only.

RETURNS AFTER 15 YEARS.

Rich and Happy, but with No Desire to Take Back His Wife.

After an absence of fifteen years, during all of which time his friends and relatives were convinced that he was dead, Geo. Frey walked Broadway, N. J., yesterday, bought cigars for old friends, who did not recognize him, went to the home of his wife, a quarrel with whom was the cause of his disappearance, and talked with her and his son half an hour without being recognized.

It was thought when Frey disappeared that he had been murdered. A well that had long been covered by a huge bowlder was examined, but without result. Frey went to Chicago and became a contractor, having charge of vast concrete building operations in the West. He made money and invested heavily in Chicago real estate, which returned him big profits. During his visit he says he will take time to renew old acquaintances and go over the scenes of his earlier life. He says that he has no desire to have his wife benefit by the good fortune that has been his, but is solicitous only for his son. The son's name is Garville, and he devotes himself to the working of his mother's farm. Frey is fifty-five years old, and says that he looks for many more years of prosperity and happiness in the West, away from his family.

LONGEST HOME RUN HIT EVER MADE IN BASEBALL.

Absolutely the longest home run hit ever made in the history of baseball was pulled off Sunday at Coney Island and Webster avenues, where the Kensington A. C. and the Flatbush A. C. were playing a match. The Kensingtons were at the bat and Eddie Curran, the catcher, approached the plate.

Incidentally a Smith street car bound for Coney Island was approaching from the distance. The first ball pitched Curran lifted over the fence. It landed in the Smith street car, and at midnight the ball was in the car and still going.

SCRAMBLE FOR CENSUS JOBS.

So Far the Regulars Have the Best of It—Hope for New Idea Men.

There is considerable anxiety among the politicians in many sections of the State over the coming appointment of census supervisors for New Jersey. Thus far two have been named—William Brown, of Camden, in the First District, and Harry B. Saltus, of Trenton, in the Fourth District. Brown is one of the chief lieutenants of David Baird, and was the unsuccessful candidate for the Republican nomination for sheriff in Camden county last fall. Salter, in addition to filling the office of City Clerk of Trenton, is one of the chief political lieutenants of United States Senator Frank O. Briggs and General C. Edward Murray.

While the place of supervisor is looked upon as a good one, the chief interest in the job is the large amount of patronage, in the shape of enumerators, which the incumbent has at his disposal, and the appointment of Brown and Saltus means that none but rock ribbed regulars will be appointed.

There was some apprehension among the regulars in Hudson county yesterday over the report that the census bureau was seriously considering the name of John Weastell, a prominent New Idea advocate, for supervisor in that district. Weastell was the supervisor when the last census was taken. At that time there were no dissensions in the party. Since then, however, he has affiliated himself with George L. Record in the New Idea movement, and is one of its stanchest supporters, being a member of its executive committee. Weastell's appointment would be a hard blow to the regulars, as he would be pretty certain to appoint none but New Idea men as enumerators in the two hundred or more election precincts in the county. The regulars want Marcus Higginbotham, a young lawyer, to get the place.

PHILANTHROPY ON PART OF A PICKEREL.

While fishing on Saturday at the Guard Lick, Hackettstown, William Trethaway and Robert Wallace, local anglers, declare they made a peculiar catch, in which a five-pound pickerel was landed in a most unusual manner. Mr. Wallace had hooked a pickerel and was slowly reeling it into captivity, when they saw another fish of the same variety was making an endeavor to release its mate. It would take the fish fast to the fisherman's hook in its mouth and desperately shake it. This was continued, and as it came to the side of the boat the landing net was put out about it and it was scooped into the boat. Both fish were captured.

PHARMACISTS' CONVENTION.

The fifty-seventh annual meeting of the American Pharmaceutical Association opened in Los Angeles, Cal., yesterday, with nearly a thousand delegates, including many noted scientists in attendance. Sessions will be held every day and evening until Saturday. Professor James W. E. England, of Philadelphia, opened the convention. The feature of the afternoon session was the annual report of the president, Dr. Oscar Oldberg, of Northwestern University, Evanston, Ill.

The association will urge the adoption of uniform license laws which will enable pharmacists to do business in another State.

JERSEY CENSUS SUPERVISORS.

New Jersey names in the partial list of supervisors of the census made public are:

First District—William D. Brown, of Camden.

Fourth District—Harry B. Salter, of Trenton.

The President's stand with regard to the census supervisors is emphasized in a letter from the President to Secretay Nagel, of the Department of Commerce and Labor. In this letter the President orders that a provision be put in the regulations governing supervisors and enumerators directing that any of these officials who uses his position for political purposes shall be relieved of his office immediately.

MORRISTOWN BAPTISTS MAY CALL A PASTOR.

The First Baptist church, of Morristown, is about to consider the calling of a new pastor. A meeting of the board of trustees will be held on August 25 for that purpose. The finances have run down considerably, it is said, since January 1. On August 25 it will be decided whether the church can afford a regular pastor at this time.

If the church decides to call a minister the board will have a number of candidates to pick from. Only the name of one of these candidates could be learned, and he is Rev. H. C. Miller, of Fond du Lac, Wis. It is said that he looms up stronger than one one else, and will in all likelihood receive the call if one is extended. A member of the board when seen yesterday said that he was not in a position to give out any information as yet. He did acknowledge that Mr. Miller was highly thought of by the congregation.

Mr. Miller preached at the First church a week ago Sunday, but it was quite by chance and not in any way as a candidate. He happened to stopping at Morristown with Mrs. Miller, and was asked to fill the pulpit. It is not known whether he would accept the call if one were extended.

SILVER LINED NEST HARD TO LOCATE.

Since the publication of the story by New York newspapers a week ago of the finding of a bird's nest at Hanover, near Morristown, containing $250 in silverware, Chief of Police Holloway has been asked by several persons whose homes have been robbed recently, to look into the matter. He has done so, and has been unable to find any one who knows anything about the alleged find. He had Constable John West, of Hanover, look into the matter for him last week, but as yet has received no favorable report. Those whose homes have been entered of late in this vicinity were in hopes of regaining some of their lost property in this way. Chief Holloway says he thinks the story was a fake. At any rate, it has put him to considerable trouble.

The story was to the effect that Charles Todd, Raymond Moss and Harry Connell, of Philadelphia, while visiting at Hanover, and while on their way to go fishing, saw a bird fly in a clump of bushes. Supposing it had a nest there, they made an investigation. They found the nest, and in it discovered a quantity of silverware, supposed to be part of some burglars' loot.

BURLINGTON TO HAVE A LARGE SILK PLANT.

Satisfied with the greater skill and energy of Americans as compared with Oriental artisans, plans have been perfected by the Martin L. Cohn Company, among the world's biggest silk dealers, whereby goods formerly imported from China and Japan will be manufactured in America. An agreement was closed Saturday whereby the work of the concern will be gradually concentrated in Burlington. By this agreement, which is with local capitalists, mills to cost $50,000 will be erected at once as the starter for a large plant. The manufacturers opened an experimental plant on a small scale in this city a few years ago.

Charles H. Farner has given several acres, to be used as a site for the new plant, and citizens have subscribed for $34,000 worth of the company's bonds.

TWO LOST ON MOUNTAIN.

Trenton Man, with Seattle Companion, Ascended Mount Tacoma.

T. F. Callaghan, of West Seattle, and Joseph W. Stevens, of Trenton, are believed to have lost their lives while endeavoring to ascend Mount Tacoma. A rescue party found the alpine staffs and packs of the lost men ten feet from the crater yesterday.

The two men left camp at 2:30 o'clock on Saturday morning without a guide. They took little food, and it is believed they have perished from hunger, cold or accident.

Joseph W. Stevens, who may have lost his wife at Tacoma, is well known in Republican politics at Trenton. He is a member of the Board of Freeholders of Mercer county and a general contractor. He is about forty-five years old.

Three years ago he married a daughter of William Cloke, who was appointed State Commisioner of Reports by Governor Fort. Both Mr. Cloke and his daughter died within a short time of each other.

Mr. Stevens had closed up his business affairs for the season and was taking a vacation in the West. He had expected to be in Portland this week and was to have returned home about September 10.

ICE GOES DOWN IN DOVER.

After being at top-notch prices all summer, the retail price of ice in Dover has been reduced. A local dealer announced to his customers yesterday that the prices of last year would prevail for the balance of the season, and the other dealers are expected to fall into line. As a result of the open winter local dealers had inadequate supplies, and were obliged to buy ice at prices that compelled increased prices to consumers.

The recent general reduction of the price in car lots is now to be reflected in the retail price.

WILD WEST SHOWS TO WINTER IN TRENTON.

Trenton in the future is to be the winter home of all the horses and other animals used by the Buffalo Bill and Pawnee Bill combined shows. Negotiations which have long been spending have resulted in a contract under which the owners of the shows are to have the use of the Interstate Fair Grounds and buildings every year, from November 1 to April 1.

The two shows use nearly 1,000 horses and most of them are kept over the winter. They also have herds of buffalo and other performing animals. These are to be brought to Trenton after the regular circus season each year, and with them will come all the wagons, tentage and other paraphernalia carried by the shows.

For years the Buffalo Bill aggregation has wintered at Bridgeport, Conn., and the change has been made because this city is within a short distance of New York, where most of the contracts with employes and performers are made.

THE VICTIM OF A FIGHT DIES IN A HOSPITAL.

Anton Borronolaske, a Polander, who was injured in a fight with a fellow-countryman August 7, in the yard of the Singer Sewing Machine Works at Elizabethport, died Sunday in the Alexian Hospital. The body was removed to Engels morgue.

The man who assaulted him is in the Union county jail and now will be indicted for homicide as the attack he made was entirely unprovoked, according to the testimony of eye witnesses.

The dead man is forty years old, married, and leaves a family, who reside on South Park street, Elizabethport.

Plainfield in . . . The Olden Days.

Re-printed from The Weekly Constitutionalist

January 5, 1871.

We are sorry to record a serious accident which happened to our worthy friend and brother fireman, Mr. Augustus Frazee on Tuesday morning last. While running to the fire that morning, he slipped and fell, splintering the bone of his forefinger on his left hand in a shocking manner. He was attended by Dr. Sutphen.

The evil effects of leaving the sidewalks on Front and Cherry streets, in such a dilapidated condition, since the laying of the wooden pavement, was thoroughly demonstrated on Monday night last. Mr. John Collins, in stepping one side to allow another person to pass him, stepped into a hole left in the sidewalk, and broke his ankle bone, which will confine him to his house for some time.

The directors of the Central Railroad company on Saturday presented to each mechanic engineer and firemen a ten pound Turkey. It took two tons to go around once.

January 12, 1871.

The Rev. S. D. Burchard, D. D., of New York, will deliver a lecture in the Second Presbyterian church, of this city, on Thursday evening, Jan. 18th, at 8 o'clock. Subject, "Ancient and Modern Rome." This, no doubt, will be a very interesting lecture, as the Dr. travelled through Rome about a year ago.

Our worthy friend Andrew Hoff, has a curiosity and relic in the shape of a Firemen's Badge, which he found among a lot of old brass which he purchased some time since. It is oval shaped, and bears the inscription: "Hope Hose, 7, 1805." 'Andy' says it is not for sale.

Our German fellow citizens will not forget the Grand Ball at Smith's Hall, North Plainfield, on Monday evening next, for the benefit of the widows and orphans of wounded and killed German soldiers in the war, now raging across the ocean. Tickets $1.00.

PROGRESS OF THE DAY ALL OVER THE WORLD.

The Russian government is nursing its platinum industry.

Twenty million lobsters are caught annually on Prince Edward's Island.

Twenty thousand dollars worth of rose leaves were imported during the decade ending 1908.

Germany, Great Britain and the United States produce four-fifth of the world's supply of pig iron.

The longest pipe line in the world is that which extends from the Oklahoma oil wells to New York harbor.

To build a tunnel under the English Channel, according to present project, would entail an expenditure of $70,000,000.

More than $300,000 worth of birds were imported into this country during the year 1908. They were largely parrots and canaries.

The smelter production of lead in the United States in 1908 was 408,582 tons of 2,000 pounds, against 442,015 tons in 1907 and 418,699 tons in 1906.

The wood preservation of this country during the year 1908 called for the use of 56,000,000 gallons of creosote, 19,000,000 pounds of zinc chloride, with small quantities of corrosive sublimate, crude oil and other chemicals.

The human body is a machine of such wonderful efficiency that one-fifth of the energy expended by it can be utilized as work, as shown by the recent experiments of Professors Atwater and Benedict.

The extent of the use of chewing gum among the people of the United States is illustrated by the fact that the importation of "chicle" in 1908, chiefly for use in the manufacture of chewing gum, amounted to more than 4,000,000 pounds. This article, "chicle," is obtained in southern Mexico from the trunks of the sapodilla plum tree, and the importation of this sum during the last decade amounted to about 30,00,000 pounds, or over 13,000 tons, valued at over $8,000,000.

PHOTOGRAPHING SOUND.

Professor Dayton C. Miller, of Cleveland, Ohio, says he has discovered a means of photographing sound. He claims that by the use of his device it will be possible to distinguish on films the difference between the human voice and the tones of a musical instrument. The invention directly photographs the sound waves, magnifying them 2,000 times, and recording them on films.

In his invention Professor Miller has used a harmonic analyzer, an instrument made in Switzerland, which separates sound waves into their component parts. —Van Norden Magazine.

The Middy Blouse.

The newest middy blouse hangs straight and free over the skirt of the wearer, for all the world like a Chinaman's shirt. It is laced with silk strings over the hips. It is very jaunty in appearance, and uncommonly comfortable, as there needs be no adjustment at the waist line and no belt.

SEES MARKET IN CHINA FOR AMERICAN ENGINES.

Consul Wilbur T. Gracey, of Tsingtau, transmits the following report relative to houseboat in China, and the introduction of motors for their propulsion.

Houseboats have been in use by the natives of China for some hundreds of years, and have been improved and largely used by occidentals living in the Chinese empire since their arrival in the country. At Shanghai large number are owned by the well to do Chinese merchants as well as by foreigners.

These boats are usually supplied with long oars and are rowed by Chinese boatmen who can be employed at about twenty cents a day. Generally six men are sufficient in the creeks and about Shanghai and the lake districts, as well as on the grand canal.

An innovation has recently appeared in Shanghai, which is a motor house boat recently built for the Asiatic Petroleum Company. This boat is rather larger than the usual type of houseboat in Shanghai and has finer lines and a torpedo stern. It appears possible that this type of boat will become popular with foreigners and Chinese in China, and if so, there should be a good opportunity for the introduction of American types of marine engines.—Consular Reports.

The Sad Sea Waves.

"What makes the sad waves sad?"

"Don't know, unless they're worrying about what they'll do for playthings when most of the navigation is by air."—Kansas City Times.

COOL AND REFRESHING DRINKS.

Every one is thirsty in summer, but not every one knows the best drinks to quench that thirst. Even where one has not principles on alcoholic drinks, they are too heating for hot weather.

In making any summer drink three things are important. They must be served icy cold, preferably with cracked ice; they must not be too sweet; and they must be fresh. Drinks that have been allowed to stand in the refrigerator not only are less palatable, but are injurious.

When fruit is used either as part or the whole compound of a drink, it gives its flavor much better if it be mixed with sugar and allowed to infuse on ice for several hours before using.

Another secret of palatable summer drinks is thin glasses. Tall ice tea glasses, not the largest size, are useful for all sorts of drinks, or if one does not wish such generous serving there are delicate glasses in sizes to suit any taste to be picked up for a few dollars a dozen.

Here are several good touches to lemonade.

To every quart of lemonade which is less sweet than you like it, add a cup of raspberries and several sprigs of mint leaves, which have infused in sugar for several hours. Serve with another sprig of mint floating on top of each glass.

The juice of half a lemon added to a bottle of root beer is an improvement.

Equal parts of raspberry syrup and lemon juice mixed with cracked ice and water enough to fill a glass or pitcher makes a cooling drink. Sugar can be added to taste and the proportions of lemon and syrup can be changed to meet individual preference.

A simple fruit punch can be made by taking equal parts of strawberries, raspberries, currants, and covering them with sugar to infuse for several hours. Add fruit and syrup to a rich lemonade that has the juice of several oranges and the rind of lemon in it. If preferred, the orange juice and lemon rind can be mixed with berries and infused. Shred a little pineapple into the punch when mixed and float slices of oranges, whole strawberries, sprigs of mint or candied ginger.

If one cares to go to the expense, this fruit punch is improved by using charged waters instead of plain, or it can be given a snap by a bottle of ginger ale.

Ginger ale can be greatly improved to those who do not care for the taste of plain ginger by mixing it with lemon juice and mint leaves.

LIFE AND LOVE.

"Thou art a dream," said Life to Love;
And Love replied: "'Tis well; I know;
A dream am I, a dream art you,
Then let us to our dreams be true;"
And skipped away among the trees,
Anon to fly, to ride the clouds,
To laugh in the storm, to bathe in the sun—
For Love is free through Love's a dream.

"Thou art a dream," said Love to Life,
"But I am real;" and Life replied:
"A dream am I, and real are you?
Then let us to ourselves be true;"
And loudly laughed and ran away
To bask and bathe, to throb with joy,
To girdle the world in fond embrace,
And Love lay dead, no longer free.
—Gunter's for August.

For Sleepy Hotel Guests.

Now it is unnecessary for weary, watchless hotel guests to climb out of bed and call to the telephone central when they wish to discover the time. The whole laborious business is eliminated by a new device which may be attached to the bedpost or placed under the pillow. It consists of a small telephone receiver, connected with a master clock situated some place in the hotel. The sleeper wakes up but is averse to rising. He reaches to the telephone receiver, places it to his ear and presses a button. A set of gongs will then stroke the hour, the quarter and the number of minutes past the hour.—From Van Norden Magazine.

Carrot Salad.

Boil small carrots until tender, putting in the water a little salt and sugar. When tender, take out of the water and cool. Slice thin and lay about on a bed of lettuce leaves either shredded or whole. Over this lay a few short and narrow strips of green peppers. Use a plain French dressing for this salad.—The Housekeeper.

Whispering Smith

By Frank H. Spearman

"If I'm a man I want to know it; if I ain't, it's time my friends knowed it. Anyhow, I'm man enough to work out with some of that gang. Most of them have put it over me one time or another; Sinclair pasted me like a blackbird only the other day. They all say I'm nothing but a damned tramp. You say I have done you service—give me a show."

Whispering Smith stopped a minute in the shadow of a tree and looked keenly at him. "I'm too busy to-night to say much, Wickwire," he said, after a moment. "You go over to the barn and report to Bob Scott. If you want to take the chances, it is up to you; and if Bob Scott is agreeable, I'll use you where I can—that's all I can promise. You will probably have more than one chance to get killed."

CHAPTER XXXV.

Among the Coyotes.

Oroville once marked farthest north for the Peace river gold camps, but with mining long ago abandoned it now marks furthest south for a rustlers' camp, being a favorite resort for the people of the Williams Cache country. Oroville boasts that it has never surrendered and that it has never been cleaned out. It has moved, and been moved, up stream and down, and from bank to bank; it has been burned out and blown away and lived on wheels; but it has never suffered the loss of its identity.

Whispering Smith, well dusted with alkali, rode up to the Johnson ranch, eight miles southwest of Oroville, in the afternoon of the day after he left Medicine Bend. The ranch lies in a valley watered by the Rainbow, and makes a pretty little oasis of green in a limitless waste of sagebrush. Gene and Bob Johnson were cutting alfalfa when Whispering Smith rode into the field, and, stopping the mowers, the three men talked while the seven horses nibbled the clover.

"I may need a little help, Gene, to get him out of town," remarked Smith, after he had told his story; "that is, if there are too many Cache men there for me."

Bob Johnson was stripping a stalk of alfalfa in his fingers. "Them fellows are pretty sore."

"That comes of half doing a job, Bob. I was in too much of a hurry with the round-up. They haven't had dose enough yet," returned Whispering Smith. "If you and Gene will join me sometime when I have a week to spare, we will go in there, clean up the gang and burn the hair off the roots of the chapparal—what? I've hinted to Rebstock he could get ready for something like that."

"Tell us about that fight, Gordon."

"I will if you will give me something to eat and have this horse taken care of. Then, Bob, I want you to ride into Oroville and reconnoiter. This is mail day and I understand some of the boys are buying postage stamps to put on my coffin."

They went to the house, where Whispering Smith talked as he ate. Bob took a horse and rode away, and Gene, with his guest, went back to the alfalfa, where Smith took Bob's place on the mower. When they saw Bob riding up the valley, Whispering Smith, bringing in the machine, mounted his horse.

"Your man is there all right," said Bob, as he approached. "He and John Rebstock were in the Blackbird saloon. Seagrue isn't there, but Barney Rebstock and a lot of others are. I talked a few minutes with John and Murray. Sinclair didn't say much; only that the railroad gang was trying to run him out of the country, and he wanted to meet a few of them before he went. I just imagined he held up a little before me; maybe not. There's a dozen Williams Cache men in town."

"But those fellows are not really dangerous, Bob, though they may be troublesome," observed Smith, reflectively.

"Well, what's your plan?" blurted Gene Johnson.

"I haven't any, Gene," returned Smith, with perfect simplicity. "My only plan is to ride into town and serve my papers, if I can. I've got a deputyship—and that I'm going to do right away. If you, Bob, or both of you, will happen in about 30 minutes later you'll get the news and perhaps see the fun. Much obliged for your feed, Gene; come down to Medicine Bend any time and I'll fill you up. I want you both for the elk hunt next fall, remember that. Bucks is coming and is going to bring Brown and Henson and perhaps Atterbury and Gibbs and some New Yorkers; and McCloud's brother, the preacher, is coming out and they are all right—all of them."

The only street in Oroville faces the river, and the buildings string for two or three blocks along modest bluffs. Not a soul was anywhere in sight when Whispering Smith rode into town, save that across the street from where he dismounted and tied his horse three men stood in front of the Blackbird.

They watched the new arrival with languid interest. Smith walked stiffly over toward the saloon to size up the men before he should enter it. The middle man of the group, with a thin red face and very blue eyes, was chewing tobacco in an unpromising way. Before Smith was half-way across the street he saw the hands of the three men falling to their hips. Taking care, however, only to keep the men between him and the saloon door, Smith walked directly toward them. "Boys, have you happened to see Gene or Bob Johnson to-day, any of you?" He threw back the brim of his stetson as he spoke.

"Hold your hand right there—right where it is," said the blue-eyed man sharply.

Whispering Smith smiled, but held his hand rather awkwardly upon his hat-brim.

"No," continued the spokesman, "we ain't none of us happened to see Bob or Gene Johnson to-day; but we happen to seen Whispering Smith, and we'll blow your face off if you move it an inch."

Smith laughed. "I never quarrel with a man that's got the drop on me, boys. Now, this is sudden but unexpected. Do I know any of you?" He looked from one face to another before him with a wide reach in his field of vision for the three hands that were fast on three pistol-butts. "Hold on! I've met you somewhere," he said with easy confidence to the blue-eyed man with the weather-split lip. "Williams Cache, wasn't it? All right, we're placed. Now what have you got in for me?"

"I've got 40 head of steers in for you," answered the man in the middle, with a splitting oath. "You stole 40 head of my steers in that round-up, and I'm going to fill you so full of lead you'll never run off no more stock for nobody. Don't look over there to your horse or your rifle. Hold your hands right where they are."

"Certainly, certainly!"

"When I pull, I shoot!"

"I don't always do it, but it is business, I acknowledge. When a man pulls he ought to shoot—very often it's the only chance he ever gets to shoot. Well, it isn't every man gets the drop on me that easy, but you boys have got it," continued Whispering Smith in frank admiration. "Only I want to say you're after the wrong man. That round-up was all Rebstock's fault, and Rebstock is bound to make good all loss and damage."

"You'll make good my share of it right now and here," said the man with the wash-blue eyes.

"Why, of course," assented Whispering Smith, "if I must, I must. I suppose I may light a cigarette, boys, before you turn loose the fireworks?"

"Light it quick!"

Laughing at the humor of the situation, Whispering Smith, his eyes beaming with good nature, put the finger and thumb of his right hand into his waistcoat pocket, drew out a package of cigarette paper, and, bantering his captors innocently the while, tore out a sheet and put the packet back. Folding the paper in his two hands, he declared he believed his tobacco was in his saddle-pocket, and asked leave to step across the street to get it. The trick was too transparent, and leave was refused with scorn and some hard words. Whispering Smith begged the men in front of him in turn for tobacco. They cursed him and shook their heads.

For an instant he looked troubled. Still appealing to them with his eyes, he tapped lightly the lower outside pockets of his coat with his fingers, shifting the cigarette paper from hand to hand as he hunted. The outside pockets seemed empty. But as he tapped the inside breast pocket on the left side of the coat—the three men, lynx-eyed, watching—his face brightened. "Stop!" said he, his voice sinking to a relieved whisper as his hand rested lightly on the treasure. "There's the tobacco. I suppose one of you will give me a match?"

All that the three before him could ever afterward recollect—and for several years afterward they cudgeled their brains pretty thoroughly about that moment—was that Whispering Smith took hold of the left lapel of his coat to take the tobacco out of the breast pocket. An excuse to take that lapel in his left hand was, in fact, all that Whispering Smith needed to put not alone the three men before him but all Oroville at his mercy. The play of his right hand in crossing the corduroy waistcoat to pull his revolver from its scabbard and throw it into their faces was all too quick for better eyes than theirs. They saw only the muzzle of the heavy Colt's playing like a snake's tongue under their surprised noses, with the good-natured smile still behind it. "Or will one of you roll a cigarette?" asked Whispering Smith, without a break between the two questions. "I don't smoke. Now don't make faces; go right ahead. Do anything you want to with your hands. I wouldn't ask a man to keep his hands or feet still on a hot day like this," he insisted, the revolver playing all the time. "You won't draw? You won't fight? Pshaw! Then disengage your hands gently from your guns. You fellows really ought not to attempt to pull a gun in Oroville, and I will tell you why—there's a reason for it." He looked confidential as he put his head forward to whisper among the crestfallen faces. "At this altitude it is too fast work. I know you now," he went onn as they continued to wilt. "You are Fatty Filber," he said to the thin chap. "Don't work your mouth like that at me; don't do it. You seem surprised. Really, have you the asthma? Get over it, because you are wanted in Pound county for horse-stealing. Why, hang it, Fatty, you're good for ten years, and of course, since you have reminded me of it, I'll see that you get it. And you, Baxter," said he to the man on the right, "I know I spoke to you once when I was inspector about altering brands; that's five years, you know. You," he added, scrutinizing the third man to scare him to death—"I think you were at Tower W. No? No matter; you two boys may go, anyway. Fatty, you stay; we'll put some state cow on your ribs. By the way, are you a detective, Fatty? Aren't you? See here! I can get you into an association. For ten dollars, they give you a German-silver star, and teach the Japanese method of pulling, by correspondence. Or you might get an electric battery to handle your gun with. You can get pocket dynamos from the mail-order houses. Sure! Read the big book!"

When Gene and Bob Johnson rode into town, Whispering Smith was sitting in a chair outside the Blackbird, still chatting with Filber, who stood with his arms around a hitching-post, holding fast a mail-order house catalogue. A modest crowd of hangers-on had gathered.

"Here we are, Gene," exclaimed Smith to the deputy sheriff. "I was looking for steers, but some calves got into the drive. Take him away."

While the Johnsons were laughing, Smith walked into the Blackbird. He had lost 30 minutes, and in losing them had lost his quarry. Sinclair had disappeared, and Whispering Smith made a virtue of necessity by taking the upsetting of his plans with an unruffled face. There was but one thing more, indeed, to do, and that was to eat his supper and ride away. The street encounter had made so much talk in Oroville that Smith declined Gene Johnson's invitation to go back to the house. It seemed a convenient time to let any other ambitious rustlers make good if they were disposed to try, and Whispering Smith went for his supper to the hotel where the Williams Cache men made their headquarters.

When he rode away in the dusk his face was careworn. John Rebstock had told him why Sinclair dodged; there were others whom Sinclair wanted to meet first; and Whispering Smith was again heading on a long, hard ride, and after a man on a better horse, back to the Crawling Stone and Medicine Bend. "There's others, he wants to see first or you'd have no trouble in talking business to-day. You nor no other man will ever get him alive." But Whispering Smith knew that.

"See that he doesn't get you alive, Rebstock," was his parting retort. "If he finds out Kennedy has got the Tower W money, the first thing he does will be to put the Doxology all over you."

TRADING IN SENEGAL.

West Africa's Most Important Colony.

Consul Solomon Berliner, of Tenerife, Canary Islands, transmits the following information concerning Senegal, it being a copy of a communication to him from the director-general of an American oil company who is establishing depots on the west cost of Africa for the sale of kerosene:

Senegal consists of four communes: St. Louis, the capital; Dakar, the military headquarters; Rufisque, the chief commercial town, and Goree, a good communal town. The total area is 438 square miles, and the total population 108,000.

St. Louis is a poor port, and vessels drawing over twelve feet of water cannot cross the bar. Rufisque and Dakar, one hour apart, are the chief ports and commercial centres of Senegal. From these St. Louis, the capital, with a population of 24,000, receives most of its supplies by rail. The trade of St. Louis with the Sahara is also conducted through these ports. The railroad from Rofisque and Dakar passes through St. Louis to the Senegal river, the latter being used for about eight hundred miles for transportation, and then connects with a railway in Upper Senegal, at Medine. The Senegal river is closed to foreign flags. The foreign trade of Senegal in 1906 was as follows: Imports, $12,160,000; exports, $6,560,000.

A fine harbor, which will accommodate vessels of any draft, has been built at Dakar. The port has also a fine dry dock, but this belongs to the naval department, as the four ports are heavily fortified. Senegal has 2,742 miles of telegraph and 287 miles of telephone lines. A direct cable connects Dakar with Drest and another with Teneriffe. Four French lines of steamships, two English lines, one German and one Belgian call regularly at Dakar. Senegal is the most important colony on the west coast of Africa.

PUFFED UP BY HIS OWN LUNGS.

Injuries Cause Passaic Man to Swell More Every Time He Breathes.

Blown up, as it were, and his body being puffed out more and more with every breath, is the peculiar and serious plight of Anthony Nato, of Passaic, who was injured while carriage driving in New York yesterday. Nato, with friends, journeyed to the metropolis early in the day and went driving. The horse ran away and Nato was thrown out, the carriage passing over him. He was seriously hurt, and was hurried home by his friends.

Soon after reaching Jersey City the man's arms began to swell, as did his face. At the General Hospital, Passaic, his clothes were removed, and, to the amazement of the physicians, Nato's entire body was puffed out, as if air had been pumped into him. Several ribs were fractured, and his lungs are so seriously injured that every time he breathes his body swells more. His condition is precarious.

Among the guests registered at the Elkwood, Lake Hopatcong, are Mrs. Margaret Beltman, of this city, and Townsend Fellowes, of New York.

WARSHIP HERO IS BADLY HURT.

John Holland Fone Prevented Explosion on the Georgia by Fighting Flames Near the Magazine.

John Holland Fone, the nineteen-year-old Trenton boy who saved the battle ship Georgia, on which he was a sailor, from being blown up on July 25, 1907, by fighting a fire which cost him both ears and the muscles of his left arm, and who only recently recovered from an attack of appendicitis, is confined to his home in Trenton as the result of injuries received at the National Guard encampment at Sea Girt, where he was stepped upon by a horse.

In spite of Fone's heroism and his injuries, he has been able to secure a pension of ony $17 a month. He was endeavoring to support himself by working at Sea Girt when the latest accident befell him.

He will be unable to work for some time.

CHINA EGG INSIDE SNAKE.

Reptile Six Feet Long Winds Itself Around Leg of Camper at Greenwood Lake.

While William H. Raab, son of W. R. Raab, Tax Collector of Bloomfield, was walking with some companions near their camp on Greenwood Lake Sunday, a blacksnake, on which Raab had stepped, wound itself about his leg.

With Raab were Paul Day and Kenneth Tower, of Bloomfield, and Max Shank, of Glen Ridge. They helped him kill the snake and take it to camp, where it was skinned. Inside the snake was a china egg which is supposed to have come from some hen house in the neighborhood. The snake measured six feet.

MONEY POISONS CASHIER.

Miss Etta White is ill at her home on Sandford street, New Brunswick, suffering from poisoning, caused by handling money. Miss White is cashier in one of the city's largest stores and in a day handles considerable cash. Two or three days ago the left side of her face broke out in a rash and upon a physician being called he found she had been poisoned. He was of the opinion that there was some poisonous matter upon some of the banknotes she had handled. She had rested her chin upon her hand during a spare moment, and in this way had brought the poisonous substance in contact with her face.

In case the Pittsburg Golf Club objects, the Mayor is prepared to add a ninth hole within the park limits.

Sales Are Ripe.

Twice a year those merchants who have perishable goods—particularly those shop keepers who are aggressive and keep their stores full of fashionable merchandise—are forced to have what are now known as clearance sales. Probably the best known sale of that character and the one which the most people wait for is that of Van Arsdale, the shoeman. He always has something novel and attractive in his advertising and this year he calls it the Make Hay Sale of summer footwear. Read the items on another page. Figures speak louder than words.

RED BANK MAN TO FLY SOON IN NEW AEROPLANE.

On the grounds of the Monmouth County Fair Association tomorrow, Edward Meyers, of Centre street, Red Bank, will try a flight in an aeroplane of his own design. It is 13 feet in width. A noseplane, ten feet in width and three and one-half feet long, will be supported fifteen feet in front of the double-decked frame. The rudder will be about fifteen feet in the rear of the machine.

The framework weighs about thirty-five pounds. It will be controlled by a wheel similar to that of an automobile, and will be equipped with a 25-horsepower Curtiss engine. The entire apparatus will weigh less than 200 pounds. Meyers has been studying and experimenting with flying machines for years and is confident he will be able to ascend, fly and descend at will.

NEW JERSEY ROADS PLEASE THE SECRETARY OF STATE.

Secretary of State Philander C. Knox arrived at Atlantic City from Cape May last night. He is on an automobile coast trip that will take his as far as Bar Harbor and Narragansett Pier, if nothing occurs in the meantime to necessitate his return to Washington. He is enthusiastic over the excellent New Jersey roads.

"It was a revelation to me," he said, "to find splendidly built drives running for miles through barren timber land with houses in places far apart. I imagine New Jersey's large revenue from automobiles accounts in part for its good roads enterprise, but whatever the cause the result is certainly most creditable to the State."

GOV. FORT TO SPEAK AT TRENTON JUNCTION.

Governor Fort will be at the State House tomorrow for a short time, and in the afternoon will go to Trenton Junction, where he will make an address before the gathering at the harvest home which will be conducted by the Trenton Junction Village Improvement Association.

Among the other speakers, in addition to the Governor, will be Vivian M. Lewis, Commissioner of Banking and Insurance, who is being groomed for the governorship by his friends.

Unless something interferes, the Governor and Mrs. Fort will leave for the Adirondacks, where they will remain for two weeks. The Governor will then return to his duties as the chief executive.

CAR BLOCKS DRUG STORE.

Pushed Off Track in Collision at Orange, N. J.—Two Injured.

A car of the Orange & Passaic Valley trolley line crossing Main street, Orange, last night, was struck by a car of the Newark line going east. The Passaic Valley car was hit just had enough to sweep it off the tracks into the front door of Hake's drug store, blocking the entrance of the store completely and keeping a score of customers prisoners for half an hour, when the wreckers removed it.

Mrs. Mary Lidsely, of East Orange, was cut on the face by broken glass, and Frank H. Taylor, of the same city, received a bad bruise on the leg. Owen Finnegan, motorman of the car which was thrown against the drug store, places the blame on John Lockhardt, pilot of the Main srteet car. The latter is a green man. His motor box was knocked off, but he escaped injury.

—Wesley Blaine, of Dunellen, is holding a cow that strayed from its owner's farm to his property, pending the arrival of an owner who can claim the animal.

The Y. M. C. A. baseball team will play the Rahway Y. M. C. A. here Saturday. A good game is promised the fans.

WORLD'S TARGET RECORD.

Sergt. Hingle, U. S. Marines, Makes Perfect Score at Camp Perry.

The marksmen of the United States Marine Corps thrashed the camp yesterday at Camp Perry, Ohio, in the Catrow match, and one of them, Sergt. J. H. Hingle, of New York, broke the world's record for seven shots at 800, 900 and 1,000 yards. Hingle made a perfect score at each range. The nearest approach to his performance was the 104 match a year ago in the Leech Cup match of the National Association.

Marines captured not only the $500 cup given by Col. H. C. Catrow of the Third Ohio, President of the Ohio State Rifle Association, but also secured second and third cash prizes —$25 and 20. Corp. W. AUTO 'BUS LINE STARTS

Two Railroads and Three Towns Now Connected With Plainfield.

MANY GO TO METUCHEN

"No Conductor" 'Buses Now Make the Trip Every Two Hours by Way of South Plainfield and Oak Tree.

The Plainfield Auto Bus Company started its service from this city to South Plainfield, Oak Tree and Metuchen this morning, when a party of directors made the first trip over the route. The 'bus started from Rowley's drug store at 8:20 o'clock and its occupants were Isaac Schwed, Ira L. LaRue, Fred A. Duttenhofer, Milton Mendel, Frank L. C. Martin, Frank Rowley, Clarence Levy, Thomas Brantingham and a Daily Press reporter. A. E. Force, the president of the company, and Judge William Newcorn, the vice-president, were both unable to accompany the party.

The trip was made in good time and the 'bus won favorable comment all along the route. Farmers gathered with their families and laborers to greet the party as it passed by, and at Metuchen, Mayor Wilson and a party of representative business and professional men welcomed the Plainfielders. The trip from Metuchen to this city, including several stops, was made in thirty-two minutes. This is considered good time.

All of the roads over which the route passes are macadamized and there are no railroad crossings. In fact the most dangerous crossing in the whole route is at the corner of Fourth street and Park avenue, this city. The route connects the Central Railroad with the Lehigh Valley Railroad at South Plainfield and at Oak Tree, and also the Pennsylvania Railroad at Metuchen. At this place it also connects with a trolley line, leading to New Brunswick and Perth Amboy. The trip to either of these places from Metuchen may be made for ten cents. By reason of this, it opens up to Plainfielders for a small fare, a quick and convenient pathway to the pleasure resorts and beaches on Staten Island and the coast. The route passes through the picturesque country surrounding Oak Tree and as a rate of speed averaging fifteen miles an hour is maintained, the trip to and from Metuchen bids fair to become popular as a pleasure journey.

The 'bus is a large carryall, enamelled in black, with gold lettering below the windows. It seats fourteen people with comfort and runs easily. There is comparatively little vibration and as skilled mechanics are employed, the danger from breakdowns is very slight. The 'buses are of the "no conductor" type. Passengers deposit their fare in an automatic register, which the chauffeur turns after the coin has been deposited. In this way the services of a conductor are dispensed with. The company for the present will operate two cars. One will be used in the morning and the other in the afternoon. They will be in charge of Edward J. Varley and Bertram V. Brokaw. A larger 'bus is held in reserve by the company to be used for excursions and for special automobile parties.

The service is now in operation and will be continued daily, including Sunday. 'Buses will leave the Plainfield postoffice at six o'clock in the morning and every two hours thereafter until ten o'clock at night. Returning, the 'buses will leave Metuchen on the odd hours, starting at seven o'clock and continuing until eleven o'clock. Provided that the patronage warrants it, hourly trips will be made from each point in the near future. At present the trip from Plainfield to Metuchen is made in slightly over half an hour, but the established schedule provides for a forty-five minute trip. The fare for the full trip either way is twenty-five cents. From this city to South Plainfield it is ten cents, and an additional five cents is charged to Oak Tree. Trips may be made between stations for a fare of ten cents.

Many Plainfielders took occasion to make the trip today and all expressed general satisfaction with the service. The officers of the company are: A. E. Force, president; William Newcorn, vice-president; Fred A. Duttenhofer, secretary, and Isaac Schwed, treasurer.

Dr. Gesswein to Remain Here.

Dr. C. A. Gesswein, of The Bristol, West Front street and Central avenue, who had planned to remove to Springfield, this county, to practice medicine, has changed his mind and will remain at his present place of residence and continue to practice here.

F. C. Burner, of Jackson avenue, went to the hospital, last night, where he will undergo an operation.

WORK ON TUBERCULOSIS PAVILLION PROGRESSING

The foundations of the tuberculosis pavillion being erected by the Plainfield Society for the Prevention and Relief of Tuberculosis on the Muhlenberg Hospital grounds, have been completed and all is in readiness for the frame work of the building. The building committee has announced that the pavillion will probably be ready for the accommodation of patients by the first of October.

Miss Josephine Hughes, superintendent of Muhlenberg Hospital, together with members of the hospital medical staff and William Dutcher, chairman of the camp executive committee, are planning a trip to the State sanatorium at Glen Gardner for the purpose of observing the methods employed at that institution, and the local society will adapt the most up-to-date methods of treatment and care at the camp. Miss Georgianna Hoadley Smith, chairman of the sub-committee on supplies for the pavillion, reports that many of the necessary interior furnishings have been provided, but the camp still needs eight beds, with bedding, and chairs, tables, crockery and kitchen utensils.

William Dutcher, chairman of the camp executive committee, has issued an appeal for funds and co-operation on the part of the Plainfield public. In this appeal, he states that the society intends to conduct a campaign of education regarding tuberculosis and its prevention in the city schools during the coming winter term. To do this work of instruction, as well as to maintain the camp, Mr. Dutcher requests liberal contributions, and these may be sent to Edward F. Fleckert, chairman of the finance committee, at the Plainfield Trust Company.

DEMANDS FOR OFFICE HELP.

Many Local Firms are Increasing Their Office Forces.

Since Monday morning the Drake Business College has had seven calls from local business houses for competent bookkeepers or stenographers at salaries ranging from eight to fifteen dollars per week. One young man who has been attending this college but four months was placed in a position, yesterday, as stenographer in the office of a local manufacturing concern at a salary of ten dollars per week. Another young man sixteen years old, was placed in a similar position at a salary of eight dollars per week for the start.

Drake College has won the confidence of the majority of the business men of Plainfield as well as a large proportion of its citizens.

If you wish your son or daughter to become proficient in English, bookkeeping, shorthand and typewriting and secure a good paying position when the course is completed, enroll him now, for the fall term, August 30. If you wish to fit your son or daughter for business in the least possible time, and at the least possible expense, enroll him in the day school, Monday morning, August 23.

Any former graduate of this school not entirely satisfied with his present position, should communicate at once with the Principal of Drake College, as there are no students sufficiently advanced to meet the present demand on this college for competent office help.

PEDIGREED PERSIAN CAT IMPORTED BY MISS MYGRANT

The Hafiz Cattery, owned by Miss Louise Mygrant, of Fanwood, has a recent acquisition which is unique in that it is the only example of its kind living in this country. The animal is a cream Persian male with a pedigree dating back as far as pedigrees of the feline tribe usually go, and is a beauty in its class.

This highly pedigreed cat arrived from Barnard Castle, England, yesterday and great things are promised for its future. It will be exhibited at the shows after it has become thoroughly acclimated. The previous importations of this species of feline have not resulted favorably and if this one lives his progeny will be much sought after.

Removed to Muhlenberg Hospital.

Through the kind offices of William Jeffery, of Berkeley Heights, and Freeholder J. Hervey Doane, of this city, Mrs. August Ketschau, aged 70 years, of Glenside, New Providence township, was removed to Muhlenberg Hospital today for eye treatment. Mrs. Ketschau, who is in poor circumstances, was found yesterday by Mr. Jeffery at her home suffering from partial blindnes, due to a severe cold. He immediately took steps to have the woman removed to the hospital.

DEMOCRATS ON OUTING

Fourteenth Annual Event Greatest in History of Democratic City Committee.

MAY MEET WEST INDIAN GALE.

Dennis F. Collins, James E. Martine and Charles A. Towne to Speak at Grove.

An overcast sky, ominous in its portents greeted the early vision of the Democrats who had made up their minds to attend the fourteenth annual outing of the Democratic county committee today. All the arrangements for the trip were completed last night and the final caution read to the weather man. But despite the warnings given to the controller of the weather the early morning indications did not presage a pleasant day. The weather reports said that a West Indian cyclone was on its way up the coast and the influence of that kind of a storm is always felt in Long Island Sound.

The stout iron steamer Sirius will be tested to its capacity according to all indications and it is confidently expected that the outing will prove the most interesting and successful of any in the history of the organization. The advance sale of tickets has been enormous, in fact, far in advance of any previous event of the kind and between 1,200 and 1,500 persons are expected to attend.

There will be many prominent statesmen in the party among whom Frank S. Katzenbach, of Trenton, is conspicuous. Mr. Katzenbach's friends are booming him for the gubernatorial nomination next year and this subject will engross the members of today's picnic on the way to the grove at College Point. Of course, James E. Martine, the famous Plainfielder, is among the partisans and is down for one of his silvery speeches.

Another, who is not a Jerseyman, but is known throughout the length and breadth of the land for his eloquence, Charles A. Towne, will be heard in a speech at the grove. Mayor Victor Mravlag, was invited but it was not certain that he would grace the occasion with his presence.

The party will go to Witzel's Point View Grove at College Point, and expect to reach that haven of rest and enjoyment at 2 o'clock this afternoon. Returning they will leave the grove at 6 o'clock and will probably reach the dock at Elizabeth at 9 tonight.

According to the arrangements it is proposed that on reaching the grove that "the faithful" form in line, headed by the band and march in solid phalanxes to the pavilion, where the sumptuous repast promised by the committee of arrangements will await them. Here the perfect service of the well accoutered host will proceed to fill up the hungry company with a dinner such as only he knows how to serve.

At this point in the proceedings it is expected that the oratory will break loose. And it is hoped by those who are unable to attend this impressive and important function that faithful chroniclers of the doings of the day will not have lost their cunning nor their pencils their points, so that a true record of the thrilling outbursts of oratory may be faithfully recorded.

When Mr. Martine was discerned coming toward the dock he was greeted with cheers that could be heard for many blocks. The Plainfielder acknowledged the reception by doffing his yachting cap and bowing to the assembled multitude. All of which goes to prove that "Jim" is as popular as ever and is still loved by the "peepul."

LIBRARY AT SCOTCH PLAINS CLOSED FOR LACK OF FUNDS.

At a meeting of the Public Library Association of Scotch Plains held last evening it was decided to close the library on September 1. This action was found necessary owing to lack of support by the public, and the inability of the association to obtain sufficient funds to carry on the work.

It is to be regretted that such an action was necessary in view of the fact that this institution has had an existence of thirty years. In its time it has had the support of many public spirited citizens, and to these it owes many thanks for its life.

Trinity Endeavorers at the Camp.

Despite the inclement weather last night a large delegation from the Christian Endeavor Society of Trinity Reformed church, was present at the Netherwood Fresh Air Camp and took charge of the service. The program comprised vocal and instrumental music, an illustrated talk which held the undivided attention of the young people and children. Plans are under way for an interesting service on Sunday afternoon.

SCOTT HELD IN $300 BAIL FOR STABBING

Nathaniel Scott, who knifed Joseph Pritchard in the back in a fight between the colored men at a Madison avenue pool-room Monday night, was held under $300 bail to await the action of the grand jury, at his hearing before Judge Runyon at the city court this morning. In default of the bond, Scott was taken to the county jail at Elizabeth this afternoon.

Pritchard, who has a deep cut seven inches long in his left shoulder, was in court, although apparently very weak. He was the stakeholder in a game of "Chicago pool" between Scott and "Polly" Pollard, colored, and the fight started when he refused to pay the bet to Scott, who claimed that he had won. According to Pritchard's story, which is verified by several witnesses, Pollard won the game by a single point, despite the fact that the 13 ball in the "rotation" game had been awarded to Scott to settle a dispute.

According to the injured man, Scott got angry at what he said was an attempt on the part of "the gang" to cheat him out of his winnings, and drawing a short-bladed pocket knife, lunged at the stake-holder as he turned from him to avoid an argument. The stab was a deep one, and in withdrawing the knife, Scott cut his own hand. In warding off another blow, Pritchard got his hand severely cut. Backing over to the pool-table, the injured man seized two balls and threw them at his assailant, then turned and ran out through the side door. Scott's story of self-defense was quashed by several witnesses of the fight.

At the arrival of the police patrol, Scott was taken to a cell, while Pritchard's friends escorted him to Dr. J. C. Anderson, where his wounds were dressed. His injuries prevented him from appearing in court yesterday morning, when the case was postponed.

DEMOCRATS WILL MAKE COMPLETE CITY TICKET

This city will witness one of the old time contests for city offices this fall if the plans of the Democrats are carried out as they are now intended. For some time the leaders of the party have been working together gathering the clans who will put up a stiff fight for all the offices within the gift of the people.

The recently reorganized Democratic club has put new life into the movement for representation in the city government and the effort is not of the spasmodic kind. Under the presidency of Leroy J. Ellis the club has been strengthened and the interests of its members been awakened. There is no doubt that this recuperation of the forces will be felt in every district of the city.

The possible candidates for the different offices are being canvassed and in due time the names will come up for endorsement. As yet the indentity of the nominees for the offices is not being given out, but it is said that they will be those who can poll not only the full Democratic vote but who have many friends in the Republican ranks. Practically all the seekers after honors in this fall's campaign feel sure of their ability to win out; anyway they will go into the scrimmage with that intention, and with the infusion of new blood into the regular organization there will be something doing.

NEW 2 CENT POSTAGE STAMP.

Will Commemorate the Hudson-Fulton Celebration—Its Description.

A new two-cent stamp will be issued by the Postoffice Department to commemorate the Hudson-Fulton celebration from September 25 to October 9. Postmaster-General Hitchcock yesterday gave the order for the new issue. Fifty millions of these stamps will be issued, and it is hoped to have them on sale by September 20.

The stamp is oblong, about ⅞ by 1⅜ inches in size and comprises a border containing at the top the inscription "Hudson-Fulton Centenary" with the dates "1609" and "1909." Below this inscription in a curved line are the words "U. S. Postage." At the bottom on each side is a prominent Arabic numeral 2 with the words: "Two Cents" in a panel between the figures.

In the centre is engraved a picture showing the Palisades of the Hudson in the background with the Half Moon going up the river and the Clermont steaming in the opposite direction. In the foreground is an Indian in a canoe and in the distance, just discernible, is a canoe containing four other Indians, the canoes representing the first means of navigating the river.

The stamp will be printed in the same color as the present two-cent stamp.

Since Father Adam fell from grace, led on by Mother Eve,
Fair Eden's site has long been lost, at least so men believe.
But comes the news from those who know, and this they oft repeat,
That Brookside is the very spot; our parents' first retreat.

MRS. YUNG NOT WORRIED, HUSBAND MAY BE ALIVE

An investigation is being conducted into the reported drowning of Leonard Yung, the Somerset street barber, in Passaic. From facts gathered in town this morning it was learned that Yung was not living wiht his wife at the time of his disappearance and for some time previous to that event.

Mrs. Yung seems not to be worried over the fact that a man resembling her husband has been found drowned and apparently will do nothing toward identifying the body now at the Passaic morgue. She went out of town this morning but did not go to Passaic. It is understood that Mrs. Yung will go there if the body found in the river answers to the description of her husband.

The police of all the nearby cities and towns have been given a clear description of Yung and have been asked to be on the lookout for the missing man.

MASTER CHARLES GREENE ENTERTAINS HIS FRIENDS.

Master Charles Greene, son of Mr. and Mrs. J. Harry Greene, of West Seventh street, entertained some of his friends yesterday in honor of his ninth birthday. In the afternoon Master Charles was the host at a theatre party who took in the motion pictures and vaudeville at Proctor's, and afterwards at his home a delightful little supper was enjoyed.

The young man was the recipient of many handsome and useful gifts among which was a Pierce bicycle from his father. The supper was served in the dining room of his home and the room was beautifully decorated in honor of the occasion. The center of the table was ornamented with a huge birthday cake embellished with nine burning candles which caused no end of mirth among the young guests.

Among those who wished Master Charles many happy returns of the day and partook of his hospitality were Junior Penn, Marion Green, Harry and John Danlow, Clarence Skiff and Charles Green, all of Plainfield; and Katheryn and Charles A. Brown, 2d, of Jacksonville, Florida, who arrived yesterday to make an extended visit.

Warren Chapel's Excursion.

The Sunday school of Warren chapel tomorrow will be the last of the excursions to go to Asbury Park this season, and a big crowd is expected to join them. From newspaper reports it would seem that the ocean has at no time this summer been in a more turbulent mood and it is said that the seas washing up on the shore are mountainous. Such a sight is well worth seeing and those who go tomorrow will have an opportunity of seeing the result of a West Indian cyclone on the waters of our coast. The train leaves the North avenue station at 8:15.

STATE TEAM READY FOR BIG MATCH

After several weeks of hard work on the rifle range at Sea Girt the men who will constitute the New Jersey State team to shoot in the national match at Camp Perry, O., next week, and later in the Dryden trophy match at Sea Girt, will leave for the big Buckeye rifle range tonight.

The rain of yesterday prevented the riflemen from doing any work on the long ranges, as had been expected, but the work of last week put the team in splendid condition, and if everything goes right the men will get more practise at Camp Perry before the big match.

The State team will be made up of some of the "old time" expert shots, and there is every indication that New Jersey will have a much better standing in the match this year than it did a year ago. General Bird W. Spencer, the team captain, is confident that the team will do well, and he believes that some of the State organizations represented will have to do some fine shooting to get a better place than New Jersey hopes to have at the ending of the national match.

The team will be made up as follows: General Bird W. Spencer, team captain; Lieutenant-Colonel William Libbey, of Princeton, assistant inspector of rifle practise; Lieutenant-Colonel Wm. A. Tewess, assistant inspector of small arms practise; Lieutenant-Colonel Arthur Rowland, of Newark, of the division staff; Major Winfield S. Price, of Camden; Major D. T. Mathers, Third Regiment; Major William B. Martin, Second Regiment; Captain John J. Fearen, Third Regiment; Captain John Malcolm, Fifth Regiment; Captain William A. Higgins, Fourth Regiment; Captain A. H. Pfeill, Third Regiment; Captain Owen Smith, Fourth Regiment; Captain Charles F. Silvester; First Lieutenant Arthur G. Jaggard, Third Regiment; Sergeant Adon W. Muller, Third Regiment; Sergeant George W. P. Silvester, Second Regiment; Sergeant Albert C. Mayer, Second Regiment; Corporal Fred G. Snellen, First Regiment; Private William C. Danser, Second Regiment.

It is evident from this list that New Jersey has a number of the best riflemen in the State with the team this year. Major William B. Martin made a phenomenal score when the team was abroad three years ago; Lieutenant-Colonel Arthur Rowland and Lieutenant-Colonel William A. Tewes, are both splendid shots and to be relied upon in an emergency. Major Winfield S. Price, Litueenant-Colonel William Libbey and Captain Silverter are riflemen of about the same calibre, and the new men in the team have been pretty well tried out and it is expected they will make good scores.

Mrs. John Gray Foster, of Mercer avenue, and her niece, Miss Ruth Van Vliet, of Washington avenue, have gone to Nova Scotia on a pleasure trip with a party of friends.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Federman and daughter, Florence, of Flatbush, L. I., are spending the month of August with Mrs. Fedderman's father, Floyd Fuller, of Arlington avenue.

DOLLIVER HOLDS GREEN

Borough Recorder Fixes Bail for Johnson's Assailiant at $1,000.

JUSTICE SNAPE FINED HIM.

Re-arrested, the Colored Fighter Must Now Face Grand Jury as Result of Brick-Yard Fight.

Benjamin Green, colored, was held in $1,000 bail for the grand jury by Recorder Charles Dolliver in the borough police court this morning. Yesterday afternoon Green was released by Justice Snape after a hearing, for want of sufficient evidence. This morning Green was re-arrested by Dective Totten and Chief Weiss.

Green is the negro who severely battered up Richard Johnson in the Hand brick yards Sunday afternoon. The latter is now in the hospital, and is in such a condition that he cannot talk. His eyes are nearly closed as a result of the beating he received at the hands of Green, but the physicians say that he will not die.

At the hearing yesterday afternoon before Justice Snape, "Pump" Chandler, an employee of the brick yards, testified that the two men had had an argument in the morning, but did not come to blows. Edward Britton, who found Johnson in the shanty testified to the condition of the latter, as did also Dr. Pittis who attended him at Muhlenberg hospital. Owing to his inability to talk, Johnson could make no statement to be used at the hearing.

Green was represented by Samuel S. Swackhamer, who, though the failed to shake the testimony of the witnesses showed the court that Green, too, had been battered up by Johnson. Taking this into consideration, the court dismissed him. E. T. Hand, for whom Green works, appeared at the hearing and said that he would be responsible at any time for the presence of Green at a trial. Green was re-arrested this morning and bail was furnished by Mr. Hand, his employer.

GOLDEN EAGLES TO VISIT SOMERVILLE LODGEMEN.

Members of Freedom Castle, No. 42, Knights of the Golden Eagle, together with Eagles from New Brunswick and the Oranges, will be the guests of Golden Crown Castle, at Somerville, tomorrow night, when the past chiefs' degree will be conferred upon about fifteen candidates. The Plainfield lodgemen will make the trip by train.

Grand Chief Sidney Hall, of Millville, will make an address, as will William Albee, an officer of the Paterson Castle. Mr. Albee is the leading candidate for Grand Sir Herald of the district. It is now almost certain that Horace J. Martin, Sr., will be the lodgemen's choice for the office of Grand Chief in the election to be held at the Golden Eagles' convention at Trenton Labor Day.

TWO "HELPLESS" DRUNKS GET SENTENCE SUSPENDED

John Archbold, whose home is in Washington Valley was helped to a jag by several well-meaning friends yesterday afternoon, with whom he lined up at many bars. Patrolman Flynn found him "down and out" on Somerset street yesterday afternoon and sentence was suspended at his hearing before Judge Runyon this morning.

Mike Giraly, who swings a pick with the Central Railroad section gang, got a liquor lining yesterday afternoon and fell asleep on the railroad bank. In his dreams he rolled down the embankment to East Third street, and awoke to find himself in the custody of Patrolman Flynn. He is a Slav, and said he had never been arrested before. Judge Runyon suspended sentence.

Over a Thousand Dogs Licensed.

Tax Collector William R. Townsend wrote out dog license No. 942 at his office this morning. This means that there are more than a thousand licensed dogs in the city, for the dogs for which fifteen kennel licenses have been issued are not included in this numbered count. The police are still active in the enforcement of the ordinance.

Mrs. Collins and her son, Paul Collins, of Salem, are visiting at the home of Mrs. Collins' sister, Mrs. Reuben Knox, of Rockview avenue.

Mrs. W. R. Causebrook and son John, of East Second street, left today to visit friends at Boston. They will not return until after Labor Day.

Rev. Royal A. Stout, of the Netherwood Reformed church, Leland avenue, will have charge of the prayer-meeting at Trinity Reformed church tonight.

Until further notice this store will open at 8.30 a.m. Close at 5.30 p. m.

LOCAL AMUSEMENTS

Farce comedy is the most popular form of theatrical entertainment, because in addition to amusing the people and distracting their attention from ordinary cares of the day, it gives them their very first chance to hear the newest and brightest humor of the hour and the latest song hits of the hour. Farce comedy is elastic and will allow of constant changes, and the introduction of new and catchy material, and while the thread of the story is never broken, it is capable of being strengthened by the addition of the latest "stuff." There is a great rivalry among comedians and farceurs to be the first to introduce something new and the liberty allowed them by the management insures the public something fresh every day. "McFadden's Flats," which will be presented at the Plainfield theatre Saturday afternoon and evening, is no exception to the rule. It is a rattling farce built on the lines that have pleased the most critical audiences in all the large cities, and by constant improvement, by the addition of the latest sayings, songs and dances, it improves at every performance. The company engaged for this season is composed of the best talent in America.

Miss Mattie Hull is spending two weeks visiting points of interest in Pennsylvania and New York State.

The new house being erected on Stout avenue, is about completed and will soon be ready for occupancy.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Ianson, of Park avenue, have been entertaining relatives from Long Island.

DUNELLEN AND VICINITY.

The Middlesex county board of elections will meet tomorrow in the court house, at New Brunswick. The Democratic list will then be presented. The Republican election officers for Dunellen are: Charles Coriell and J. Newton Apgar; for Piscataway, Harry Piddington, William Randolph, Oscar Thorne, Robert Horn, E. Marshall and Joseph Johnson.

Mrs. F. B. Simpson, of Westfield, returned to her home Monday much improved in health. She has been at Muhlenberg Hospital, for several weeks.

NEW MEMBERS OF THE SETON HALL FACULTY.

Rev. Dr. John Daunhauer, of Jersey City, and Henry Moore, of Newark, have been appointed to the faculty of Seton Hall College, South Orange. Both are graduates of the college, the former being a member of the class of 1905 and the latter graduating two years later. Dr. Daunhauer pursued his theological studies at the American College, Rome, Italy, where he received the degree of Doctor of Divinity, and was ordained to the priesthood last spring. He will have charge of the freshman class.

Mr. Moore, after finishing his collegiate course at Seton Hall, spent two years in Genoa, Italy, where he took a post-graduate course in philosophy. He will teach the second year High School class in the preparatory course. Preparations have been completed for the reception of the students, who will return September 8. The old college building, which has been remodeled into an auditorium, will be used temporarily as a dormitory, with a dining-room in the basement. Work on the new building is being pushed rapidly and will be ready for occupancy before the beginning of the second term. A number of new students have been already enrolled, which, with the return of practically all the old students, promises an unusually prosperous year for the college.

GOVERNOR REITERATES ATTITUDE ON COURTS.

A letter from Governor Fort to former Vice-Chancellor Henry C. Pitney outlining the former's attitude relative to judicial appointments and assignments in the event of the pending constitutional amendments being adopted, is made public by authority through Charles E. Hedrickson, Jr., of the State Bar Association. The letter is a reply to one from the former Vice-Chancellor relative to a maintenance of the present non-partisan character of the Supreme Court. It reads as follows:

"My Dear Vice-Chancellor Pitney:

"Your letter received. As to the appointments to the Supreme Court and assignment to the 'Appellate Division' in case the amendments pass, you are entirely right in saying I had declared that I would maintain the non-partisan character of the courts. I said that publicly in my address at Atlantic City, and I repeat it here. No one need have any doubt about my course on this question.

"With kindest regards and best wishes, believe me,

"Yours very sincerely,

"J. FRANKLIN FORT."

Pembroke Findlayson, a twirler, has been recalled from Brockton by Manager Ganzel. His re-entry into the Eastern yesterday was not dazzling as the Bisons made four runs in the first inning.

Rochester fans are afraid that the Broncos are again bound for a berth in the second division. Last year the club was near the top for a long spell when thirteen straight defeats landed the Pride of the Flower City in the cellar position.

Catcher "Tex" Erwin, of the Rochesters, is said to be slated for the Chicago Cubs next year. Despite the statements of President Murphy, of the World's Champions, that Johnny Kling would not be sold at any price, it is said that the famous catcher would go to Brooklyn next season as manager, Brooklyn having paid about $15,000 for his release. The deal, it is said, involves the transfer of Manager Lumley, Pitcher Bell, Fielder Hummel and Erwin.

Joseph Martins has broken the world's record for throwing the baseball, his best throw being 138 yards 2 feet and 2 inches. The former record was held by Larry Twitchell, made in 1888, his mark being 135 yards and 2 feet.

Christy Mathewson is now leading the National League pitchers. He has won eighteen games and lost four.

Jack Knight has been performing in grand style at first base for the Yankees since Hal Chase was injured.

Matthews, a pitcher from the Trenton club of the Tri-State League, has been sold to the Boston Red Sox and will join the team in New York today.

Billy Hamilton and Jesse Burkett, both former big leaguers, are fighting it out in the New England for batting honors.

Eddie Cicotte, of the Red Sox, has won nine of the ten games he has pitched this season.

The left-handed pitchers of the Philadelphia Athletics have been creating a havoc among the league batters the past few weeks.

Nap Rucker, of Brooklyn, has a record of 134 strike-outs in twenty-four games.

According to the official figures, all attendance records for baseball games in Philadelphia were broken in the Athletics' stay at home from July 29 to August 14, thirteen playing days. The total number of paid admissions was 194,514. The average daily attendance during the four-day stay of the Detroits was more than 18,000.

NEW BRUNSWICK BOAT CLUB HOUSE IS SUNK.

The boathouse of the New Brunswick Boat Club sank to the bottom of the Raritan River, Monday night. A tree floating down the river jammed into the float on which the house rests and drove a hole into it. The float soon filled with water and the house sank.

There were two watchmen on board, but they were unable to save the house. The damage cannot be estimated until the house is floated. It is filled with water up to the second story.

Umbrella Up; Engine Kills Him.

Eugene Caromina, an employe of the New York Fire Insurance Company, living at Ridgefield Park, was fatally injured Monday, when with an upraised umbrella, he dashed head on into the locomotive of a train on the West Shore Railroad. The station is between two railroads, and it is necessary for all passengers to cross the West Shore tracks. Caromina hurried across the tracks in the driving rain, and did not see the approaching West Shore train. A fractured leg, a crushed shoulder and nine scalp wounds were found when the injured man reached the Hackensack Hospital. He died without regaining consciousness.

TO NAME AN OUTSIDER AS POSTAL INSPECTOR.

In an effort to perfect the organization of the Postoffice Department throughout the country, Postmaster General Hitchcock, it was said Monday, has determined to appoint as chief inspector a man entirely outside the service. The present incumbent is Frank E. McMillin, though he is said to have already practically quit the service.

The chief inspector of the department is in charge of the local inspectors throughout the country. Of late years these men have come to have more and more to say in regard to the patronage of the department. This growth in the direct appointing power that comes directly from the Postmaster-General has been viewed with alarm by Congressmen in all sections, who see in the change a great curtailment of their influence in local appointments.

The name of the proposed chief inspector is for the present kept secret, though it is said that he will be a man whose reputation will at the outset make for the future importance of the position. The inspectors are now given authority to inquire among the citizens of every town as to the standing of the postmasters, and reappointments are already based on the nature of their representations.

OHIO TOWN EMPLOYING DUCKS AS SCAVENGERS.

The white wings of the town of Lakeview, Bellefontaine, Ohio, are literally white wings now. They are ducks.

Recently the finances of the village fell to such a low ebb that it was impossible to longer employ a street sweeping service, as it was dispensed with. There remained a few dollars in the treasury. One of the aldermen proposed that the money be invested in a flock of ducks, which would wade in the streets and eat the rubbish. Lean ducks were bought and turned loose in the streets. They start in to eat the waste from the streets at one end of town early in the morning and eat to the other end, when they are turned backward or shifted to another street.

P. O. S. OF A. IN THEIR ANNUAL RALLY

From many towns and cities in New Jersey representatives flocked to Asbury Park yesterday to attend the annual meeting of the Patriotic Order, Sons of America, which convened in the Y. M. C. A. building at Asbury Park yesterday afternoon. Nearly 300 members were present. Had the weather remained clear, nearly 500 would have come, it is said.

The most important matter that will come before the members of the organization at this year's convention will be the proposition or amendment to form a camp at large in the State for the purpose of taking care of old and indigent members whose camps have gone out of existence for some reason or other.

Its believed that this amendment will go through almost unanimously.

Another matter that will occupy the attention of the convention is a proposition to cut representation in half. The representation at present is upon the basis of one to twenty-five, and it is thought that if this is made one to every fifty, better results will be obtained.

There will be introduced an amendment to divide the State into districts, presided over by district presidents and do away with the county division.

The annual election of officers will be held today, and the slate as far as can be ascertained will read something like this for the ensuing year:

President, Thomas L. Wilson, of Woodbury, sheriff of Gloucester county; vice-president, William H. Reese, of Phillipsburg; State master of forms, M. L. Blackman, of Atlantic City, and Treasurer, George N. Wimer, of Palmyra. If Mr. Wimer is re-elected to the office of treasurer, it will be his seventh term.

There is said to be no contest on in the election of any of the officers, and it is thought that the nominations offered will be ratified by election.

Never before, so the reports of officers show, has there been a more prosperous year in the history of the organization than the one just past. The State mortuary fund has paid in death benefits during the past year, according to the secretary's report, $12,863, and in the last fourteen years $125,000. There are this year 135 camps, a gain of fifteen camps during the past year, and the membership in the past year has increased 1,035, making a total enrolment of 12,030.

Mayor T. Frank Appleby opened the meeting yesterday with an address of welcome, and following this was the address of the president, W. Howard Mercer, of Merchantville.

The city of Hoboken is making a strong appeal for the convention next year and members from that city are traversing the streets at Asbury Park bearing a sign on their hats which reads "I love my own town, but, Oh, you Hoboken." It is believed that the convention will go there next year.

From Newark, Camps 48 and 100 are present at the convention. As a reward for increasing their memberships Camp 3 of Phillipsburg and Camp 43 of Somerville were each presented with a handsome silk flag at the session yesterday.

LOW BIDS CUT DOWN COST OF CENSUS WORK.

Secretary of Commerce and Labor Nagel, who is in Washington for a few days on business in connection with the next census, announced Monday that all bids for the machinery and books needed for the enormous clerical work involved have been received. Mr. Nagel expressed himself as surprised and gratified at the low figures of many of these bids. Punching machines, for instance, which are used in great quantities, and which heretofore had not been quoted the department below the price of $600 are now offered for $300.

Mr. Nagel's success in obtaining low bids on these machines recalls the incidents that were the immediate cause of the retirement of S. N. D. North from the directorship of the census. Mr. North submitted to Mr. Nagel for his signature contracts for the purchase of the machines at a very high price, and Mr. Nagel refused his indorsement. After that disruption Secretary Nagel set out to obtain bids, with the result that the prospective expenses of the Bureau of the Census are very much decreased.

The appointment of the army of enumerators who will do the actual counting for the next census will be postponed until just before the counting begins. These men for the most part will be appointed from the district in which they will work.

STATE HEALTH BOARD NOW FIGHTING ANTHRAX.

The State Board of Health is fighting an outbreak of anthrax among cattle in Camden county.

The disease has only appeared in one place and as every precaution has been taken by the board it is believed the outbreak has been localized so that there will be no general epidemic. The disease appeared on a farm in Camden county, and thus far has caused the death of five cows on that farm.

Dr. T. B. Rogers, of Woodbury, notified the State board as soon as he knew of the presence of the trouble. The State health officials immediately took hold of the situation and placed Dr. Rogers in charge. The farm was quarantined and Dr. Rogers was authorized to vaccinate with anthrax vaccine all the animals that were suspected of having been exposed to infection.

Thus far sixty cows and six horses have been treated. The second vaccination will take place today. There have been no deaths reported since yesterday morning. It is not known yet how the outbreak occurred. The State board will investigate the case in an effort to determine what caused it.

INHERITANCE TAX LARGE.

Probable Increase of $200,000 Over Last Year in New Jersey.

Prosperity has struck the State treasury, at least so far as the collection of the collateral inheritance tax is concerned, and according to the estimate of Controller Henry J. West, when the fiscal year closes, on October 31 next, the treasury will be at least $200,000 richer from this source.

The Controller bases his estimate on a comparison of the receipts from this tax for the first nine months of the last fiscal year, which were $195,697.74, with the receipts from this source for the first nine months of this year, which were $300,501.45 showing an increase of $134,803.71. There are also a number of large estates to be settled, on which, it is expected, the tax will be collected within the next three months.

Controller West does not attribute this large increase in the collateral inheritance tax to the settlement of any large estates, but says the condition is due to the stringent laws passed by the last Legislature. Under the law now no transfer of stock owned by a person who has died in the State can be made without the consent of the State Controller, and this has had the effect of bringing to the attention of the State for taxing purposes a large amount of personal property which had hitherto escaped.

NINE YEARS FOR BOY FIREBUG.

Newark Waif of Twelve, Who Admits Setting Fires, to Be Detained Until of Age.

Commitment to the State Home for Boys at Jamesburg until he has reached his majority was the sentence imposed by County Judge Gnichtel at Trenton yesterday on twelve-year-old Elmer Felter, a Newark waif who last week confessed to starting four fires within ten days on the farm of his employer, Addison Perrine, of Highstown, burning the latter's house and barn and causing the arrest of Frederick Haviland on suspicion.

The lad supplemented his confession by saying he had caused two other fires a few years ago, including the burning of a barn belonging to his mother when his parents separated. He burned the barn, he said, hoping that his parents would return to him. The Perrine fires, he explained, were started because the family left him with a deaf hired man while they went to a harvest home.

POSTMASTERS PLAN REFORMS.

Conference at Atlantic City to Improve Lot of Fourth Class Officials and Small Town Service.

Representative J. J. Gardner, of the Congressional Post Office Committee; James Cortelyou, of the postal service, and Charles F. Trotter, Superintendent of Salaries and Allowances, were guests last night at the annual dinner of the Fourth Class Postmasters' Association of New Jersey at the Chalfonte, where Mayor F. P. Stoy greeted them.

A conference will be held today when it is expected that addresses will be made by Representative Gardner, Victor J. Bradley, superintendent of the railway mail service, and by the national president of the Fourth Class Postmaster's League, A. K. Hoag. The object of the conference is to discuss methods to improve the lot of the postmasters and make suggestions for the improvement of the mail service in small towns.

Officers of the association are: President, T. W. Ross, Vincentown, who was reported ill; vice-president, W. D. Jardine, Kenville; secretary and treasurer, Milford Campbell, Dividing Creek.

SUFFRAGISTS WIN LABOR MEN.

New Jersey Federation Pledges Itself to Aid Movement for Women.

Mrs. Clara A. Laddey, of Arlington, and Dr. Mary D. Hussey, of East Orange, representing the suffragists of New Jersey, easily captured the delegates of the New Jersey Federation of Labor at their convention in Atlantic City yesterday, and obtained their pledge of support in favor of giving the women of the country the privilege of the ballot.

A telegraphic dispatch was received from Governor Fort congratulating the federation on its stand in favor of the constitutional amendments. A resolution condemning the use of school money for other than school purposes was passed, and the delegates also agreed to support every movement looking to the extermination of tuberculosis.

These officers were elected: President, Cornelius Ford; vice-presidents, H. J. Gottleib and Thomas A. Howe; secretary, Henry W. Hilfers; treasurer, Joseph P. O'Lone, of Hoboken.

PLACES FOR DEAF MUTES.

Secretary Nagel Would Employ Them in Tabulating Census Figures.

Deaf and dumb persons are to have a chance in the Government service if Secretary Nagel's plans for the next census work out. He stated yesterday that in the handling of the punching and tubulating machines there is much work a mute could easily perform, and he thought it was time the Government took same pains in giving them opportunities for such work as they are capable of.

Some of the tabulating machines, it is now thought, can be built in the Government work shop adjoining the Census Office, in in this way Mr. Nagel expects to save the Government nearly $1,000,000. Heretofore, the machines have been leased for the rush weeks of the census.

FIFTEEN COWS BITTEN BY A RABID DOG.

Fifteen registered cattle and at least six valuable dogs were bitten by a rabid dog at Harbourten, near Pennington yesterday before the animal was killed by Jesse Acttley, a farmer, who probably will lose three Jersey cows and a foxhound that were among the victims of the dog. Several men had narrow escapes from being bitten when the beast ran through the streets, and it is rumored that one man suffered a scratch from the animal's teeth.

The cattle and the dogs that were bitten will not be destroyed until experts of the State laboratory confirm the diagnosis of hydrophobia that has been made by a local veterinarian.

VACCINATION KILLS BOY.

Paul Wesdyk Had Been Ill Ever Since He was Inocculated.

Paul Wesdyk, the fourteen-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Tunis Wesdyk, died Monday night at 437 Gregory avenue, Passaic, after being ill for nearly a year as the result of vaccination. Soon after the boy was inoculated his arm became swollen to abnormal size from finger tips to shoulder.

Physicians succeeded in reducing the swelling, but the boy complained of pains in his chest and other parts of the body. These persisted, and seven different doctors could not alleviate them. For eleven weeks before his death the lad had suffered with a high fever.

SPEAKERSHIP BAIT FOR GINNELLEY AND LEWIS.

Republican leaders in Mercer are trying to add strength to the Assembly candidacy of Dr. Edwin H. Ginnelley by stating that Ginnelley, if elected, is to be made Speaker of the House next winter. It has been explained that he has served two terms, and that those who profess to have a say in the Speakership have picked him as the proper one to fill the chair occupied last year by Dr. John D. Prince.

Report comes from Burlington county, however, that there may be a flare-up in the Ginnelley Speakership plan, and that Assemblyman Griffith W. Lewis, if returned to the House, may get the plum away from the Mercer aspirant. Lewis was majority leader of the House last winter, although Ginnelley was the actual spokesman of the "regulars," and this summer Lewis let it be known he was after the Burlington Senatorship, made vacant by the advancement of the Chancery clerkship of Samuel K. Robbins. Governor Fort declared he was opposed to Lewis for Senator, however, and stirred up such a row over the matter that Assemblyman John B. Irick, of Vincentown, has been selected by the Burlington "organization" to run for Senator instead. As a consolation to Lewis, his friends are said to have assured him that the Speakership is to be his prize if he is returned to the Assembly, and it is understood Lewis is satisfied with this, and the further assurance that he will be considered for Congress from the Second District when John J. Gardner's term expires next year.

Just who will succeed Lewis in the majority leadership of the House dependent, of course, upon the election returns, has not been discussed. Assemblyman Edward T. Moore, of Passaic, told his chums last winter he was to land that berth, and is expecting it if returned again. There is a pretty stiff fight on in Passaic between the "regulars" and "new idea," however, and Mr. Moore is trying hard to be re-elected first.

PLEASED WITH "JAG" REFORM.

The "jag committee' has come to be popular institution for reform at Pennsgrove, in contrast with the storm similar bodies have caused elsewhere throughout South Jersey. The committee has "flagged" eleven persons as falling under the provisions of the new law against topers.

One of the most pleased residents is the town hotel-keeper, who finds that his troubles are greatly decreased by the ban placed on habitual overindulgers.

Of all the thousands in Pennsgrove on "Home Day," only one was seen "picked."

JOURNALISTIC OPINIONS

It is the inalienable right of any American citizen to criticize the design or color scheme of the American flag. The free man who thinks that he could write a better national anthem than the Star Spangled Banner isn't necessarily committing a crime. Perhaps neither the flag nor the anthem exactly square with all the canons of art. It may be admitted that both are susceptible of improvement. The parties who from time to time come forward to perform this work for one or the other, should not be harshly dealt with. They mean no harm, its only an effort on their part to demonstrate at once their patriotism and their artistic perceptions.

At the same time, it is just as well to let it be known that the flag and the anthem suit us excellently. This is especially true of the flag. It might be a little longer or a little wider, or have fewer stars or stars differently arranged upon the blue, but just as it is, it does everything a flag can do. The most artistic of the improvers will admit, too, that in comparison with the flag of any other country, they have seen, it doesn't suffer. The stern old patriots who designed it knew a whole lot about symbolism and weren't deficient in artistic perception by any means. It has served admirably from the beginning. It has been so often baptized in blood and has led this nation into such world prominence that any little additions or subtraction now seem quite superfluous. Besides, there's so much obvious reformation to be accomplished elsewhere that it seems really a waste of time and effort to commence tinkering with Old Glory.

Why not tackle the currency system, bossism in politics, the conservation of our national resources, direct primaries or a thousand and one other of the live, burning questions of the hour? When we have accomplished the real social, economic and political reforms that suggest themselves it will be time enough to add some touches to the flag.—Newark Evening News.

ASSEMBLYMAN M'KEAG CALLED TO LAW CHAIR.

City Attorney and Assemblyman Edwin C. McKeag announced yesterday that he had accepted the offer of a professorship in the Louisiana State University at Baton Rouge, and will take the chair of law on October 1. He says he also received a call from Tulane University at New Orleans, which he has declined.

Mr. McKeag, in accepting this call, states that he will be given unusual privileges for further study, and this had much to do with his acceptance. He will be given frequent leaves of absence to visit this city and look after his private interests here.

Should he decide to run again for the Assembly this fall he will be given a long leave of absence to conduct his campaign. The acceptance will probably affect his position as city attorney, but he has reached no definite conclusion yet as to resigning that office.

TAFT VIEWS ARRIVAL BY SEA OF THE "ENEMY."

Four large army transports, loaded with troops and having hostile intentions against the harbor defenses of Boston, was the sight that met the eyes of President Taft when he awoke at the summer White House yesterday morning and gazed across Salem Bay. Transports were anchored about a mile off shore. The President evidently felt no uneasiness regarding his personal safety, believing that the Boston fortifications and not the nation's Executive were the objective of the transport.

BURGLAR-PROOF GLASS IN PARIS STORE FRONT.

A new plate glass show window, burglar bullet proof and yet as transparent as crystal, was shown in one of the big Paris stores yesterday. The new glass is the product of a Paris glass factory and is intended particularly for jewelry stores. The glass is almost an inch in thickness and a bullet fired against it makes but little more than a scratch.

In an exhibition of the resisting power of the glass it required a half dozen blows with an iron crowbar to make a small hole.

Safe!

He was telling a thrilling story out of his wallet of a thousand and one hairbreadth escapes over in Santiago, doncherknow, and his pretty listener was leaning anxiously on his every utterance.

"The wolves were upon us," he said, "bellowing and roaring, as I have so often heard them. We fled for our lives. I don't deny it; but every second we knew the ravenous pack was gaining on us. At last they were so near that we could feel their muzzles against our legs—"

"Ah!" gasped out the lady. "How glad you must have been they had their muzzles on!"—Answers.

The Jury's Verdict.

A South Missouri man recently was tried on a charge of assault. The State brought into court as the weapons used a rail, an ox, a pair of tongs, a saw and a rifle. The defendant's counsel exhibited as the other man's weapons a scythe-blade, a pitchfork, a pistol and a hoe. The jury's verdict is said to have been: "Resolved, That we, the jury, would have given $1 to have seen the fight."—Kansas City Star.

TIME IS THE TEST.

The Testimony of Plainfield People Stands the Test.

The test of time is what tells the tale. The public soon finds out when misrepresentations are made, and merit alone will stand the test of time.

Plainfield people appreciate merit, and many months ago local citizens publicly endorsed Doan's Kidney Pills; they do so still. Would a citizen make the statement which follows unless convinced that the article was just as represented? A cure that lasts is the kind that every sufferer from kidney ills is looking for.

Mrs. J. C. Manchester, 120 Lafayette place, Plainfield, N. J., says: "I was a sufferer from kidney and bladder trouble for a long time. I doctored with physicians but failed to be cured and in 1905 when I saw Doan's Kidney Pills advertised, I made up my mind to give them a trial. Good results followed their use and my kidneys and bladder were soon restored to a healthy condition. I believe my cure is a permanent one and I will always give Doan's Kidney Pills my endorsement when an opportunity occurs."

For sale by all dealers. Price 50 cents. Foster-Milburn Co., Buffalo, New York, sole agents for the United States.

Remember the name—Doan's—and take no other.

FALL FROM WAGON AT SEASHORE PROVES FATAL.

By a fall, it is thought, from one of the trucks of the United States Express Company, upon which he was riding, Sauel Chaffy, a carpenter living in the rear of 101 South Main street, Ocean Grove, was killed at the Asbury Park main depot Monday night.

Emmanuel Brace, the driver of the express wagon, with whom Chaffy was said to have been riding, was held without bail to await the verdict of the coroner by Judge John A. Borden. An autopsy was held at a local undertaker's last night and it was found that Chaffy had sustained a fracture of the skull.

As far as could be ascertained from those at the depot at the time of the accident no one saw the man fall from the wagon. He was seen lying in the street and the express wagon with Brace upon the seat drove on. Later Brace returned and gave himself up to the police. Baggagemen at the depot carried Chaffy to the depot, where he was laid upon a bench and Dr. J. Turner Rose summoned. The man was unconscious and had a cut upon his head. Despite the work of the physician Chaffy died in about half an hour without regaining consciousness

It was said by some, although no eye witnesses could be found, that Chaffy had fallen from the high front seat of the wagon. According to Brace, however, he had asked for a ride and after throwing an umbrella into the rear end of the wagon had mounted the tailboard only to fall to the street. It was said by some of the employes at the local express company that Brace had been drinking yesterday. Chaffy was about forty years old, and is survived by a wife and daughter Anna, about seventeen years old.

NEW BRUNSWICK WANTS TO INCREASE TAX RATE.

The Finance Committee was authorized by Common Council Monthorized by New Brunswick Common Council Monday night to ake application to the Middlesex County Board of Taxation to allow the city to make an increase in its tax rate for the fiscal year of 1909 of thirty cents or such part thereof as may be necessary on each $100 of assessed valuation in excess of the rate of $1.90 heretofore established.

This was the rate last year, but increased county and other expenses have made an increase of $2.20 necessary this year.

BUSINESS DISTRICT OF GLASGOW FLAME SWEPT.

The entire business section of Glasgow was yesterday seriously threatened by a fire which started in the centre of the city and caused a loss of more than $1,200,000 before being got under control. The fire started in a block opposite fire headquarters. The headquarters building were almost buried under falling walls.

Among the buildings destroyed were the public hall and lodging-houses in which 300 persons were sleeping. The fire spread so rapidly that many of the lodgers were first apprised of it by streams of water crashing in their windows. Several store buildings were destroyed.

Whispering Smith

CHAPTER XXXVI.

A Sympathetic Ear.

When Whispering Smith rode at Sinclair, Crawling Stone ranch, common with the whole countryside had but one interest in life, and that was to hear of the meeting. Riders across the mountain valleys met with but one question; mail-carriers brought nothing in their pouches of interest equal to the last word concerning Sinclair or his pursuer. It was commonly agreed throughout the mountains that it would be a difficult matter to overhaul any good man riding Sinclair's steel-dust horses, but with Sinclair himself in the saddle unless it pleased him to pull up, the chase was sure to be a stern one. Against this to feed speculation stood one man's record—that of the man who had ridden alone across Deep creek and brought Chuck Williams out on a buckboard.

Business in Medicine Bend, meanwhile, was practically suspended. At the center of all telephone lines the big railroad town was likewise center of all rumors. Officers and soldiers to and from the fort, stage drivers and cowmen, homesteaders and rustlers, discussed the apprehension of Sinclair. Moreover, behind this effort to arrest one man who had savagely defied the law were ranged all of the prejudices, sympathies, and hatreds of the high country, and practically the whole population tributary to Medicine Bend and the Crawling Stone valley were friends either of Sinclair or to his pursuer. Behind Sinclair were nearly all the cattlemen, not alone because he was on good terms with the rustlers and protected his friends, but because he warred openly on the sheepmen. The big range interests, as a rule, were openly or covertly friendly to Sinclair, while against him were the homesteaders, the railroad men, the common people and the men who everywhere hate cruelty and outrage and the making of a lie.

Lance Dunning had never concealed his friendliness for Sinclair, even after hard stories about him were known to be true, and it was this confidence of fellowship that made Sinclair, 24 hours after he had left Oroville ride down the hill trail to Crawling Stone ranchhouse.

The morning had been cold, with a heavy wind and a dull sky. In the afternoon the clouds lowered over the valley and a misting rain set in. Dicksie had gone into Medicine Bend on the stage in the morning, and, after a stolen half-hour with McCloud at Marion's, had ridden home to escape the storm. Not less, but much more than those about her she was alive to the situation in which Sinclair stood and its danger to those closest to him. In the morning her one prayer to McCloud had been to have a care of himself, and to Marion to have a care of herself; but even when Dicksie left them it seemed as if neither quite felt the peril as she felt it.

In the afternoon the rain, falling steadily, kept her in the house, and she sat in her room sewing until the light failed. She went downstairs. Puss had lighted the grate in the living room, and Dicksie threw herself into a chair. The sounds of hoofs aroused her and she went to a window. To her horror, she saw Sinclair walking with her cousin up to the front door. She ran into the dining room, and the two men entered the hall and walked into the office. Choking with excitement, Dicksie ran through the kitchen and upstairs to master her agitation.

In the office Sinclair was sitting down before the hot stove with a tumbler of whisky. "Lance,"—he shook his head as he spoke hoarsely—"I want to say my friends have stood by me to a man, but there's none of them treated me squarer through thick and thin than you have. Well, I've had some bad luck. It can't be helped. Regards!"

He drank, and shook his wet hair again. Four days of hard riding had left no trace on his iron features. Wet to the bone, his eyes flashed with fire. He held the glassful of whisky in a hand as steady as a spirit-level and tossed it down a throat as cool as dew.

"I want to say another thing, Lance: I had no more intention than a child of hurting Ed Banks. I warned Ed months ago to keep out of this fight, and I never knew he was in it till it was too late. But I'm hoping he will pull through yet, if they don't kill him in the hospital to spite me. I never recognized the man at all till it was too late. Why, one of them used to work for me! A man with the whole railroad gang in these mountains after him has got to look out for himself or his life ain't worth a glass of beer. Thank you, Lance, not any more. I saw two men, with their rifles in their hands, looking for me. I hollered at them; but, Lance, I'm rough and ready, as all my friends know, and I will let no man put a drop on me—that I will never do. Ed, before I ever recognized him, raised his rifle; that's the only reason I fired. Not so full, Lance, not so full, if you please. Well," he shook his black hair as he threw back his head, "here's to better luck in worse countries!" He paused as he swallowed, and set the tumbler down. "Lance, I'm saying good-by to the mountains."

"You're not going away for good, Murray?"

"I'm going away for good. What's the use? For two years these railroad cutthroats have been trying to put something on me; you know that. They've been trying to mix me up with that bridge-burning at Smoky creek; Sugar Buttes, they had me there; Tower W—nothing would do but I was there, and they've got one of the men in jail down there now, Lance, trying to sweat enough perjury out of him to send me up. What show has a poor man got against all the money there is in the country? I wouldn't be afraid of a jury of my own neighbors—the men that know me, Lance—any time. What show would I have with a packed jury in Medicine Bend? I could explain anything I've done to the satisfaction of any reasonable man. I'm human, Lance; that's all I say. I've been mistreated and I don't forget it. They've even turned my wife against me—as fine a woman as ever lived."

Lance swore sympathetically. "There's good stuff in you yet, Murray."

"I'm going to say good-by to the mountains," Sinclair went on, grimly, "but I'm going to Medicine Bend to-night and tell the man that has hounded me what I think of him before I leave. I'm going to give my wife a chance to do what is right and go with me. She's been poisoned against me—I know that; but if she does what's fair and square there'll be no trouble—no trouble at all. All I want, Lance, is a square deal. What?"

Dicksie with her pulses throbbing at fever-heat heard the words. She stood half-way down the stairs, trembling as she listened. Anger, hatred, the spirit of vengeance, choked in her throat at the sinister words. She longed to stride into the room and confront the murderer and call down retribution on his head. It was no fear of him that restrained her, for the Crawling Stone girl never knew fear. She would have confronted him and denounced him, but prodence checked her angry impulse. She knew what he meant to do—to ride into Medicine Bend under cover of the storm, murder the two he hated, and escape in the night, and she resolved he should never succeed. If she could only get to the telephone! But the telephone was in the room where he sat. He was saying good-by. Her cousin was trying to dissuade him from riding out into the storm, but he was going. The door opened; the men went out on the porch, and it closed. Dicksie, lightly as a shadow, ran into the office and began ringing Medicine Bend on the telephone.

CHAPTER XXXVII.

Dicksie's Ride.

When Lance Dunning entered the room ten minutes later Dicksie stood at the telephone; but the ten minutes of that interval had made quite another creature of his cousin. The wires were down and no one from any quarter gave a response to her frantic ringing. Through the receiver she could hear only the sweep of the rain and the harsh crackle of the wind. Sometimes praying, sometimes fainting and sometimes despairing, she stood clinging to the instrument, ringing and pounding upon it like one frenzied. Lance looked at her in amazement. "Why, God a'mighty, Dicksie, what's the matter?"

He called twice to her before she turned, and her words almost stunned him: "Why did you not detain Sinclair here to-night? Why did you not arrest him?"

Lance's sombrero raked heavily to one side of his face, and one end of his mustache running up much higher on the other, did not begin to express his astonishment. "Arrest him? Arrest Sinclair? Dicksie, are you crazy? Why the devil should I arrest Sinclair? Do you suppose I am going to mix up in a fight like this? Do you think I want to get killed? The level-headed man in this country, just at present, is the man who can keep out of trouble, and the man who succeeds, let me tell you, has got more than plenty to do."

Lance, getting no answer but a fierce, searching gaze from Dicksie's wild eyes, laid his hand on a chair, lighted a cigar, and sat down before the fire. Dicksie dropped the telephone receiver, put her hand to her girdle, and looked at him. When she spoke her tone was stinging. "You know that man is going to Medicine Bend to kill his wife!"

Lance took the cigar from his mouth and returned her look. "I know no such thing," he growled, curtly.

"And to kill George McCloud, if he can."

He stared without reply.

"You heard him say so," persisted Dicksie, vehemently.

Lance crossed his legs and threw back the brim of his hat. "McCloud is nobody's fool. He will look out for himself."

"These fiendish wires to Medicine Bend are down. Why hasn't this line been repaired?" she cried, wringing her hands. "There is no way to give warning to any one that he is coming, and you have let him go!"

Lance whirled in his chair. "Damnation! Could I keep him from going?"

"You did not want to; you are keeping out of trouble. What do you care whom he kills to-night!"

"You've gone crazy, Dicksie. Your imagination has upset your reason. Whether he kills anybody to-night or not, it's too late now to make a row about it," exclaimed Lance, throwing his cigar angrily away. "He won't kill us."

"And you expect me to sit by and fold my hands while that wretch sheds more blood, do you?"

"It can't be helped."

"I say it can be helped! I can help it—I will help it—as you could have done if you had wanted to. I will ride to Medicine Bend to-night and help it."

Lance jumped to his feet, with a string of oaths. "Well, this is the limit!" He pointed his finger at her. "Dicksie Dunning, you won't stir out of this house to-night!"

Her face hardened. "How dare you speak in that way to me? Who are you, that you order me what to do, where to stay? Am I your cowboy, to be defiled with your curses?"

He looked at her in amazement. She was only 18; he would still face her down. "I'll tell you who I am. I am master here, and you will do as I tell you. You will ride to Medicine Bend to-night, will you?" He struck the table with his clinched fist. "Do you hear me? I say, by God, not a horse shall leave this ranch in this storm to-night to go anywhere for anybody or with anybody!"

"Then I say to you this ranch is my ranch, and these horses are my horses! From this hour forth I will order them to go and come when and where I please!" She stepped toward him. "Henceforward I am mistress here. Do you hear me? Henceforward I give orders in Crawling Stone house, and every one under this roof takes orders from me!"

"Dicksie, what do you mean? For God's sake, you're not going to try to ride—"

She swept from the room. What happened afterward she could never recall. Who got Jim for her or whether she got the horse up herself, what was said to her in low, kindly words of warning by the man at Jim's neck when she sprang into the saddle, who the man was, she could not have told. All she felt at last was that she was free and out under the black sky, with the rain beating her burning face and her horse leaping fearfully into the wind.

No man could have kept the trail to the pass that night. The horse took it as if the path flashed in sunshine, and swung into the familiar stride that had carried her so many times over the 20 miles ahead of them. The storm driving into Dicksie's face cooled her. Every moment she recollected herself better, and before her mind all the aspects of her venture ranged themselves. She had set herself to a race, and against her rode the hardest rider in the mountains. She had set herself to what few men on the range would have dared and what no other woman on the range could do. A gust drove into her face. They were already at the head of the pass, and the horse, with level ground underfoot, was falling into the long reach; but the wind was colder.

Dicksie lowered her head and gave Jim the rein. She realized how wet she was; her feet and her knees were wet. She had no protection but her skirt, though the meanest rider on all her countless acres would not have braved a mile on such a night without leather and fur. The great lapels of her riding-jacket, reversed, were buttoned tight across her shoulders, and the double fold of fur lay warm and dry against her heart and lungs; but her hands were cold, and her skirt dragged leaden and cold from her waist, and water soaked in upon her chilled feet.

She became conscious of how fast she was going. Instinct, made keen by thousands of saddle miles, told Dicksie of her terrific pace. She was riding faster than she would have dared go at noonday and without thought or fear of accident. In spite of the sliding and the plunging down the long hill the storm and the darkness brought no thought of fear for herself; her only fear was for those ahead. In supreme moments a horse, like a man when human efforts become superhuman, puts the lesser dangers out of reckoning, and the faculties, set on a single purpose, though strained to the breaking-point, never break. Low in her saddle, Dicksie tried to reckon how far they had come and how much lay ahead. She could feel her skirt stiffening about her knees, and the rain beating at her face was sharper; she knew the sleet as it stung her cheeks, and knew what next was coming—the snow.

There was no need to urge Jim. He had the rein and Dicksie bent down to speak to him, as she often spoke when they were alone on the road, when Jim, bolting, almost threw her. Recovering instantly, she knew they were no longer alone. She rose alert in her seat. Her straining eyes could see nothing. Was there a sound in the wind? She held her breath to listen, but before she could apprehend Jim leaped violently ahead. Dicksie screamed in an agony of terror. She knew then that she had passed another rider, and so close she might have touched him.

Wreck Etiquette.

When the old lady appeared at the big door of the life saving station, she regarded the rough waters of the bay with frightened eyes.

"Isn't something being done for that ship in distress?" she anxiously demanded, pointing seaward.

"Oh, that's all right, ma'am," replied a man in oilskins. "We've sent 'em a line to come ashore."

"Goodness me!" exclaimed the lady. "Were they waiting for a formal invitation?"—New York Tribune.

WARREN COUNTY CHURCH TO BE SOLD AT AUCTION.

Within a few days the county will be placarded with posters, announcing that whoever wants to get a good, serviceable church, practically as good as new, ready for immediate use, can be accommodated upon application to the trustees of the Yellow Frame Presbyterian church, about two miles from Johnsonburg, N. J. The church to be thus disposed of is the Presbyterian church of that place. It is owned by the trustees of the Yellow Frame church and is to be offered at public sale on the afternoon of Thursday, August 26. The church has not been used for about twenty years.

The local Presbyterian church is in the centre of this village on the main street. Its site contains about half an acre. The church building is of frame, fifty by thirty-four feet, with an eighteen-foot ceiling. It has an excellent slate roof. The pews and land are to be sold, as well as the church building, and it is expected all will go in one "parcel."

The church was erected about 1850. Its first pastor was Rev. R. D. McGee. The last pastor was Rev. R. B. Forberson. It was maintained for a time under the system once popular there when two or three more churches would support a single pastor. It was in this way that the Yellow Frame church secured ownership. Since about 1889 no services have been held in the church. A year ago it was decided to sell, but there was some question as to the best season for selling churches.

It is now thought that the large number of Italians working on the cut-off of the Lackawanna Railroad will provide a market, and that it will be purchased and converted into a Roman Catholic house of worship.

The sale is in charge of a committee of two trustees of the Yellow Frame church, James T. Coomath and L. E. Savacool. It is understood that $1,000 would be considered a fair price for the property.

—The finest fruit of the season is now being received by Neuman Bros. For tomorrow there will be fancy Jersey peaches by the basket, fancy Maryland muskmelons, Bartlett pears and plums.

Mrs. E. Drake and daughter, Mae, of Duer street, have returned home from a visit with friends in New York State.

PHILLIPSBURG TO MARK ITS SEMI-CENTENNIAL.

Action was taken at Monday night's meeting of the Town Council at Phillipsburg, looking forward to the celebration of the fiftieth anniversary of the municipality. J. I. B. Reilly presented a communication calling attention to the fact that twenty months hence will be the half-century mark of the town, and urging council to take action for an appropriate celebration at that time.

He pointed to the fact that out of all the election officers and all town officers elected fifty years ago, only four are living. Phillipsburg is now the largest municipality in northwestern New Jersey. The census shows it to be twenty-first in point of population in the State and the largest within a distance of fifty miles.

The Mayor was authorized to appoint a special committee to take up the preliminary work of the proposed celebration. Attorney Reilly, Engineer Howell, Clerk Kneedler and the members of the Finance Committee were appointed at once. They will report to the council next month.

A HOT GAME TOMORROW ON ST. MARY'S OVAL

Tomorrow, on St. Mary's Oval the game of the season will be played when "Jack" Turney, the owner of the lunch wagon, will bring his team known as the "Beaneaters," out to play "Man Eater" Mullins' Cliquot Club.

The Beaneaters will have some old time stars in their lineup—Jack Scott, the old St. Mary's player, will be in the box and Mack will be at the receiving end. Turney played with Fall River, of the New England League, a few years ago and claims to be still good at the game. Coyle the centrefielder, was an old time Philadelphia player and is good now.

Madden will be the umpire and a good game is promised. Both clubs are well known and have some good men in their teams. Thomas and Mullen or "Live Wire" Coriell and Schropfer will be the battery for the Cliquots. The game will be called at 2 o'clock.

ATTRACTIVE CARD FOR THE MATINEE RACES

There will be a free matinee held at the Plainfield Driving Park Saturday afternoon, beginning at 2 o'clock for which there are a fair number of entries.

The association has had the track resoiled and the dust which has been such a nuisance will be missing, making the attendance at the meeting more comfortable.

Stages will meet the trolley cars to convey those who come to the track, where everything will be comfortable and where an afternoon may be enjoyably spent.

Following is the card:

BASEBALL.

The strong Dunellen F. C., which has up to the present date won fourteen games and lost three, will cross bats with the Plainfield Baseball Club at Dunellen Saturday. Acting Manager Titsworth, of the Dunellens, says: "Kraft, who will twirl for us Saturday, has never pitched as well as at present as his four-hit game against Bound Brook last Saturday will clearly show. The Plainfield boys who have never been able to hit Kraft when he is in condition will not hit him Saturday, while my sluggers will pound Ortlieb to all corners of the lot. The men I will put behind Kraft will give him great support and we will win handily."

LAJOIE RESIGNS AS MANAGER.

Napoleon Lajoie voluntarily tendered his resignation as manager of the Cleveland American League baseball team last night, to take effect as soon as a successor can be appointed by the directors of the team Lajoie will continue to play with the team.

Lajoie's resignation is due to the large amount of criticism he has been subjected to on account of his failure to make a better showing with the team this year. Rumors of dissension among the players on account of Lajoie's alleged personal unpopularity have been rife. This, coupled with the team's losing streak on the last Eastern invasion, caused many patrons of the game to demand his resignation. The club owners defended Lajoie.

He will not be a candidate for office, however, according to his present intention. After attending a meeting of the New Idea forces tomorrow afternoon in Newark, Mr. Colby will go to Newport for a week, and when he returns he will take the stump for the cause of reform government.

'SPITE BARN' EXPLAINED

Michael Gallagher Tells Why He Spoiled Dunellen's Choicest Business Site.

HE WILL FIGHT THE BOROUGH

Owner Wants Dunellen Fire Department Exhibit On Charter Day Housed in New "City Hall."

"Gallagher's City Hall," a barn like structure, next to the Dunellen Postoffice building, which is said to be a "spite house," is not there for the purpose of making either the borough or any one else pay Michael Gallagher "his price" for the structure, according to a statement made by him yesterday afternoon. Further, he says that this property is not for sale, as he considers it the most valuable piece of property, located on the only vacant lot, in the heart of the business section. This he says, will bring a handsome figure at a sale in a few years.

"When Councilman Huff was tearing down the frame building occupied by him," said Mr. Gallagher, "he told Councilman Berkheiser that the council ought to pass an ordinance to prevent me from putting up a frame building on the lot where the barn now stands. Mr. Huff also told Firman Gise that the council should pass an ordinance to prevent me from building out beyond the other buildings when the former learned that I had purchased the lot without any restrictions, and that I had the liberty to build any kind of a structure and as far out as I wished, so long as the drip did not fall on the sidewalk. My deed calls for 50x150 feet, five feet further out than either of the buildings on each side of me. The matter was brought to the attention of Mayor Swackhamer, and the latter commissioned the borough counsel, Walter L. Hetfield, Jr., to draw up a building ordinance. On the afternoon of the day that the council was to meet to act on the ordinance the framework of 'Gallagher's City Hall' was erected. Thus the efforts of the council were made futile," he said.

"As to my losing the street sprinkling contract, which Dunellen officials say is the reason for my erecting the 'spite house,' I will say that Huff's bid was $3.90 per day for nine hours' work against my bid of $4.50. This was the corollary of a statement by Huff that my teams could not have a day's work on the borough streets if he could help it. When that monument on my other corner property had to be moved, affecting Huff, it made a difference as to whose bull was being gored. As to my attitude in this matter I will emphatically say that it is a poor worm that will not squirm when it is tread upon; and a good one that doesn't ask for quarter when it has turned. This expresses epigramatically my situation in the matter."

"Street Commissioner Staats was informed by me that he could not have my teams for use on the street sprinklers. And, the borough owes me for two days work last year; so it is easy to see that I can live without working.

"It was through me that the Dunellen Lumber and Stone Company had to move from the corner of Washington street and North avenue. When Alvah Gray, president of the Dunellen bank and president of this company, brough a civil suit against me for $14, Henry Garretson, the postmaster, who is one of his partners, did his best to prevent the pressing of the suit.

"Three months ago I notified Walter Runyon to remove obstructions protruding from his brick walls over into my property. This was not done, and I am now waiting for the return of Dr. J. C. Todd, of Tarrytown, from whom I purchased the property. When he returns I mean to get all that is coming to me in my deed.

"The only threat that has been made to me that the building would be burned down, came from Assessor John H. L. Peters, who informed me that that might be done. He was impartial in the matter, and merely stated this as an expression of the temper of the people who own property in the vicinity of my 'spite house.' But, if that building is ever burned down, I'd build a greater eyesore in its place. I've engaged counsel and will fight.

"The present 'spite house' will be completed soon. One of the stores I will rent out, the other I hereby respectfully give to Charles E. Tinsman for use of the Dunellen Fire Department—the fire department that represented the borough in the Charter Day parade."

WEATHER NO OBSTACLE

Joy of Democratic Outing Not Dampened by Cloudy Skies.

DISCUSS CANDIDATES CHANCES.

Boat Shaken Up Off Coney Island—Runs in Ball Game too Numerous to Mention—The Committee.

Yesterday's outing of the Union County Democratic Committee was one of the most successful and best attended affairs of the kind ever held by the organization. More than 1,300 men were on board the Sirius when she pulled out from the city dock at Elizabeth. All the old standbys of the county were on hand and despite the uncomfortable weather the enjoyment was keen.

The boat reached the point of debarkation on schedule time and the party made short work of getting to the grove where a sumptuous dinner was awaiting them. Full justice was rendered to the good things provided by Host Witzel. Nothing of any consequence transpired on the trip to the Long Island resort, not even in the political line, in fact the outing took on the aspect of what it was intended to be—a pleasure trip.

The atmosphere, however, seemed to be permeated with a feeling that this year the party has a good chance to land at least two of the Assemblymen which are to be elected this fall. There was also a feeling manifested in some words that were overheard that by making strong Democratic nominations the present Republican county clerk and register will have to work hard to retain their places.

The fact that Fred Zior, secretary of the city and county committees, has entered the field against John J. McGrath, for city treasurer of Elizabeth, was a topic of considerable comment on the way to the grove. Both of these men are popular and both have good political backing and the chances of the two men took up a good hour's time in the discussion.

The young men of the party enjoyed the program of sports which had been arranged by Tax Assesor Hugh F. Boyle. The record of runs in the baseball game between the married men and bachelors would be too much for the presses to handle so it will have to be omitted. Everybody had a good time and the return was made without any untoward incidents, excepting, that off Coney Island, where the party went to see the illuminations, a terrific sea tumbled the excursionists about considerably.

The outing committee consisted of Alderman George H. Schlotterer, as chairman; Fred Zior, James L. Butler, William Mariga, John H. R. Corbet, James Norton, James P. Kelly, Edward A. Brennan, Hugh F. Boyle, Andrew O'Reilly, Jacob W. Shepard and C. M. B. Keimig.

The committee passed resolutions deploring the recent death of Judge Lewis S. Hyer, of Rahway, and a note of action was forwarded to the family of the lamented member. Owing to the funeral of the Judge there was no representation from Rahway on the outing.

NEW PROPRIETOR PLANS THEATRICAL SEASON IN AMBOY.

"Harry S. Sanderson, of the new theatrical concern of Proctor & Sanderson, who will take charge of the Majestic Theatre in this city shortly, was in town yesterday looking over his new playhouse.

"He dropped into the Chronicle office and said that he liked the place immensely. As told in the Chronicle some time ago the new Majestic theatre has been transferred to the Proctor & Sanderson circuit, and vaudeville and moving pictures will hereafter be the attraction at that theatre. One continuous performance will be given daily.

"The theatre has been turned over to the new management, but the shows which Manager Shannon booked will be given. In conversation with a Chronicle man, Mr. Sanderson said that the new vaudeville would start on Monday, Labor Day, September 6. The new house will be known as the Proctor Theatre."—Perth Amboy Chronicle.

BANQUETTED MR. MATT

WIT AND WISDOM FEATURES.

Toast Master Buxton the "Court Jester" on the Job—Music by Quartette.

"Sow Helpfulness and you will reap Happiness" was the trite inscription over the list of toasts given at the complimentary banquet tendered by his friends to Charles "Portaupeck" Matt at the Waldorf Hotel last night. And the manner in which the advice was carried out left no doubt that the words of the proverb sank deep into the hearts of the diners.

More than twenty of Mr. Matt's friends gathered around the festive board at 9 o'clock primarily to discuss a most tempting feast and secondarily to listen to words of wisdom from some of the witty men of the town. When wit and wisdom meet there is always a flow of soul and in this instance there was a big reserve of both commodities to draw from. F. W. Hand was the first called upon to respond to the toast, "Our Guest," and handed out a few bouquets to Mr. Matt. The dinner was given as a testimonial of appreciation for the many courtesies extended by Mr. Matt to his friends at Portaupeck.

Toastmaster Herbert Buxton successively introduced Mr. Matt, who made a response to Mr. Hand's speech; J. H. Cose, who had "good fellowship" as his topic; J. M. Williams, who was ludicrously funny in responding to "skyhouseboating;" F. H. Firstbrook, who had to tell when not to make "quick decision;" Arnold Nischwitz, who believes in the "live and let live" theory, and not to be entirely out of the game Mr. Buxton, himself interspersed a few remarks. He believes that "Sorrow is a job-lot of second-hand joy; that the things you get for nothing are the most expensive and if you don't know what to say don't say it."

The banquet was a twelve course affair and tickled the palates of the guests among whom were: J. F. Buckle, Judge William Newcorn, J. H. Cose, Herbert Buxton, L. A. Bellis, F. H. Firstbrook, Elmer Cutting, Harry Blimm, John Todd, William Smith, Charles "Portaupeck" Matt, Julius M. Williams, William Mazocco, Alfred Prudhon, E. C. Searing, Wilson Frederick, Philip Jahn, H. C. Van Emburgh, Henry Vosseler, D. J. Carney, F. W. Hand and John Nichol. A quartet composed of Elmer Cutting, Harry Blimm, John Todd and William Smith, rendered some choice selections which received the hearty applause of the banqueters.

GREEN HELD IN $1,000 BAIL FOR A HEARING.

Benjamin Green, colored, who was freed by Justice Snape, of the borough, and who was held in $1,000 bonds by Recorder Charles M. Dolliver to await a hearing, will appear for trial as soon as Richard Johnson, his victim, is able to leave the hospital.

At present Johnson is unable to talk, and his eyes are so badly battered up that it is almost impossible for him to see. Hence it is likely that the trial will not come off very soon. Meanwhile, in default of a bondsman, Green has been taken to the Somerset county jail, where he is now.

Rev. Dr. Eaton Will Be There.

Positive assurances have been received from Rev. D. Charles A. Eaton, pastor of the Madison Avenue Baptist church, of New York, that he will talk to the children and mothers at the Netherwood Fresh Air Home next Sunday. Dr. Eaton was to have spoken at the meeting last Sunday afternoon, but was prevented by a sudden call to Canada. This meeting is bound to be a large one, and with special music, rendered by some of Plainfield's best singers, is sure to be enjoyable. Plainfield people will not have another opportunity of hearing Dr. Eaton here. All are cordially invited to attend Sunday afternoon at 4 o'clock.

This Happened in Plainfield.

Presence of mind on the part of William Milligan, a driver for Neuman Brothers, in staying by his horse when the latter sank up to its middle in a trench on Dixie Lane, yesterday, and in working for four hours to extricate it, probably saved the animal serious injury. The road was water soaked with the heavy rain, and the trench was recently dug by the water company for mains. Milligan was driving to the tying post when the horse plunged into the ditch. Planks and various devices were pressed into service in extricating the animal.

MARTINE WOULD BE CANDIDATE FOR GOVERNOR

"If the Democratic party of New Jersey deems it proper and fitting I am willing to accept the gubernatorial nomination and will make a determined fight to win." These were the words spoken by James E. Martine while on the Democratic outing at Witzel's Point Grove, yesterday. The announcement was received with shouts and continued cheering by the Democrats, who seemed to see in the "farmer orator" a Moses, who can lead them out of the wilderness.

Although defeated time and again, this fact does not appear to discourage Mr. Martine in the least and as in the past he stands willing to sacrifice all personal interests to become the standard-bearer of his party.

"My position depends upon the graciousness and confidence of the convention. If the delegates think I can poll more votes than anyone else, then I will be the party candidate for governor," said Mr. Martine.

Frank S. Katzenbach, former Mayor of Trenton, and the opponent of Governor J. Franklin Fort in the last gubernatorial contest, is also a promising candidate, and his many friends in Mercer county are persistent in putting him forward as the party's choice for the highest position in the gift of the State.

ELIZABETH HOMICIDE A NOBLE BY BIRTH

Herbert Alessi, the Italian who is on his way back to Elizabeth from Detroit, where he went after shooting two of his fellow countrymen, has now been discovered to be a man of noble birth and the discovery has set Elizabeth and other cities all agog.

The fact that Alessi is of noble birth came to light last night in Detroit. This morning members of the family who live on Third avenue, Elizabeth, when questioned as to the facts, reluctantly admitted that the story of Alessi's noble lineage was true. They had endeavored to keep the story secret since their arrival in America several years ago. They now say that the family history can be traced back for more than a thousand years, and centuries ago the first of the Alessis owned a vast landed estate in Italy.

Owing to the loss of their estates which impoverished the family they emigrated to this country dropping the titles by which they were known in their native land. A brother of the accused murderer who works in the Singer plant is entitled to the following appelation: Gran Duca della Baroni de Crapriata Russo. The papers proving this fact are in Italy and to recover them would involve a large outlay of money, which at the present time the family are unable to command.

Alessi will be back in Elizabeth tomorrow to face the consequences of his recent act and a plea of self-defence will be entered for him.

SOMERSET FREEHOLDERS ON OUTING AT KINGSTON.

Freeholders Andrew J. Lutkins, of North Plainfield, and William Demler, of Watchung, are with the Somerset County Board of Freeholders at Kingston today, where the county road and bridge supervisors are enjoying their annual outing. A mammoth clam-bake is a feature of the affair, and "Dull Care" has been left in Somerset county for the day. With the freeholders is Charles P. Sebring, of Greenbrook.

Somerset county officials accepted invitations to the outing and it was hinted last night that there might be some political talk. Kingston is on the Delaware river, near Princeton, and after dinner those on the outing will take part in athletic games or else spend the time in sight-seeing or boating on the river.

WALLACE ZIMMERMAN HAS A DOG WITH A CAT'S PAW.

Wallace Zimmerman, the ten year old son of Alfred Zimmerman, an advertising solictor for The World, who lives in this city, has a little fox terrier with a cat's paw. The paw is well developed and is perfect.

This unusual dog is 18 months old. Instead of a dog's foot on its left fore leg there is a cat's paw with sharp claws and cushions like pussy wears. The dog isn't able to use the foot for traveling very much and goes about on three feet most of the time.

Chief's Kiely's Vacation.

In the fullness of golden years, 'neath the glow of a setting sun,
He sits, and dreams of a far off past, and the days of a race well run.
And memories come and go, as echoing footsteps fall;
Salute, ye men of a newer day, the noblest Roman of all.

WARREN'S EXCURSION LAST OF THE SEASON

It took seventeen cars to carry all the excursionists from Warren chapel to Asbury Park and Ocean Grove this morning. There were two sections of ten cars each, but three cars of the last section were dropped off at Roselle. This is the last excursion of the season from this city to the seashore, and this, coupled with the ideal weather, was partly responsible for the large number of people who turned out to attend it.

The first section left the North avenue depot at 8:20 o'clock, and the second section drew up right behind it and got off before 8:30 o'clock. Some excursionists mistook the last section for the first section, and in waiting for what they supposed was the second section, were left behind. There were seven people disappointed in this way.

The return trip will be made at 6:10 o'clock and the excursionists will reach this city a little before 8 o'clock.

New Church is Fully Equipped.

The Netherwood Reformed church on Leland avenue, is now equipped with everything needful for worship. The request for a suitable clock brought forth a quick response, and Horace J. Martin's Sunday school class at Trinity Reformed church, promptly supplied one. A person, who does not care to have his name published supplied the one remaining thing needed, a hymn board for the edifice and that will be in position Sunday. It is proposed to heat the church this winter with gas radiators, six having been installed. The building will soon be connected with the gas main.

GAS "CUT OFFS" BEING INSTALLED BY P. S. C.

Between sixty and seventy gas "cut offs" have thus far been put in by the Public Service Corporation in this city in front of hotels and other public buildings, in compliance with a recent ordinance adopted by the Common Council as an extra precaution against fire.

The ordinance provides that these "cut offs" be put in at the curb, in front of all churches, hotels, schools and other public buildings in this city. This is done so that in case of fire the gas may be turned off easily, thus lessening the danger from serious fire. The work is nearing completion.

The improvement is the result of suggestions made by Chief Doane, who recognized the possible danger of combustion from gas in large buildings or public halls in case of fire. The ordinance does not apply to the ordinary dwelling.

LOCAL MAN ENGINEER FOR MANHATTAN BRIDGE.

The new Manhattan bridge connecting New York with Brooklyn, on which Andrew McClean Parker, of Franklin place, is one of the assisting engineers, is rapidly nearing completion.

The approach from New York is still unfinished but the Brooklyn approach is practically finished. The span is situated between the Brooklyn and the Williamsburg bridges and is being constructed by the Terry & Tench Company. Mr. Parker has been engaged by them on part of the construction work.

The new bridge is built entirely of steel, including the towers from which the heavy cables are strung. The traffic ways are wider than in either of the other bridges already constructed and the bridge will stand as one of the greatest engineering enterprises in the metropolitan district.

Mr. Parker is a graduate of the City High School and was engaged as one of the engineers on the Panama Canal. After doing work there he lectured several times in this city, telling of the canal's construction.

Two Books Are Still Missing.

The failure of two Plainfield assessors to return their books to the Union County Board of Taxation is holding up the announcement of ratables in the various municipalities of the county. The county board has been busily engaged in its work on the other books, but until all of the figures are in, it is impossible to compute the totals. It is expected that the Plainfield books will be returned very shortly.

"Down and Out" Near Headquarters.

Mrs. Agnes Pullen, whose home is in Westfield, was found helplessly intoxicated near police headquarters yesterday afternoon by Patrolman Charles Flynn. At her hearing this morning, sentence was suspended by Judge Runyon.

Hollis Cubberly leaves this week for a fortnight' stay in the central part of New York State.

BOROUGH MAN ROBBED

Fountain Pen Snatched From Lorin Burt's Pocket in New York City.

CROWD CHASES THE THIEF.

Highwayman Captured and Police Will Prosecute, Although North Plainfielder Got His Property Back.

Because a stranger put his hand in the vest pocket of Lorin Burt, of 33 Park place, the borough, and took out a valuable fountain pen, the New York police insist upon his prosecution for highway robbery. The theft took place yesterday afternoon in New York. Mr. Burt was walking along a crowded thoroughfare with his coat open, when a stranger spotted the fountain pen in Mr. Burt's pocket. He hastily shot his hand out for it, grabbed it and then started to run.

Mr. Burt was too quick for him, however, and caught his shoulder before the thief could get away. Then he grabbed the pen from the hands of the man and let him go. The latter started to run, followed by a mob of men and boys shouting "stop thief." The chase led through the crowded street and the man bade fair to be lost in the throng when he plunged directly into the arms of a policeman at a corner, who brought him to a sudden stop. The policeman heard the story from a number of eye witnesses, and decided to take the prisoner to police headquarters. Mr. Burt was obliged to go along to testify against him.

When the thief saw that he was worsted, he tried to turn the incident off with an apology. Mr. Burt was satisfied to get the pen back and was willing to have the incident closed in this way; but the New York police looked at the matter in a different light. The theft was a daring one and took place in broad daylight on a crowded street showing that the perpetrator was of no ordinary calibre.

The police regard it as being just as serious as if the man had stolen a diamond jewelled watch and he was held without bail for trial. The penalty for highway robbery of this type is from three to twenty years in State's prison, with or without hard labor.

Mr. Burt has no option in the matter, and whether he presses the case or not, the State will do so, and he will be subjected to the inconvenience of having to appear in court to testify against the thief at a loss of much valuable time. Further he had to buy a new fountain pen for use in his business, owing to the fact that the one that was stolen was kept by the New York police to be used at the trial.

Mr. Burt is much displeased at the outcome of the affair as he has no desire to press the charge against the stranger.

SUPERVISOR MEEKER SAYS BRIDGES CAN BE BUILT.

State Supervisor of Roads Robert A. Meeker, of this city, in speaking of the bridges it will be necessary to build at Deal Lake, Shark River and Manasquan for the proposed Ocean Boulevard, from Atlantic Highlands to Cape May, said yesterday that the construction of bridges at these points was not only feasible but easy of accomplishment. A twenty-foot culvert of re-enforced concrete will solve the Deal Lake connection. Mr. Meeker also said that the trouble at Shark river has been that the outlet has been made too wide. An outlet 80 or 100 feet wide will meet the demand there.

Governor John Franklin Fort is quite as enthusiastic over the projected thoroughfare and says the Ocean Boulevard is assured. It means more to the people of New Jersey than any other subject now under consideration. Last year's boulevard law was a good beginning, and this winter ought to see things work a great help for the project.

Wedded Five Years Ago.

Mr. and Mrs. S. P. Robinson celebrated their fifth wedding anniversary last night at their home on Manning avenue. About a dozen relatives and friends gathered to tender their felicitations, and many brought anniversary gifts. The evening was pleasantly passed with games and music, and refreshments were served at a late hour. Mr. and Mrs. Robinson were married in this city August 18, 1904.

Took Clothes from Line.

A clothes-line thief took the week's wash from the lines of Mrs. R. E. Randolph, of Central avenue, Tuesday night, getting away with underclothing and table linen to the value of about $25. There is no clue to the identity of the thief. A description of the stolen articles has been furnished the police.

The Bayonne City Republican Club excursion has been postponed to August 27 on account of the rain. The candidate for Mayor will probably be then decided upon.

The test well sunk by the Citizens' League of Collingswood for the proposed municipal water plant is rapidly nearing completion, and already there is a free flow of clear water four feet above the top of the ground.

The whole issue of $50,000 bonds for Collingswood's three new schoolhouses have been sold, and the Board of Education has awarded the contract for building them to J. Steelman, of Bridgeton. Work will be commenced at an early date.

William Ford, Millville's new dogcatcher, has caught sufficient canines during the past three weeks to net him an income of $137.25. When the City Council advertised for a dog catcher no one but Ford would take the job because, it was claimed, it didn't pay enough.

Henry S. Wallace, publisher of the Atlantic Review, was wedded yesterday to Miss Edna Greg Smith, of Atlantic City. Only a few friends attended the nuptials, in Westminster Presbyterian church. S. W. Hinkle was best man. Mr. and Mrs. George W. Smith, parents of the bride, accompanied her.

Cranberry growers in South Jersey are jubilant over the rain this week, which is doing the berries no end of good, filling them out and in every way improving them. Harry Knight, secretary of the New Jersey's Growers' Association, with offices at Medford, is quoted as saying the crop will be a banner one.

Inasmuch as Camden has been virtually free of typhoid for some time, an average of two cases a month being all that has been reported, the presence of six cases in one locality in the East Side is causing considerable comment among city officials. Three of these cases were reported yesterday.

Under what was termed the most favorable conditions by former Assemblyman William Exton, chairman of his campaign committee, Commissioner Samuel H. Bullock, of Trenton, last evening, at a mass-meeting in Association Hall, that city, launched his campaign for the Republican nomination for the office of surrogate.

William H. Stehle, 2258 North Fifteenth street, Philadelphia, is about to erect a new $250,000 hotel at Chelsea, Atlantic City. The new hostelry will occupy a plot of ground between Morris and Chelsea avenues, beach front, which will cost Mr. Stehle $200,000, the largest price ever paid for a piece of property in that section, measuring 250 by 180 feet.

Rev. Horatio W. Maguire, rector of Calvary Episcopal church, Bayonne, yesterday announced that on last Saturday he had married Rev. Emil Montaneer, pastor of St. John's church, Saginaw, Mich., and Miss Anna D. Kunzmann, of Manhattan. Rev. Mr. Montaneer preached several times in Bayonne, and at the wedding of Rev. Mr. Maguire was best man. The couple will live in Saginaw.

With a stone he found in the street, Daniel Grat, fifty-four years old, smashed a window in front of the store of William Schumacker, a tailor at 215 Market street, Camden, yesterday, and was placed under arrest by Policeman John Golden and Special Policeman Robert Miller, after a lively struggle. There was evidence to show that an attempt had been made at robbery, and the smasher was sent to jail for three months.

WOULD STOP CARRYING OF HIDDEN WEAPONS.

Declaring that the "increasing prevalence of the practise of carrying concealed weapons, which under our laws is a criminal misdemeanor, is menace to public safety and the reputation of our county," specially emphasized by a recent tragical occurrence in New Brunswick in the fatal shooting of Charles McLaughlin, Prosecutor T. B. Booraem has written letters to Mayor W. E. Florance, of New Brunswick, Mayor Bollschweiller, of Perth Amboy, and Mayor Scully, of South Amboy, urging co-operative action to break up the practise. The prosecutor says in his letter:

"I believe it is my duty as prosecutor to exert every effort to suppress this practise by instructing those who are ignorant of our laws of the criminal nature of their acts and by detecting and prosecuting those who are guilty of this violation of the law. I can do much in my official capacity to accomplish these results and intend to exercise my power at all hazards, but I can do much more if I have your co-operation and advice as head of the police department of your city and publicly call on you for such co-operation.

"If your views on this existing evil coincide with mine I shall be glad to meet with you and your legal advisers and go over the situation with you with the purpose of finding an effetcive remedy.

It will also be set up that a mistake was made in the shipping, the cattle being delivered first at Harrison, N. J., instead of Paterson, it being necessary then to transfer the load from one railroad to another. It is for this, it is said that the extra charge of $12 is made. The case will come up in the District Court today.

"McFadden's Row of Flats," which will be the next offering at the Plainfield theatre, Saturday afternoon and night, deals with a numerous exposition of life on the East side district of New York. It is a farce comedy that has weathered many successful seasons, yet seems to be as potent an attraction as when it was originally produced fourteen years ago. This season all that remains of the old piece is its title. The play has been thoroughly revised, fitted up with new scenery, stage and electrical effects, an entire new cast, and a brand new book and score. The comedians are all capable and the show girls, thirty in number, besides knowing how to sing and dance uncommonly well, possess the unusual requisite of knowing how to pose and look pretty. There are specialties too, heretofore never introduced on any stage, and features that would be the saving grace of a production a notch or two lower in the mirth provoking line. Ten new songs have been written for the piece and all have the correct swing and rythm to make them popular.

DESERTED WIFE'S WOE TO BE AMELIORATED.

Captain of Detectives James Larkins, of the Jersey City police, had men detailed yesterday searching for Jerry Crimmins, who is wanted for deserting his young wife and one-year-old baby daughter.

The Crimmins case has excited the police as few abandonment cases do. There are two warrants out for Crimmins, one for neglect of children, issued a week ago by Justice of the Peace E. A. Ransom, Jr., and one for abandonment, issued Saturday last by acting Police Judge Edward Markley, of the First Criminal Court, on complaint of Assistant Poormaster George Murray.

Mrs. Crimmins was found last week living in an old shack on lots in Centre street with her baby. The building was constructed of old timber from the dumps and driftwood from the river, sheathed with rotted tin from a discarded roof, of a dismantled house, and was erected by Mrs. Crimmins' aged father, Andrew Gould, for a stable.

Policeman Amann, of the City Hall Station, discovered her condition last week, and called in Secretary Ransom, of the Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Children, who immediately took steps to apprehend Crimmins. Assistant Poormaster Murray visited the stable, and at once had an abandonment warrant issued, and promised to personally prosecute Crimmins. The police have been unable to get Crimmins.

On Saturday last it was reported that he was at the furnished room house, and Detective-Sergeant Nugent searched the place for him, but could not find him. Mabel Cox was there, but Crimmins had fled. Mrs. Crimmins will be taken from the stable and lodged temporarily at the Door of Hope in Belmont avenue.

SISTERS EACH FACE OPERATION IN HOSPITAL.

In less than two weeks' time William Righter, of 29 King street, Morristown, has sent his two daughters to the Memorial Hospital to be operated on for appendicitis. Now it is feared that his wife will have to be sent to the same institution for treatment. Mrs. Righter is not suffering from the same trouble, but is the victim of a nervous breakdown due to worry over her two daughters. Mr. Righter is almost distracted over the turn of affairs.

The first one to be taken ill was Hattie Righter, twenty-seven years old, who was admitted to the hospital August 5. As yet she has not been operaed upon and it is hoped that she may escape the knife. Last Wednesday her sister Cora, nineteen years old, was attacked with the same trouble and taken to the same hospital. Her trouble was more advanced and so serious was her condition that she had to undergo the operation Sunday night. Today she is doing nicely, and will recover unless complications set in.

The mother is doing her best to avoid being taken to the hospital, but the absence of her daughters seems to prey upon her mind, and she cannot be comforted. Dr. J. B. Griswold, the family physician, is in attendance.

"HOLY JUMPERS" CAN'T JUMP IN BROOKLYN.

The Brooklyn "Pillars of Fire," whom most people call "Holy Jumpers," have been barred from religious atheltics in front of the Washington statue in the Williamsburg Bridge plaza. C. W. Bidwell, who leads the religious sect, applied at the City Hall yesterday for a license and was told that the "Jumpers" would have to find a less conspicuous place to carry on their services.

"Our work is doing a lot of good," said Mr. Bidwell, in remonstrance, "and we only jump when the spirit moves us." But the clerk said that General Washington and the Brooklyn traffic mustn't be disturbed and the "Jumper" went away sad.

"The Pillars of Fire" started the athletic form of religion near Bound Brook, where their headquarters are on the Garretson farm.

"MERMAID" TO BE DAILY TRAIN NEXT SEASON.

So successful has been the Mermaid special, the New Jersey Central special from Scranton and other Pennsylvania points to the seashore, that it has been decided to run the train every day next summer instead of three times a week, as at present. A special dining car is now under course of construction to form a part of the equipment of the train next year.

C. J. Gummersbach, district passenger agent of the Central at Scranton, who was in Asbury Park yesterday, told Publicity Director Harold E. Denegar that to date over 4,000 people had been carried on the special. The Mermaid began running on July 1. Yesterday the special brought 222 excursionists to the shore.

Rev. Ernest R. Brown, of Dunellen, will preach in the First Presbyterian church on next Sunday morning, and in the evening Rev. James F. Dickinson, of Rochester, N. Y., will preach. The evening service will be participated in by Trinity Reformed, First Baptist and First M. E. churches as a union service.

REPUBLICAN SLATE MADE AT CLAMBAKE

Morris county Republicans to the number of one hundred and twenty-five, with State Treasurer Daniel Voorhees at their head, went to the Highlands yesterday morning to talk politics and eat clams. The occasion was the annual outing of the Morris County Board of Freeholders.

On the way to the clambake the party met and fraternized with the Democratic Joel Parker Association, of Newark, on the Sandy Hook boat. The Morris county "bake" was served at the Ocean View House.

Edward K. Mills, candidate for nomination as Senator, who has the support of the regular Republican machine of Morris county and Joseph Righter, the "new idea" senatorial candidate, were in the party. It was practically agreed that Righter will be beaten. It was also decided to nominate Assemblyman Oscar B. Smith, of Flanders, for another term and also to give an Assembly nomination to William F. Burch, of Dover. The Republican gubernatorial nomination was actively discussed and the names of State Banking and Insurance Commissioner Vivian Lewis and Senator Joseph S. Frelinghuysen, of Somerset county, were mentioned. It was the sense of the gathering that Commissioner Lewis will be the candidate for whom Morris county will throw its influence.

Some of those in the party besides State Treasurer Daniel Voorhees were Edward K. Mills, John Capstick, Judge Elmer Mills, Joseph Righter, John Mills, Edward Durling, John Dwyer, James Bellingham, Mayor Richard J. Chaplin, of Mount Arlington, Reuben Burtchall, Assemblyman James Lyon, Eugene Burke, William J. Powers, Mayor Cornelius Copp, of Boonton; George Estlel, Dr. Gus Becker, George Allen, James Connelly, John H. Martin, Al Richards, Collins Weir, Robert F. Jenkins, Manning Merchant, H. C. Newkirk, E. B. Mott, Joseph Harris, John G. Smith, Edward Fronz, Louis Waters, Al Smith, George Weber, M. H. Jennings, Theodore Young, Albert Nelson, Jere White, Charles Thisler, Judge P. WILL THE FAILURE OR SUCCESS OF THE NEW TARIFF

Rest on the Final Test of the Cost of Living.

The following note addressed to the New York Sun by Mr. Sminck, who is private secretary to State Senator Ernest R. Ackerman, is self explanatory and as it is a timely question and of interest to all who followed the tariff debates and who are anxious as to its results we publish the question and the Sun's reply in full.

Gold Production and the Cost of Living.

To the Editor of The Sun—Sir: As The Sun is usually very accurate in its editorial statements I beg to inquire if in its opinion the failure or success of the new tariff is to rest on the final test of the cost of living.

In a recent editorial you declare that "if there is no reduction in the cost of living complaints will be renewed and another period of agitation will ensue."

Will not the world's production of gold enter into the questions of prices and the cost of living? If so, should it not be considered when treating of prices and the tariff?

The other day you reported Dun's Review as saying:

"Gold production, always a stimulator of enterprise, was the heaviest on record in the first half of the year and over 60 per cent. of it went into bank vaults to become the basis of credit."

If there should be a stimulation of enterprise and business activity, accompanied by an increasing consuming power, would not the usual operation of the economic law of supply and demand tend to check any general fall in prices, provided there had been no overproduction?

From your general commercial and financial news falling markets are not anticipated, but on the contrary it seems to be the belief that firm, steady markets are apt to prevail for some time to come. Will the new tariff be responsible for these conditions?

This note is not written for the purpose of sustaining any theories on the subject of the tariff, but with the object of developing all the economic facts surrounding a possible increase in prices and the cost of living.

CHARLES S. SMINCK.

Plainfield, N. J., Aug. 16.

We reply that the world's production of gold will certainly enter into the question of the cost of living, and should be considered when treating of prices under the new tariff. It will be a plus or a minus factor in relation to the effect of the tariff, just as the effect of the tariff will be a plus or a minus factor in relation to the effect of gold production on the purchasing power of money and cost of living.

AMONG OUR NEIGHBORS

SOUTH PLAINFIELD.

The regular monthly meeting of the Middlesex volunteer fire company will be held tomorrow night in the fire house. Every member of the company should attend as important business will be discussed.

It is probable that the annual Labor Day celebration will not take place this year as no society has yet taken it up. The Midlesex volunteer fire company had it last year.

The Plainfield Auto 'Bus Company began its schedule yesterday. The machines were well filled on every trip.

Miss Grace Norman, who has been visiting friends in South River, returned to her home here yesterday.

Miss Helen Thomas, of South Amboy, returned home yesterday after a month's visit with relatives here.

PROTEST TO GOVERNOR ABOUT ATLANTIC CITY

Governor Fort visited the State house yesterday for the first time in several weeks and probably for the last time until he returns from his proposed two weeks' trip in New York State, a part of which will be made by automobile.

One of the first to see the Governor during his stay was a group of representatives of the Atlantic City branch of the Lord's Day Alliance. They had come to protest against the desecration of the Sabbath at Atlantic City, and particularly the violations of the excise and gambling laws, and to enlist the assistance of the Governor in checking the evils of which they complained.

Governor Fort listened to all the visitors had to say and then suggested that they consult with the attorney-general with a view of determining what legal action could be taken to beter conditions. It was arranged that the delegation should see the attorney-general Friday, and pending the result of this conference the subject was left in abeyance.

The delegation was composed of Rev. B. S. Hudson, president of the Lord's Day Alliance of Atlantic County; Rev. J. L. Surtees, secretary of the same organization; Rev. Sherman G. Pitt, W. R. Winters, Charles E. Sheppard and S. H. Hank, secretary of the State Law and Order League.

Speaking of his prospective trip the Governor said he would probably not return until September 7, although there was a possibility of his being in Trenton on September 3. He added that since the day of his nomination for Governor up to the present time he had taken practically no rest or recreation of any kind, except the week's shooting trip he had in the South last November. Disclaiming that he was tired or overworked or weary in any way, the Governor admitted that he had felt the strain of the many cares and responsibilities incident to the executive office and thought a rest would do him good.

He also said there were no public matters now pending which required his attention, and that he had asked Senator Frelinghuysen, the President of the Senate, to attend to whatever routine matters there might die in the office calling for action during his absence.

He said it would not be necessary at all for Senator Frelinghuysen to be sworn in as acting Governor, as he would be within call, if needed, at any time. He also expressed the view that it was not necessary under the New Jersey Constitution to swear in the President of the Senate, as in the case of the absence of the Governor from the State the President of the Senate had ample power to act by simply signing himself President of the Senate and Acting Governor.

WOULD PAY POSTMASTERS MORE

Declaring that he was an advocate of better compensation of third and fourth class postmasters, Representative John Gardner elicited applause from the two hundred attending the Third and Fourth Class Postmasters' Convention, which adjourned yesterday at Atlantic City. Co-operation among the postmasters was the keynote of all the speakers.

Officers elected are: W. D. Jadine, Kenville, president; Francis I. Peterson, Wildwood, vice-president; Mulford D. Campbell, Dividing Creek, secretary and treasurer. The Executive Committee, Willis D. Robbins, Port Norris, chairman; W. H. Mount, Yardville, and Frank Merrell, New Field. The delegates favored Atlantic City for next year's convention, but left the decision in the hands of the Executive Committee.

NEW IDEA MEN MAKE SLATE IN HUDSON CO.

New Idea leaders of Hudson county framed a county ticket for the open primaries and adopted a campaign platform at the convention of the Central Republican committee, held at Jersey City last night. All candidates endorsed by the committee, including former Mayor Mark A. Fagan, the mayoralty nominee, and George L. Record, an Assemblyman candidate, were present and made speeches.

The platform is silent on the excise question, although one of the candidates indorsed by the committee is Frederick A. Otto, who is a radical supporter of a wide open Sunday on everything. The platform names as the leaders of the New Idea faction ex-President Roosevelt, Senators La Follette, Cummins, Dolliver, and of the other Senator Aldrich and Speaker Cannon. In New Jersey, the platform says, David Baird, Senator Kean, Carl Lentz and ex-Governor Stokes are leaders of the wing advocating special privilege. It asserts that the party machinery is controlled by an arbitrary political machine, which stands for the stuffing of the ballot box, unseating of committeemen legally elected and the selection of men for office who will serve the local bosses; that the difference between the factions must go on until the idea of party government represented by the one faction or the other shall be triumphant. The platform advocates equal taxation, taxation of franchises of corporations, a direct primary system for the choice of all candidates from Governor down, the impartial selection of primary election officers, the Massachusetts form of ballot, a public utility commission with power to fix the rates to be charged by light, water, trolley, railroad, telegraph and telephone companies, an employers' liability law, abolition of the county tax board, repeal of the Hillery tax act, payment of taxes by railroads as promptly as the individual is required to pay, a legislative rule compelling committees to report on all bills on the demand of the minority and a law establishing complete home rule and no legisaltive interference.

After a tribute to Mayor Fagan's efficiency, the platform closes with the declaration that the railroad corporations should pay more taxes and that the election of Mark Fagan will impress on the Legislature that the people demand an increased taxation of the great corporations.

PRINCETON GETS $100,000.

Bequest of C. C. Cuyler, Whose Will Is Filed for Probate.

Princeton University is an immediate beneficiary to the extent of $100,000 under the will of C. C. Cuyler, which was filed in the Surrogate's Court yesterday, and a prospective beneficiary through the residue of the estate. Mr. Cuyler's will was dated March 1, 1906, two days before his marriage to Mrs. Mary Townsend Lord, the widow of James Brown Lord and a sister of Delancey Nicoll. After various small bequests to relatives as marks of affection, there is a gift of $25,000 to the general endowment fund of the Young Men's Christian Association and the gift of $100,000 to Princeton University.

The Princeton bequest, the will says, is to be known as the Theodore Cuyler General Fund, and is a further memorial of his father, Theodore Ledyard Cuyler. The principal is to remain intact and bear the name of his father. It is to be invested according to the judgment of the university trustees, and the income is to be used as they see fit, but the will adds:

"I express the hope that in matters relating to the administration of said fund said university will freely confer with my executors and trustees, and the survivor or survivors of them from time to time, they being in some respects more fully advised of my sentiments in that connection than the authorities of said university, but this expression shall in no wise affect the absolute character of this bequest."

The residue of the estate Mr. Cuyler left in trust to his executors and trustees, the income to be paid "to my intended wife, now Mary Townsend Lord, for life, if she shall survive me as my widow." Mr. Cuyler provided that should his wife not survive him and should there be no surviving children, the residue of the estate should go to Princeton University and be added to the Theodore Cuyler general fund. Thomas DeWitt Cuyler, Thomas Cumming Hall and Charles F. Mathewson are appointed executors and trustees without bonds, with full power to sell and invest all the property, both real and personal.

Mr. Cuyler died at Blarritz, France, on July 30 last, from injuries received in an automobile accident near Cambo on that day. Mrs. Cusler was hurt in the accident, but not seriously. The body arrived here on August 12, accompanied by Mrs. Cuyler and Delancey Nicoll, her brother.

The Misses Olive and Elizabeth Griggs, of Reaville, Hunterdon county, returned home today after a pleasant week's visit at the home of their aunt, Mrs. R. W. Barnes, of Mountain avenue.

FREAK CALF IN MORRIS COUNTY HAS FIVE LEGS.

Former Mayor Charles C. Romain, proprietor of the Lakeside Hotel, on the north side of the Pompton Lake, has purchased a freak calf of David Smith, of Pompton. The calf has five perfectly formed legs, except that one is shorter than the other four and does not touch the ground. The calf also whisks about two fully formed tails. The cow that gave birth to this overformed creature is a blooded one and very valuable. Mr. Romain uses the calf as a freak and exhibits it at picnics. He had it at the farmers' picnics at Lake Grinnell and Newfoundland last week, and expects to start on a tri-

FENCING SHIRT AS A BLOUSE.

Women have a propensity for usurping the uniforms of various professions and of converting them temporarily into fashions for themselves. Quite as if, my dear, they were not supplied by the maker with enough to choose from! With enough in fact, to drive them distracted if they allowed it to get the better of them.

They long ago affected the military for their tailored trimmings; they claimed most of the navy trappings for their yachting clothes; they positively laid siege to the middy blouse, which they wear for athletics and for school. A man's sweater isn't his own any more, since women prefer its sleeve and shoulder line to the exclusively womanish sweater, and women now are veering over to the fencing shirt as a daily blouse.

It is a very sheer, full and beautiful little garment that has somehow escaped undue popularity, perhaps because it belongs to a peculiar type of woman who, while she may be slender, has unusual breadth across the shoulders. The woman of the fencing blouse should measure about six inches on the shoulder from collar line to top of sleeve, because the requisite amount of bloused material necessary at the waist line for fencing is not balanced by the fulness across the shoulders and bust.

The fencing shirt usually is made of sheer, soft batiste. It never is starched and it is cut invariably over the same pattern.

The two fronts and the back of the shirt are cut a little fuller than a perfectly plain shirtwaist. They are felled together on the shoulder and under the arm and then sewn into a neckband with a few gathers stroked in at the back of the neck (as in a workman's blouse) and at each side of the front neckband. A casing run with white silk elastic and finished to fit the waist measurement blouses the garment over exactly like a child's sailor blouse.

The sleeve is cut for a two-inch bishop's wristband at the hand and with only a few gathers at the armhole. The top line of the sleeve shows very little rise, being cut high underneath to admit of raising the arm. The cuffbands and the front hem are then opened for the insertion of a five-inch hemstitched frill, which falls over the hands and cascades down the front.

The fencing shirt is worn with a stiff turnover collar and a Windsor tie, and has a distinctive style most becoming to the mannish girl, in spite of its frills.

EMBROIDERED PARASOL.

Many women utilize their old parasol frames when they wish to embroider a new one. While this is an economical practise it is rather foolish unless necessary.

Shapes change in parasols as in everything else, and it seems foolish to put handsome work on a parasol that shows itself distinctly out of date by its frame.

The parasols of this season, for instance, are wide, flat-topped affairs, with from fifteen to twenty ribs; they also have long handles. While not affording so much shade, this shape lends itself admirably to embroidery or rather to showing off the finished work.

The top can be embroidered as a whole, with graceful bow-knot effects, caught with bunches of tiny flowers in soft pastel tints. One good looking parasol of biscuit colored moire has a pattern of dull rose ribbon outlined in gold, with baskets worked in yellow flo outlined in gold and filled with forget-me-nots, white violets and small primroses.

These baskets were in alternate panels and the flowers were done in natural tints in ribbon work.

Smart parasols have Japanese motifs worked in each panel. These are especially appropriate, as the flat shape is decidedly Oriental. Dragoons, storks, cranes, roses and butterflies in skillful combination with scroll-like curves all are effective and not difficult to work.

The embroidery is usually done on a heavy silk, but cheaper parasols can be made from pongee or heavy art linen, either tinted or natural colors. Be careful in slecting harmonious tones in which the design is to be embroidered. Too many amateurs in attempting Oriental colorings get loud and garish effects.

In all a white parasol is most serviceable for the woman who does not have a variety of sun-shades. It cleans well, and if worked on linen, will last for years. The Japanese motives developed entirely in white are surprisingly effective.

Such a parasol with a crane handle would be very stylish. The handle might be one of the new enameled kind, though, as a rule the white linen parasols look best with a natural handle.

The Helpful Bellboy.

For four consecutive nights the hotel man had watched his fair, timid guest fill her pitcher at the water cooler.

"Madam," he said on the fifth night, "if you would ring this would be done for you.'

"But where is my bell?" asked the lady.

"The bell is beside your bed," replied the proprietor.

"That the bell!" she exclaimed. "Why, the boy told me that was the fire alarm, and that I wasn't to touch it on any account."—Success Magazine.

MAIDS FOR THE QUEEN'S COURT.

Two More Chosen to Grace the Train of Titania at Asbury Park.

When the court of Queen Titania IX makes its entrance into Asbury Park in the night of the Deal Lake carnival—Thursday, August 26—to accompany the Fairy Queen during her reign over the annual children's festivals, two of the prettiest of the group will be Miss Eda Kathryn Mincho and Miss Marion Adele Souville, both of Brooklyn, who have been chosen maids of honor for the carnival by the Carnival Association.

Miss Mincho is the only daughter of Gustave H. Mincho, who is spending the summer with his family at the Hotel Lafayette. She enjoys the distinction of being the first maid of honor to Titania's court who has been a baby parade prize winner, for Miss Mincho took part several years ago in the pony division of the baby parade and won first prize.

Miss Souville, the third maid of honor to be chosen by the Carnival Association, is the daughter of Lloyd A. Souville, Jr. She is a graduate of the Girls' High School, in Brooklyn, and is now enrolled at Adelphi College. She is also a member of the Adelphia Dramatic Club, of Brooklyn. With her parents she is spending the summer at the Hotel Manhattan.

CHRISTIAN ENDEAVOR.

Prayer Meeting Topic For the Week Beginning Aug. 22, 1909.

By REV. S. H. DOYLE.

Topic—Two prayer lessons.—Matt. vi. 5, 6; xix. 19, 20.

To some people the idea of being taught to pray may seem repugnant. But this should not be their feeling, for if we are taught, as we are, how to address man, how much more should we learn how to address God! There is no place in the Christian religion where we are more irreverent than in prayer. I do not refer so much to our attitude while another prays, though there is enough irreverence here. The angels approach God in the most reverential way, exclaiming, "Holy, holy, holy, Lord God Almighty!" On the other hand, men approach Him most carelessly, and during prayer by another the laziest and loungiest attitude is assumed. But these things, while serious enough, are not so serious as the irreverence which I have in mind. Many more think of learning how to pray, of studying the Biblical and other prayers as ideals. Others, again, form no idea of what they are going to say in prayer. They never in any sense prepare their prayers. If called upon to address men they want time for preparation, but no preparation is necessary to address God. If they approach a king every method of procedure is thoroughly studied, but in approaching God no such preparedness is considered necessary. Any thoughts that happen to come to their minds may be addressed to God. But prayer, approach to God, is a most sacred act of devotion, and we should learn to pray and approach God in the most devout manner. John taught his disciples to pray, and, inspired by their example, the disciples of Christ asked Him to teach them to pray. He did not hesitate and gave them a comprehensive yet brief prayer as an example. Moreover, on other occasions He taught them how and where to pray to obtain the answers.

The first lesson is on sincerity in prayer. The first truth teaches how not to pray. "And when thou prayest, thou shall not be as the hypocrites are." The hypocrites prayed to be seen of men and not so much to be heard of God. If on the way to the temple at the hour of prayer, when the time came those who had not arrived stood where they were and offered up their devotions. The Pharisees were often purposely late and stood on the corners and made very long prayers that men might see how devout they were regardless of God's attitude toward them. There was no sincerity in such prayers, and Christ in this lesson teaches us against praying after such a fashion. He then follows with a lesson on how to pray. "Thou, when thou prayest, enter thy closet, and when thou hast shut thy door pray to thy Father which is in secret." Let us remember that Christ refers here to personal, individual prayer and not to praying in public. In personal prayer secrecy is an essential. No public parade, but to the secret place we should go and then shut the door. Absolutely shut off from the world, prayers will be truly sincere. We will face God as we are, and why any other way? For no one sees or hears but God, and He knows us already. Secret prayer should be rewarded openly. God will testify to our success.

The second lesson is on unity in prayer, "If two of you shall agree on earth as touching anything that they shall ask, it shall be done for them by My Father which is in heaven, for where two or three are gathered together in My name, there am I in the midst of them." Where there is agreement there is usually no selfishness or pride. If two agree it is a good sign. And if they pray for that on which they are agreed the answer is sure to come, for Christ is with them, interceding for them.

BIBLE READINGS.

Ps. v, 1-4; xviii, 1-3; xx, 1-9; Matt. vi, 7-15; Luke xi, 1-13; viii, 11-17; John iv, 23; Acts i, 12-14; xii, 1-8; Eph. iii, 14-21.

All of One Army.

An engineer who built a great suspension bridge said: "Nothing will ever endanger this bridge except possibly the passage of an army of soldiers keeping step to martial music. No! The ponderous trains gliding smoothly over it will not endanger it, but the tramp, tramp, tramp, of thousands keeping time to the same measure and rhythm—this might set the bridge swinging and imperil its stability." Endeavorers, we are comrades in many companies, regiments and divisions, but all of one army. All whose names rest beneath our pledge and march beneath the banner inscribed "For Christ and the Church" have a place somewhere, and it is our bounden duty to keep step with our comrades and not only imperil but destroy the great bridge of sin whose tollman is a powerful and bitter enemy to unity in any form.—Record of Christian Work.

Get to Work!

Supposing a young man joins a church from the best and only motive—his love for Christ and desire to serve in Christ's own organization—the best thing he can do is to volunteer some work in that church that he knows he is well fitted for. In the organized life of the present day church, with its varied doors of opportunity, any man can certainly find some special, definite work that he can well do, in the Sunday school, the Christian Endeavor society, the prayer meeting, the musical service, the missionary activity or whatever is vitally connected with the church life.—Rev. Charles M. Sheldon, D. D., in Australian Christian Endeavor Link.

dumb companion and a prayer choked in her throat. She crouched lest a bullet tear her from her horse; but through the darkness no bullet came, only the sleet, stinging her face, stiffening her gloves, freezing her hair, chilling her limbs, and weighting her like lead on her struggling horse. She knew not even Sinclair could overtake her now—that no living man could lay a hand on her bridle-rein—and she pulled Jim in down the winding hills to save him for the long flat. When they struck it they had but four miles to go.

Across the flat the wind drove in fury. Reflection, thought and reason were beginning to leave her. She was crying to herself quietly as she used to cry when she lost herself, a mere child, riding among the hills. She was praying meaningless words. Snow patted softly on her cheeks. The cold was soothing her senses. Unable at last to keep her seat on the horse, she stopped him, slipped stiffly to the ground, and, struggling through the wind as she held fast to the bridle and the horn, half walked and half ran to start the blood through her benumbed veins. She struggled until she could drag her mired feet no farther, and tried to draw herself back into the saddle. It was almost beyond her. She sobbed and screamed at her helplessness. At last she managed to climb flounderingly back into her seat, and, bending her stiffened arms to Jim's neck, she moaned and cried to him. When again she could hold her seat no longer, she fell to the horse's side, dragged herself along in the frozen slush, and, screaming with the pain of her freezing hands, drew herself up into the saddle.

She knew that she dare not venture this again—that if she did so she could never remount. She felt now that she should never live to reach Medicine Bend. She rode on and on and on—would it never end? Then came a sound like the beating of great drums in her ears. It was the crash of Jim's hoofs on the river bridge, and she was in Medicine Bend.

A horse, galloping low and heavily, slued through the snow from Fort street into Boney, and, where it had so often stopped before, dashed up on the sidewalk in front of the little shop. The shock was too much for its unconscious rider, and, shot headlong from her saddle, Dicksie was flung bruised and senseless against Marion's door.

CHAPTER XXXVIII.

At the Door.

She woke in a dream of hoofs beating at her brain. Distracted words fell from her lips, and when she opened her swollen eyes and saw those about her she could only scream.

Marion had called up the stable, but the stablemen could only tell her that Dicksie's horse, in terrible condition, had come in riderless. While Barnhardt, the railway surgeon, at the bedside administered restoratives, Marion talked with him of Dicksie's sudden and mysterious coming. Dicksie, lying in pain and quite conscious, heard all, but, unable to explain, moaned in her helplessness. She heard Marion at length tell the doctor that McCloud was out of town, and the news seemed to bring back her senses. Then, rising in the bed, while the surgeon and Marion coaxed her to lie down, she clutched at their arms and, looking from one to the other, told her story. When it was done she swooned, but she woke to hear voices at the door of the shop. She heard as if she dreamed, but at the door the words were dread reality. Sinclair had made good his word, and had come out of the storm with a summons upon Marion and it was the surgeon who threw open the door and saw Sinclair standing in the snow.

No man in Medicine Bend knew Sinclair more thoroughly or feared him less than Barnhardt. No man could better meet him or speak to him with less of hesitation. Sinclair, as he faced Barnhardt, was not easy in spite of his dogged self-control; and he was standing, much to his annoyance, in the glare of an arc-light that swung across the street in front of the shop. He was well aware that no such light had ever swung within a block of the shop before and in it he saw the hand of Whispering Smith. The light was unexpected, Barnhardt was a surprise, and even the falling snow, which protected him from being seen 20 feet away, angered him. He asked curtly who was ill, and without awaiting an answer asked for his wife.

The surgeon eyed him coldly. "Sinclair, what are you doing in Medicine Bend? Have you come to surrender yourself?"

"Surrender myself? Yes, I'm ready any time to surrender myself. Take me along yourself, Barnhardt, if you think I've done worse than any man would that has been hounded as I've been hounded. I want to see my wife."

"Sinclair, you can't see your wife."

"What's the matter—is she sick?"

"No, but you can't see her."

"Who says I can't see her?"

"I say so."

Sinclair swept the ice furiously from his beard and his right hand fell to his hip as he stepped back. "You've turned against me too, have you, you gray-haired wolf? Can't see her! Get out of that door."

The surgeon pointed his finger at the murderer. "No, I won't get out of this door. Shoot, you coward! Shoot an unarmed man. You will not live to get 100 feet away. This place is watched for you; you could not have got within 100 yards of it to-night except for this snow." Barnhardt pointed through the storm. "Sinclair, you will hang in the courthouse square, and I will take the last beat of your pulse with these fingers, and when I pronounce you dead they will cut you down. You want to see your wife. You want to kill her. Don't lie; you want to kill her. You were heard to say as much to-night at the Dunning ranch. You were watched and tracked, and you are expected and looked for here. Your best friends have gone back on you. Ay, curse again and over again, but that will not put Ed Banks on his feet."

"Who Says I Can't See Her?"

Sinclair stamped with frenzied oaths. "You're too hard on me," he cried, clenching his hands. "I say you're too hard. You've heard one side of it. Is that the way you put judgment on a man that's got no friends left because they start a new lie on him every day? Who is it that's watching me? Let them stand out like men in the open. If they want me, let them come like men and take me!"

"Sinclair, this storm gives you a chance to get away; take it. Bad as you are, there are men in Medicine Bend who knew you when you were a man. Don't stay here for some of them to sit on the jury that hangs you. If you can get away, get away. If I were your friend—and God knows whom you can call friend in Medicine Bend to-night—I couldn't say more. Get away before it is too late."

He was never again seen alive in Medicine Bend. They tracked him next day over every foot of ground he had covered. They found where he had left his spent horse and where afterward he had got the fresh one. They learned how he had eluded all the picketing planned for precisely such a contingency, got into the Wickiup, got upstairs and burst open the very door of McCloud's room. But Dicksie had on her side that night One greater than her invincible will or her faithful horse. McCloud was 200 miles away.

Barnhardt lost no time in telephoning the Wickiup that Sinclair was in town, but within an hour, while the two women were still under the surgeon's protection, a knock at the cottage door gave them a second fright. Barnhardt answered the summons. He opened the door and, as the man outside paused to shake the snow off his hat, the surgeon caught him by the shoulder and dragged into the house Whispering Smith.

Picking the icicles from his hair, Smith listened to all that Barnhardt said, his eyes roving meantime over everything within the room and mentally over many things outside it. He congratulated Barnhardt and when Marion came into the room he apologized for the snow he had brought in. Dicksie heard his voice and cried out from the bedroom. They could not keep her away, and she ran out to catch his hands and plead with him not to go away. He tried to assure her that the danger was over; that guards were now outside everywhere, and would be until morning. But Dicksie clung to him and would take no refusal.

Whispering Smith looked at her in amazement and in admiration. "You are captain to-night, Miss Dicksie, by heaven. If you say the word I'll lie here on a rug till morning. But that man will not be back to-night. You are a queen. If I had a mountain girl that would do as much as that for me I would—"

"What would you do?" asked Marion.

"Say good-by to this accursed country forever."

CHAPTER XXXIX.

Closing In.

In the morning the sun rose with a mountain smile. The storm had swept the air till the ranges shone blue and the plain sparkled under a cloudless sky. Bob Scott and Wickwire, riding at daybreak, picked up a trail on the Fence river road. A consultation was held at the bridge, and within half an hour Whispering Smith, with unshaken patience, was in the saddle and following it.

With him were Kennedy and Bob Scott. Sinclair had ridden into the lines, and Whispering Smith, with his best two men, meant to put it up to him to ride out. They meant now to get him, with a trail or without, and were putting horseflesh against horseflesh and craft against craft.

At the forks of the Fence they picked up Wickwire, Kennedy taking him on the up road, while Scott with Whispering Smith crossed to the Crawling Stone. When Smith and Scott reached the Frenchman they parted to cover in turn each of the trails by which it is possible to get out of the river country toward the Park and Williams Cache.

By four o'clock in the afternoon they had all covered the ground so well that the four were able to make their rendezvous on the big Fence divide, south of Crawling Stone valley. They then found, to their disappointment, that, widely separated as they had been, both parties were following trails they believed to be good. They shot a steer, tagged it, ate dinner and supper in one, and separated under Whispering Smith's counsel that both the trails be followed into the next morning—in the belief that one of them would run out or that the two would run together. At noon the next day Scott rode through the hills from the Fence, and Kennedy with Wickwire came through Two Feather pass from the Frenchman with the report that the game had left their valleys.

Without rest they pushed on. At the foot of the Mission mountains they picked up the tracks of a party of three horsemen. Twice within ten miles afterward the men they were following crossed the river. Each time their trail, with some little difficulty, was found again. At a little ranch in the Mission foothills, Kennedy and Scott, leaving Wickwire with Whispering Smith, took fresh horses and pushed ahead as far as they could ride before dark, but they brought back news. The trail had split again, with one man riding alone to the left, while two had taken the hills to the right, heading for Mission pass and the Cache. With Gene Johnson and Bob at the mouth of the Cache there was little fear for that outlet. The turn to the left was the unexpected. Over the little fire in the ranch kitchen where they ate supper, the four men were in conference 20 minutes. It was decided that Scott and Kennedy should head for the Mission pass, while Whispering Smith, with Wickwire to trail with him, should undertake to cut off, somewhere between Fence river and the railroad, the man who had gone south, the man believed to be Sinclair. It was a late moon, and when Scott and Kennedy saddled their horses Whispering Smith and Wickwire were asleep.

With the cowboy, Whispering Smith started at daybreak. No one saw them again for two days. During those two days and nights they were in the saddle almost continuously. For every mile the man ahead of them rode they were forced to ride two miles and often three. Late in the second night they crossed the railroad, and the first word from them came in long dispatches sent by Whispering Smith to Medicine Bend and instructions to Kennedy and Scott in the north, which were carried by hard riders straight to Deep creek.

On the morning of the third day Dicksie Dunning, who had gone home from Medicine Bend and who had been telephoning Marion and George McCloud two days for news, was trying to get Medicine Bend again on the telephone when Puss came in to say that a man at the kitchen door wanted to see her.

"Who is it, Puss?"

"I d'no, Miss Dicksie; 'deed, I never seen him b'fore."

Virgins.

As it happened, however, the five foolish virgins were observed, in their perplexity, by five wise men.

"Permit me!" quoth each of these, and stepped up and filled a virgin's lamp for her, adding: "Now, you just about need somebody to look out for you, eh?"

And upon the five foolish virgins blushing violently and looking shyly down, the five wise men lost no time in procuring licenses, and they all lived happily ever after.

As for the wise virgins, they sniffed some when they heard the news, animadverted with considerable acerbity on the ancient mystery of the way of a man with a maid, and let it go at that.—Puck.

In the front of the property, Mr. Harrigan will erect two or three small modern dwellings, and when completed the improvement will make this property one of the most attractive in that part of the city. DECEIVING CHAUFFEUR LOSES HIS LICENSE.

Commissioner Smith, of the motor vehicle department, yesterday revoked the driver's license of Carl B. Kohr, of Pennington. Kohr was a chauffeur in the employ of John T. Kunkle, having been a trusted employe in Mr. Kunkle's family for many years.

It was found, however, that he had been of late abusing the confidence reposed in him, using Mr. Kunkle's automobile on several occasions for "joy" riding, the most serious of which was July 15, last, when he took his employer's car from Princeton to Trenton, where he was joined by a party of men and women, and went for a ride toward Trenton Junction.

In attempting to turn around near the Junction, he backed into a post, causing injury to the rear of the car, and while crossing the bridge in his return to Trenton ran into the railing, damaging the front of the car to the extent of several hundred dollars. There were, besides, several other charges of conduct unbecoming to chauffeurs, and proceedings will also be brought for violation of the automobile law.

STRIKERS AGREE TO TERMS.

The 2,500 hatters who have been on strike in Orange for eight months voted unanimously to go back to work yesterday following the proposition made by Gov. Fort. This proposition contained the provision that the manufacturers may retain the services of their present non-union hands if they are needed, and it had been predicted that the strikers would not accept it. They were plainly opposed to the plan when they entered the Orange Armory, where the vote was taken, but after an address by President Moffitt their attitude changed.

Word of Orange's action was immediately sent to Newark, where the local strikers met to decide the same question.

President Moffitt, after the meeting, said that he believed the controversy would be all settled in a few days more, though some doubt is expressed whether the manufacturers will agree to a proviso inserted by the men in the agreement to allow the strikebreakers membership in the union.

WIFE CLAIMS HUSBAND FLED WITH HER SISTER.

Mrs. Clara Strangeway, of Terrace avenue, Hasbrouck Heights, called at police headquarters yesterday and asked Chief of Police George Holland to aid her in finding her husband, Norman, thirty-five years old, who she charged eloped with her sister, Miss Barbara Miller, who lived with them, July 6. Two weeks later, Mrs. Strangeway says, she located them in a boarding-house in Hackensack, and by the time she procured a warrant from Probation Officer James Bratt, of that town, charging non-support, they left town and no trace has been obtained of them since.

Mrs. Strangeway said yesterday that the reason she had not made the matter public was that she had hoped to locate them herself. They have a five-minth-old baby and are in destitute circumstances. Strangeway weighs 160 pounds, is smooth face, and when he left wore a dark blue suit and a straw hat. Miss Miller weighs 175 pounds, and is twenty-two years old, with light complexion.

AGE AND YOUTH IN DISPLAY OF HEROISM.

Aged Mrs. Bridget Roe, of East Burlington, and two young boys who disappeared before their names could be learned, were the star figures in exciting rescues at the home of Frank Sechanski, Tuesday. Through somebody's mistake the Sechanski oil can was filled with gasoline, which exploded and fired the house when Mrs. Sechanski started the kitchen fire with wood soaked in it.

Flames enveloped the mother and a cariage containing a four-week-old baby, but Mrs. Roe rushed in and carried the baby to safety. One of the two boys ran upstairs and threw a two-year-old daughter to his chum.

Prompt medical attendance saved Mrs. Sechanski's life, and neighbors formed a bucket brigade and quenched the fire before the firemen arrived.

BASEBALL.

"Manager Doerflinger need not fear the boasts of Acting Manager Titsworth of the Dunellens. There is always the possibility of his mistaking the ability of his own batsmen as well as the fact that Ortlieb is still in the game. It would seem more appropriate for 'Mr. Brag' to wait until after the game is over."

The above is what one of the Plainfield players said yesterday in response to the published reports of Mr. Titsworth's prophesy about next Saturday's game at Dunellen.

CORPORATIONS TO FIGHT THE NEW INCOME TAX.

The officers in the internal revenue bureau who are charged with administering the new corporation tax law have already been apprised unofficially of the intention of the corporations to resist the law in the courts and test its constitutionality. Up to this time, however, the Treasury officers have not been able to find any vulnerable point of attack.

They believe that the law will stand the test. Their chief reliance is on the fact that it was drawn by able lawyers, who adhered strictly to the Supreme Court decision upholding the right of Congress to tax a corporation for carrying on a business. President Taft called to his assistance in the work Secretary Knox, Attorney-General Wickersham and Senator Root.

It has been suggested that one point of attack would be that the law is in reality not a tax upon the privilege of doing business, but is a tax on profits. The officers of the internal revenue bureau are collecting data all over the country as to the number of corporations and conferences are held almost daily as to the methods to be pursued in collecting the tax.

No definite plan will be formulated until the new commissioner of internal revenue takes office about the first of the month. Congress appropriated $100,000 to assist the Treasury Department in organizing a special force for the collection of the tax. The officers at the internal revenue bureau think that this sum will not be sufficient, and the next session of Congress will probably be asked to make an aditional appropriation.

The tax is to be paid on the earnings of corporations for the calendar year ending December 31. Returns must be made before March 1, 1910, and payment be made before June 30, or heavy penalties will be imposed.

PROFESSOR URGES MISCEGENATION.

Marriages of Americans and Negroes Too Radical, However, Says Dr. Thomas.

"I believe that a little of the blood of the American Indian mingled with that of our own race would produce a strain of manhood which would be hard to equal." So declared Professor William I. Thomas, of the department of sociology and anthropology of the University of Chicago, in a lecture Wednesday. The subject of his talk was "Race Prejudice."

"As people travel and become better acquainted with conditions as they exist," the speaker continued, "the prejudice against the races will gradually disappear and the intermarrying will be common. The prejudice of the future then will not be bound up with the tint of the skin, but with the degree of intellectual development and occupation.

"In recent years a number of marriages have been recorded between the Japanese and the Americans. I see no reason why this should not go on, and I do not believe the result would be harmful to our standard of life. The Japanese have shown themselves to be our equals in many ways, and a little mixture of their blood into our countrymen would be a good idea. I believe, however, that the talked of cross between the negro race and the American would be too violent and that it would not meet with success."

—In the district court this morning three contract cases were adjourned until September 2, and three landlord and tenant actions will be heard in chambers tomorrow morning before Judge Newcorn.

Mrs. Henry Thomas will speak at the Plainfield Rescue Mission meeting in the W. C. T. U. rooms tonight.

COURT HOLDS THAT SUTTON WASN'T SLAIN

The naval board of inquiry in the case of the death of Lieutenant James N. Sutton has found that Lieutenant Sutton "was killed by a revolver shot from a service Colt revolver held in his own right hand, and fired by himself without the intervention of any other hand."

The court adds as its opinion that "No possible charge of criminality lies against any of the participants in the fray, except Lieutenant Sutton himself, and that Lieutenant Sutton is directly and solely responsible for his own death, which was self-inflicted, either intentionally or in an effort to shoot one of the persons restraining him, and his death was not caused by any other injury whatever."

Of the charges made by the mother of Lieutenant Sutton, the court says: "The charges of wilful murder and conspiracy to conceal it made by the complainant, Mrs. Sutton, mother of Lieutenant Sutton, are purely imaginary and unsupported by even a shadow of evidence, truth or reason."

A minority report was made by Commander John Hood, U. S. N., president of the court, in which he concurs in the findings and adds that that he is of the opinion that Lieutenants Willing, Bevan and Utley should have been brought to trial at the time for neglect of duty and that Lieutenants Adams and Osterman should have received milder punishment for engaging in a brawl unbecoming officers and gentleman. He concurs in the recommendation that no further proceedings be taken at this time, only because of their youth and inexperience at that time and because of their being, in a sense, the victims of a system for which they themselves were not responsible.

Beekman Winthrop, acting secretary of the navy, also takes occasion in approving the findings of the court to deprecate the laxity of discipline, as shown in the testimony. He says:

"The results of this laxity have brought serious discredit not only on the officers directly responsible for the efficiency of the institution, but unfortunately on the marine corps as a whole."

MAJOR W. B. MARTIN'S FINE WORK AT CAMP PERRY.

Major William B. Martin, of Elizabeth, scored seventy-three out of a possible seventy-five points at Camp Perry, yesterday, at 800 yards in a match arranged especially for a team most of whose members have represented America abroad, which is attempting to outscore the winner of the Herrick Trophy match, in which thirty-nine United States service and State teams are racing. Lieutenant Colonel William E. Tewes, also of the New Jersey team, made seventy-one points.

The members of the New Jersey team have been hard at work at the different ranges for more than six weeks, and much improvement was shown during the latter part of this practice period both in individual and in team work. By the time that the team was ready to start for Camp Perry the team captain, General Bird W. Spencer, was confident that his team would make a good showing. The excellent shooting by Major Martin and Lieutenant Colonel Tewes at Camp Perry yesterday morning shows that he had good ground for his expectations.

GRANGERS AT BELVIDERE

Jersey Farmers from Warren and Other Counties Flock to Outing.

The big farmers and grangers' picnic of Warren and adjoining counties took place at Belvidere yesterday. The fine rain of Tuesday put everybody in a happy frame of mind and the result was a day of solid enjoyment for the fifteen thousand farmers who attended. Sussex and Hunterdon counties, and Northampton county, Penn., sent large parties to participate in the festivities.

Major Thomas H. Hayes would allow no gambling on the grounds, and the wheels of fortune, the three card monte men and the paddle manipulators were relegated to back streets and alleys. The East Bangor band furnished music during the day and gave concerts morning and afternoon.

The speakers were Judge George M. Shipman and Joseph M. Roseberry, of Belvidere, and the Rev. H. J. Isost.

AUTOIST TOOK LOSING CHANCE.

An unusual occurrence in connection with the work of the motor vehicle inspectors occurred in Asbury Park, on Sunday, when J. F. Ditmar, of Tarrytown, N. Y., came to Asbury Park and obtained a registration certificate for his car, but thought that he knew more of the Jersey law than the agent of the department, who advised him that he should also have a driver's license.

An inspector was notified, and after a search of two days, Ditmar was found driving his car without the necessary license. He was taken before Recorder Borden, of that town, and was fined $0. Mr. Ditmar's explanation of this was that he thought he would take a chance.

PLAINFIELD ATHLETE TO ENTER PRINCETON

Russell J. Lawrence, of this city, the distinguished young athlete, who came into the limelight at Seattle by winning the national junior championship in the sixteen pound shot put and who took second place in the senior event and third place in the senior javelin throw, will enter Princeton university in the fall.

The acquisition of Lawrence to the Tiger track team is indeed an important one as Princeton has been lamentably weak in the field events for the past several years.

Lawrence, who finished second to Ralph Rose in the senior shot put, was entered under the colors of the N. Y. A. C., and no doubt gave Rose a scare. Last spring the Plainfield boy broke the world's interscholastic indoor record in the twelve pound shot put at the Poly Prep, meet in Brooklyn, throwing the weight 54 feet 1½ inches.

A short time later he again demonstrated that he is a world beater, by defeating the field in a shot putting contest at Madison Square Garden. He is also a broad jumper of considerable ability and athletic experts who have watched him work think he has a great future before him.

Until three years ago he gave no sign of developing into anything unusual as an athlete. He had no interest at all in shot putting and for broad jumping the only thing he had tried, he had but a mild regard.

Physical Director George L. Listman, of the Plainfield Y. M. C. A., looked him over carefully as he fooled around the gym with his schoolmates, and caught a hint of the shot putter in his movements. He induced Lawrence to work with the twelve pound and started him off.

There was nothing to Lawrence at the time but promise. His best put was 34 feet. But the boy is a plugger, and when he had made up his mind to become a shot putter, he went at the game like a work horse going up hill.

He worked and worked and worked, then worked a little more to keep his hand in. It took him two years to round into shape, under Mr. Listman's careful coaching, but he found it worth while when he got started.

With the handling to be had there, Lawrence should develop into an interscholastic star at Princeton. He is a modest, unassuming youngster and will do as he is told. Princeton needs athletic stars as no other big college does, and the Plainfield boy will find his work cut out for him when he reaches Old Nassau.

In the spring Lawrence was considering entering Rutgers in the fall, but Track Coach Al Copeland saw possibilities in this young man and he induced him to go to Princeton.

"That flirt Miss Robinson has refused two suitors whom she distinctly encouraged. One of them threatened to leave this earth."

"And did he carry out the threat?"

"Yes."

"How sad!"

"30" $1,500

The only car selling under $2,000 having full floating type rear axle, annular ball bearings throughout; double drop frame and 115 inch wheel base.

It won the Indiana Light Car race on the 18th of June, averaged 51.5 miles per hour for 232 miles. On straightaways its recorded speed exceeded 75 miles per hour.

In the 202-mile race over the Santa Monica course in California, on the 10th of July, the "30" won with an average of 57.2 miles an hour. In both of these contests the "30" motor was the smallest entered.

Any car that can go from Denver to Mexico City or can go 208 miles a day for 100 consecutive days, as a Chalmers-Detroit "30" did, is a pretty safe car to buy.

The New York Agency took orders for 50 of these cars the first week they received their demonstrating car. We have already booked orders for 10 of these cars although we have not yet received our demonstrator.

We strongly advise placing your order early as the Chalmers entire output for 1910 will be sold out early.

GLANDERS IS EPIDEMIC

Newark Horses Suffering from the Worst Plague in Thirty Years.

PLAINFIELD NOT ATTACKED YET

Animals Being Killed Daily in Newark—Loss to Owners Now $10,000—Precautions Taken.

An epidemic of glanders among horses has struck Newark and is spreading with great rapidity. It is feared that the disease will be contracted by local horses through the contact possible from drinking at the same troughs as are used by horses in the infected district.

One veterinary surgeon in Newark has had to destroy two or three horses every day and the epidemic seems to spread notwithstanding the precautions which are being taken to prevent it. It is characterized as the most severe in thirty years.

Inquiry among the veterinary surgeons in Plainfield elicits the information that no cases have yet appeared in this city. This was confirmed by Acting Health Officer John O'Brien, who also said that any case appearing here would be immediately isolated and precautions taken to prevent the disease spreading.

Some time ago the veterinary surgeons of the State tried to have put through the Legislature a bill by which the owner of a horse which had to be shot because of this disease would be partly renumerated for the value of the animal destroyed under those circumstances. This, however, failed, but it is intended to again agitate the question at the reconvening of the Legislature in the fall, and this present epidemic will probably furnish figures which will startle the framers of the laws. It is said that the loss to Newark owners since the beginning of the present epidemic has reached a total in excess of $10,000.

Considerable apprehension is felt among horse owners here that the closeness of Newark will lend an easy opening for the disease to reach this city. Horses which are sent out of town from here are to be watered from pails carried in the conveyances which they haul, instead of being allowed to drink at any public trough.

TELLS PARENTS SHE WAS MARRIED IN MAY.

Miss Edith May Dorsett Wednesday night announced to her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Frank L. Dorsett, of 1022 Mattison avenue, Asbury Park, her marriage in New York on May 9 last to Standford W. Hoffman, a former student at Yale. Hoffman saw service with the United States Marine corps in Panama and is now a first sergeant at the Brooklyn Navy Yard. The bride of three months ago also announced that she had spent a ten days' honeymoon in Washington, D. C., while her family and her many friends in Asbury Park supposed she was in New York.

Miss Dorsett's brother, Earl, was a member of the same company in Panama in which Mr. Hoffman was lieutenant. Young Dorsett wrote home long letters telling of his experience and Hoffman's name was repeatedly mentioned with the narrative. When the marines came home and Dorsett got leave to visit his parents at Asbury Park, Hoffman accompanied him.

Early last May Miss Dorsett announced a contemplated visit with an aunt in New York. Instead she met her soldier sweetheart at the First Presbyterian church and they were married.

Freeholders Inspect County Roads.

The county road committee of the Board of Freeholders yesterday made a tour of inspection of the county roads, County Engineer J. L. Bauer accompanying the committee. All the roads on which new work is being done were examined, while a careful examination of the repair work accomplished during the past several weeks was made. There was a meeting of the Public Grounds and Building Committee of the Board of Freeholders Wednesday afternoon at the courthouse. Several matters of minor importance were discussed.

Prosecutor Interviewed Johnson.

As a result of an interview with Richard Johnson, colored, at the hospital Wednesday by County Prosecutor Regar, of Somerville, the trial of Benjamin Green, who was held in $1,000 bonds by Recorder Dolliver of the borough, may be hastened. The Prosecutor would say nothing in regard to the interview. Johnson is steadily improving at the hospital and is now able to talk a little, although this is done with difficulty.

H. J. MARTIN, SR. NAMED FOR GRAND LODGE OFFICE

A large delegation from Freedom Castle, No. 42, Knights of the Golden Eagle, journeyed to Somerville last night to attend the quarterly session of the Past Grand Chiefs of the tenth district. Horace J. Martin, Sr., of this city, was endorsed for the position of grand chief, and Peter L. Albersee, of Paterson, was endorsed for the position of grand sir herald, and J. Powlison, of Somerville, for district chief.

A large delegation of visitors from the cities in the district were present and included Orange, New Brunswick, Somerville and Millville.

A special session of the Grand Castle was held to admit into membership several past chiefs. Speeches were made by the visitors and among these were Horace J. Martin, Sr., Past Grand Chief Buchanan, Grand Chief Hall and Mr. Albersee, of Paterson.

Golden Crown Castle, of Somerville, was the host and provided a splendid entertainment for their visitors. Following the transaction of business an informal social time was enjoyed and refreshments were served.

AUTO 'BUS CO. MAY ADOPT HOURLY SCHEDULE

The Plainfield Auto 'Bus Company may adopt an hourly schedule shortly, if the present patronage of its line to Metuchen continues. More passengers than can be accommodated have applied for passage along the route of the 'buses. In the fall the matter of furnishing school tickets for South Plainfield children attending the Plainfield schools will be settled and a rate will be established.

The Lehigh Valley Railroad has notified the 'bus company that its present schedule misses two fast trains at the South Plainfield station. Hence it will be necessary to make a few minor changes. This and several other matters will be taken up in a day or so, when A. E. Force, the president of the company, returns from his summer outing.

HAD NOT SEEN PLAINFIELD IN TWENTY-FIVE YEARS.

One of the results of the opening of the auto-'bus service has been the bringing to Plainfield of people who have not made a visit here in years. One such individual was observed on West Front street yesterday who in conversation with a local business man said that he had not made a visit before in twenty-five years. He wore an air of perplexity at the numerous changes he had encountered in a short walk about the city and made inquiries for the old site of Laing's Hotel which passed out of existence about a quarter of a century ago.

John J. Varley, manager of the "White Store," was in conversation with Mr. Daniels, of Metuchen, and elicited facts of interest of bygone days from the octogenarian. There is no doubt that the 'bus line will continue to bring together the towns along its route in a closer business relationship and thus augment active associations between their citizens. The 'buses are crowded on every trip.

Dr. J. T. Dickinson to Preach.

Rev. Dr. James Taylor Dickinson, of Rochester, N. Dr. Dickinson is one of the best known preachers in the Baptist denomination. He formerly held a pastorate at Orange. A week ago Dr. J. A. Chamblis preached in his pulpit at Rochester. While in Plainfield Dr. Dickinson will be entertained by Mr. and Mrs. L. V. F. Randolph, of East Front street.

Improvements at Saengerbund Hall.

The old bowling alleys have been torn out of Saengerbund Hall and new ones will be laid shortly. A large part of the new floor has been laid in the main basement. The bar has been moved to a back room and the iron girders have been put in shape. At the rate that the work is progressing the hall will again be ready for use in the fall. These improvements were made necessary because when a floor was laid two years ago no space was left for an air space.

HOME OF JOHN VANNEST ENTERED AND $20 TAKEN

An early morning burglary took place at the home of John Van Nest, of Martinsville, today. Twenty dollars in cash which was in the possession of his daughter, Miss Hattie Van Nest, who was keeping it for a church, was taken, as well as some other small articles of value.

The burglars effected an entrance through a window. A chair was taken from a neighbor's porch and was put against the support of the front porch of the Van Nest house. The burglars then climbed over the chair to the porch and from there to the window.

The presence of the intruders was unknown to any of the family. Joseph Van Nest returned home at 1 o'clock and found everything all right. John Van Nest said that he heard some noises at about 3 o'clock, but thought nothing of it. No one was sleeping in the room from which the money was taken. There are no clues to the burglars, but it is believed that the theft was committed by boys who were familiar with that section of the country.

PATRIOT SONS DENY RELIGIOUS PREJUDICE

The twenty-ninth annual convention of the Patriotic Order Sons of America, which has been held in the Y. M. C. A. at Asbury Park, came to a close Wednesday. It will meet next year in Hoboken, that city having won out over Camden. Before adjourning for the year a statement published in The Monitor, a Roman Catholic journal printed in Newark, thought to be injurious to the order, was denounced as false. The action was taken by the adoption of a vigorously worded resolution which was freely discussed before adoption.

The Monitor, it is asserted, printed an article in June stating that the members of the Patroitic Sons were pledged not to support Roman Catholics. This the members of the order contradict in the resolution, asserting that they treat with equal justice "all men of whatever persuasion, social, religious or political." The resolution provided that the State executive committe be authorized to take whatever steps and expend whatever money may be needed to secure a correction of the alleged misrepresentation.

The following were offered in nomination for national representatives: S. L. Davis, W. C. Cutter, E. C. Mehrhoff, E. L. Cloud, H. J. Blohm, C. C. Ships, C. J. Fritz, William A. Donaghy, Alfred Moore, S. S. Brown, W. A. Crane, William Disbrow, J. F. Cobb, S. H. Rennells, W. H. Titus, F. C. Torrey, C. H. Schemelia, G. C. Murphy, C. H. Elder, I. N. Wyckoff, E. C. Waddington, E. Lytle.

None of the amendments proposed were put into effect, as the three-fourths vote necessary to pass them was not forthcoming.

The proposition to reduce the per capita tax from twenty-five cents to twenty cents was defeated and a resolution passed to use that additional amount each year to extending the order throughout the State. The amendment, which was recommended by the president, to divide the State into six districts and have six district presidents, instead of one for each county as at present, was rejected. The amendment looking to a reduction of the representatives also failed to secure a sufficient number of votes to so amend the constitution.

AWAITING COURT'S ACTION.

William S. Ackerman, of the Passaic Valley Trunk Sewer Commission, appeared before the Board of Freeholders Wednesday and explained concerning a trunk sewer through Hope avenue.

Mr. Ackerman appeared before the committee and stated that to him it would seem foolish to lay any permanent pavement on Hope avenue at this time, for the trunk sewer matter is now in the Supreme Court and may be argued in October. He believed that the board would do best by postponing the work of improving the street until the court has given a decision. After discussing the matter, the freeholders decided to postpone the improvement until April 1, 1910.

WILLIAM JEFFERY OUT FOR COUNTY COMMITTEE

Berkeley Heights Republicans, who are members of the Township Improvement Society, met at the Berkeley Lyceum last night and selected William Jeffery, president of the organization, to head the township ticket as candidate for member of the Union County Republican Committee. The nomination was upon the recommendation of the Society's candidacy committee of nine, and Mr. Jeffery was supported for the candidacy in a petition signed by seventy of the eighty-two party supporters.

A complete ticket was framed with the exception of three offices, which will be considered later. The candidates for the other offices on the ticket are as follows:

Collector of Taxes, Augustus M. Layat; township committeeman, Frank C. Shaffer; delegate to State convention, Bernard F. Cummings; alternate, John W. English; constable, Rudolph A. Shaffer; surveyor of highways, Joseph Amiano; pound-keeper, Guilliamo Carluccio. Both parties agree on the year's appropriation, and will ask for $750, the same amount required last year.

MISS MARY J. TYGARD BRIDE OF CHICAGO MAN

Miss Mary J. Tygard, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James W. Tygard, of South avenue, was the bride of William F. Henning, of Chicago, at a pretty wedding at the Tygard home, 920 South avenue, last night. Rev. Morgan Ashley, rector of St. Stephen's church, officiated.

The ceremony was performed in the parlor of the home, which was lavishly decorated with flowers and plants for the occasion. Miss Carrie Borrop was bridesmaid, and John Borrop best man. Mendelssohn's wedding march was played by Miss Theresa K. Kahrmann.

Following the ceremony a wedding collation was served, and the pair were given a merry send-off when they left for the West, taking the train at the North Avenue station. They will stop at Pittsburg for a short sojourn on their way to Chicago, where they will make their future home.

SALVATION ARMY TO GIVE POOR PEOPLE A FREE OUTING.

Arrangements are about complete at the local headquarters of the Salvation Army for a large free outing for the poor people of the city and borough on Labor Day. The woods back of the Groszmann School on Watchung Crest, has been secured for the occasion through the kindness of Dr. Groszmann.

The army officers in their visitations meet so many mothers and children who never get any vacation or recreation during the hot summer months and the outing is specially intended for their benefit. Everything will be provided free to those who are found worthy and a profitable and pleasant time is anticipated. Captain Hewitt is anxious to hear from a number of people who have automobiles who will loan them for an hour during the morning to convey those unable to walk to the top of the mountain.

Funeral of Mrs. DeLany.

Rev. A. E. Finn, pastor of the Park Avenue Baptist church, officiated at the funeral of Mrs. Henrietta C. DeLany, held at her late home on Madison avenue yesterday afternoon. The clergyman took occasion to mention Mrs. DeLany's faithful work as a teacher in the Park Avenue Baptist Sunday-school for ten years, and to speak of her activity in her church home. George E. Hall, Charles F. Dayton, Charles VanWinkle and Joseph M. Hawkins were the pall-bearers, and the interment was at Hillside cemetery.

Dinner Dances Are Popular.

The Plainfield Country Club is completely equipped for serving luncheons and dinners and tomorrow night there will be music and dancing, as usual. These weekly social functions are steadily growing in popularity, and now that the members are returning from their vacations, there is a marked increase in the atendance. Commencing September 1 the golf and tennis schedules will be resumed for the fall season.

At Chiefs' Convention.

Fire Chief T. O. Doane, who is at the convention of the International Association of Fire Engineers at Grand Rapids, Michigan, witnessed a demonstration of the Webb motor fire engine with the heads of other fire departments on Tuesday. The motor apparatus is the same as was wiven a demonstration by this manufacturers in this city some months ago.

WAR CAR STARTS WEST; MESSAGE TO WESTON

Bearing dispatches from Major-Gen. Leonard A. Wood, commanding the Department of the East, to Gen. John F. Weston, commanding the Department of California, Private Malcolm E. Parrott, N. G. S. N. Y., started for San Francisco from Columbus Circle, New York city, yesterday in the Mitchell Ranger. A large crowd gathered to see the start of the transcontinental journey. Private Parrot was accompanied by Lieut. B. B. Rosenthal and their mechanician, Frank X. Zirbes.

It is said to be Major-Gen. Wood's desire to see the establishment of an automobile service in connection with the regular volunteer forces, so military authorities all over the country will watch with interest the ocean to ocean journey of Private Parrott. The war car which is being used is the first of the 1910 four-cylinder models turned out by Designer Bate of the Mitchell Motor Car Company. It presented a very warlike appearance with its firearms, picks, shovels, haversacks, and other military accoutrement. F. E. C. Martin, of this city, was among those who witnessed the start of the car.

MEMORIAL TO BISHOP KNIGHT.

Members of the Masonic fraternity have donated a handsome window, costing probably $1,200, to the late Bishop Knight, which will occupy a position in the rear of the Knight memorial chancel being erected at Christ Episcopal church, Trenton, of which Rev. Mr. Knight was for several years rector. The frame for the window has been given by E. K. Leuckel, and cost about $200.

It is the hope of the building committee to have the chancel under cover by the first of September. The Mosaic marble altar has been selected and the tiling for the floor chosen. When completed the chancel will be one of the finest in the State.

"Caldwell News" Loses Reporter.

George Stahl, an inmate of the Newark City Home, ran away from that institution Wednesday afternoon, and is still at large. Stahl is a young man who was engaged as a reporter for "The Caldwell News," the newspaper published at the institution. The young man went out to cover a wedding for the paper for Saturday's issue. Wednesday night, when the roll was called, Stahl did not respond. Stahl, who is seventeen years old, had been an inmate of the home for two years and had made a success as a reporter.

CALF ATE VEGETABLES; ITS OWNER IN COURT

Because Hyman Semer, of West Third street, keeps a calf, a horse and a lot of chickens, Mrs. Eva W. Green, who lives just around the corner, on Lee place, hasn't been successful with her garden. That's what Mrs. Green says.

Because her calf got loose from the barn and wandered over into Mrs. Green's lima bean patch, she was assaulted and threatened by friends and neighbors of the woman. That's what Mrs. Semer says.

Because calves and vegetable gardens don't mix, and because this isn't the first time there have been complaints about the Semer's straying live-stock, a twenty-dollar fine will be the penalty for the next offense. That's what Judge Runyon says.

And it all come out in the city court this morning. Mrs Green told with almost incredible rapidity how she was tired of planting lima beans for the chickens to dig up, or for the calf to crop off, and how she had already planted corn three times, "for the horse to eat off." She wanted to make the calf's last visit a test case against her neighbor, and told the details of the little bovine's depredations. A neighbor, who came with her as a witness, told how her own garden was only preserved from ravages of chickens by a fence of wire netting, and concluded with the statement that she'd "shooed four chickens out" just before she came to court. After these narrations of damage done, Mrs. Semer didn't have much of a case. She could only tell how she had been mistreated by Mrs. Green's friends. There were no witnesses to verify the details.

"The next time I hear a report of any of your live-stock getting in Mrs. Green's vegetable garden," said Judge Runyon, "I'm going to fine you $20."

"Thank you," said Mrs. Semer.

Rev. Dr. Eaton at Wilson Memorial.

Rockefeller worships, will preach in the Mary E. Wilson Memorial chapel at Watchung, Sunday morning at 10:30. Plainfield people are cordially invited to hear Dr. Eaton. He is considered to be one of the most eloquent preachers of the present day.

EMPLOYERS' LIABILITY ACT

New Law Goes Into Effect September 1—Some of Its Provisions

SENATOR ACKERMAN'S WORK.

Knowledge of Risky Conditions by Employe No Bar to Recovery of Damages.

The Employers' Liability Act, which was introduced and pushed with untiring energy by Senator Ernest R. Ackerman, and which was approved and signed by Governor J. Franklin Fort, on April 13, this year, goes into effect on September 1. It is a law entitled "An act to extend and regulate the liability of employers for injury or death to employes in certain cases."

This law, which is similar in scope to laws enacted in other States and over which months of incessant labor have been devoted in its framing and argument wherever presented, is one calculated to protect employes in the performance of their work under hazardous conditions, such conditions being susceptible of correction. In part it reads as follows: "Where, after this act takes effect, personal injury or death results to an employe who is himself in the exercise of reasonable care at the time:

"I. By reason of any defect in the condition of the place, ways, works, machinery or plant connected with or used in the business of the employer, which arose from, or had not been discovered or remedied, owing to the negligence of the employer, or of any person in the service of the employer, and entrusted by him with the duty of seeing that the place, ways, works, machinery or plant were in proper condition; or

"II. By reason of negligence of any person in the service of the employer entrusted with, and at the time of the injury exercising superintendence whose sole or principal duty is that of superintendence, or in the absence of such superintendentor any person acting as superintendent with the authority and consent of such employer; or

"III. By reason of the negligence of any person in the service of the employer who has the charge or control of any signal, switch, locomotive engine or train upon a railroad; said employe, or in case the injury results in death, the executor or administrator of such deceased employe who has left surviving a husband, wife or next of kin, shall have the same right of compensation and remedies against the employer as if the employe had not been an employe of, nor in the service of the employer, nor engaged in his work. The provisions of law relating to actions for causing death by negligence, so far as the same are consistent with this act, shall apply to an action brought by an executor or administrator of such deceased employe suing under the provisions of this act."

According to other sections of the law notice of an action must be given the employer within 120 days and the action actually be begun within one year after the occurrence of the accident causing injury or death. The notice is required to be in writing. In case the injured person is unable to give the notice within the prescribed time because of disability, an extension of time (10 days) after his disability is removed is allowed by the law.

In case of death without having given the notice of suit an executor or administrator may give the notice sixty days after his appointment, but no notice under the provision of section two shall be deemed to be invalid or insufficient solely by reason of any inaccuracy in stating the time, place or cause of the injury if it be shown that there was no intention to mislead, and that the party entitled to notice was not, in fact, misled thereby.

Section three of the act says that an employe entering upon or continuing in the service of an employer, shall be presumed to have assumed all risks necessarily incident to his occupation or employment. The necessary risks of the employment shall, in all cases arising after this act takes effect, be considered as including those risks, and those only, which are inherent in the nature of the business, and which remain after the employer has exercised due care in providing for the safety of his employes, and has complied with the laws affecting or regulating such business or occupation for the greater safety of such employes. In an action maintained for the recovery of damages for personal injuries to an employe, received after this act takes effect, owing to any cause for which the employer would otherwise be liable, the fact that the employe continued in the service of the employer in the same place and course of employment after the discovery by such employe, or after he had been

VARIOUS SPORTS.

The pioneer club for field sports in America, The New York Caledonian Club, will hold its fifty-third Annual Scottish Games at Washington Park and Casino, Grand street, between Maspeth and Newtown, L. I., on Labor Day, Monday, September 6. The sports of the day will commence at 11:30 a. m. and will continue until 12 p. m. As there are thirty-two events on the program with an aggregate prize list of $878 in cash, there can be no question as to the standing of the competitors who will take part. The greatest interest will be in the five mile race, the prizes for which are $125 for first, $50 for second and $25 for third. Fifty-three years in promoting games is a record that any organization should be proud of. The Club in all those years has made it a point to pay the prizes immediately after each game, and as entries are received up to the time of starting each event, a large entry list is always the result, which makes the games well worth witnessing by all lovers of field sports.

BIDS SUBMITTED FOR TWO BIG DREADNAUGHTS.

Two more American Dreadnaughts the Wyoming and the Arkansas, authorized by Congress, tok first shape at the Navy Department Wednesday, when bids for their construction were opened, in the presence of numerous representatives of shipbuilding firms anxious to obtain the contracts. Thes vessels are to cost $6,000,000 each, exlusive of their armor and armament. They are to make a high rate of speed and are to be equipped throughout with the latest improvements in naval development.

The vessels are to be of 26,000 tons each, the largest ever undertaken by the American naval establishment, the increase in tonnage in this class of vessels being from 20,000, the size of the original American Dreadnoughts, the Delaware and the North Dakota. The Utah, now under construction by the New York Shipbuilding Company, and the Florida, now being built at the New York Navy Yard, are the two remaining Dreadnoughts, the tonnage being 22,000.

The naval officials expect lively competition for the contracts for the Wyoming and the Arkansas.

GOVERNOR MAY COMMUTE ZELLER DEATH SENTENCE.

While he would not commit himself yesterday, it is believed Governor Fort will call a special session of the Court of Pardons to consider the case of Walter Zeller, who is now in the State prison under a reprieve granted by Governor Fort which stays the execution ordered by the Cumberland county court. Just when the preparations were completed for carrying out the death sentence, the Governor granted a reprieve. This action was taken after the Court of Pardons had refused to commute the sentence of death.

Zeller was to have gone to the electric chair the week of August 2 for the murder of his grandfather in

The Governor will be out of the State when the month draws to a close, but will be back in New Jersey before the expiration of the reprieve. That period, however, will expire before the time for the regular session of the Court of Pardons. It is generally understood that the majority of the Pardon Court members favored a commutation of sentence that Zeller might have the same chance for his life as his companions in crime.

BURGLAR KILLED BY TRAP.

Cincinnati Grocer, After Thirteenth Robbery, Attached Revolver to Cash Box.

Even though A. T. Morris, a grocer, of Cincinnati, informed burglars by means of a sign that a burglar trap was prepared in his store for marauders, it did not deter an unidentified white man from forcing an entrance. As a result the burglar is dead.

Thirteen times has Mr. Morris' store been entered, and as he was of an inventive turn of mind, he fixed up a death machine and attached it to the cash register. The device connected with a revolver which was exploded when the cash drawer was opened. When he went to open the store yesterday morning Morris found the body of a man in the store and the cash drawer opened. The burglar had left his shoes outside the door and had packed up a load of edibles. Coroner Coe exonerated Mr. Morris and the burglar's body is held at the morgue.

JERSEY MASONS AT PORT-AU-PECK

Three hundred Masons, representing a half-dozen grand jurisdictions, were at Port-au-Peck yesterday afternoon, where the annual clambake given under the auspices of the M. W. Grand Lodge of New Jersey was held. Grand Master J. Clarence Conover, of Freehold, had as his special guests Grand Master Orlady, of Pennsylvania, and ten members of his staff; the grand master of Delaware and several members of his staff, and Grand Secretary Ehlers, of New York.

Several of the prominent Masons, particularly those interested in the New Jersey Masonic home, arrived at Long Branch Wednesday night. They held a meeting of the Home association, at which routine business was transacted. Grand Master Conover, who is chairman of the home committee, presided.

Nearly all of the past grand masters and a number of the associate grand officers and deputies were in attendance. R. W. Edwin W. Packer, of Long Branch, the head of the Thirteenth Masonic district, was among the guests

The bake was announced at 1:30 o'clock. Prior to the bake the Masons were photographed.

After the bake the visitors were taken out for an automobile ride over the Rumson road. Fifty machines were pressed into service.

TAX BOATS AND AUTOMOBILES.

Atlantic City Assessors Ordered by County Board to List Them With Other Property.

A tax on motor boats, yachts and automobiles has been ordered by the Atlantic City officials, and the city assessors yesterday started in on the work of assessing property of this kind, estimated to be worth more than a million dollars. It would mean that the owners, in addition to other fixed expense of owing yachts and automobiles, will be called upon to contribute not less than $18,000 a year.

Peremptory orders have been issued by the County Board that these things come under the head of property and must be assessed. It is estimated that there are a thousand machines at Atlantic City and no fewer than eight hundred privately owned motor and sail boats.

A new search is also to be made for personal property of the stock and bond type.

It won the Indiana Light Car race on the 18th of June, averaged 51.5 miles per hour for 232 miles. On straightaways its recorded speed exceeded 75 miles per hour.

In the 202-mile race over the Santa Monica course in California, on the 10th of July, the "30" won with an average of 55.2 miles an hour. In both of these contests the "30" motor was the smallest entered.

Any car that can go from Denver to Mexico City or can go 208 miles a day for 100 consecutive days, as a Chalmers-Detroit "30" did, is a pretty safe car to buy.

WILL DEFER ACTION ON POSTAL BANKS.

There is no chance that the question of postal savings banks will come up at the next session of Congress, according to a statement made Wednesday by Representative Weeks of Massachusetts, a member of the Monetary Commission. That session, he said, will probably be devoted almost entirely to the President's program for corporation control, and the Moneary Commission, with its jurisdiction over all phases of the banking and currency question, will not report before the short session following, or at a special session to be called early next fall. With the whole subject of the country's financial system coming up for modification, said Mr. Weeks, it would be most unreasonable to establish a new set of banks without any reference to the changes that will immediately be made.

"The commission," said Mr. Weeks, "has ample power to consider not only the currency ssytem, but the entire banking system of the United States, and it will have a carefully considered report to make at the earliest possible moment. If the tariff had not been under consideration this summer, I have no doubt the Monetary Commision would have been ready to report at the coming session of Congress, but, owing to many members being intimately occupied with tariff matters, it has been impossible for the commission to do any work recently. It is therefore probable that a report cannot be made until a year from next winter, but in either case it does not seem to me that it would be wise or sensible to undertake the establishment of another system of banks when the Monetary Commission will be likely to cover the whole subject."

PORTSMOUTH IN, TOO.

Jersey Naval Militia to Join the Hudson-Fulton Show.

Gov. J. Franklin Fort intends that New Jersey shall figure prominently in the Hudson-Fulton celebration, although he has not as yet completed his plans and will not do so until his return from a two weeks' vacation.

One feature the Governor has about determined upon is to order out the New Jersey Naval Reserves. He thinks the Naval Reserves should take part in the parade and that the Portsmouth and the Dixie should be near by. On one of the vessels, according to the Governor's present idea, the heads of the several State departments will sail.

The Governor also believes the Signal Corps should take part in the celebration and that a salute should be fired from the New Jersey shore.

FORT SUGGESTS CHANGE IN RIPARIAN POLICY.

Municipalities, private owners of ocean frontage, and those who consider the possibilities of investment in lands with riparian rights, are wondering if Governor Fort intends to champion a policy of withdrawing from the market such riparian rights as have not yet been disposed of by the State. This suggestion of the possibility of such a course on the part of the Governor came from the Governor himself. In his speech at the conference of advocates of the ocean boulevard project Tuesday night he declared that the advisability of such a course had occurred to him.

The Governor is quoted on this subject as follows:

"Today I was called upon to sign a deed for riparian land running twenty-five feet in front of the Ocean Club at Elberon. At the time the question came to me, should the State dispose of any more of its ocean front? This land is increasing in value at a rapid rate and it seems almost waste for the State to dispose of it now when future years would bring so much more money. The State Constitution provides that all money received from the sale for this land shall go to the public school reserve fund, the interest of the money only to apply to current school expenses. Riparian lands along the coast are selling today for four times the amount they were when I went in office. I signed a deed for a riparian grant in Atlantic County last week for which the State received $76,000. A year or so ago an adjoining grant the same size, brought $12,000.

"Hundreds of people are after riparian grants along the route of the inland waterway. They know that upon completion of this great system it will mean a great rise in values of this property for landing, dock and other privileges. Then there is another view that can be taken of the question. Private ownership of land along the ocean front means that neglect is likely. Where municipalities own their own ocean front it is maintained. The inroads of the sea are curtailed, but with private ownership the opposite is often the case.

FIGHT FOR JUDGESHIP.

Three Candidates for Place Left Vacant by Wright.

Unless the three Democrats who want to succeed Prosecutor Wendell T. Wright as judge of the First District Court, Hackensack, get together and agree on one of their number the place may go to a Republican, as it did when Mr. Wright was appointed a year ago. There are three district courts in Bergen county, and when they were created it was understood that one of the judges would be a Democrat. A lively row for the place followed in the Democratic ranks, with the result that no agreement could be reached, and Mr. Wright, a Republican, was named.

The three Democrats who would like to be judge are R. P. Wortendyke, William Seufert and Police Justice Huckin, of Englewood. The appointment will be made by the Governor, on the recommendation of Senator Wakelee, and the latter is said to be in a quandary, as all three of the men are equally acceptable.

The situation took an interesting turn yesterday, when Freeholder Frederick Mattox, a Republican, taking advantage of the fight among the Democrats, announced himself as a candidate for the place. It is not probable that the appointment will be made for a week or ten days.

EXPLOSION BURNS YACHTSMAN.

Henry Koch, of 55 New Brunswick avenue, Rahway, a member of the Rahway Yacht Club, was seriously injured on board his boat Wednesday night through the explosion of the gas tank which, according to reports, he was filling with gasoline. At the time a lighted lamp was near him. Mr. Koch was blown some distance. His feet, hands, arms, face and eyebrows were scorched and his back injured.

The yacht had to be sunk in the river to quench the flames and save it from destruction.

Fred G. Sherman, of Woodland avenue, has returned from Selkirk Beach, Pulaski, New York. The trip was made with his brother in the former's Jackson roadster.

LOCAL AMUSEMENTS

That rousing farce comedy, not of the vulgar, slap-stick order, but one with a plot and merit in dialogue and situation, and that will please all classes of theatre-goers, from the most refined to the gallery god, is what "McFadden's Row of Flats" is. This is the comedy that the New York Journal called the "18 carat" and during its New York run attracted the most enthusiastic audiences seen since the days of Harrigan and Hart, when they were giving their series of plays of New York life. The great reason for the success of this comedy is that all the characters are drawn from actual life, and in every city of the country prototypes of the people represented are to be seen, and are well known to their fellowmen. Alex and George will be easily recognized as personal friends of every auditor and the wonder is how the author could so analyze these two characters to portray their good and bad qualities so truthfully. You will laugh at familiar scenes and talk, and a lingering sensation of pleasant memories will haunt you for days after a visit to "McFadden's Flats." The specialties and musical numbers are scattered through the action of the comedy and are said to be pleasing to the eye and ear alike. The comedy, which is well known, is an excellent one, full of rich but harmless fun, and freely interspersed with all the latest hits of the day. The scenery is on a spectacular order and is carried complete for the production. "McFadden's Flats" will be at the Plainfield theatre tomorrow afternoon and night.

BOY CHASED TROLLEY, CAUSED CROOK'S ARREST.

Police of Jersey City are praising ten-year-old William Brown, of 202 Nunda avenue, that city, for materially aiding them in capturing the colored sneak thief, William Houston, of 16 Jefferson street, Memphis, Tenn., who was Wednesday held in heavy bail by Judge John Wahl Queen in the Second Criminal Court to await the action of the grand jury on several charges of breaking, entering and larceny.

The Brown boy chased after the trolley car on which Houston hoped to escape with the articles of jewelry and clothing and 200 pennies he stole from three children's banks in the home of William F. Ainsworth, 186 Delaware avenue, Jersey City, Wednesday evening, and but for Brown tipping off the police of the Seventh Precinct the arrest of Houston would not have occurred. Houston has a long criminal record, and for several years before he attained his majority, which was but a few months ago, he had been confined in prison and reformatories in Tennessee and Pennsylvania.

Chief of Detectives Larkins says that he is satisfied that Houston entered and robbed several other dwellings in the fashionable Johnstown section of the city and that his detectives will prove that he is guilty of so doing before they clear up the Ainsworth robbery.

ATTENDANCE LIGHT AT FLEMINGTON PICNIC.

Threatening clouds and the wet condition of the grounds made it anything but pleasant for the opening of the twentieth annual picnic of the farmers of Hunterdon county, which opened on the Flemington Fair grounds yesterday.

Former Senator John R. Foster presided. The speakers were somewhat slow in making their appearance, so that it was nearly 2 o'clock before Mr. Foster took the speakers' stand in the pavilion and introduced Professor Maurice A. Blake, of New Brunswick, who talked on "Peach Culture."

Assemblyman John K. Matthews and J. B. Keim, of Jersey City, will make addresses later in the afternoon. Miss Josephine Nye will deliver a humorous lecture this evening. Owing to the weather conditions the attendance was very small, as compared with former years on the opening day.

VICTORY FOR WOMEN AT POLLS

Walk Through Rain to Vote for Continuance of High School.

More than fifty women of Union Township were undaunted Wednesday night by the heavy wind and rain and trudged ankle deep in mud to the polls in order to register their rebuke against the local Board of Education for having abandoned the Connecticut Farms High School in June. They cast their ballots for the appropriation of money to carry it on.

The vote stood 94 to 18 in favor of the maintenance of the school, and when it was announced the women cheered. The Board of Education had intended to let the pupils of high school age attend the schools at South Orange or Elizabeth, but the parents and the pupils themselves demurred, because that would be too far to travel in the winter time. They got up a petition against the board's plan, and the special election was the result.

The Reception in Store.

"I shay, ol' fellow, zee there!" remarked a suburbanite to a neighbor with whom he had a convivial night. "There's a burglar getting into your yous by zee window." "Who he is! Wait a little! My wife'll think he's me, and she'll half kill him!" responded the other.

Whispering Smith

By Frank H. Spearman

Illustrations by Andre Bowles

Copyright, 1906, by Chas. Scribner's Sons.

Dicksie walked around on the porch to the kitchen. A dust-covered man sitting on a limp horse threw back the brim of his hat as he touched it, lifted himself stiffly out of the saddle, and dropped to the ground. He laughed at Dicksie's startled expression. "Don't you know me?" he asked, putting out his hand. It was Whispering Smith.

He was a fearful sight. Stained from head to foot with alkali, saddle-cramped and bent, his face scratched and stained, he stood with a smiling appeal in his bloodshot eyes.

Dicksie gave a little uncertain cry, clasped her hands, and, with a scream, threw her arms impulsively around his neck. "Oh, I did not know you! What has happened? I am so glad to see you! Tell me what has happened. Are you hurt?"

He stammered like a schoolboy. "Nothing has happened. I didn't realize what a tramp I look or I shouldn't have come. But I was only a mile away and I had heard nothing for four days from Medicine Bend. And how are you? Did your ride make you ill? No? By heaven, you are a game girl. That was a ride! How are they all? Where's your cousin? In town, is he? I thought I might get some news if I rode up, and, oh, Miss Dicksie—jiminy! some coffee. But I've got only two minutes for it all, only two minutes; do you think Puss has any on the stove?"

Dicksie with coaxing and pulling got him into the kitchen, and Puss tumbled over herself to set out coffee and rolls. He showed himself ravenously hungry, and ate with a simple directness that speedily accounted for everything in sight. "You have saved my life. Now I am going, and thank you a thousand times. There, by heaven, I've forgotten Wickwire! He is with me—waiting down in the cottonwoods at the fork. Could Puss put up a lunch I could take to him? He hasn't had a scrap for 24 hours. But, Dicksie, your tramp is a hummer! I've tried to ride him down and wear him out and lose him, and, by heaven, he turns up every time and has been of more use to me than two men."

She put her hand on Whispering Smith's arm. "I told him if he would stop drinking he could be foreman here next season." Puss was putting up the lunch. "Why need you hurry away?" persisted Dicksie. "I've got a thousand things to say."

He looked at her amiably. "This is really a case of must."

"Then, tell me, what favor may I do for you?" She looked appealingly into his tired eyes. "I want to do something for you. I must! don't deny me. Only, what shall it be?"

"Something for me? What can I say? You'll be kind to Marion—I shouldn't have to ask that. What can I ask? Stop! there is one thing. I've got a poor little devil of an orphan up in the Deep Creek country. Du Sang murdered his father. You are rich and generous, Dicksie; do something for him, will you? Kennedy or Bob Scott will know all about him. Bring him down here, will you, and see he doesn't go to the dogs? You're a good girl. What's this, crying? Now you are frightened. Things are not so bad as that. You want to know everything—I see it in your eyes. Very well, let's trade. You tell me everything and I'll tell you everything. Now then: Are you engaged?"

They were standing under the low porch with the sunshine breaking through the trees. She turned away her face and threw all of her happiness into a laugh. "I won't tell."

"Oh, that's enough. You have told!" declared Whispering Smith. "I knew—why, of course I knew—but I wanted to make you own up. Well, here's the way things are. Sinclair has run us all over God's creation for two days to give his pals a chance to break into Williams Cache to get the Tower W money they left with Rebstock. For a fact, we have ridden completely around Sleepy Cat and been down in the Spanish Sinks since I saw you. He doesn't want to leave without the money, and doesn't know it is in Kennedy's hands, and can't get into the Cache to find out. Now the three—whoever the other two are—and Sinclair—are trying to join forces somewhere up this valley, and Kennedy, Scott, Wickwire and I are after them; and every outlet is watched, and it must all be over, my dear, before sunset to-night. Isn't that fine? I mean to have the thing wound up somehow. Don't look worried."

"Do not—do not let him kill you," she cried, with a sob.

"He will not kill me; don't be afraid."

"I am afraid. Remember what your life is to all of us!"

"Then, of course, I've got to think of what it is to myself—being the only one I've got. Sometimes I don't think much of it; but when I get a welcome like this it sets me up. If I can once get out of the accursed man-slaughtering business, Dicksie— How old are you? Nineteen? Well, you've got the finest chap in all these mountains, and George McCloud has the finest—".

With a bubbling laugh she shook her finger at him. "Now you are caught. Say the finest woman in these mountains if you dare! Say the finest woman!"

"The finest woman of 19 in all creation!" He swung with a laugh into the saddle and waved his hat. She watched him ride down the road and around the hill. When he reappeared she was still looking and he was galloping along the lower road. A man rode out at the fork to meet him and trotted with him over the bridge. Riding leisurely across the creek, their broad hats bobbing unevenly in the sunshine, they spurred swiftly past the grove of quaking asps, and in a moment were lost beyond the trees.

NEWARK MOTORIST TO FORFEIT HIS LICENSES.

Commissioner J. B. R. Smith, of the State motor vehicle department, notified R. C. Best, of 11 Fulton street, Newark, Wednesday that his motor vehicle registration certificate and also his personal driver's license would be summarily revoked tomorrow. This action was taken on the report of Inspector Thompson, which represented that Mr. Best, while driving one of his own cars in West End, Long Branch, on Sunday evening, at a rapid rate of speed, was signalled to stop by Motor Vehicle Policeman M. W. Lediard, of that city, and, it is further declared, he thorized by Congress took first shape reported that Mr. Best deliberately ran his automobile into the motorcycle of the policeman, throwing the officer to the ground and causing painful injury.

The policeman, the report has it, pursued Mr. Best in the car of another motorist at a rapid rate, but was unable to overtake him.

When Mr. Best was held up in Newark later he said he had no recollection of his car upsetting any one.

Word has been received from Long Branch that Mr. Best is expected to appear there on September 14 to answer to three charges preferred by Lediard.

The first charges Mr. Best with assault and battery, the second with resisting the officer and the third with exceeding the speed limit.

It was announced that the motor vehicle department will also prefer a charge of violating the motor vehicle law in running away after causing an accident.

Last Night at the Rescue Mission.

Mrs. Henry Thomas led the gospel meeting at the Rescue Mission last night assisted by her husband and daughter. The former sang two solos accompanied by Miss Thomas on the piano. The meeting was a very helpful one and illustrative of the efficacy of prayer, on which Mrs. Thomas dwelt in her talk. Next Sunday a reformed opium fiend will speak at the meeting, and all are cordially invited to attend.

"Bean-eaters" Defeat "Man-eaters."

Mullen's "Man-eaters" went down to defeat before the powerful bunch of ball tossers known as Tierney's "Bean-eaters," on Hope Common, yesterday afternoon. The score was 7 to 1. The features of the contest for the victors were Cormick Coyle's slugging. Five times at the bat he knocked out three homers, one triple and a single; also Tierney's brilliant fielding. Umpire Marshall was right on the job.

Johnson Will Pitch.

Brewer Johnson will pitch for the Plainfield team instead of Orfleib in the game tomorrow with the Dunellen contingent at Dunellen. A new short stop will be seen on the team, too. Manager Dorflinger hasn't located a man for that position this morning, but says that he has some good timber in view for the place. Kraft, formerly of High Bridge, will pitch for Dunellen.

Fairview C. C. vs. Grandview A. C.

An exciting and close game of ball was played this morning between the Fairview Cycle club and the Grandview A. C. at the DeLacy avenue grounds. The game went eight innings and the score was 6 to 5 in favor of the Fairviews when the Grandviews withdrew from the contest. Umpire Moon awarded the game to the Fairviews by a score of 9 to 0 as prescribed by the rules. The cause of the withdrawal of the Grandviews was said to have been the lack of a ball to continue playing with. Smith and McDonough were the battery for the Fairviews and Giddes, Townley and Burner for the Grandviews. But one hit was made outside the diamond and that was made by Martin McDonough in the sixth inning with two men on the bases.

READY TO WELCOME HIS OLD COMMANDER.

John Mundrane, of Rahway, received a letter yesterday from Captain William B. Carey, of Windsor, Conn., saying that he is preparing to attend the reunion of the old command of the Civil War, Company I, Fifth New York Veteran Volunteer Cavalry, known as the Ira Harris Cavalry. The reunion is to be held September 15 at Mr. Mundrane's residence on Hamilton street, Rahway. There are but a few of the command now able to attend, but a rousing reception will be given them.

Mr. Mundrane's wife and daughter Maud presented him Tuesday with a solid gold regimental badge, with a ribbon of yellow, the regimental colors, to go with it. The badge has on the top crossbar the name "John Mundrane." In the centre is a five pointed star, the points lettered "N. Y. V. V. C.," indicating New York Veteran Volunteer Cavalry. Below the star and also at the bottom of the trophy are crossed swords, resting at peace.

Two Kindergarten Teachers Engaged for Each Primary Department.

MANY CHANGES IN FACULTY.

Everything in Readiness for Resumption of School Duties—Principal Lindsey Best to Assume New Position.

With the approach of fall, the small boy and his little sister are again preparing to take up their books for the fall and winter term of school after enjoying a long summer vacation. The opening day this year occurs Tuesday, September 14. On this day all of the teachers and pupils will be in their places, and the school work, now carefully planned, will be carried out with a minumum of confusion.

The new Washington school at Darrow avenue will be opened. Contractors have now practically finished the work and the school furniture is being put in. The grounds yet remain to be graded and minor details will be added during the year. As far as equipment is concerned, the school is now complete. The old Washington school faculty will be transferred to this school and Harry Keene has been appointed assistant janitor to Mr. Harris.

At the other schools repairs of a minor nature have been made and all of the buildings have been thoroughly cleaned so that they are in readiness for the opening.

At the city high school, Lindsey Best will take up his duties as principal. Prof. Beals, a graduate of Harvard University, and a former teacher in Los Angeles, California, will be in charge of the science department. Along with the additions to the faculty is the appointment of teachers in all of the primary schools who were engaged for no special duty. These will be assigned to places where their service is most needed. Two kindergarten teachers have been engaged for each of the primary schools; thus marking a ready compliance with the most modern educational ideas. Among the teachers are many Plainfield young women who have made a special study of kindergarten work. The full list of teachers for the city schools follow:

High School—Lindsey Best, principal; Katherine F. Ball, S. Lena Bass, James D. MacNab, Ariadne Gilbert, Samuel B. Howe, Jr., M. Elizabeth Benedict, Henry R. Hubbard, Alice Forsythe, Anne K. Barber. For kindergarten duty Elizabeth Angell and Grace Barry have been assigned, and Pearle Knapp has been engaged for special duty.

Washington School—M. E. Humpston, principal; Elizabeth Allen, Lilla Bateman, Anna Booream, Ora McIntyre, Jean Gilfillan, Theresa Fischer, Mayme Breads, Minnie Copeland, Catherine Carman, Alice Boyd, Evelyn Fischer and Edith Weaver. The latter two have been assigned to kindergarten duty.

Marie Newman and Cora Cadmus have been assigned to kindergarten duty, while the latter has not been assigned as yet to any special duty.

Lincoln School—Carolyn Lee, principal; Myrtle Reynolds, Allie Eastman, May Lamson, S. Louise Wood, Addie Eastman, Alice Barret, Charlotte Tennant and Clara L. Crane. The latter two have been assigned to kindergarten duty.

Irving School—Genevieve Petrie, principal; Mary Jones, Roberta Reynolds, Elizabeth Greenleaf, Ada Stark, Alice Lee, Ada Clark, Mary Dennis, Louise Egan, Lucia Wood, Hattie Filmer, Georgia Ricker, Elizabeth White and Frieda Gray. The latter two have been assigned to kindergarten duty. Ethel Sleight has not been assigned to special duty as yet.

The special teachers include:

PICTURES OF "THE UNSPOKEN FAREWELL"

Proofs of the moving pictures taken at the Smalley stone crusher last month, in which several prominent Plainfielders were actors, were delivered here yesterday by the American Vitagraph Company.

The scene on the mountain included a big blast and represented the killing of a quarryman. This part of the moving pictures was especially good, as was also the part where the mob rushed forward after the blast to find the dead man. The features of Chief of Police Kiely and of former Mayor Newton B. Smalley of the borough were clearly distinguishable. Other Plainfielders could be easily recognized as well.

The proofs were delivered to Newton B. Smalley. He was enthusiastic over them and showed them to his friends. Unfortunately they took them into the light, with the result that they faded inside of fifteen minutes. The pictures will be presented at Proctor's theatre when completed, under the name of "The Unspoken Farewell."

MARRIED IN PRISON; ALESSI WEDS WIDOW

A romance of unusual interest has developed at the Union county jail in Elizabeth from a tragedy enacted in that city two weeks ago. Uberto Alessi, who is being held for the grand jury on a charge of murdering two fellow countrymen was married today to the widow, who, it is alleged, is the cause of all the trouble.

Alessi and Mrs. Romano, the widow, were sweethearts in Italy years ago, but she married another and came to this country. A few months ago Alessi heard that his former sweetheart was a widow, and he determined to come to this country and renew the old flame she had professed for him in their home. Alessi was favored by the widow's smiles and from all the many suitors he was selected for a husband. Mrs. Romano is considered to be wealthy, having, it is said, amassed a fortune amounting to $150,000 in the hotel business in Elizabeth.

The two men whom Alessi shot, as he says, in self defense, were also suitors for the widow's hand and fortune, and out of this rivalry grew the tragedy and from the grim surroundings of impending fate comes the romantic love affair. Mrs. Romano said last night that she looked forward to the wedding with Alessi with more pleasure than another bride could and her love and her fortune is at the disposal of Alessi in his defense.

Alessi says that he, too, will be happy when the words are said that will make him the husband of the woman whom he has traveled so far to seek.

FERDINAND TITSWORTH NIGHT DIRECTOR OF PLAYGROUNDS.

Ferdinand Titsworth, of East Fifth street, has secured a night assignment for playground duty on the East Side of New York. He is now filling a day as well as a night assignment. Mr. Titsworth is a teacher in the exclusive Irving school for boys at Tarrytown, and during the summer devotes his time to playground work. His ability to deal successfully with boys coupled with his athletic ability led to his appointment to afternoon playground work, after he had passed the usual civil service examination with a standing of 100 per cent.

Mr. Titsworth's popularity with the children over whom he was placed and his ingenuity in devising new ideas to interest them attracted the attention of the playground inspectors who gave him the night assignment. He is now filling both positions. In the fall he will resume his position as teacher at the Irving school.

MISS DICKINSON GIVES A HOUSE PARTY AND DANCE.

Miss Mary Dickinson, of 723 Central avenue, gave a barn dance, preceded by a house party, at her home last night. There were about twenty-five guests at the house party, including young people from this city, New York, Brooklyn, New Brunswick and other nearby towns. The barn was elaborately decorated for the dance with college banners and Japanese lanterns. Music for dancing was furnished by a large phonograph. During the evening refreshments were served.

Those at the house party included Theodore Parmley, of New Brunswick; Remson French and Miss Lillian Conover, of Middletown; Miss Jean McLean, of Eatontown and Miss Elizabeth Hawthorne, of New Market.

REV. DR. CHAS. A. EATON SPEAKS AT NETHERWOOD

Rev. Dr. Charles A. Eaton, of New York city, who was prevented from speaking last Sunday, will address the Netherwood Camp tomorrow afternoon at 4 o'clock. A pleasing program of vocal and stringed music is being arranged, and a profitable afternoon will be spent. The auditorium is a cool place to pass an afternoon, and the children and mothers enjoy these services more than any others. You are most cordially invited to bring your friends

The attendance this summer at these meetings has been larger than ever, and the interest shown and sympathy expressed Miss Curry and workers only go to prove that this has been one of the best years the camp has known. The different societies in this city and in all nearby towns have been most loyal in their support and co-operation. There has been an average of three societies a week at the camp during the past weeks and the help and inspiration thy have given have helped much in the Christian life of the mothers and children.

STORM WORKS HAVOC; BOROUGH HIT WORST

The thunderstorm of yesterday afternoon took on all the ear marks of a wild western cyclone when it got into its stride and swept this city as it has not been tossed for many a day. At the corner of Division and Fifth streets lightning struck a tree and felled it to the ground, narrowly missing an automobile containing two men. In the borough considerable damage was done.

The lineman of the P. S. C. and a gang of men under Street Commissioner Barrett, of the borough, were busy yesterday afternoon and this morning repairing wires and removing trees that had been blown down in yesterday's storm.

The most serious damage in the borough was done on Park place between Somerset street and Duer street, where several trees went over, breaking and twisting wires and generally putting the lighting service out of commission. Three trees were blown down on Mercer avenue and one on Chatham street while several were also uprooted on Linden avenue.

On Duer street limbs from a lot of trees along the thoroughfare were broken off and scattered in the street and yards. A tree in the rear of the home of Clarence Levy blew over into the yard of Thomas S. Armstrong. A large tree in front of the home of the Rev. James Shock and F. W. Bailey, on Duer street were blown down. Considerable havoc was caused by the storm to telephone wires that were not underground, and a part of the borough was in darkness last night.

Street Commissioner Barrett had a force of men out repairing the damage yesterday, while it was still raining. He kept them at work until late in the day and by that time obstructions in the street had been removed. This morning the rest of the debris was cleared away.

MAX KAHN RETURNS FROM TRIP TO GERMANY.

Max Kahn, of East Sixth street, returned home today from an extended stay abroad. Mr. Kahn left for the continent early this summer, and it was his first visit to Germany, his native land, in thirty-two years. In honor of the event his relatives across the water prepared a large bower of flowers with the lettering, "Welcome," neatly woven in. This was put over the door of the house and was a pleasant surprise to Mr. Kahn.

He spent the entire summer in Germany as the guest of his relatives, and found much to occupy his time in renewing old acquaintances. He found many of his old school friends still alive. These for the most part had no difficulty in recognizing him.

GAVE A CONCERT FOR THE BENEFIT OF SAILORS' FUND.

I. W. Travell, who has just returned from an extended tour of England and Scotland, was chairman of a committee that gave a concert on the ocean liner Haverford on July 4. The entertainment was of a high order and included grand opera music by Mr. and Mrs. F. M. Conly of operatic fame.

The entertainment was enjoyed by all of the passengers on board, and the proceeds from the sale of programs for the affair were given to the Sailors' Benefit Fund. Mr. Travell will move to Morristown September 1 to take up his new duties as superintendent of the schools there.

GREAT IRRIGATION PLAN

President Taft to Open Gates of Gunnison Tunnel September 23.

WATERWAY IS SIX MILES LONG.

Some Facts About the Gigantic Engineering Feat—150,000 Acres To Be Saved.

The great Gunnison Tunnel, the first project undertaken by the United States Government Reclamation Service, work on which has been progressing steadily for four and one half years, is now completed, and on September 23 President Taft will visit the Uncompahgre Valley and personally open the gates of the tunnel, turning the flow of the Gunnison River into the magnificently constructed bore, main and distributing canals of this enormous project, which will irrigate 150,000 acres of choices land now semi-arid.

The Gunnison Tunnel is located in Montrose county, in the Uncompahgre Valley, in Colorado. The two gangs of men boring the tunnel met at 5:45 p. m., July 6, 1909, at a point 10,812 from the intake on the Gunnison river.

The tunnel is 30,600 feet (six miles) long, 11x13 feet inside measurement, and lined throughout with cement. The main canal is 30 feet wide at the bottom, 83 feet wide at the top, and the average depth of water is 10 feet. The capcity is 1,300 cubic feet of water per second.

The cost of the tunnel and distributing canals when completed will be over $5,000,000, and perpetual water rights will be sold to actual settlers at approximately $35 per acre, being based upon the actual cost of the tunnel. Ten years' time will be allowed for payment, without interest.

The lands to be irrigated are suitable for fruit-growing and the raising of all kinds of farm crops. The water, after it leaves the tunnel, will have 372 feet fall, which can be used to generate electric power sufficient to light every town and every farmhouse in the Uncompahgre Valley and provide power for all kinds of commercial and industrial purposes.

The lands under this project will afford homes for all time to come for a population of at least 25,000 American citizens. Already there are three modern, enterprising and progressive towns, viz.: Montrose, Olathe and Delta—located in the valley, and with the development of this vast area other towns will undoubtedly come into existence to meet the requirements of the rapidly growing population.

MR. HOAGLAND LANDS THE FIRST SALMON OF THE SEASON

The first salmon caught this season in Moose Lake, Me., was landed by A. E. Hoagland on Wednesday. It weighed two pounds and measured seventeen and a half inches. Mr. Hoagland is so ardent a fisherman that even the darkness coming on could not drive him away from the river. For he and his son Elston had to be rescued. They lost their way in the woods on the way back to their camp and searchers were out looking for them for some time with lanterns.

Mr. Hoagland and his son are staying at the camp of W. H. Haynes, of South Waterford. Mr. and Mrs. Fred Sandford arrived there on Wednesday.

Mrs. Mary E. Nevius.

Mrs. Mary E. Nevius, widow of P. Ten Broeck Nevius, formerly of this city, died yesterday at her home, 158 West 129th street, New York, following a long illness of much suffering. She was well known in this city, where the family resided on East Fifth street for many years. Mr. Nevius was engaged in the stone flagging business here. The family were members and attendants at Trinity Reformed church during their residence here. Mrs. Nevius had a great many friends among Plainfielders. She is survived by three daughters, the Misses Grace M., Marion and Katherine Nevius, and one son, Guernsey Nevius, of Chicago. The funeral service will be held at 4 o'clock tomorrow afternoon from the late residence, 158 West 129th street, New York city.

Rev. Charles H. Fountain Called.

Rev. Charles H. Fountain, of West Seventh street, a graduate of Crozier Theological Seminary, Chester, Pa., has received a call to become the pastor of the Orange Baptist church, Unionville, Orange county, N. Y. Mr. Fountain has been on the field for three months as stated supply. He will accept the call.

At the Baby Camp Today.

The children and mothers at the King's Daughters' Baby Camp on the mountain, are being entertained this afternoon by the "Daughters of the Cross" Circle, of Plainfield.

"Look pleasant please; hear birdie sing; just elevate the chin;
The head a little bit this way; all right, now we'll begin.
Kerzip! that's all; the proof is fine, and very full of tone;"
The triumphs of his finished work will melt a heart of stone.

ENTERTAINMENT TONIGHT AT FRESH AIR HOME

There will be an entertainment at the Netherwood Fresh Air Home tonight in the large pavilion. The stereopticon presented to the Home by George A. Chapman, will be used to make the occasion a happy one for the children. Miss Straubel will sing "The Holy City," illustrated with stereopticon views, and "The Ninety and Nine" with the words thrown on the screen.

These Saturday night entertainments are delighting the children and mothers at the camp as well as the neighbors living near it. They enjoy the music which always is of a high order and contributes much to the happiness of all.

After the entertainment tonight the Netherwood Camp Glee Club will meet at the home of Mrs. S. A. George to rehearse for the play to be given next Saturday night entitled "The District School." This is an amusing one act play. On Monday evening, August 30, the Young Peoples' Society of Westminster Hope chapel, Elizabeth, will give a farce entitled "Freezing a Mother-in-Law.' All these entertainments are free and everyone interested in the Home will be welcome.

SPECIAL SERVICES AT THE BABY CAMP ON THE MOUNTAIN.

The 4 o'clock service at the Baby Camp on the mountain promises to be of special interest to both children and adults tomorrow afternoon.

The talk to the children is to be given by Martin Korff, who will also have charge of the music. Vocal and instrumental numbers will add an attractive feature to the program. A cordial invitation is extended to the people of Plainfield and vicinity to enjoy the service in this delightful spot on the summit of Watchung mountain.

Narrow Escape From Falling Tree.

Charles Creety, who is employed by the Bungalow Man to run his automobile, and Thad Doane, Jr., narrowly escaped death by lightning yesterday afternoon in the severe thunderstorm. They were in Mr. Jeffrey's car on West Fifth street, and had almost reached their destination, Mr. Doane's home, when a terrific bolt of lightning struck a tree not twenty feet behind the auto. The tree fell immediately with a loud crash. Traffic in the street was tied up until the tree was removed by one of Mobus Brothers' teams.

Has No Local Police Court Record.

Edward Conger, of this city, who recently figured in a "hold-up" at Rahway, has returned to his home here, having been released on bail. It was recently stated that he had a local police court record. Inquiry at police headquarters shows that he was never arraigned in the city court on a charge, a man of a similar name being intended.

COUNTY RATABLES THIS YEAR WILL BE $126,541,252

The Union County Board of Taxation at Elizabeth, today, announced that all the books of the assessors are in but the one from the Third ward, this city. From the figures thus far compiled it is stated authoritatively that the county tax rate the coming year will be higher than that of last year, when it was $1.40. This will be due to the decrease in the second-class railroad property valuations.

The total ratables in the county this year will be about $126,541,252, an increase of $7,570,138 over last year. In 1908 the increase was $4,500,000 and in 1907 it was $8,000,000. Nothing definite as to the Plainfield rate is obtainable at present. This will not be known until all the books are in and the assessments approved.

The settlement will be made between the three direct relatives, William Bellis, of Flemington, Mrs. Wesley Pope, of Brooklyn, and James Bellis, of this city. Other indirect relatives will receive a small share of the fortune.

FREDERICK A. SHEPHERD UNDERGOES OPRATION.

A very delicate operation was performed on Frederick A. Shepherd, of Park avenue, by Dr. Bryan D. Sheedy, a New York specialist connected with the Post Graduate Hospital. The tiny bones which separate the nostrils were removed and a growth in the throat around the palate was also removed.

The nostril bones that were removed are the frailest and smallest bones in the human body and are of a very delicate nature, hence the operation required much skill. The patient is doing well today.

M'CAULEY HANGS HIMSELF

Man With Longest Police Court Record a Suicide in His Cell.

HAD JUST BEEN SENTENCED.

Arrested for Panhandling, 31-Year-Old Police Court "Regular" Makes Noose Out Of His Belt.

Within ten minutes after hearing Judge William N. Runyon sentence him to sixty days imprisonment in the county jail at Elizabeth, James McCauley, arrested more times than any man of his age on the police court records, hanged himself in a city court cell at about 9:30 this morning. Driver Thomas O'Gorman, passing through the cell room a few minutes afterwards, found his dead body, swinging by his belt from one of the iron cross-bars which form the roof of the cell. It was cut down by Detective Sergeant Flynn and after an examination by Dr. C. A. Gesswein showed that life was extinct, was removed to Cole's undertaking rooms.

McCauley's arrest on Park avenue by Patrolman Flynn this morning marked his first appearance in the city court for twenty-eight days, and for two weeks of this time he had steady work for the first time in five years. He was arrested for panhandling, and a city fireman brought against him a charge of disorderly conduct on East Second street.

Upon his arrest on July 23, Judge Runyon sentenced him to sixty days in the county jail, and suspended sentence. This morning, therefore, there was nothing for the magistrate to do but pass the sentence, which had been witheld pending his next arrest.

After being led back to his cell at about 9:30 o'clock, McCauley asked Captain Frederickson when he would be taken to Elizabeth. The Captain replied that he would be committed after dinner, and left the cell room. It was about five minutes after this that Driver O'Gorman found McCauley's body.

The prisoner worked quickly after coming to his decision to kill himself. He took off his leather belt and tying it to one of the iron bars which form the cell roof, fastened the other end about his neck. The strap was so short that his body swung clear, and the police say that he stood on the iron cell bunk while adjusting the noose and then jumped to the floor. Policeman at headquarters heard no sound. He was not under the influence of liquor.

The dead man, who was thirty-one years old, came to this country from Ireland when a boy. His only relatives, it is said are two aunts, living in this city. He was for many years employed as a groom and coachman by J. W. Reinhart.

McCauley's craving for liquor and his love of mischief have given him the longest police court record for a man of his age in Union county at least. "D. and D." and "Malicious Mischief" are the only charges against him, and the police say that he was generally harmless when drunk. He was first arrested by Sergeant Overbaugh on July 25, 1902, when he paid a five-dollar fine on a drunk and disorderly charge. In March, 1904, Captain Frederickson arrested him for the second time, and he paid an equal fine for a similar offense. After this, he left Mr. Reinhart's employ and ever since has claimed "no place" as his home.

His police record is appalling. Since February, 1906, he has spent fourteen months in jail as the result of arrests in Plainfield, and was on one occasion, banished from the city for six months. The North Plainfield police have a long record of his offenses against the peace of the borough, and many boroughites remember him as the man who decoyed Marshal Pope to the Union county side of the Somerset street bridge, to years ago, when pursued for arrest, and turning on him, engaged him in the only fight he is on record for. The Westfield police have a fair sized record of McCauley, too, for he has been arrested there many times within the past five years.

McCauley's suicide is the first in the history of the present police headquarters, although there have been several unsuccessful attempts in the cells. William Ross, a prisoner, hanged himself in a similar manner in a police court cell, when headquarters were located on East Front street.

Just So.

And saw no clinks when the dust
Had disappeared, he sagely cried—

FISHERMEN-AUTOISTS HAD MUCH HARD LUCK.

More than the average share of hard luck attended four men, who have just returned to Chatham from a fishing trip to Barnegat Bay. The party was composed of William M. Hopping, Alfred M. Trowbridge, J. Thomas Scott and Joseph H. Conklin. They started in Mr. Trowbridge's car near Farmingdale, late at night, on a lonely road, when the motor balked, and, after tinkering with it vainly until 3 a. m., they spent the rest of the night "in camp" in the machine. At dawn they secured help, and the car was towed to Farmingdale, where it was left in a garage for repairs. The party went the rest of the way by train. They had rain most of the time.

On their return they got the car again at Farmingdale. Near Elizabeth they punctured a tire. While making repairs another car came up and stopped to ask directions. Upon starting the chauffeur of the second car threw on the clutch too sharply, snapping his driving shaft. Trowbridge's car undertook to tow the crippled car. The man in the second car didn't watch his wheel, and when the leading car made a sharp turn the second car kept straight with the result that the first car was almost capsized. The side strain caused a tire on Trowbridge's car to blow out. Their last tribulation came when they took the wrong road and got about ten miles out of the way. They reached Chatham at 3 a. m. yesterday.

VISITING SICK SISTER GEOTZ FATALLY STRICKEN.

Henry G. Geotz, a retired policeman, of Jersey City, who had been spending a few days at the bedside of his sister, Mrs. Minnie Leasenadle, at the home of Lawrence Lawson, two miles from Lafayette, near Newton, fell dead with heart disease while taking a walk in the front yard of the Lawson home Thursday afternoon. Geotz, who weighed over 300 pounds, was seen to stagger by the members of the family. Before they could get to his side he had fallen. He was unable to speak, although he made an effort to do so. He died within a moment. He was sixty-three years old.

Mr. Geotz had arrived at Lafayette last Friday to visit Mrs. Leasendale. She had fallen some days before and broken her hip. Yesterday he complained of feeling unwell and went out for air.

He was the son of Henry G. and Margaret Geotz and was born in Germany, coming to this country many years ago. He was retired from the police force on a pension three years ago. His wife, a number of children and several brothers and sisters survive. The body was taken to Jersey City yesterday. The funeral will be held there from his late home, 243 Cedar avenue.

TRAIN KILLS PARENTS; CHILD SAFE ON PILOT.

Otis Giery and his wife, of Clear Lake, Ind., were killed early yesterday by a Lake Shore train while driving over a crossing near Montgomery, Mich., and their three-year-old daughter, Goldie, who was in the buggy with them, had a miraculous escape from serious injury.

Mrs. Giery was thrown some distance from the track and instantly killed. The child and her father were both picked up by the pilot of the engine. When the train was stopped eighty rods from the crossing Giery was dying from his injuries and close beside him on the pilot lay the child unhurt except for a few minor bruises.

SOME STATE NEWS BRIEFS

George Wiley, the Salem negro who cut his sweetheart's throat with a razor, has been held in $1,000 bail for court.

Several cases of typhoid fever have been reported at Millville and the local Board of Health has begun an investigation.

The Mullica brothers, Salem day laborers, accomplished the feat in picking up 2,600 baskets of potatoes in two weeks and four days.

Atlantic City business men will be called in mass-meeting to act upon the proposed constitutional amendments which are to be voted upon in September. The business men, so far as known, favor the changes, and the mass-meeting will likely give them its indorsement, although the support of them is not unanimous.

Counsel for the Millville Board of Trade has been instructed to draw an agreement between the board and the Unigraph Register Company, whereby the former will pay $18,000, which has been raised by popular subscription, and the company will locate its manufacturing plant there. The company claims that it will employ 200 hands at the start.

Driving directly in front of an Atlantic City Railroad express train on the Lawnside crossing, Magnolia, John McKenney, thirty-eight years old, of 1631 Ellsworth street, Philadelphia, was instantly killed Thursday afternoon. His horse was picked off its feet by the engine and, after being killed, was carried over 500 feet before it was thrown to the side of the road.

David B. Paynter was Thursday named superintendent of the Camden County Hospital, at Blackwood, to succeed J. Albert Starkey, who takes the place of Charles F. Currie, resigned, as superintendent of the asylum. Paynter, who has had thirteen years' experience on the hospital staff, was given the new position by the Freeholders' Asylum and Almshouse committee.

Arraigned Thursday before Recorder Stackhouse in Camden on a charge of refusing to pay their fare from Atlantic City on a Reading train on Wednesday, John O'Connell and Bernard O'Conner, of Philadelphia, stated that the conductor declined to take their tickets on the ground that they had expired, whereas, according to the men, they were good until Wednesday midnight. The Recorder dismissed the complaint.

Miss Ruth J. Zeliff, a stenographer, residing in Norwood street, Heledon, Thursday obtained a verdict of $100 against Cornelius Portfleet, the contractor, and Robert Gaugler, for whom Mr. Portfleet is erecting a building at Belmont avenue and Norwood street. The suit was instituted by Miss Zeliff to recover damages for injuries sustained in falling into an excavation at the side of the building, which Mr. Gaugler is having erected.

After hearing evidence from many railroad employes at the Coroner's inquest held at Bridgeton, Thursday, to investigate the death of Engineer Frank Peacock and Brakeman Herbert Hines, of the West Jersey Railroad, who were killed at the grade crossing of the West Jersey and Central Railroads at Bridgeton Junction on July 22, a verdict was returned Thursday night placing no blame upon either company, but recommending that a trip switch be installed.

Caught in a heavy sea off Atlantic City and swamped as they started seaward on a fishing trip Thrusday, Morris Harris and John Hand, beach guards, had a thrilling fight to regain the shore. The men threw out an anchor when their craft went over and clung to the hull as the little vessel drifted rapidly down the coast. Cottagers at Chelsea discovered their plight and notified the government coast guards, but before the big lifeboat could be launched Hand and Harris, unable to longer retain their hold upon the wrecked craft, started ashore, which they finally reached in an exhausted condition. The coast guards picked up the battered boat.

JERSEYMAN POINTS TO PRISON SYSTEM FAULT.

The annual congress of the American Prison Association ended at Seattle Thursday night.

The report of the committee on the care of released prisoners, of which Decatur M. Sawyer, of Montclair, is chairman, said:

"On every side will be seen efforts being made to keep people out of prison, but the weak spot is the utter absence of care by the State toward its discharged prisoners. It must be individual treatment; the paroled man must feel that he is something more than a number."

REV. J. J. O'HARA SENT TO BRADLEY BEACH.

Rev. John J. O'Hara, who has been a curate at the Church of the Holy Spirit in Asbury Park, has been appointed by Bishop McFaul as the pastor of the Church of the Ascension at Bradley Beach, a rapidly growing resort.

Father O'Hara was ordained to the priesthood at Baltimore in 1905 and for a time was assistant to the Rev. Father Egan at Seabright. Since then he has been in Asbury Park.

In the fall the work of erecting a new church will be commenced.

MUSHROOM A WORLD BEATER.

What is said to be the largest mushroom in the world—in fact, the largest by far of any that has ever been recorded, and which is regarded as a most wonderful specimen—has been taken into custody by Edward B. Sterling, of 941 Edgewood avenue, Trenton. The mushroom was grown on the lawn at 947 Carteret avenue, at the base of a giant pin oak tree, and in its eagerness to expand partly surrounded a hyganga bush of no mean size. The specimen, officially known as "Polyporus Berkelyi," is highly prized by its captor. Mr. Sterling, and following its exhibition at Trenton will be shipped to the Lloyd Mycological Museum, at Chicago, where now reside many specimens which have been brought to light by Mr. Sterling.

NEW COLGATE PRESIDENT.

A meeting of the trustees of Colgate University of Hamilton, N. Y. was held in Albany Wednesday. Elmer Burritt Byran, president of Franklin College, Indiana, was elected president of Colgate, to fill the vacancy caused by the death of Rev. Dr. George Edmands Merrill.

Mr. Bryan was born in Ohio in 1865. He has been president of Franklin College since 1905. In 1903 he was called by Mr. Taft, who was then Governor-General of the Philippines, to be general superintendent of education in the Philippines. Owing to the ill health of Mrs. Bryan and himself he was able to retain that position only a few months.

AGED TWIN SISTERS OBSERVE BIRTHDAY.

Twin sisters, Mrs. Anne Fenton and Mrs. Theresa Delger, celebrated their eighty-first birthday Wednesday night at their home at 228 Cambridge avenue, Jersey City Heights. It is declared they are the oldest living twins in this country. They were born in Germany, and in childhood resembled each other so closely that their own mother, they assert, could not tell them apart. Even now the resemblance is so great that many of the neighbors are uncertain as to who is who.

At the birthday celebration that night there were present their numerous children, grandchildren and great-grandchildren. Many of the descendants came from long distances to tender congratulations.

The sisters came to this country more than sixty years ago. After their marriage they lost sight of each other for a number of years, but for the past twelve years have lived together, their husbands being dead and their children grown. They are great pinohcle players and have a continuous game, scoring nightly and "counting up" at the end of each year. They go out a great deal and are still fond of dancing, dancing together whenever the opportunity offers.

BIRD FIGHTS THREE MEN.

Three men brought the body of a six foot blue heron to Burlington, Thursday afternoon, with a story of how it had been feeding in the Koandak goldfish hatchery, near that place, at an expense of $100 a day to the owners, and how it had finally been killed after a fight that was worthy of its costly nourishment.

Steel traps have been set in the ponds of the goldfish hatchery to catch piratical birds and beasts that feed on the expensive fish. Charles Parker, Bryan O'Donnell, and James O'Donnell saw the heron caught in one of the steel traps yesterday. They waded out to capture him alive.

Each had foresight enough to take with him a stick, but the minute they came witin reach of the huge bird he leaped at them, breaking their sticks with his bill and tearing at the clothes of the men with his claws.

After a short fight, in which the heron was victorious, the three men withdrew and consulted. Then, arming himself with a huge tent pole, which he could use outside the range of the entrapped crane's field of restricted action, Parker whanged him across the neck, breaking it.

The heron measured six feet and two inches from the tip of one wing to the other. The bird had already eaten several big Japanese goldfish when entrapped yesterday, valued, the owners said, at $100.

BERTH FOR GOV.'S HELPER.

Miss Ida B. Phillips, of Trenton, assistant secretary to Governor Fort, has been appointed by the Governor a member of the board of managers of the Home for Feeble-minded Women at Vineland, to succeed the late Mrs. Emily E. Williamson, of Elizabeth. In her position as assistant secretary to the Governor Miss Phillips handled many of the application papers for admission to the home and has become familiar with the work of the institution. She was also intimately associated with Mrs. Williamson in her work, as one of the managers, and as the latter was secretary of the board Miss Phillips gained considerable knowledge of the requirements of the position.

The law provided that three of the members of the board of managers of the home may be women and the appointment of Miss Phillips, places three women on the board. The other two are Mrs. Bloomfield M. Minch, wife of the Senator from Cumberland county, and Mrs. Anna E. Gile, of Bloomfield.

The male members of the Board are Harry H. Pond, of Vineland; George B. Thorn, of Crosswicks, Burlington county, who is the treasurer; Richard C. Jenkinson, of Newark, and William B. Dawson, of Wenonah.

Miss Phillips has been assistant secretary to the Governor three years. She was appointed to that position under the Stokes administration and was retained by Governor Fort.

NEGRO PRESS ASSOCIATION.

R. W. Thompson, of Washington, D. C., heads an organization termed the National Negro Press Association, formed at the convention of the National Negro Business League in Louisville, Thursday. The league suspended all rules Thursday night and re-elected Booker T. Washington as president.

Thursday was "Mississippi day," being under the control of the Mississippi State Negro League. Negro bankers and undertakers held separate meetings.

HOBOKEN DEMOCRATS AT WAR.

Fagan and Stack Rival Candidates for Mayor at Primaries.

There was a lot of excitement in the ranks of the Democratic machine in Hudson county Thursday over the rude way in which ex-Mayor Lawrence Fagan of Hoboken and his followers jolted "Bob" Davis, the Democratic boss of Hudson, on Wednesday night. Davis had sent word to Hoboken that he wanted Maurice Stack, former county clerk, nominated for Mayor on the Democratic ticket in Hoboken this fall. He also selected John F. Crosby, of the same city, for the nomination for county clerk, much to the disgust of the Hoboken machine, which was backing Adolph Lankering for the place.

To pick out Crosby was bad enough, but when Davis demanded the nomination of Stack the followers of Patrick Griffin, who bosses things Democratic in Hoboken, rebelled and began to look about for a candidate for Mayor who was one of their own. Mr. Fagan, who had already served many years as Mayor of Hoboken, was appealed to, and the Griffinites had no difficulty in inducing him to enter the primary contest as their standard bearer; in fact, he told them that he had already contemplated such action.

Just to show how nicely he controlled the situation, ex-Mayor Fagan had a meeting of the Democratic committee called for Wednesday night. Seventeen of the twenty-four members attended, and they unanimously indorsed Mr. Fagan for the nomination for Mayor. Stack, however, was not downcast by this stroke. He intimates that he has a surprise in store for the ex-Mayor on primary day. Anyhow, Davis is going to let Stack name the election officers, and this has always been a big factor in nominating or electing Democratic candidates in Hoboken.

$1,200,000 POTATO CROP.

More Than Four Thousand Carloads, or 640,000 Barrels, Are Raised in South Jersey.

Although the potato season in South Jersey is about over sixty-five carloads of potatoes were shipped from the Salem station during the past week, making a total since the beginning of the season of 489 carloads.

It is estimated that from South Jersey alone more than four thousand carloads of potatoes will be shipped this year. This will bring to the farmers more than $1,200,000 for their crop of 640,000 barrels. This is an increase over last year of 240,000 barrels. The crop has returned to the growers an average of $100 an acre.

SEVEN LEAVE WORLD FOR LIFE IN MONASTERY.

The reception of postulants and the profession of novices in the Franciscan order was held Thursday morning in the Franciscan monastery on Stony-road, Paterson. Seven candidates looked on the world for the last time outside of the walls of a monastery, devoting their lives from now on to the order.

Five reecived the habit in the first order. They are Michael Keenan, of St. Bonaventure's parish; Frederick Tintle, of Macopin; Matthew Foley, of New York; John Chemin, of Boston, and Joseph Dombrosky, of Buffalo. Two received the third order regulars. They are Francis J. Moore, Jr., of St. Boniface parish, and John Kehr, father of Father Damien Kehr, rector of St. Anthony's church, Butler, who for many years was a member of the third order seculars in Germany and who recently arrived in this country. Two others were professed in the order. They are Rev. Brother Daniel, formerly John Schroers, of St. Boniface parish, and Rev. Brother Samuel. The two last named will study philosophy and theology for four years, making them eligible for ordination.

The father provincial gave a new name of each candidate, and from this time he will be known in the little monastery by that name only. He will not be allowed to leave the monastery again during his lifetime, unless by special permission of the father superior, granted only on extraordinary and extremely rare occasions.

PRISON FOR COLLEGIAN WHO TURNED BURGLAR.

Robert Tainter, a Beloit College athlete, whose disappearance caused a sensation in the college town last winter, was Thursday sentenced to the State Reformatory, Wisconsin, for two years on his plea of guilty of burglary and arson at a garage.

Tainter comes of a wealthy family.

M. M'K. Twombly Plans Costly Park

M. McK. Twombly, who has an extensive estate at Madison, has leased his farm and commercial greenhouses, and will devote his entire attention to the development of the park about the mansion. Plans are now being carried out that involve an expenditure of more than $50,000, and projected developments will increase this amount to $200,000. Mr. Twombly has engaged Arthur Harrington, an English landscape architect, to carry into effect a number of elaborate ideas. It is planned to make the park about the Twombly mansion the finest in America.

BIG MEN FOR SMALL JOBS.

New York Business Men Candidates for Council in Madison, N. J.

"The Model Borough," the title given to Madison because of its successful operation of public utilities, will be the scene again this fall of a warm political contest. Two Councilmen and a Mayor are to be chosen. At present the Council consists of three Republicans, three Democrats and a Republican Mayor. All the Republican Councilmen are holdovers, and the Republicans are casting about for candidates that will assure them of control of the local governing body for some years to come.

Former Mayor Calvin Anderson, who returned from Europe on Monday, has been deluged with requests to become a candidate again this year. He was elected on a progressive platform four years ago. Alfred G. Evans, head of Arnold, Constable & Co., is being urged as a candidate for member of the Common Council, and Charles B. Mason, John D. Rockefeller's secretary, is being groomed as Mr. Evans' running mate. The Democrats are all at sea, being divided into two factions—the Isaacs contingent and the "Bardon Starwarts." Mr. Isaacs is a prominent New York lawyer and is the leader among the progressive Democratic element. Mr. Bardon is mooing James P. Albright for Mayor and William W. Wilson and Geo. F. Weber for Councilmen.

VEXED BY AUTO TAX.

A storm of protest from wealthy cottagers and residents of Atlantic City over an order for the taxation of every automobile and motorboat within the city is growing. Mayor Stoy made the discovery that these costly pieces of personal property had not been taxed through some oversight, notified the County Board of Taxation, and the agents were put to work at once. One made the discovery in one of the garages of a copy of a State record which gave complete data concerning the automobile owners, the makes and worth of their cars and their street addresses, and it is believed that fees will be collected which will reach the neighborhood of $1,000,000.

HOME FOR AGED PRESSMEN.

The International Pressmen's Union yesterday purchased at Chancery sale the Hale Springs property in Hawkins county, Tenn., sixty miles east of Knoxville, and will establish there a national home for aged and disabled pressmen and sterotypers.

The property includes a hotel and 1,100 acres, with four mineral springs.

N. Y. AMUSEMENTS.

"The Florist Shop," Henry W. Savage's first essay into the field of pure farce, is proving a veritable "laughing earthquake" at the Liberty Theatre, New York. The play is a free adaptation by the witty and adroit Oliver Herford from the farce that has been for months past the laughing hit of Berlin and Vienna, "Glueck bei Frauen," by Julius Horst and Alexander Engel. But it has been thoroughly Americanized and brought up to the prevailing taste of metropolitan playgoers, with the result that it has scored the best laughing success Gotham has known since the days of "Charley's Aunt." Mr. Savage has staged the piece very handsomely and has provided a cast of great merit, marked personal hits being scored by Lionel Walsh, Marion Lorne, Nina Morris, Louise Drew, Richard F. Freeman, John Thomas, Richard Sterling, Adelaide Orton, Nelly Roland and Anna L. Bates—to mention but a few in the large company. "The Florist Shop" of the title is a unique enterprise where where lovelorn swains may order blossoms for their inamorates, but which actually sends not roses but lingerie. The complications that follow when a bashful adorer orders American beauties and sends in a box a card indicating how pleased he would be "to see these worn this evening," may be imagined. Another of Mr. Herford's amusing conceits is to have two young brides choose their worse halves because the one thinks her husband adorned with a purple past—and therefore safe from future flirtations temptations, and the other because she is sure that her selection is as white as the driven snow. Of course the two husbands are precisely the opposite to these ideals, and equally, of course, each makes a tremendous bluff in order to hold his wife's affections. Mr. Herford has succeeded especially well in maintaining the fidelity to fact of his characters—a point frequently missed by writers of this form of entertainment—with the consequence that the fun is never forced and the interest of the spectator is held continuously in the story.

NEW TARIFF LAW IS WORKING SMOOTHLY.

The new tariff law has gone into operation with surprising smoothness, according to Assistant Secretary of the Treasury Reynolds.

"We expected to be overrun with questions, many of them silly," said Mr. Reynolds yesterday, "but the number of inquiries coming to us each day has been little more than we had under the Dingley law."

The smoothness experienced in the operation of the new law is ascribed by the Assistant Secretary to the bills having been passed by the Republican Congress. The phraseology is much the same as under the old law, only the rates having been changed. Thus the operation is rendered easy for the collectors.

ADVERTISE FOR A POLICEMAN.

No One in Essex Fells, N. J., Wants the Job—Many Applicants.

The borough of Essex Fells, which wants to establish a police department, and advertised in the newspapers for a man to take the job, has received so many applications that Mayor W. P. Paret, a New York business man, who believes in publicity, yesterday discontinued the advertisement. Mayor Paret said that so many responses had been received that the Borough Council would be able to select a police department from the number who had replied.

The town at present has one constable, but recently it was decided to have a regular uniformed officer patrol the streets, and as there was no person in the community who wanted the job, an outsider was advertised for.

The Misses Abbie and Edna Van-Cleef, of West End avenue, returned home yesterday, from Asbury Park, where they spent ten days.

C. R. R. IMPROVEMENTS AT PHILLIPSBURG.

The Central Railroad of New Jersey contemplates spending $100,000 to improve its facilities at Phillipsburg. The work will be commenced at once and will require about six months for completion.

The steam shovel will be put to work at Mount's crossing and will operate to Black Dan's cut, to do away with the dangerous grade crossings at those places, an excavation will be made along Dempster's Park and that vicinity to make room for an additional track, and a retaining wall will be built along the Warren foundry property. The money that will be spent for this operation is exclusive of the $50,000 contract recently awarded for the erection of a big coal station at the roundhouse.

CENSUS OF RELIGIONS IN THE UNITED STATES

Standing out as a conspicuous feature of the bulletin issued Thursday by the census bureau, entitled "Census of Religious Bodies," is the fact that out of a church membership in the United States in 1906 of nearly 33,000,000 males formed considerably less than half of the total.

Of the total church membership reported by the various religious bodies and classified by sex, 43.1 per cent. were males and 56.9 per cent. were females. Among the Protestants the difference was greater, only 39.3 per cent. being males, while in the Roman Catholic church the males formed 49.3 per cent. of the total membership.

Fewer males than females were found among the Latter Day Saints (Mormons), the Lutherans, the Disciples, Methodists, Baptists, Presbyterians and Protestant Episcopalians, the percentage of male members decreasing in the order shown, and there being but 35.5 per cent. male among the Episcopalians. Among the Christian Scientists only 27.6 per cent.; but in the Greek Orthodox church 93.9 per cent. were men.

Other features of the report show that there were a billion and quarter dollars invested in church edifices, and that every day eight new churches send their spires skyward.

Of the total estimated population of continental United States in 1906, the church members formed 39.1 per cent., as against 32.7 per cent. for 1890. Of this 6.4 per cent. increase, the Roman Catholic church is credited with 4.4 per cent. and the Protestants with 1.8 per cent., the remainder divided among all other denominations.

The total church membership for 1906 was 32,936,445, of which number the Protestants were credited with 20,287,742, and the Roman Catholics with 12,079,142. Of the Protestant bodies, the Methodists numbered 5,749,838; the Baptists, 5,662,234; the Lutherans, 2,112,494; the Presbyterians, 1,830,555, and Disciples or "Christians," 1,142,351.

The rate of increase shown for the Roman Catholic church is 93.5 per cent., which is more than twice that for all the Protestant bodies combined.

LOSE THEIR HOMES IN TROLLEY EXTENSION.

The Pennsylvania Railroad Company has issued notices to the tenants of the nine houses in Main street, between the Episcopal chapel and the railroad bridge, South Amboy, to quit the premises in thirty days. Most of these families have occupied the same houses for many years, and some have lived in the same house all their lives.

The houses are all to be torn down at the first step in the preparation for the laying of the new track of the Jersey Central Traction Company's extension of their road through this city to Perth Amboy.

The traction company has an application before the City Council for a franchise proposing to change the course of a route already secured. The former franchise was over a course along the northerly part of Stevens avenue and through the "Hole in Wall." The Pennsylvania Railroad Company has not shown any disposition to change that bridge in obedience to the order of the court, but has conceded to the traction company a private right of way over its property, whereby they may reach Perth Amboy without passing through that tunnel. It is in the furtherance of this project that the railroad's buildings are to be torn down. As this move is being made before the application has been considered by the council, it is taken as an assurance that the road will be pushed through with all possible haste, regardless as to whether the application is granted by the Council or not. Should it so happen that the action of the Council is unfavorable to the present change of course then it seems certain that in conjunction with the Pennsylvania Railroad Company and the Public Service Corporation they will avail themselves of the facilities offered by both these lines, and go over a route for which no franchise would be required. It is not their intention to do this unless they are compelled by opposition.

BOYS TO GOVERN PARK.

The eternal boy came into his own at Bayonne Thursday. A public demonstration took place at the City Park to inaugurate a miniature form of municipal government, in which all of the officials will be boys. The organization is to be known as the City Park Club, and will be given complete control over the City Park.

Many prominent speakers addressed the gathering, among them being Secretary William J. McKiernan, of the Newark Board of Playground Commissioners, and Alexander Christie, president of the Bayonne Park Commission.

Two weeks from last night President Christie will hold the open primary, to be followed a week later by the regular election by Australian ballot. The voting will be restricted to registered members of the club, including both boys and girls.

The plan is similar to the one now being successfully carried out in Newark, and is the culmination of more than a year's efforts on the part of President Christie.

GREENSVILLE TO GET ON RAILROAD MAP.

In return for the permit to abandon a portion of the highway in Greensville, near Newton, that crosses the right of way of the Lackawanna cut-off and make it possible to eliminate the construction of a culvert that it is estimated would cost $6,000, the railroad officials have promised the village a station, with a passenger service of two trains each way per day when the new route is complete and travel begun. The site for the station has already been selected on the farm of A. Edward Shafer, on the road from Greensville to Johnsonburg. The citizens of the hamlet are rejoicing over the action of the railroad. They expect it will boom the values of real estate and farms in the near vicinity by opening up to the market a territory untouched by a railroad.

Some weeks ago the company's officials approached the Town Committee with the proposition to abandon the portion of the road after it passed the residence of J. Anson Vought and bore across the railroad's line, agreeing to build a stretch of road about 200 yards long that would make no material difference in time or distance.

When the railroad representatives reached the "station" part of the offer the Town Committee, composed of Sylvester Coleman, Elwood Cooper and Daniel Longcor, got busy and caused a petition to be circulated among the voters of Green Township. A few refused to affix their signatures. Papers are being prepared for township and company to sign to make each party's agreement binding.

MANY AT STATE BOARD OF AGRICULTURE MEET.

The third field meeting of the State Board of Agriculture, held at the college farm, New Brunswick, was attended by about 700 farmers from all sections of the State. Among the number are about 100 women.

The visitors were welcomed by Professor E. B. Voorhees, director of the New Jersey Experiment Station, who spoke in his address of the purpose of the experiment station and referred to the conservation of the soil, the natural resources being injured in many cases by bad farming.

Professor R. L. Watts, of the Pennsylvania State College, complimented the farmers upon the excellent experiment station at New Brunswick, one of the best in the Union, and upon the fine herd of cows at the farm. He also spoke of the great improvement made during the past twenty-five years in the experimental stations in this State and also in Pennsylvania.

Professor Blake and Professor Minkler also made addresses on horticulture and husbandry. A luncheon was served yesterday noon and the guests were shown about the farm in the afternoon.

MACHINE WILL CATCH 10,000 FLIES AN HOUR.

R. E. Taward, of Kansas City, has invented a machine, which is said to be a wonder for the extermination of flies. His invention consists of a cylinder something like a water wheel, mounted on a box containing clockwork to turn it. Above the box is a wire cage, with an opening in the bottom, affording a passage through to the cage above.

A little sugar spread on the wheel completes the arrangement for the reception and entertainment of "Mr. Fly." He alights on the wheel, the wheel turns, the fly turns with it, and before he knows it he finds himself in the box, from which there is no exit, except to the cage.

When the cage is full Taward plunges it into a pail of gasoline and the flies perish. Haward says his machine will catch 10,000 flies an hour.

Attorney General Instructs Officials to Enforce Excise Laws.

Attorney General Wilson sent a formal communication to the Mayor and Chief of Police of Atlantic City yesterday directing them to enforce the law prohibiting the sale of liquor on Sunday. This action followed a complaint lodged with the Attorney General by a delegation from the Lord's Alliance and Good Citizens' League of Atlantic City and the Law and Order League of the State setting forth that the excise laws have been openly violated during the present month. The Attorney General was furnished with a list of alleged violators, including three-quarters of the hotels of Atlantic City.

The notice of the Attorney General was issued under authority of an act of 1901, which provides that if necessary measures are not taken within ten days by the authorities charged with the enforcement of the law they shall be guilty of a misdemeanor.

PLAINS AND FANWOOD.

The local ball team are playing the second of the series of games with Rahway this afternoon at Rahway. The Rahwegians are said to be loaded for game and intend to wipe out that 13-2 defeat the home team administered to them early in the season. MacLaughlin is back from his vacation and is said to be in fair trim, so Rahway will have to go some to make the series stand 1-1.

SOUTH PLAINFIELD.

The regular monthly meeting of the Middlesex volunteer fire company was held last night in the fire house. The attendance was not as good as usual. The chief business was the report of the hose committee, stating that 1,000 feet of hose had been received from the Diamond Rubber Co., thus completing the equipment of the company. The cost of the hose was $450, of which $271.15 has already been subscribed. The committe had up to last night received $221.15 toward the hose fund, the other fifty was subscribed last night. This leaves a balance due on the hose of $128.85. The committee was also authorized to erect a bell tower on the south side of the building.

Mrs. Harry Soffield, who has been suffering from a severe attack of indigestion, is now much improved.

CABLED ANSWER IN PASSAIC GRAFT CASE.

A cablegram received from Robert D. Benson, chairman of the Park Committee of Common Council, Passaic, who is at present in Switzerland, seems to make the charge of being involved in the alleged $10,000 park sale graft reflect not upon the city but on the real estate men involved. Just where the blame lies it was stated yseterday, cannot be determined fully until Mr. Benson appears in person. His cablegram reads:

"City pays no commission. Know nothing of seller's agreement."

This, it was explained yesterday, meant that the city had made its land purchase direct through its agent, and that if the agents had made a compact involving commission to the seller of property, also a real estate man, the city did not recognize it.

JERSEY POLITICIAN ACCUSED.

Washington M. Cross, of 83 Norman street, East Orange, Secretary of the Democratic County Committee of Essex countl, has been made defendant for $20,000 damages for the alleged alienation of the affections of Mrs. F. B. Boyette, whose husband is a photographer at 34 Liberty stret, Manhattan, and who lives on 132d street.

Boyette in his declaration asserts that Cross called at his place to look at a proof of a group picture that he had taken and in that way got acquainted with Mrs. Boyette, and subsequently alienated her affections. Boyette further avers that his wife confessed.

Cross emphatically denies Boyette's charges. He has a wife and child.

FARMERS HEAR COLBY ANSWER CRITIC CORBIN.

Reaffirming his continued belief in the direct primary law as a principal factor in the fight to eliminate bossism in politics, former Senator Everett Colby, at the Hunterdon county farmers' picnic at Flemington, Thursday, urged the grangers to keep up their struggle for representative government. Mr. Colby made his talk somewhat in the nature of a reply to Charles L. Corbin, of Jersey City, who, in a recent letter, criticized the "new idea" platform.

Corbin's disapproval of many of the "new idea" platform planks, Mr. Colby said, came with bad grace at this time, inasmuch as Mr. Corbin had several years ago indorsed several of them. The Jersey City lawyer's views on "public utilities" could have been anticipated, however, the Essex speaker remarked, but his dislike for direct primaries was without any argument. It was Mr. Colby's opinion that Mr. Corbin had not as carefully gone into the various subjects criticized by him as he should have done, and he declared he hoped to be able to more fully reply later.

Although a Republican, Mr. Colby, before closing, called attention to the service Senator Gebhardt, Hudson's Demorcratic representative in the upper branch of the Legislature, had performed last winter and praised him highly for it. Senator Gebhardt is a candidate for re-election and had made a speech previous to Colby.

PUNCHED MOTHER'S ESCORT.

Resenting the fact of his mother walking with a man on East State street, Trenton, Thursday, John McCue, a stalwart young man of Puritanical views, followed the pair. When they entered the Wilkinson building, where Mrs. McCue was to go to the office of an insurance company, young McCue caught up with them and straightway proceeded to give his mother's escort a tremendous thumping.

The escort was clearly outclassed and was badly punished. Finally the man broke away and ran at top speed down the street, chased by McCue. Mrs. McCue was somewhat excited but went to the insurance company's office and after attending to the business that brought her there, returned home.

The eager crowd could not tell if McCue caught the fugitive. The latter when last seen seemed to have a slight lead and was putting a heap of heart into his running.

cast and production second to none. "Billy, the Kid" will be seen here this season the same as originally staged by Chas. H. Wuerz, and every detail and property will be carried complete. The story is one of fascinating interest and is the master work of its authors, Walter Woods and Joseph Santley. The play will be presented at the Plainfield theatre Tuesday night, August 24.

Cole & Johnson, at Plainfield Theatre Wednesday Night.

atre Wednesday night, August 25, in its original form was a phenomenally successful one act sketch. For two seasons it was the headliner at all the leading vaudeville theatres in America and Canada. So great was the demand for the playlet, Emmet Devoy, its author, who also enacts the stellar role, decided to build it up into a full fledged play and the result is the present three act offering which is duplicating the success of the dramaette.

A. L. Wilbur present Cole and Johnson this season in an entirely new production, written, staged and produced by the clever colored stars, "The Red Moon," a musical comedy in three acts, furnishes a unique contrast of characters between the negro and the American Indian. The humor and situations of the comedy are drawn from the negro characters while the Indian element contributes to the picturesqueness of the story. The music is bright and charming and considered the best that the clever song-writers have ever done. The management has provided stage settings of surpassing beauty, and the costumes are in texture, design and coloring a veritable feast for the eye. A company of dashing, dancing, dusky dames with a cast composed of the greatest colored stars is promised when Cole and Johnson appear in "The Red Moon" at the Plainfield theatre, Thursday night, August 26.

IF WOMEN ONLY KNEW

What a Heap of Happiness it Would Bring to Plainfield Homes.

Hard to do housework with an aching back.

Brings you hours of misery at leisure or at work.

If women only knew the cause—that

Backache pains come from sick kidneys,

'Twould save much needless woe.

Doan's Kidney Pills cure sick kidneys,

Plainfield people endorse this:

Mrs. E. Dorflinger, 400 Clinton avenue, Plainfield, N. J., says:

"About three years ago I was suffering severely from kidney trouble. There were dull, heavy pains in my back and in the top of my head. I also had dizzy spells and I was subject to chills. Seeing Don's Kidney Pills advertised, I procured a box at Randolph's Pharmacy and I began their use. They promptly drove away my trouble and I have had no symptom of a return since."

For sale by all dealers. Price 50 cents. Foster-Milburn Co., Buffalo, New York, sole agents for the United States.

Remember the name—Doan's—and take no other.

Your Dull Headaches

Probably come from overstrained eye sight. Nine-tenths of the headaches are the direct result of eye trouble. Bring those troubles to us and let us prescribe for you.

STEEL PROFITS SHOW A SLIGHT DECREASE.

In spite of the business depression in the latter part of 1908 and the early part of 1909, and in spite of the "open market" in the steel business which resulted in a material decrease in the prices of steel, the report of the Republic Iron and Steel Company for the fiscal year ending June, 1909, shows but a slight decrease in profits and in business.

The net profits were $2,042,825, a decrease of only $365,895 from the profits of 1908. The report shows that $1,221,008 was added to the surplus, an increase of $331,475, making a total surplus of $5,920,535. The pig iron productions amounted to 678,779 tons as compared with 494,678 tons of the previous year.

The executive committee in its report declares that while the 1909 years was not affected by serious labor troubles, it was affected by a period of low prices and a restricted volume of business. The general cost for the production of material the committee declares, was the lowest in the history of the corporation.

Whispering Smith

CHAPTER XL.

Crawling Stone Wash.

When Whispering Smith and his companions were fairly started on the last day of their ride, it was toward a rift in the Mission range that the trail led them. Sinclair, with consummate cleverness, had rejoined his companions; but the attempt to get into the Cache, and his reckless ride into Medicine Bend, had reduced their chances of escape to a single outlet, and that they must find up Crawling Stone valley. The necessity of it was spelled in every move the pursued men had made for 24 hours. They were riding the pick of mountain horseflesh and covering their tracks by every device known to the high country. Behind them, made prudent by unusual danger, rode the best men the mountain division could muster for the final effort to bring them to account. The fast riding of the early week had given way to the pace of caution. No trail sign was overlooked, no point of concealment directly approached, no hiding-place left unsearched.

The tension of a long day of this work was drawing to a close when the sun set and left the big wash in the shadow of the mountains. On the higher ground to the right, Kennedy and Scott were riding where they could command the gullies of the precipitous left bank of the river. High on the left bank itself, worming his way like a snake from point to point of concealment through the scanty brush of the mountain-side, crawled Wickwire, commanding the pockets in the right bank. Closer to the river on the right and following the trail itself over shale and rock and between scattered bowlders, Whispering Smith, low on his horse's neck, rode slowly.

It was almost too dark to catch the slight discolorations where pebbles had been disturbed on a flat surface or the calk of a horseshoe had slipped on the uneven face of a ledge, and he had halted under an uplift to wait for Wickwire on the distant left to advance, when, half a mile below him, a horseman crossing the river rode slowly past a gap in the rocks and disappeared below the next bend. He was followed in a moment by a second rider and a third. Whispering Smith knew he had not been seen. He had flushed the game, and, wheeling his horse rode straight up the river bank to high ground, where he could circle around widely below them. They had slipped between his line and Wickwire's, and were doubling back, following the dry bed of the stream. It was impossible to recall Kennedy and Scott without giving an alarm, but by a quick detour he could at least hold the quarry back for 20 minutes with his rifle, and in that time Kennedy and Scott could come up.

Less than half an hour of daylight remained. If the outlaws could slip down the wash and out into the Crawling Stone valley they had every chance of getting away in the night; and if the third man should be Barney Rebstock, Whispering Smith knew that Sinclair thought only of escape. Smith alone, of their pursuers, could now intercept them, but a second hope remained: On the left, Wickwire was high enough to command every turn in the bed of the river. He might see them and could force them to cover with his rifle even at long range. Casting up the chances, Whispering Smith, riding faster over the uneven ground than anything but sheer recklessness would have prompted, hastened across the waste. His rifle lay in his hand, and he had pushed his horse to a run. A single fearful instinct crowded now upon the long strain of the week. A savage fascination burned like a fever in his veins, and he meant that they should not get away. Taking chances that would have shamed him in cooler moments, he forced his horse at the end of the long ride to within 120 paces of the river, threw his lines, slipped like a lizard from the saddle, and, darting with incredible swiftness from rock to rock, gained the water's edge.

From up the long shadows of the wash there came the wail of an owl. From it he knew that Wickwire had seen them and was warning him, but he had anticipated the warning and stood below where the hunted men must ride. He strained his eyes over the waste of rock above. For one half hour of daylight he would have sold in that moment, ten years of his life. What could he do if they should be able to secrete themselves until dark between him and Wickwire? Gliding under cover of huge rocks up the dry watercourse, he reached a spot where the floods had scooped a long, hollow curve out of a soft ledge in the bank, leaving a stretch of smooth sand on the bed of the stream. At the upper point great bowlders pushed out into the river. He could not inspect the curve from the spot he had gained without reckless exposure, but he must force the little daylight left to him. Climbing completely over the lower point, he advanced cautiously, and from behind a sheltering spur stepped out upon an overhanging table of rock and looked across the river-bottom. Three men had halted on the sand within the curve. Two lay on their rifles under the upper point, 120 paces from Whispering Smith. The third man, Seagrue, less than 50 yards away, had got off his horse and was laying down his rifle, when the hoot-owl screeched again and he looked uneasily back. They had chosen for their halt a spot easily defended, and needed only darkness to make them safe, when Smith, stepping out into plain sight, threw forward his hand.

They heard his sharp call to pitch up, and the men under the point jumped. Seagrue had not yet taken his hand from his rifle. He threw it to his shoulder. As closely together as two fingers of the right hand can be struck twice in the palm of the left, two rifle-shots cracked across the wash. Two bullets passed so close in flight they might have struck. One cut the dusty hair from Smith's temple and slit the brim of his hat above his ear; the other struck Seagrue under the left eye, plowed through the roof of his mouth, and, coming out below his ear, splintered the rock at his back.

The shock alone would have staggered a bullock, but Seagrue, laughing, came forward pumping his gun. Sinclair, at 120 yards, cut instantly into the fight, and the ball from his rifle creased the alkali that crusted Whispering Smith's unshaven cheek. As he fired he sprang to cover.

For Seagrue and Smith there was no cover; for one or both it was death in the open and Seagrue, with his rifle at his cheek, walked straight into it. Taking for a moment the fire of the three guns, Whispering Smith stood, a perfect target, outlined against the sky. They whipped the dust from his coat, tore the sleeve from his wrist and ripped the blouse collar from his neck; but he felt no bullet shock. He saw before him only the buckle of Seagrue's belt 40 paces away, and sent bullet after bullet at the gleam of brass between the sights. Both men were using high-pressure guns, and the deadly shocks of the slugs made Seagrue twitch and stagger. The man was dying as he walked. Smith's hand was racing with the lever, and had a cartridge jammed, the steel would have snapped like a match.

It was beyond human endurance to support the leaden death. The little square of brass between the sights wavered. Seagrue stumbled, doubled on his knees, and staggering plunged loosely forward on the sand. Whispering Smith threw his fire toward the bowlder behind which Sinclair and Barney Rebstock had disappeared.

Suddenly he realized that the bullets from the point were not coming his way. He was aware of a second rifle-duel above the bend. Wickwire, worming his way down the stream, had uncovered Sinclair and young Rebstock from behind. A yell between the shots rang across the wash, and the cringing figure of a man ran out toward Whispering Smith with his hands high in the air, and pitched headlong on the ground. It was the skulker, Barney Rebstock, driven out by Wickwire's fire.

Seagrue Stumbled to the Sand.

The shooting ceased. Silence fell upon the gloom of the dusk. Then came a calling between Smith and Wickwire, and a signaling of pistol-shots for their companions. Kennedy and Bob Scott dashed down toward the river bed on their horses. Seagrue lay on his face. Young Rebstock sat with his hands around his knees on the sand. Above him at some distance, Wickwire and Smith stood before a man who leaned against the sharp cheek of the bowlder at the point. In his hands his rifle was held across his lap just as he had dropped on his knee to fire. He had never moved after he was struck. His head, drooping a little, rested against the rock, and his hat lay on the sand; his heavy beard had sunk into his chest and he kneeled in the shadow, asleep. Scott and Kennedy knew him. In the mountains there was no double for Murray Sinclair.

When he jumped behind the point to pick Whispering Smith off the ledge he had laid himself directly under Wickwire's fire across the wash. The first shot of the cowboy at 200 yards had passed, as he knelt, through both temples.

Not Exempt.

An evangelist was exhorting his hearers to flee from the wrath to come. "I warn you," he thundered, "that there will be weeping, and wailing, and gnashing of teeth!"

At this moment an old woman in the gallery stood up. "Sir," she shouted, "I have no teeth."

"Madam," returned the evangelist, severely, "teeth will be provided."—Success Magazine.

FORM OF BALLOT

FIRST AMENDMENT.

FOR THIS AMENDMENT.
AGAINST

1. Strike out paragraph ten of Section VII of Article IV, and change the numbers of the following paragraphs to correspond.

SECOND AMENDMENT.

FOR THIS AMENDMENT.
AGAINST

Change paragraph ten of Article V to read as follows:

10. The Governor or person administering the government, and four citizens of the State appointed by the Governor, by and with the advice and consent of the Senate, shall constitute the Board of Pardons. The members of said Board, or any three of them, of whom the Governor or person administering the government shall be one, may remit fines and forfeitures, and grant reprieves, commutations, pardons and paroles, after conviction in all cases except impeachment. The four members specialy appointed shall hold office for five years, and receive for their services a compensation which shall not be diminished during the term of their appointment.

THIRD AMENDMENT.

FOR THIS AMENDMENT.
AGAINST

(The different paragraphs of this amendment being necessarily interdependent, are considered as one amendment.)

Change Section I of Article VI so as to read as follows:

SECTION I.

The judicial power shall be vested in a court for the trial of impeachments, a Supreme Court, County Courts, and such other courts, inferior to the Supreme Court, as may be established by law, which inferior courts the Legislature may alter or abolish as the public good shall require.

Strike out all of Sections II, IV, V, VI and VII of Article VI, change the number of Section III of Article VI to Section II, and insert the following sections in Article VI:

SECTION III.

Any judge of any of the courts of the State may be removed for disability continuing for one year, or for refusal to perform the duties of his office, by a vote of two-thirds of all of the members of the Senate and of two-thirds of all the members of the House of Assembly voting separately, after a hearing before both Houses in joint session.

SECTION IV.

1. The Supreme Court shall be organized in three divisions, namely, the Appeals Division, the Law Division and the Chancery Division. It shall consist of a Presiding Justice of the Appeals Division who shall be styled the Chief Justice, a Presiding Justice of the Law Division, who shall be styled the President Justice, and a Presiding Justice of the Chancery Division, who shall be styled the Chancellor, and eighteen Associate Justices, which number may be increased by law.

2. The Appeals Division shall consist of the Chief Justice, and six other Justices of the Supreme Court to be assigned by the Governor. A Justice of the Supreme Court assigned by the Governor to the Appeals Division shall serve in said division until the end of his term.

The remaining justices shall be assigned by the Supreme Court to the Law or Chancery Division, as the business of the Court may require.

3. Whenever the number of causes before the Appeals Division shall be so great that the Division cannot promptly hear and determine them, the Governor shall, when authorized by statute, temporarily assign five of the justices of the other divisions to sit in the Appeals Division, which shall thereupon sit in two divisions for the hearing and decision of causes pending at the time of such assignment.

4. Four justices shall be necessary to constitute a quorum on the final hearing of any cause in the Appeals Division, but the Supreme Court may provide by rule for the making of interlocutory orders by a lesser number of justices or by one justice; such orders to be subject to revision by the Appeals Division.

On the hearing of a cause in the Appeals Division, no justice who has given a judicial opinion in the cause in favor of or against the judgment, order or decree under review shall sit at the hearing to review such judgment, order or decree, but the reasons for such opinion shall be assigned to the Court in writing.

5. A majority of all the members of the Supreme Court, to be presided over by the Chief Justice, shall constitute a quorum for the assignment of justices, and for the appointment of officers, and the enactment of rules.

6. The Supreme Court shall appoint one or more reporters, not exceeding three, to report the decisions of the Court, and shall by rule define his or their duties and powers. The reporters shall hold office, for five years, subject, however, to removal at the discretion of the Court.

SECTION V.

1. The Appeals Division shall have and exercise the appellate jurisdiction heretofore possessed by the Court of Errors and Appeals, the jurisdiction heretofore possessed by the Supreme Court on writ of error, and the jurisdiction heretofore possessed by the Prerogative Court on appeal, and by the Ordinary on appeal, and such further appellate jurisdiction as may be conferred upon it by law, together with such original jurisdiction as may be incident to the complete determination of any cause on review, saving, however, the right of trial by jury.

2. The jurisdiction hertofore possessed by the Supreme Court and the Justices thereof not hereby conferred on the Appeals Division, and the jurisdiction heretofore possessed by the Circuit Courts and the judges thereof, and such further original jurisdiction not of an equitable nature, and such further appellate jurisdiction from inferior courts as may be conferred by statute, shall be exercised by the Law Division of the Supreme Court and by the several justices thereof, in accordance with rules of practice and procedure prescribed by statute, or in the absence of statute by the Supreme Court.

3. The jurisdiction heretofore possessed by the Prerogative Court and the Ordinary, not hereby conferred on the Appeals Division, and the jurisdiction heretofore possessed by the Court of Chancery and the Chancellor, and such further original equity jurisdiction as may be conferred by statute, and such further orignal jurisdiction as is now conferable on the Prerogative Court shall be exercised by the Chancery Division and by the Chancellor and the several justices of said division in accordance with rules and practice and procedure prescribed by statute, or, in the absence of statute, by the Supreme Court, but the justices of that division shall be under such control and supervision by the Chancellor as shall be provided by the Supreme Court.

4. Terms of the Supreme Court presided over by a single Justice of the Law Division for the trial of issues joined in or brought to the Law Division of the Supreme Court shall be held in the several counties at times fixed by the Supreme Court. Until so fixed, such trial terms shall be held at the places and times now fixed by law for the holding of the Courts of Common Pleas in the several counties.

5. The Supreme Court may provide by rule for the transfer of any cause or issue from the Law Division to the Chancery Division, or from the Chancery Division to the Law Division of the Supreme Court, and from the County Court to the Law Division or the Chancery Division of the Supreme Court, and for the giving of complete legal and equitable relief in any cause in the court or division where it may be pending.

6. Nothing herein contained shall prevent the alteration, by law, of any statutory power or jurisdiction conferred upon any court or judge since the adoption of the Constitution in the year one thousand eight hundred and forty-four, and nothing herein contained shall prevent the Legislature from conferring upon any inferior court which may hereafter be established, such power or jurisdiction as was exercised by or which may now be conferred upon the inferior courts mentioned in section 1 of Article VI of the Constitution of 1844.

SECTION VI.

The County Courts shall have and exercise, in all cases within the county such original common law jurisdiction concurrent with the Supreme Court, and such other jurisdiction heretofore exercised by courts inferior to the Supreme Court, and the Prerogative Court as may be provided by law. The final judgments of the County Courts may be brought for review before the Supreme Court in the Appeals Division. Until otherwise provided, the jurisdiction heretofore exercised by the Courts of Common Pleas, Orphans' Courts, Courts of Oyer and Terminer, Courts of Quarter Sessions, or by the judges thereof, shall be exercised by the County Courts pursuant to rules prescribed by the Supreme Court. The justices of the Law Division of the Supreme Court shall be ex-officio judges of the County Courts. All other jurisdiction or authority now vested in any court, judge or magistrate with jurisdiction inferior to the courts in this section mentioned, and not superseded by this article, shall continue to be exercised by such court, judge or magistrate until the Legislature shall otherwise provide.

SECTION VII.

This amendment to the Constitution shall not cause the abatement of any suit or proceeding pending when it takes effect. The Supreme Court shall make such general and special rules and orders as may be necessary for the transfer of all suits and proceedings to the appropriate division or court created by this amendment. Matters pending when this amendment takes effect shall be decided by the judge or judges to whom they were submitted, and the order, judgment or decree made or advised by said judge shall be entered as that of the division or court to which the suit or proceeding shall have been transferred.

Fifth—Strike out paragraphs 1, 2, 5 and 6 of section II of Article VII; and substitute the following paragraphs in place of paragraphs 1 and 2, and change the numbers of the paragraphs following 5 to correspond:

1. The Chief Justice of the Supreme Court, the President Justice of the Law Division, the Chancellor and the Associate Justices of the Supreme Court shall be nominated by the Governor and appointed by him, with the advice and consent of the Senate. They shall not be less than thirty-five years of age, and shall have been practicing attorneys in the State for at least ten years. They shall hold office for the term of seven years; shall, at stated times, receive for their services a compensation which shall not be diminished during their term of office, and they shall hold no other office under the government of the State, or of the United States, and shall not engage in the practice of law during their term of office. The Chancellor and the Chief Justice of the Supreme Court, and the Vice-Chancellors and Associate Justices of the Supreme Court, in office when this amendment takes effect, shall be Justices of the Supreme Court until the expiration of their respective terms.

The Circuit Court Judges in office when this amendment takes effect shall be continued in office with the powers of the Justices of the Supreme Court at the circuit until the expiration of their respective terms. They may hold the County Courts, subject to assignment by the Law Division of the Supreme Court.

2. The Governor, by and with the advice and consent of the Senate, shall appoint one judge of the County Court in each county, and such additional County Judge or Judges in any county as may be authorized by law. The County Judges may hold court in any county subject to the control of the Supreme Court. The County Judges shall not be less than thirty years of age, and shall have been practicing attorneys in this State for at least five years. They shall hold office for the term of five years; shall at stated times receive for their services such compensation, which shall not be diminished during their term of office, as the Legislature in its discretion shall fix for each county, and they shall hold no other office under the government of the State or of the United States, and shall not engage in practice of the law in the courts of the county where they hold court during their term of office. The Judges of the Common Pleas in office when this amendment takes effect shall be the judges of the County Courts until the expiration of their present terms.

3. This amendment shall take effect on the first Monday in February, in the year next following its adoption by the people.

Chalmers-Detroit "30" $1,500

The only car selling under $2,000 having full floating type rear axle, angular ball bearings throughout; double drop frame and 114 inch wheel base.

It won the Indiana Light Car race on the 18th of June, averaged 51.5 miles per hour for 232 miles. On straightaways its recorded speed exceeded 75 miles per hour.

In the 202-mile race over the Santa Monica course in California, on the 10th of July, the "30" won with an average of 55.2 miles an hour. In both of these contests the "30" motor was the smallest entered.

Any car that can go from Denver to Mexico City or can go 208 miles a day for 100 consecutive days, as a Chalmers-Detroit "30" did, is a pretty safe car to buy.

The New York Agency took orders for 50 of these cars the first week they received their demonstrating car. We have already booked orders for 10 of these cars although we have not yet received our demonstrator.

We strongly advise placing your order early as the Chalmers entire output for 1910 will be sold out early.

BODY OF MURDEROUS FARM HAND IS BURIED.

The body of Fred Krause, the young farmhand who entered the home of George L. There are a number of entries from Butler and Bloomingdale for the athletic events at the picnic. Among them are Harry Taylor, Arthur Wrightenour, Durham Dixon, Clarence De Lazier, Leslie King and Raymond Haycock.

"SPITE' FENCE IN FINDERN SCRAP OVER SUNDAY BASEBALL

What is called a "spite" fence has been erected by Bernhardt Meyer, of Finderne, in revenge, it is said, for the arrest and conviction of his son, Edward, on the charge of disturbing the peace. The trouble grew out of the playing of baseball on Sunday too near the residence of G. V. Van Doren. Mr. Van Doren complained to the county prosecutor and that official referred him to a justice of the peace to prefer his charges.

The result of these charges was the arrest of four young men, George Thompson, Charles Smith, Edward Froelich and Edward Meyer. All four were fined and Mr. Meyer paid the fines, but the case will be appealed. In the meantime Mr. Meyer has had the fence erected and Mr. Van Doren can only see his barn when he tries to get a look at the outside world from his windows.

COMPLAINT ENTERED AGAINST FAT RENDERING WORKS.

Several residents of Alton, in the township of Fanwood, entered a complaint before the Board of Health at their meeting last night against the Glazier Fat Rendering concern whose plant is situated in Alton. Among those who signed the complaint were C. F. Hass, Miles Rauch, John Mair and Mrs. Widerson, who claim that the odors from the factory are unendurable and as a nuisance ought to be abated.

The Board of Health will submit the complaint to the Common Council who it is expected will render a decision in the matter.

There were a few lively minutes at the hearing before the health board which nearly resulted in somebody being asked to a meeting outside Excelsior Hall, where the board met. Robert Newton Crane, of this city, acted as special counsel for the Board of Health in the absence of Walter Hetfield, Jr.

DISMISSED WEST POINT CADETS SAY FAREWELL.

An unusual and rather striking incident characterized the last hours at the West Point Military Academy of six of the seven cadets who were dismissed from the institution for hazing Rolando Sutton, the fourth-class man and brother of the late Lieutenant Sutton, of the Marine Corps, whose death was lately the subject of investigation at Annapolis. Having packed up their belongings and settled their accounts with the post officers, the six young men appeared on the parade ground just before evening parade.

The bugle sounded and the cadet corps marched forth upon the field, at one side of which stood the disgraced youths unhappily watching the scene. As the line broke into column of platoons to march in review the six youngsters came to a smart attention. When the companies were marching back into the streets of the camp the former cadets slowly followed to have a last look at their tents.

When ranks were broken the members of the corps gathered around their dismissed comrades, shook their hands, patted them on the back and uttered all manner of encouraging words. The six youths were uncertain whether to enter the mess hall at supper time, but their former companions insisted on their eating a last supper there. It was a mixture of sadness and attempts at jocularity, for the dismissed men were among the most popular at the academy. They were accompanied to the railway station by dozens of sympathizing cadets when they left for New York.

SPIKE ON FALLING POLE PIERCED LAD'S THROAT.

His throat pierced by a spike on a huge clothes pole which toppled over on him as she was at play in the yard of the apartment-house at 83 East Nineteenth street, Bayonne, Thursday, Frank Leonard, eight years old, died that night in the Bayonne General Hospital. Frank Matthews, six years old, who was with the Leonard boy at the time, had his head cut by a glancing blow. He will recover.

The pole was a mast supporting sixteen clotheslines used by the occupants of the apartments in the house. Both the Matthews and Leonard families live in the house at the rear of which the tragedy occurred.

The pole had rotted at the base. The wet weather had caused the clotheslines to shrink and this had put an additional strain on the pole. When it fell young Leonard was caught beneath it. His right leg was broken. One of the spikes in the pole, designed to make climbing possible, struck him squarely in the throat. The throat was torn in a ghastly manner, but though it was evident the wound was fatal the little fellow showed remarkable vitality. He lived until seven hours after the accident.

MISS ANNIE M'CLUSKEY IS GIVEN A SURPRISE "SHOWER."

A surprise miscellaneous "shower" was given to Miss Annie McCluskey, at the home of her aunt, Mrs. John Coffey, 730 West Front street, last night. The affair was arranged by Mrs. Coffey and Mrs. Winfield S. Decker, of West Third street.

There was a large company of relatives and friends present and Miss McCluskey received many handsome and useful gifts. The evening was given up entirely to sociability and later refreshments was served. Miss McCluskey recently announced her engagement to Chester Decker, son of Mrs. Winfield S. Decker, and the wedding will take place early in September. The couple are popular and has a host of friends here.

New Stamp Issue Setpember 15.

Plainfield will get its share of the new issue of the 50,000,000 postage stamps to be issued in connection with the Hudson-Fulton celebration which will be out about September 15. The stamps are issued in connection with the celebration next month of the operation of the first steamboat on the Hudson river. Postmaster-General Hitchcock has approved an order authorizing the substitution of the word "celebration" for "centenary" which was used in the original design for the stamps.

The Pineapple Status.

Two diners at a hotel were disputing as to what a pineapple really was. One of them insisted that it was a fruit, the other insisted that it was a vegetable. The friends determined to accept the decision of the waiter, who was called to the table. "John," asked one of them, "how do you describe a pineapple? Is is a fruit or is it a vegetable?" The waiter thoughtfully rubbed his hands. "It's neither, gentlemen; a pineapple is always a hextra!" he replied.

Fully Acquainted.

An old gentleman, speaking to a young lady and commenting upon freshness and good looks, remarked: "Ah, my dear, may you long retain them. Yours is a happy period of life; you know nothing yet of the jealousies, the heart-burnings, the contentions, the rivalries, that beset the pathway of existence."

"Don't I though," she interrupted. "I want you to understand that I belong to a church choir."—Tit-Bits.

BRYAN ON THE WATER WAGON.

Bryan now announces his intention to make war on the liquor interests in order to keep the Democratic party from being controlled by them. This sudden change of attitude, novel for a Northern Democrat, has not greatly surprised the American people. Reading the signs of the times, Mr. Bryan recognizes the fact that the great leaders of his party, who have followed him thrice to defeat, are not eager to place their standard in his hand again. Mr. Bryan being nothing if not resourceful, his stand for virtual prohibition can have but one meaning. He realizes the absurdity of announcing that he will take a nomination from the Democratic party for the fourth time and lead it once more to disaster. But as he feels that he must have another try for the Presidency, he is casting about to get the nomination from the rapidly growing Prohibition party.

Those who may doubt that Mr. Bryan is willing to tie up with the Prohibitionists should remember that it is not hope of the Presidency that atracts him and keeps him active in political affairs as much as the profitable publicity which he enjoys from posing as a candidate. It was his remarkable gift of gaining publicity which lifted Mr. Bryan from poverty and obscurity into national prominence and made him one of the wealthiest men in his State. His capacity for securing free advertising drives the ablest press agent to despair. By means of it Mr. Bryan is enabled to derive from his speeches, his lectures and his contributions to the press an income of about $100,000 a year—much more than the salary of the President of the United States.—Leslie's Weekly.

HEAR SERMON ON FAITH

Rev. James T. Dickinson, of Rochester, Addresses Congregations.

AT THEIR UNION SERVICES.

No Home Happy Without a Strong Faith Says the Clergyman in Sermon at First Presbyterian.

One of the largest congregations that has gathered during the series of union services held in this city, attended the one last night at the First Presbyterian church, when the Rev. James T. Dickinson, of Rochester, gave a masterful sermon on Faith.

He took his text from Mathew xvii, 20: "If ye have faith as a grain of mustard seed, ye shall say unto this mountain, remove hence to yonder place; and it shall remove and nothing shall be impossible unto you." His sermon resolved itself into three heads: "General Faith, Faith for Large Things, and Faith for Small Things."

Faith he said is the husband of the home. No home can be happy, or can exist without a strong faith. From the home it extends to the business work. The panic of 1907 in the business world had its root in scepticism. Faith must be able to rise up and be strong enough to see the goodness in the world, in humanity, in God. But we may come from this higher idealism to the lower everyday life where we must permeate exerything with a wholesome faith.

Gladstone was religiously grounded. His heart was religious. In the midst of a great public and scholarly career he paused to do good among the lowly; so Gladstone's trust in God came down to humble affairs.

"Can faith remove a mountain? I believe it can. Christ didn't mean it in the physical sense, but intellectually and spiritually. But it is true literally. The Alps of Switzerland have been removed, by tunneling, so far as they obstructed travel; the Hudson river and the East river have been removed by tunnels. Faith did it; When ever you go under these tunnels you are paying tribute to faith.

"In the spiritual world, what mountains of doubt and scepticism and ignorance, did not Luther remove by his strong faith! It is a good thing to have even a little faith for it grows into a big faith. Little Greece sent out a philosophy that is world wide; Palestine sent out a Christianity; England a little island, grew to be the greatest empire in the world. So, one little tiny root of faith, grows into a tree of gigantic proportions, whose faith is then indomitable. But it isn't the size of the faith that counts; its its object. A faith even though little will link us to the Saviour, to share in his great fatherhood and many blessings; a little faith is your best treasure."

SPECIAL SERVICES AT THE SALVATION ARMY TENT.

The Salvation Army Gospel tent was well filled last evening for the special Sunday night meeting. The opening service of song was entered into heartily by the congregation. A portion of the service was taken up with testimonies, these included several by those who have been converted in the tent services. Two instrumental selections were played by Messrs. Korff, Speer and Guest. A beautiful and touching solo entitled "Where Jesus is 'tis Heaven for me," was sung by Edward Brunn. The Gospel talk was given by Captain Hewitt, his subject being taken from the twenty-first chapter of Numbers, the brazen serpent erected by Moses in the wilderness.

Services were announced for every evening this week with the exception of Monday. Wednesday evening the workers from the Scotch Plains Baptist church will be in charge of the service. A very profitable time is expected and every one is cordially invited to attend.

Rev. Dr. Eaton at Wilson Memorial.

Rev. Dr. Charles A. Eaton preached yesterday morning at the Mary M. Wilson Memorial chapel at Watchung before the largest congregation ever gathered in the beautiful edifice. The seats were all filled and many were compelled to stand through the service. Dr. Eaton preached a splendid sermon on the "Uses of Trouble," drawing many helpful lessons for those who think their troubles are the hardest to bear. Faith and a sure grip on the Master are the remdies in all troubles, either great or small, and believers have the comforting assurance that Christ suffers with them and thus His sympathy alleviates the poignant bereavement and bodily suffering.

SERVICE AT BABY CAMP

Mr. Korff Tells the Little Ones About the Good Shepherd.

PROVIDES MUSICAL PROGRAM.

George E. Hall, in Charge of Meeting, Explains How the Worthy Institution Is Conducted.

With perfect weather and an attractive program, the attendance at the four o'clock service yesterday afternoon at the King's Daughters' Baby Camp was even larger than that of the preceding Sunday, and a marked interest was shown in the meeting. George E. Hall was in charge of the service, assisted by Martin A. Korff, who talked to the children in his pleasing way about the Good Shepherd. Mr. Korff based his remarks upon the tenth chapter of St. John, and likened the shepherd who loves his sheep, to the kind friends who are caring for these children at the camp. He drew word pictures of two sheepfolds—one where the sheep and little helpless lambs are tenderly cared for by a shepherd who really loves them, and who would willingly protect his sheep from the wolves and other dangers, by the sacrifice of his own life if necessary; the other, where the shepherd is a mere hireling who, in order to protect his own life, would leave the sheep to suffer any fate that might befall them. The subject was one that appealed to adults as well as the children, and the speaker enjoyed the close attention of his audience.

A decidely attractive feature of the service was the musical program in charge of Mr. Korff, including the following selections by an orchestra of eight pieces: "Flower Song," "Schubert's Serenade," "Simple Acen" and "Angels' Serenade." The orchestra also accompanied all the hymns, and in both chorus work and solo parts rendered a program of music that was decidedly pleasing. These musicians assisted: Martin A. Korff, Miss Arline Brown, Miss Majorie Brown, George Spier, Charles T. Fisher, violins; Whitney Frazee and E. H. Guest, cornets. Edward Spier presided at the piano.

Mr. Hall stated that next Sunday's service, which will be the last one of the season, is to be in charge of Rev. Mr. England, pastor of the Swedish church, of this city, who, with several members of his congregation, will render a program of vocal and instrumental music. Mr. England will also address the meeting, and an exceptionally interesting service is anticipated.

In reply to inquiries Mr. Hall said that this work is supported entirely by voluntary contributions; that donations of any amount will always be gladly received, and may be handed to Mrs. Bird, matron of the Day Nursery and summer camp, or sent to Mrs. Anna M. Most, of Myrtle avenue. As the result of this announcement a neat sum was received at the close of the service.

These meetings have become a most attractive feature of camp life on the mountain, and have grown more popular with the people of Plainfield and vicinity, with each succeeding Sunday. An hour spent on the summit of this beautiful mountain, surrounded on every side by picturesque scenery and magnificent views, is sufficient inducement for any lover of nature; but add to this the influence of a religious service that is full of interest and helpfulness, and we can then understand why so many avail themselves of this privilege, willing, if necessary, to walk up the mountain and return, in order to attend these Sunday afternoon services

The large stage and two automobiles that have been provided all summer by George E. Hall for the purpose of carrying passengers from the trolley to the camp and return, have been taxed to their utmost capacity each Sunday; and this manifestation of interest on the part of Plainfield and nearby towns, is most gratifying to those who are endeavoring to carry on the work of the King's Daughters' Baby Camp.

Treat for the Babies.

The weekly treat of ice cream and cake for the children and mothers at the Baby Camp on the mountain, was furnished last Saturday afternoon by the Daughters of the Cross Circle. Several representatives from this circle visited the camp and became greatly interested in the work being carried on. A number of people from Plainfield and vicinity visited the camp on Saturday, dividing their time between playing games with the children and enjoying the magnificent view which this attractive spot affords.

CHIEF DOANE RETURNS

Back from Convention, He Talks About Auto Fire Apparatus.

NEED HERE FOR BIG STEAMER.

Automobile Combination Chemical and Hose Wagon Very Efficient, He Says.

Chief T. O. Doane returned late last night from Grand Rapids, Mich., where he has been attending the thirty-seventh annual convention of the International Association of Fire Engineers, of which he is a member. He made the trip both ways with Chief O'Neill, head of the Ridgewood department. Automobile fire apparatus was considered carefully by the 600 firemen delegates from all over the country, and the local chief has been impressed with the advantages of auto fire protection.

"We ought to have a combination auto chemical and hose wagon here in Plainfield," said Chief Doane, in speaking about the exhibits of auto apparatus. "The auto engine and hose wagon, like the one they have in Trenton, is an automobile steamer, and it doesn't seem to be powerful enough to take the place of the heaviest type of horse drawn fire engine. It is endorsed as a "skirmish engine,' to check big fires until the heavy horse-drawn apparatus arrives.

"We have fire houses enough in Plainfield now to cover the city for many, many years," said the chief in speaking about the local situation, "but we want to be sure and get the right kind of apparatus for the department. There ought to be a big steamer for the big fires The one we've got now isn't powerful enough for a real 'big' fire. Such a steamer probably wouldn't be used more than once in ten years, but on that one occasion it would pay for itself a hundred times over.

"The auto combination chemical and hose wagon is a very efficient piece of apparatus, and there ought to be at least one of them in town. The hose wagons we've got at present in the department ought to be replaced by these auto combination chemicals."

NEW 1910 HUDSON CAR ARRIVED

The Hudson "20" on exhibition at the salesroom of Andrew C. Thompson Automobile Co. is attracting an unusual amount of attention. This little car shows many features, which heretofore has been found only in very high priced cars, naturally the first thing the visitor wants to see is the motor, and the designer of the Hudson car is particularly proud of this part of the machine.

The Hudson motor is of the Renault type; it has a stroke of 4½ inches, which is long in proportion to the bore which is 3¾. The European designers are fast adopting the long stroke motor, and the Hudson people claim it possesses many advantages which should recommend it to the average owner.

The spring suspension of the Hudson follows the practice used on the majority of the high priced cars, being semi-elliptic in front and ¾ elliptic in rear. The springs seem to be unusual long and heavy and weight than they will ever be called upon to carry.

Mr. Thompson says everyone is very enthusiastic about the little car, and the only difficulty is going to be in getting enough cars to supply the demand. ***

PATROLMAN CAPTURES YOUNG NEGRO FUGITIVE

Arrested as a suspicious character at the Netherwood station early Sunday morning by Patrolman Anderson, Lucius Taylor, a twenty-one-year-old negro, has been identified as the man who stole a bicycle belonging to William Murphy, Jr., of North avenue, on June 7. A formal warrant has been sworn out, and he will be arraigned to answer the charge before Judge William N. Runyon tomorrow.

Anderson found the big colored man who has "done time" in State's prison, at the station and although he didn't recognize him as "wanted" here, he brought him along when he found that Taylor's story was lame. At headquarters he was recognized by Detective Sergeant Flynn, who worked on the case last July, when Taylor was sentenced to a year in State's prison by Judge E. S. Atwater, for stealing five bicycles from local people.

The police have associated Taylor with the theft of young Murphy's wheel, and yesterday he was positively identified as "the man" by Thomas Higgins and Chris Mobus, hackmen. These say that they saw him take the bike. Taylor was released from State's prison on June 7, and the boy's wheel was stolen that same day.

Taylor, who stands six feet five and is proportionately developed, first became known to the local police in 1906, when he served a county jail sentence for stealing chickens from his employer, an East Front street man.

From Plainfield to Montreal and return Mr. Force motored 958 miles. The only tire trouble during the whole journey was one chafed inner tube. The party was gone fourteen days.

NEW 1910 CHALMERS-DETROIT ARRIVED.

The new 1910 Chalmers-Detroit "30," on exhibition at the salesroom of Andrew C. Thompson Automobile Co., is attracting an unusual amount of attention.

This car certainly is a handsome car, the lines and finish would be hard to improve upon.

It has now a wheel base of 115 inches, 34 inch wheels, full floating type rear axle, and double drop frame.

Mr. Thompson has already booked orders for 10 of these cars and he strongly advises those who intend purchasing a car to secure a demonstration and place their orders early, as the only difficulty will be in securing enough cars to supply the demand. ***

Street Improvement Finished.

Street Commissioner Gavett expects to complete the work of improving one side of West Front street, between Grant and Clinton avenues, today, a large gang of men being employed in putting on the finishing touches. The work has been thoroughly done, the thoroughfare on one side practically being rebuilt and then finished with tarvia which has been put in with stone, making it dustless.

Knocked Down by Auto.

Israel Kepler, of Liberty street, was knocked down ad bruised about the hands and knees by an automobile at West Second and Liberty streets Saturday afternoon. The automobile didn't stop, but he said the number was 4161. He has reported this to the police.

Lieut. Rogers Improving.

Lieut. N. Pendleton Rogers, Jr., who has been under treatment at his home on East Front stret, for many months as the result of an accident at Tuxedo, N. Y., is now able to take automobile rides and there is rapid improvement.

NETHERWOOD GUESTS HEAR REV. DR. EATON

Every conceivable sort of seat was brought into the pavilion at The Netherwood Fresh Air Home yesterday afternoon, and even then the immense crowd could not be accommodated. The fact that Rev. D. Charles A. Eaton, the famous Cleveland preacher, was to speak to the children drew the largest attendance of the season filling the big pavilion to overflowing; many being compelled to stand outside on the lawn.

Besides the special speaker music was furnished by John Wolf, violinist, and duets by Mrs. Vincent and Mrs. Van Breckle, of Fanwood; and a splendidly sung chorus, "God Will Take Care of You," by the children of the camp. The meeting was in charge of James Parker and, owing to the trouble in seating the people, it did not begin until 4:15 o'clock.

Dr. Eaton did not confine his remarks to the children in the beginning of his talk, but brought to bear on the mothers and fathers present the lesson taught by Paul's advent at Rome. He told how the parents of the olden time left their offspring out on the mountains to die of hunger and exposure, and how after the Gospel had had its introduction and Christ's influence began to tell, how the change was wrought in the customs of barbarism. The cry of the child became greater than the tramp of the Roman armies. The Roman slave then found his condition ameliorated by the intervening power of Jesus Christ.

Turning to the children, who, by this time had become absorbed in the Doctor's story, he said: "Perhaps you think of God as far away in the sky; as a powerful being away from anywhere, whom you cannot see and whom you fear. But I tell you that God is so near to you that He is right in your hearts and is speaking to you every minute of the day. He made our hearts for his dwelling place. Money, education and social position do not make your character; it is what you think about God and how you obey Him that moulds and forms and perfects you.

"You ought to be encouraged by the thought of God's love for you. He loves you enough to sacrifice everything for you and has promised to carry you in his arms and hold you for His Kingdom."

Dr. Eaton told two little stories illustrative of his meaning and showed how God goes with His love everywhere and with everybody, even the little children. "He loves every one of you and will take care of you if only you trust Him," he said. He also expressed his joy at the work being carried on by Miss Curry and her assistants at the camp.

Contesting for Challenge Cup.

Following up their early victories with fresh yachting honors, Clinton and Alvin Norton, sons of Rev. R. F. Norton, of St. Mark's Methodist Episcopal church, Brooklyn, stand a fair chance to win the Lake Placid Yacht Club challenge cup. They captured another race in the series on Saturday. The contest is now between the Norton boys and W. J. Buttfield, of North Plainfield, who has been yachting for years at Lake Placid.

HE WANTS $25,000 FOR LOSS OF EYE

Frank Glaser, son of Theodore Glaser, of Elizabeth and nephew of Theodore Glaser, Jr., of Alton, has started suit for $25,000 damages against Frederick Bauer, Jr., son of Frederick Bauer, proprietor of the road house on Rahway avenue, near Elizabeth, who on June 7 last accidentally shot him in the face with a shot gun. Glaser claims damages for the loss of his left eye.

The suit has been started in the Supreme Court and papers were filed on Saturday in the office of County Clerk James C. Calvert, by A. A. Stein, counsel for Glaser. A capias has been placed in the hands of Deputy Sheriff Wright, and an order calling for the holding of Bauer under $1,500 has been filed.

The shooting occurred in the rear of the roadhouse. The two men had started for a place where they proposed to shoot, Glaser being in the lead. The latter had gone some distance from the door of the roadhouse, when Bauer, who had just stepped out, called to his companion to turn around. Bauer was pointing his gun at his companion and as the latter turned, he pressed the trigger.

There was a loud report, and Glaser fell to the ground, his face, neck and shoulders riddled with shot. Glaser was taken to the General Hospital, Elizabeth, where an examination showed that he would lose the sight of one eye. Bauer claims he did not know the gun was loaded.

SEEK TO OBTAIN PART OF FRANCIS DRAKE ESTATE.

Postal card notices have been sent out to the claimants of the Drake estate for a meeting to be held Thursday afternoon at 3 o'clock at the home of Mrs. Joseph Dunn, 143 West Front street. At that time there will be a discussion of plans for chancery proceedings in England.

Mrs. J. W. Darby, mother of Mrs. J. V. E. Vanderhoef, of Prospect place, is a claimant as an heir, and it was through the efforts of Miss Emily Board, of Metuchen, that the date for the meeting was arranged. All the parties claim to be direct descendants of Sir Francis Drake, who was famous as a nevigator. He died in 1596, but during his life accumulated a fortune. Eugene M. Laing, who is also interested in the matter, has been asked to preside at the meeting. The value of the estate is not known, but various heirs have been seeking a settlement for years.

TELLS OF AUTO TRAGEDY

Mrs. J. Fred MacDonald, of East Front Street, Passes Wreck After Accident.

OCCURRED NEAR "THE PINES."

Those Not Dead Badly Injured—Steering Gear Broke While Car Was Traveling at High Rate of Speed.

Mrs. J. Fred MacDonald, of East Front street, passed the scene of the fatal automobile accident near "The Pines," between New Brunswick and Stelton Saturday afternoon, within fifteen minutes after the big touring car, travelling at the rate of a mile a minute, crashed into a telegraph pole, killing George A. McLean, and his son, George A. MacLean, Jr., and injuring all the other occupants of the big machine—four women and a chauffeur. The work of "first aid" had just been begun when the Plainfield woman's automobile passed the scene.

"It was horrible," said Mrs. MacDonald, "and we tried to pass by as soon as we could. Mr. MacLean, the father, had been thrown a great distance from the wrecked automobile, and was lying on his back at a distance. He was moving his head all the time. My chauffeur, who helped the rescue work, said that his back was broken. I saw one woman, I think it was the Miss McDonald whom they say is fatally injured, when they put her on a stretcher and lifted her to an automobile. She was taken to New Brunswick, but the other victims were taken to "The Pines." The automobile was turned completely over and was just a heap of kindling wood."

Mr. MacLean, who was a department manager in the wholesale house of Marshall Field & Co., of Chicago, had been to Princeton with the party, comprising his son, his wife, his daughter, Miss Dorothy MacLean, and his two nieces, the Misses Jeanette and Harriet McDonald. The accident occurred near The Pines, a hotel on the read leading from New Brunswick to Metuchen. Peter Feller, proprietor of The Pines, witnessed the accident, and calling some employees hurried to the assistance of the injured. All were either unconscious or in a semi-conscious condition, lying scattered about the wrecked car.

The MacLeans came on from Chicago to install young MacLean in Princeton and were making the journey to New York by automobile preparatory to leaving for Chicago Saturday night. Near New Brunswick, while the car was going at a good clip something went wrong with the steering gear, the machine dashed to one side of the road and crashed into a tree. All of the occupants were thrown out violently and young MacLean landed on his head with such force that death was practically instantaneous.

Dr. Gross, of Metuchen, first reached the injured, and was soon followed by Dr. Voorhees, Dr. Rice and Dr. Shannon, of this city. Surgeons and an ambulance were quickly called from St. Peter's General Hospital. Young MacLean was beyond aid. The others were rushed to the hospital, and while a hasty examination did not indicate that Mr. MacLean's injuries were fatal, he died shortly after 9 o'clock Saturday night. He had sustained a broken arm, a broken thigh, and was hurt internally.

Miss Jeanette MacDonald's condition is serious. One of her ribs is fractured and it is feared that her lungs may have been punctured.

After having made arrangements for their son's room and attended to other details at Princeton, Mr. and Mrs. MacLean were all ready to bring their Eastern trip to a close, and even had their Pullman accommodations reserved on a train leaving New York tonight. They had been staying at the Waldorf Astoria for several days past and had instructed the hotel to arrange for their departure. Their baggage had already been checked and went on without them, although the hotel endeavored to cancel the tickets and hold the luggage when the management was notified of the tragedy.

Warrenville Man Drunk.

Joseph Lord celebrated a trip to Plainfield from Warrenville Saturday by taking too much strong drink. He was demonstrating the axiom: 'A curved line is the shortest distance between two points" on West Fourth street early in the afternoon, when Patrolman McGinley arrested him. Judge Runyon suspended sentence at his hearing this morning.

An Automobile Agent.

Elmer D. Cutting resigned his position as collector for the New York and New Jersey Telephone Company, Saturday, and this morning became the representative of the Hauptomobile Company, with headquarters at F. L. C. Martin's garage on Park avenue.

SOMERVILLE.

The "Jully Boys" camp at Echo Lake, near Pluckemin, composed of twenty boys of the Second Reformed Sunday school, under the management of Dr. A. A. Pfansteihl, was the scene of much enjoyment last week. The boys were comfortably sheltered during the rain the first of the week in an old mill at the lake. Games and other indoor pastimes occupied the boys, while it poured without. With the first signs of clearing weather on Thursday, boat races and swimming races began on the lake in earnest.

Better Than A Bank

WE have established a department that enables you to save your money with greater profit to yourself than any plan yet devised.

We pay 4 per cent. interest on savings deposited with us whether you trade with us or not, and in those months in which you do trade, no matter how little you buy, we pay you 6 per cent. interest on your deposit.

Our Deposit Purchase Account Department Is Not a Bank.

Primarily it is conducted to facilitate the purchase of merchandise, giving everyone equal advantages with customers having regular charge accounts.

When you have a deposit purchase account you can buy goods and have them charged against it, and any balance that remains to your credit can be withdrawn at any time you see fit.

We do not conduct a banking department, and checks cannot be drawn against the account.

How It Works

YOU can deposit any sum of money you wish, from 25c up, and while it is on deposit it draws 4 per cent. interest, compounded quarterly, except in those months during which you purchase goods, when 6 per cent. will be allowed.

To enable you more easily to take advantage of the facilities of this department hand savings safes are loaned, free, to depositors, and A. D. C. coupons are given equal in amount to every cent you deposit to your credit.

These coupons double your money, as you can spend them in the store just the same as money, at the ratio of one 10c-coupon to each $2.00 cash purchase, or one-cent coupon to each 20c purchase; that is, if you buy an article for $3.00 you pay $2.85 in cash, plus 15c in coupons. Thus you get your deposit back from your purchases and still have your original money on deposit for the further purchase of goods.

Isn't this better than a bank? Why not open an account at once?

Close Saturdays at Noon; Open Friday Evenings.

third act on horseback, but he makes his entrance on the animal as well. The horse he rides has a history. Every wild west show has a number of untrained western horses which are known as bucking bronchos. This horse was one of them and one of the most vicious in the equipment. The show was in New York this summer, and as no one could do anything with the horse, the owners were glad to part with it for a tithe of its value. It fell into the hands of the actor, and many are the weary hours he spent, treating the horse with the utmost kindness, before he could even mount its back. Now the horse appears to recognize the mastery of the man, but there is no one else who can even throw a saddle across its back without taking his life practically into his hands. "Billy, the Kid" will be presented at the Plainfield theatre tomorrow night.

OYSTER BEDS A FAILURE.

Oyster dealers in New York give it as their opinion that New Yorkers will be compelled for some years to rely, as they have relied in past years, upon the Chespeake Bay and its tributaries for their supply of the highest grade of oysters. The oyster "set" in Narragansett Bay, as well as that in Long Island Sound, is an admitted failure this year. Every year the oyster farmers of Long Island and Narragansett plant millions of oysters to set or spawn.

The setting was phenomenal and the oyster planters looked for a harvest this year. Gales and bad weather, however, ruined their plans, and the reports received from all the oyster beds in this vicinity are that the spawning is the smallest ever known.

The importation of Chespeake Bay oysters this fall and winter into New York city promises to be enormous, if not record breaking.

ABOUT TO DIE, ASKED FORGIVENESS FOR THEFT.

Chief of Police Jesse Lawrence, Jr., of Highlands, has made public a letter written to him by Adolph Bertschie, who was put to death in Trenton last week for the murder of a man at Lakewood, who tried to capture him after he had tried to rob a store in that place. In the letter written to Chief Lawrence, Bertschie confessed to the robbery of a house at Highlands two years ago. A quantity of silver was taken, but no clues ever were found. The letter reads as follows:

"Police Department—Dear Sir—About two years ago a house in your town was entered and robbed by me of its silver. The house is a large one and is situated on the main road. On the north side of it there is a narrow road which leads up into the woods. You may know it from this description. The silver was all destroyed, and this confession is the only restitution I can make. I am condemned to die in the electric chair, and before I meet God I should like the forgiveness of the family I have wronged. Will you carry to them this message?"

MOSQUITO LARVAE IN DEMAND.

Southern Jersey Boys Breeding It as Food for Goldfish.

Many boys in and about Burlington are endeavoring to breed mosquitoes in rain barrels and buckets, following an advertisement which appeared in local papers offering to pay good prices for mosquito "wrigglers" by the quart and gallon.

The "wrigglers" are the larvae of the mosquito, which hatch and grow in the water until they develop into the flying insect with the infamous bill. The "wrigglers" are sought as one of the most desirable foods for young gold fish. Where fancy gold fish are bred on a large scale the wrigglers are almost a necessity. The rapid development of the gold fish industry in the vicinity of Philadelphia has sent mosquito larvae up sharply. The war on mosquitoes waged by Prof. Smith, the state entomologist, has also helped to send prices up, most of the worst breeding grounds having been destroyed by drainage.

TROLLEY LINE TO BOONTON.

It looks now as though Boonton soon will be connected with the trolley line at Denville, and as there are only three miles of road to be built to accomplish this, residents are hopeful of seeing the cars running there this fall.

Mr. Gring, the president of the trolley company, on Thursday night met a special committee, composed of a committee from the Business Men's Association and members of the Common Council, together with a number of citizens, and was so well pleased with the results attained by this committee in securing the right of way between these two places, that he decided to commence work at once.

Martine's Boom.

It will not greatly surprise the voters and other residents of New Jersey to learn that Farmer Orator James E. Martine, of Cedar Brook Farm, does not seek the Democratic nomination for Governor, but that if his party "deems it proper and fitting he will accept the nomination and will make a determined fight to win." These words are authoritative. They were uttered by the Cedar Brook statesman himself at the quite recent Union County Democratic outing at Witzel's Point Grove.

And, again, it will startle nobody to learn that at the outing of the Joel Parker Association of Essex county, at Port-au-Peck, the politicians present launched the Gubernatorial boom of Mayor Otto Wittpenn, of Jersey City. It is claimed for the latter that his proposed nomination has the hearty approval of the members of the Democratic State committee, and that it is encouraged by James R. Nugent and former United States Senator James Smith, Jr.

As between these two eminent Democrats there is wide room for choice. In the first place the very fact that the supreme machine bosses of the Democratic party are in favor of Wittpenn taints his proposed nomination with suspicion. In the second place, the "new idea" Republican platform makers in Hudson county have openly charged that Mayor Wittpenn's administration of the affairs of Jersey City has been wasteful of the public funds, ineffectual in the enforcement of the laws, and that the progress made by Mayor Fagan has been lost through Wittpenn's policies. If these assertions can be proved, they would tend to show that a man who cannot successfully govern a city is not a fit man to govern a State.

Mr. Martine has not the indorsement of Smith and Nugent. So much in his favor, as a man if not as a candidate. Furthermore, Mr. Martine's name is signed—and Mr. Wittpenn's is not—to a document declaring that for many years "New Jersey's seats in the United States Senate have been occupied by agents and attorneys of railroad and other corporations;" that the Democratic party machine has "too much power," that the party has been dishonored in its councils, betrayed in the legislative sanctuary, chained to the wheels of unbridled monopoly; its principles trampled under foot, its leadership completely dominated by corporation influences, its honor bartered for corporation pelf, and its banners trailed in the filth of political corruption. And the same leaders are in power today that were portrayed when Mr. Martine signed the memorable paper.

It is too early to say who is going to be either the Democratic or the Republican nominee for Governor one year from now, but as between a man indorsed by leaders of the character described and one who has had the courage to denounce and scarify them, there is opportunity for citizens of independent minds to make decided choice. But before the Gubernatorial campaign is on, there may be other candidates to consider.—Newark Evening News.

JULIAN LINKE RETURNS FROM TRANSCONTINENTAL TRIP

Master Linke returns full of anecdotes of his trip and brings, besides the usual quota of labels on his baggage, many mementos and souvenirs of the journey.

FIRE AMONG BOAT HOUSES.

Four Near Atlantic City Destroyed at a Loss of $20,000.

Fire came near destroying the boathouse district in Ventnor near Atlantic City yesterday. It started in the boathouse occupied by Charles Emes, of Philadelphia. Mrs. Emes was sitting on the porch at the time, and had only time to get her three children and make her escape. She did not even save their summer clothing.

The flames spread rapidly, and before the Ventnor firemen could get into service the fire had reached the cottaged owned by Claude Scull and occupied by Edward Nichols, of Philadelphia. Before the flames were under control they had consumed four houses.

Word was sent to the Atlantic City fire department for help, and two companies were rushed to the scene. The total loss is estimated at about $20,000.

TRAIN GETS MELANCHOLY COW.

Gretchen, Resentful of Being Offered for Sale, Goes to Her Death.

Richard Jacobus, a farmer living near Great Notch, N. J., hard by the Erie Railroad, decided three days ago that he could do very well without Gretchen, brindle milch cow that had been in the family several years. A wagon road runs by Jacobus' front yard, and so he decided that as good a way as any to get Gretchen on the market was to tie her in the yard under a tree on which was this sign:

"Fresh Cow for Sale."

Jacobus meant no reflection upon the matronly dignity of Gretchen, who is, or was, of a Teutonic and melancholy temperament. But now Jacobus believes that either Gretchen thought she was being labeled flightly and smart-alecky, or that she grieved because she was not wanted any longer in the family, or that she was shocked into the deep pit of melancholy by the unaccustomed notoriety to which she was being subjected.

Yesterday, as a heavy Erie freight train started down the steep grade in front of Jacobus' house, the brindle cow broke her rope, walked gravely through the gate, and was run down and killed by the Erie train.

JULIA WARD HOWE'S CREED.

To begin, then, with the simple notions of my childhood. I was born in a world in which the belief in a future life was almost unquestioned. The blessedness of heaven and the torment of hell were presented to my infant imagination as the ultimates of my good or ill conduct in everyday life. Like most other children, I believed what I was told, and in general tried to obey the commands of my elders. I loved to hear about the heavenly life, which somehow seemed to furnish the skyscape of my days as they were added in weeks, months and years. I recall having once made an offering to the God of my childish prayers. The altar was a little stool, the sacrifice some small objects which I supposed to be of value. I remember also refusing to say my prayers to a new nursery assistant, because it did not appear to me fitting to take a stranger into my confidence.—Julia Ward Howe in Harper's Bazar.

Clambake Was a Success.

The annual clambake given at the driving park, yesterday, by Erwin Neighbour, was a successful affair. There were forty guests and the bake was put up in first-class style, including everything that one could wish for from steamed clams to watermelon. The service was fine.

Scene from "The Parisian Model" at Plainfield Theatre next Saturday, matinee and night.

LOCAL AMUSEMENTS

"The Parisian Model," fresh from its triumphs in New York city, will be presented at the Plainfield theatre on Saturday afternoon and night. The comedy is in three acts and four scenes, each a masterpiece in the scene painters' art. Act I, is a dress-making establishment of Mme. Callott, Rue de la Paix, Paris. Act II shows a sculptor's studio, in which Cobb and Edwards' great novelty: "I would like to see a little more of you," will be introduced. Act III is in two scenes, scene one representing the boudoir of Mlle. Anna de la Fontaine, "The Parisian Model;" scene two, Palais de Pantange, (the skating rink) with the entire company on roller skates. This last scene with its specially built parquet floor, myriad lights, and exquisite costumes went far towards making "The Parisian Model" the most talked of show on Broadway for over nine months. The original production will be used here.

AMONG OUR NEIGHBORS

'PLAINS AND FANWOOD.

From the game the home team are putting up at the present time, they can keep the best of them hustling. Three out of the last four games played have been shut-outs, and the team as a whole has developed a batting eye that worrys a pitcher.

The local ball team defeated Garwood yesterday afternoon by the score of 5 to 0. Brewer did the box work for Garwood and was erratic. MacLaughlin, for the home team, had fine control and the support back of him was of league calibre.

The weekly meeting of the B. Y. P. U. was held last night in the church. The evening preaching services which have been omitted during July and August, will be resumed again in September.

Mr. and Mrs. George Sheelen, of Newark, were the guests over Sunday of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Sheelen, of the borough.

The members of the Epworth League held an interesting weekly meeting last night in the Methodist church.

Several from here and Plainfield enjoyed a day's outing yesterday, picnicking near Glenside Park.

The Misses Demarest, of Front street entertained friends from out of town over Sunday.

Harry Messler, of Plainfield, spent Sunday with friends in town.

Miss Katherine Wilson, who has been visiting in the village for the past two weeks, has returned to her home in Elizabeth.

Miss Elsa Smoyer, of Mauch Chunk, Pa., is making a short stay with Mr. and Mrs. Holt, of Brookside avenue.

Edward Leddin, of Roselle, spent the week end with Mr. and Mrs. William Leddin, of Brookside avenue.

Miss Abbie Dorgan, of Plainfield, formerly of this place, spent yesterday with relatives in the village.

William Sheilds, of this place, is visiting relatives in Jersey City.

Rev. Fred B. Newman, of Trenton, preached to large congregations at Warren chapel yesterday, and Rev. Lewis Bond, of this city, occupied the pulpit at Hope chapel yesterday, morning and night.

MR. FRELINGHUYSEN IN GOVERNOR'S CHAIR

Governor Fort, accompanied by Mrs. Fort, left Spring Lake last Saturday for an automobile trip to the Adirondacks, where they will remain about two weeks in a lodge near the one occupied by Governor Hughes, of New York.

Dispatches from Saranac Lake say the two governors have planned an important conference on a subject not yet divulged.

Before leaving his seashore home Governor Fort was asked concerning his trip, but he was non-committal, stating that so far as possible, he desired to have complete freedom from all State cares while away and would not divulge his exact locations unless absolutely necessary, but he expected at all times to be within easy telegraphic communication with the executive offices in this city.

He further stated that he had worked rather strenuously since his inauguration as governor, and had not taken any prolonged vacation, and that he thought this present time presented an ideal opportunity to get a little rest before the activities of the fall and winter arrived. Concerning his present trip, Governor Fort stated it would be taken in a leisurely manner and he anticipated a pleasant and profitable vacation.

The governor expects to return to Spring Lake about September 6 and will continue to reside there during the remaining portion of that month. Spring Lake, however, will continue to be the summer capital, since President of the Senate Frelinghuysen, who will be acting governor during the absence of Governor Fort, attending to all routine matters, has a summer residence there.

It is likely that Senator Frelinghuysen will visit the executive office each Tuesday while Governor Fort is away, and that he will do so more frequently if his presence is required.

Entertained Bride and Groom to Be.

Miss Kate Huntington, of Sherman avenue, entertained Miss Gertrude C. Taylor, of Flatbush, Long Island, and Clarence B. Watkins, of Pittsburg, Pa., yesterday at her home. Miss Taylor, who will become the bride of Mr. Watkins in September, was one of the most popular young women in the '07 class at Vassar College, being elected the class president. Mr. Watkins is a college graduate and is now engaged in business in Pittsburg.

CURIOSITIES OF THE SAVAGE MIND.

Miss F. Klickmann, assistant literary superintendent of the British and Foreign Bible Society in London, is necessarily in close touch with missionary work all over the world, especially in connection with the dissemination of the Scriptures, and has many opportunities of observing the strange mental attitude of natives.

"Some of the curiosities of the savage mind," she writes, "are shown very strikingly in connection with the distribution of the Bible. In many parts of the world the natives are considerably affected by the appearance of anything that is given or sold to them. Certain vivid colors appear to possess for them peculiar fascination. I believe that traders who seek to do business among natives frequently wrap the goods they have to sell in paper of a particular color most appreciated by the natives of the district.

"This love of vivid colors is particularly strong in India, and the Gospels which we send out for sale in the bazars are protected by bindings of brightly colored paper. Each Gospel has its particular color, and these are selected according to the length of the Gospel. The native of India likes to get as much as possible for his money. He will buy a bulky Gospel merely for its bulk, independently of what color it is bound in, but in order to make him purchase the shorter Gospels these have to be bound in which ever of the bright, crude colors we know to take his fancy most. Very large quanties of brightly colored binding papers—green, red, yellow and blue—are sent out from time to time to various depots in India. Quite recently, for instance, twenty tons of it were dispatched in a single week to one depot in Calcutta."—The Strand.

HOUSEHOLD HINTS.

Unbleached calico shrinks in the wash. Allow an extra inch to each yard in making it up, to allow for this.

To clean coat collars, which often show white inside after a little wear, use a little ammonia in which enough salt has been put to make a soft mixture. This, used as a cleaner, will remove discolorations.

An obstantely fixed glass stopper which not only resists force, but also the usually prescribed hot cloths, should be treated with sweet oil. Place a few drops of oil round the rim of the bottle, where it will settle round the stopper. Let it stand a short time, and then you will find the stopper can be withdrawn quite easily.

To clean white canvas shoes dissolve a quarter of a teaspoonful of oxalic acid in half a cupful of water. When cool enough to touch, dip into this a blue bag and squeeze it three or four times, then stir in a couple of teaspoonfuls of pipe clay. This mixture must be made quite smooth. Wipe the shoes over twice with a sponge dipped in it, and when dry you will find they look like new, and the white will not rub off.

Fringed cloths are often quite ruined in appearance at the laundry. They may be made to look like new for an indefinite period if, when they are starched, a little care be taken not to starch the fringe. Fold each cloth in four like a handkerchief, and then gather the fringe of each cloth into the hand and hold it firmly while you dip the middle, only into the starch. When the cloth is dry shake the fringe well and comb it with a specially kept toilet comb, and it will fall as softly and prettily as when new.

WILLIAM LOEB, JR.

Shortly after William Loeb, Jr., was inducted into office as collector of the port of New York the whole service took on a new aspect, the force became more alert and through their vigilance some pretty flagrant instances of smuggling came to light. A trunk had been mysteriously spirited from a liner to its pier. One of the two inspectors watching the vessel and her pier spotted it and immediately reported it to their superiors, who sent it to the seizure room. Then followed the indictment and arrest of the owners of the trunk, a dressmaking firm in Baltimore. Meanwhile the five so-called "sleeper" trunks filled with expensive dressmaking finery were seized. Their appraised value was $52,000. A lawyer representing the gang engaged in these smuggling operations promptly called on the collector with all the assurance in the world that an offer of $260,000, covering duties and penalties, would be accepted in settlement and the smugglers granted immunity from criminal prosecution. "Compromise with criminals! Not much," said Mr. Loeb, "I am going to stop this sumggling game, and the most effective way to do it is to send those who engage in it to prison. If you have got anything to say in behalf of these smugglers, you should see the United States District Attorney, in whose hands is the prosecution of the matter."—Robert Sloss in Van Norden Magazine.

A Kindred Chord.

He (loftily)—I cannot sympathize with the troubles these parents want to confide to us, as the only children I have are those of my brain.

She (guilelessly)—But, my dear professor, that ought to make you appreciate the trials of those parents who have idiots in their families.—Baltimore American.

GRAY HAIR MADE BLACK BY X-RAYS.

Does your gray hair become you, or do you desire to have it dark?

If the latter, there seems to be some chance that your wish may be fulfilled by applying the X-ray.

So at least declares Jubert, the French scientist, who, since 1896, has made many experiments with the somewhat unknown quantity.

Owing to these experiments Jubert's hair and beard, which were almost wholly white, have gradually become darker than they were when at their darkest. While the change was taking place the progress of the pigmentation, though so gradual, was preceptive to the most careless observer. It is unquestionable that the action of the rays darken the hair, whether it is naturally light or whitened by age or by illness.

Jubert, who is a very prudent man, did not give his opinion of his discovery until he was sure of its value. Jubert had applied the rays in the case of a man 55 years of age for lupus of the left cheek. As, for special reasons, the subject did not use a limiting screen on the surface of the flesh beyond the localization of the lupus, the rays acted on the hair around the ear, covering several centimetres of surface. Wherever the surface was irradiated the hair fell out; not long after a new growth appeared, and the new hair was a good deal darker than the original hair had been when the subject was in the prime of manhood. Near the ear the color of the ne whair is almost black. The pigmentation varies in measure as the surface was near or far from the action of the rays, but wherever there is a new growth it is darker than the original hair.

The left side of the mustache, which, as it was not the side farthest away, was not protected from the rays, is darker than the right side, which was not as near the centre of the rays' mission. The different degrees of color are so distinct that they are seen clearly in the photographic proofs sent to the Academy of Medicine by Jubert.

Since the pigmentation was first observed the hair has been cut repeatedly, and many months have passed since the skin was subjected to the rays, yet the new growths have all been of the same dark color. That proves, says Jubert, that (under some circumstances, at least) the rays have a durable effect unlike the well known passing effect of the X-ray upon the skin.

DRAPED TURBAN RETURNS.

And now some fashion prophet, or, indeed, perchance a prophetess, foretells the turban as a feature of the millinery for the later season. The fact that this smart-looking close hat has already graced a race meeting in France seems sufficient guarantee to the prophet that it will win out.

If this turban, with its twisted drapery, is now an English favorite, as we have been informed, it was of East Indian origin, and long ago it was distinctly Greek and comes not without a pedigree—its past history is assured. A long popularity was enjoyed by it during the Madame de Sael days, when it was both street hat and evening headdress. We know of it pulled quite far down over the head, disclosing only some ringlets that escaped its bounds, and we well remember Thackeray's dowagers, whose plumes bobbed in unison with their turbaned heads and their indignation.

The plume has given way before the more saucy looking aigrette as a trimming for the present turban, although its main attraction is the covering, which is wrapped, rolled, folded or twisted to suit the face beneath it. A fitted straw hat is the body of the up-to-date turban, something so close to the head as to be almost ball-shaped. The less extreme turban is a sewn tagal straw of white or blue; which shows through the drapery; some of them, indeed, covered with folds of straw and foulard held on by a straw cabochon. These make excellent traveling hats. Others are swathed with white marquisette or liberty crepe, held in place by an ornamental hatpin; and, again, we are shown the white or dyed lace veil used as a covering for the straw, or a chiffon scarf or veil with a yard of its extreme length falling over the shoulders—just as a touch of grace.

The swathed turban is most convenient and attractive for long journeys. The veil may be removed, pressed and replaced to gain the needed freshness. It is a joy to the clever woman who can adapt one hat to a half dozen gowns, be their colors as varied as Joseph's coat. We can picture the economical, resourceful woman wrapping her hat by turns with some harmonious foulard, a hand-run lace veil, three yards of automobile chiffon hemstitched at the ends or some scarf of iridescent gauze.

Believer in Reciprocity.

Little Harold is famed in his own household for his clever sayings. The other day he approached his mother and asked:

"Mamma, haven't I been a good boy since I began going to Sunday school?"

"Yes, dear, you have," answered the fond mother.

"And you trust me now, don't you, ma?"

"Why, of course I do."

"Then why do you keep the pies locked up in the pantry just the same as ever?"

CHAPTER XLI.

Back to the Mountains.

In the cottage in Boney street, one year later, two women were waiting. It was ten o'clock at night.

"Isn't it a shame to be disappointed like this?" complained Dicksie, pushing her hair impatiently back. "Really, poor George is worked to death. He was to be in at six o'clock, Mr. Lee said, and here it is ten, and all your beautiful dinner spoiled. Marion, are you keeping something from me? Look me in the eye. Have you heard from Gordon Smith?"

"No, Dicksie."

"Not since he left the mountains a year ago?"

"Not since he left the mountains a year ago."

Dicksie, sitting forward in her chair, bent her eyes upon the fire. "It is so strange. I wonder where he is to-night. How he loves you, Marion. He told me everything when he said good-by. He made me promise not to tell then; but I didn't promise to keep it forever."

Marion smiled. "A year isn't forever, Dicksie."

"Well, it's pretty near forever when you are in love," declared Dicksie, energetically. "I know just how he felt," she went on in a quieter tone. "He felt that all the disagreeable excitement and talk we had here then bore heaviest on you. He said if he stayed in Medicine Bend the newspapers never would cease talking and people never would stop annoying you—and you know George did say they were asking to have passenger trains held here just so people could see Whispering Smith. And, Marion, think of it, he actually doesn't know yet that George and I are married! How could we notify him without knowing where he was? And he doesn't know that trains are running up the Crawling Stone valley. Mercy! a year goes like an hour when you're in love, doesn't it? George said he knew we should hear from him within six months—and George has never yet been mistaken excepting when he said I should grow to like the railroad business—and now it is a year and no news from him." Dicksie sprang from her chair. "I am going to call up Mr. Rooney Lee and just demand my husband! I think Mr. Lee handles trains shockingly every time George tries to get home like this on Saturday nights—now don't you? And passenger trains ought to get out of the way anyway, when a division superintendent is trying to get home. What difference does it make to a passenger, I'd like to know, whether he is a few hours less or longer in getting to California or Japan or Manila or Hong Kong or Buzzard's Gulch, provided he is safe—and you know there has not been an accident on the division for a year, Marion. There's a step now! I'll bet that's George!"

The door opened and it was George.

"Oh, honey!" cried Dicksie, softly, waving her arms as she stood an instant before she ran to him. "Bet haven't I been a-waitin' for you!"

"Too bad! and, Marion," he exclaimed, turning without releasing his wife from his arms, "how can I ever make good for all this delay? Oh, yes, I've had dinner. Never, for heaven's sake, wait dinner for me! But wait both of you, till you hear the news."

Dicksie kept her hands on his shoulders. "You have heard from Whispering Smith!"

"I have."

"I knew it!"

"Wait till I get it straight. Mr. Bucks is here—I came in with him in his car. He has news of Whispering Smith. One of our freight traffic men in the Puget sound country, who has been in a hospital in Victoria, learned by the merest accident that Gordon Smith was lying in the same hospital with typhoid fever."

Marion rose swiftly. "Then the time has come, thank God, when I can do something for him; and I am going to him to-night!"

"Fine!" cried McCloud. "So am I, and that is why I'm late."

"Then I am going, too," exclaimed Dicksie, solemnly.

"Do you mean it?" asked her husband. "Shall we let her, Marion? Mr. Bucks says I am to take his car and take Barnhardt, and keep the car there till I can bring Gordon back. Mr. Bucks and his secretary will ride to-night as far as Bear Dance with us and in the morning they join Mr. Glover there." McCloud looked at his watch. "If you are both going, can you be ready by 12 o'clock for the China mail?"

"We can be ready in an hour," declared Dicksie, throwing her arm half around Marion's neck, "can't we, Marion?"

"I can be ready in 30 minutes."

"Then, by heaven—" McCloud studied his watch.

"What is it, George?"

"We won't wait for the midnight train. We will take an engine, run special to Green River, overhaul the Coast Limited, and save a whole day."

"George, pack your suit-case—quick! Dear; and you, too, Marion; suit-cases are all we can take," cried Dicksie, pushing her husband toward the bedroom. "I'll telephone Rooney Lee for an engine myself right away. Dear me, it is kind of nice, to be able to order up a train when you want one in a hurry, isn't it, Marion? Perhaps I shall come to like it if they ever make George a vice-president."

In half an hour they had joined Bucks in his car, and Bill Danch.g was piling the baggage into the vestibule. Bucks was sitting down to coffee. Chairs had been provided at the table, and after the greetings, Bucks, seating Marion Sinclair at his right and Barnhardt and McCloud at his left, asked Dicksie to sit opposite and pour the coffee. "You are a railroad man's wife now and you must learn to assume responsibility."

McCloud looked apprehensive. "I am afraid she will be assuming the whole division if you encourage her too much, Mr. Bucks."

"Marrying a railroad man," continued Bucks, pursuing his own thought, "is as bad as marrying into the army; if you have your husband half the time you are lucky. Then, too, in the railroad business your husband may have to be set back when the traffic falls off. It's a little light at this moment, too. How should you take it if we had to put him on a freight train for a while, Mrs. McCloud?"

"Oh, Mr. Bucks!"

"Or suppose he should be promoted and should have to go to headquarters—some of us are getting old, you know."

"Really," Dicksie looked more demure as she filled the president's cup, "really, I often say to Mr. McCloud that I cannot believe Mr. Bucks is president of this great road. He always looks to me to be the youngest man on the whole executive staff. Two lumps of sugar, Mr. Bucks?"

The bachelor president rolled his eyes as he reached for his cup. "Thank you, Mrs. McCloud, only one after that." He looked toward Marion. "All I can say is that if Mrs. McCloud's husband had married her two years earlier he might have been general manager by this time. Nothing could hold a man back, even a man of his modesty, whose wife can say as nice things as that. By the way, Mrs. Sinclair, does this man keep you supplied with transportation?"

"Oh, I have my annual, Mr. Bucks!" Marion opened her bag to find it.

Bucks held out his hand. "Let me see it a moment." He adjusted his eye-glasses, looked at the pass, and called for a pen; Bucks had never lost his gracious way of doing very little things. He laid the card on the table and wrote across the back of it over his name: "Good on all passenger trains." When he handed the card back to Marion he turned to Dicksie. "I understand you are laying out two or three towns on the ranch, Mrs. McCloud?"

"Two or three! Oh, no, only one as yet, Mr. Bucks! They are laying out, oh, such a pretty town! Cousin Lance is superintending the street work—and whom do you think I am going to name it after? You! I think 'Bucks' makes a dandy name for a town, don't you? And I am going to have one town named Dunning; there will be two stations on the ranch, you know, and I think, really, there ought to be three."

"As many as that?"

"I don't believe you can operate a line that long, Mr. Bucks, with stations 14 miles apart." Bucks opened his eyes in benevolent surprise. Dicksie, unabashed, kept right on: "Well, do you know how traffic is increasing over there, with the trains running only two months now? Why, the settlers are fairly pouring into the country."

"Will you give me a corner lot if we put another station on the ranch?"

"I will give you two if you will give us excursions and run some of the Overland passenger trains through the valley."

Bucks threw back his head and laughed in his tremendous way. "I don't know about that; I daren't promise offhand, Mrs. McCloud. But if you can get Whispering Smith to come back you might lay the matter before him. He is to take charge of all the colonist business when he returns."

Whispering Smith, lying on his iron bed in the hospital, professed not to be able quite to understand why they had made such a fuss about it. He underwent the excitement of the appearance of Barnhardt and the first talk with McCloud and Dicksie with hardly a rise in his temperature, and, lying in the sunshine of the afternoon, he was waiting for Marion. She ran half blinded across the room and dropped on her knee beside him.

"My dear Marion, why did they drag you away out here?"

"They did not drag me away out here. Did you expect me to sit with folded hands when I heard you were ill anywhere in the wide world?"

He looked hungrily at her. "I didn't suppose any one in the wide world would take it very seriously."

"Mr. McCloud is crushed this afternoon to think you have said you would not go back with him. You would not believe how he misses you."

"It has been pretty lonesome for the last year. I didn't think it could be so lonesome anywhere."

"Nor did I."

"Have you noticed it? I shouldn't think you could in the mountains. Was there much water last spring? Heavens, I'd like to see the Crawling Stone again!"

"Why don't you come back?"

He folded her hands in his own. "Marion, it is you. I've been afraid I couldn't stand it to be near you and not tell you—"

"What need you be afraid to tell me?"

"That I have loved you so long."

Her head sunk close to his. "Don't you know you have said it to me many times without words? I've only been waiting for a chance to tell you how happy it makes me to think it is true."

THE END.

VEHICLES IN CAPE COLONY.

Great Decrease in the Value of Imports.

Consul R. B. Mosher, of Port Elizabeth, furnishes the following information concerning the trade in carts and carriages in Cape Colony:

The foreign trade of Cape Colony in carts and carriages for 1908 amounted to $88,000, as against $152,000 for 1907 and $260,000 for 1906, showing a loss in 1908 of 57 per cent. from 1907. The United States supplied $75,000 of the $152,000 imported in 1907, or 49 per cent. and the United Kingdom $40,000, or 26 per cent. Although in 1908 the total imports fell off 57 per cent., the share of the United States in the total rise from 49 per cent. to 55 per cent., and that of the United Kingdom fell from 26 per cent. to 16 per cent., each country losing the same amount in value.

The causes which have led to the heavy decline in the imports of vehicles are depression in trade and the high customs July of 25 per cent. ad valorem. American light-weight, low-priced carts and traps have practically no competitors, and give great satisfaction. British competition applies only to the higher and more expensive class of carriages, and colonial competition only to heavy wagons.

An official report of Lord Roberts after the Boer war gave this testimonial to certain Indiana wagons:

"Wagons were imported for trial from the United States, and these proved to be superior to any other make of either Cape or English manufacture. The wheels were of hickory and the metal work of steel. They were built by a great vehicle factory in Indiana. The superiority of these vehicles are doubtless due to the fact that such wagons are largely used in the United States for the carriage of goods as well as for military transport. The manufacturers have therefore learned by practical experience what is the best type of wagon and what are the most suitable materials to employ in building it. It may be added that the wagons in question cost considerably less than the British-pattern wagon.

The customs duty on carriages, carts, coaches and wagons (not including motor-cars or cycles) and finished parts thereof is 25 per cent. ad valorem, with a 3 per cent. ad valorem rebate on those of British manufacture. (The names of two firms that might be interested in this class of goods are on file in the bureau of manufacturers).—Consular Reports.

For a Change.

"Isn't that Mr. Huggins at the front door, dear?" said the mother.

"Yes," replied the daughter.

"He always makes the same noise when he comes in, doesn't he?"

"Yes, mamma; I wish to gracious for once he'd make a noise like a pound of chocolate creams!"—Yonkers Statesman.

MAC LAUGHLIN'S CURVES TOO MUCH FOR RAHWAY

"Warry" MacLaughlin's fine pitching was too much for Rahway, on Saturday, and the Scotch Plains team won one of the best contests of the season by a score of 1 to 0. The game was played at Rahway and was witnessed by an unusually large crowd. Errors by Armstrong and Freeman materially assisted the 'Plains to tally the one run. The former's misplay gave Allen a life on first, and the latter's failure to stop Albert's throw to the plate, permitting him to cross the rubber.

During six of the nine innings not a 'Plains man reached first base, Clark being practically invincible. He and MacLaughlin both allowed five hits. The score:

Peerless A. C. Loses Two Games.

The Peerless A. C. was defeated by the North End A. C. yesterday afternoon by the score of 3 to 2 in a fourteen inning game. Dufford, of the Plainfield A. C., was in the box for the Peerless and pitched a great game, allowing but five hits and striking out eighteen men. The Peerless also lost to the North Plainfield A. C. on Saturday, 7 to 6. Corlell and Schroffer was their battery and Raymond and Perry for the North Plainfields.

South Plainfield Defeated.

The South Plainfield Baseball club was defeated yesterday by the Delta A. C. from Keasby by a score of 13 to 1. Tommy Mullin starred for South Plainfield, getting a home run and two singles. The South Plainfielders attributed their defeat to the affiure of Thomas, their regular pitcher, to show up. Sofield and Mullin did the twirling and were both hit hard.

DUNELLEN PROVED EASY

Plainfield Stole Thirteen Bases and Won by Score of Eighteen to Four.

WAS A ONE-SIDED CONTEST.

A New York Battery Is Imported by the Middlesex Borough Team.

Dunellen was outplayed and outclassed Saturday afternoon when it fell down to defeat at the hands of the Plainfield club on the Dunellen diamond by the score of 18 to 4.

The Dunellen team especially imported a New York battery composed of Brill and LaVigne. The Frenchman behind the bat did good work, but the Irishman in the pitcher's box was hit sixteen times for clean singles. Brill, however, struck out ten men and let but three walk.

In the matter of base stealing Plainfield had things their own way and tallied thirteen stolen bases with ease. The game started off well, but the Plainfielders so easily outclassed the Dunellen youngsters that it resolved itself into a one-sided contest, in which the Dunellenites scored just enough runs to prevent the game becoming entirely listless. The score and summary follows:

COMPETITION KEEN AT THE PARK GOLF CLUB

The ideal weather on Saturday brought out a large field at the Park Golf Club to take part in the weekly competition for the President's and Golf Club cups. The recent rains proved beneficial to the course, and it was in the best of condition, especially the putting greens.

Charles B. Morse won first honors for the President's cup with a net score of 78, while W. R. Faber and Dr. H. K. Carroll divided the remaining points. For the club cup, scratch, Dr. Carroll, Mr. Morse and R. B. Titsworth divided the points. The leading scores follow:

Charles B. Morse, 92, 14-78; W. R. Faber, 94, 12-82; Dr. H. K. Carroll, 91, 7-84; R. V. Carpenter, 107, 23-84; R. B. Titsworth, 106, 21-85; Samuel Townsend, 110, 18 92.

Cranford Canoe Reports.

The Cranford Canoe Club have arranged for a big regatta to be held on Labor Day on the Rahway river, at that place. Water sports will be held in the morning with entries free for all, followed by racing in the afternoon. Entries from several out of town clubs have already been received and these races should prove as fast as the best paddlers in the State can make them.

CHRISTIAN FIELD.

S. T. Perrin, of the borough, conducted the services last night at the Mary E. Wilson Memorial chapel.

The officers of the Congregational church have decided to postpone the resumption of fall activities until Sunday, September 12, when it is expected that the pastor, Rev. C. L. Goodrich, will be in his pulpit.

LOCAL Y. M. C. A. BEATEN

Rahway Y. M. L. Defeats the Team by Score of Eight to Two.

PENNINGTON'S GOOD WORK.

Six Errors Each for the Two Nines —Chauncey Murphey's Good Work Saves the Plainfield Aggregation.

Crippled by the fact that only two of the regular men were playing, the local Y. M. C. A. fell down to defeat before the Rahway Y. M. L Saturday afternoon on the local diamond by the score of 8 to 2. Pennington was a mystery to the local batsmen, and they could not hit him.

But for the work of Chauncey Murphey at third base the locals would have lost more heavily than they did. He was fast and corralled a lot of hot grounders that came his way.

Smith, the right fielder of the Rahway team, in attempting to evade what he thought was a high ball, dodged and his bat struck the ball, which rolled fair to the pitcher's box. The latter picked up the leather and tossed it to first, putting out the batsman. Errors, coupled with a pair of singles, were responsible for the three runs in the first inning by the visitors. MATINEE RACES DREW BIG CROWD

The Plainfield Driving Club held a most successful matinee race meet at the driving park, Saturday afternoon. There was a large crowd and while the entry list was not large every one of the four events was closely contested, furnishing fine sport. "The Rector," owned by H. W. Evans, of Westfield, won the first race, 2:25 pace, taking three straight heats, after finishing second in the first one.

In the second race, C. S. Smith's "Ithyn" finished first, winning the first heat, finishing second in the next one and then taking the next two. A. C. Blair's "Aron B." ran a pretty race in the free-for-all, against Nelson M. Giles' "The Minister." The Plainfield horse won in good time. Michael Quinn's "Whisper" won the last race in straight heats.

The judges were Nate Robbins and Dr. C. M. F. Egel, the timers N. M. Giles and Dr. Butler, while John Feely was the starter. The summaries:

JAMES KYLE'S GREAT BATTING.

Score of Final Game 9 to 4— "Hub" Conover in the Box for the Locals.

St. Mary's defeated Westfield Saturday on St. Mary's oval by the score of 9 to 4 and won the series. Hub Conover did the twirling for St. Mary's and gave but four hits, but received poor support. Westfield used two pitchers, Collins and Clark, but could not stem the tide. Kyle, of St. Mary's had a perfect batting average, making four hits in four times up. Following is the score.

J. T. SPROULL TELLS OF ENDEAVOR CONVENTION

John T. Sproull, president of the New Jersey Christian Endeavor Union, who has just returned from the St. Paul convention, where at his request the trustees of the United Endeavor Society accepted the invitation from New Jersey Endeavorers to hold the next international convention in 1911 in Atlantic City, says the recent meeting and the coming State convention at Plainfield:

"I believe that the Atlantic City convention means a great deal for the cause of Christian Endeavor in our State. While I know that it means lots of hard work, yet I believe that we will be able to handle it in a way that will be satisfactory to all and to the benefit of the larger interests of the work.

"It is my pleasure to meet with the convention committee of our own State in Plainfield and I am glad to report that they have all matters well in hand, and that the prospects of a large and interesting convention are very promising. Their plans are well arranged for entertainment, and from the enthusiasm that is being evinced by numbers of Endeavorers, especially in the northern part of the State, I feel satisfied that the attendance will be very large. It is already conceded that it will be necessary to have more than one church for the evening meetings, so two extra auditoriums are being provided for overflow meetings.

JERSEY PATROLMEN TO MEET AT PATERSON.

The members of the Paterson Patrolmen's Benevolent Association are busy preparing for the State convention of their organization. It will take place in that city on Thursday, September 9. The convention is expected to be the biggest affair of the kind ever held in the State, as over 1,200 police officers from various cities of New Jersey will be in attendance.

The Newark association had sent notice that 400 men will turn out and that Mayor Haussling will come with them as their guest. Jersey City will be but little behind them, with 300 men going to Paterson with Mayor Witpenn and Congressman Kincaid as their guests.

The convention will begin at 10 o'clock in the morning, at St. Boniface Hall, on Main, above Slater street, and in the afternoon at 2:30 o'clock there will be a banquet at Baum's Park. Preceding the dinner there will be a parade, in which all of the officers and their guests will take part. The line of march for the parade has not yet been completed.

Suicide Buried.

James McCauley, who committed suicide Saturday in the city police headquarters, was buried this morning at the city's expense. There was no funeral ceremony. Interment was made in a local cemetery.

FOWLER ATTACKS CANNON

Fifth District Representative, Smarting from Defeat, Issues a Tirade.

DIGS UP SOME MUSTY RECORDS.

He Accuses Speaker Cannon of "Contemptible Trickery and Traitorous Treachery.

Characterizing the conduct of Joseph G. Cannon, Speaker of the House of Representatives, in the extraordinary session of Congress, when the tariff bill was under consideration, as "contemptible trickery and traitorous treachery," Charles N. Fowler, Representative in Congress from this district, in a public letter addressed to Mr. Cannon and made public last night, denounces the Speaker in severe terms and declares the most important question before the American people today is "Cannonism."

Smarting from the humiliation of being deposed from the chairmanship of the House Committee on Banking and Currency, Mr. Fowler has made a thorough search of the pages of the Congressional Record since Mr. Cannon first entered Congress, and in his letter he has laid bare what he terms the Speaker's "record of false pretences."

Referring to the financial depression of 1907 and the causes leading up to the panic, Mr. Fowler says to Speaker Cannon:

"You literally hooted the idea of a panic, and inquired, 'What in h— does this howling in Wall street amount to. The country don't care what happens to those d—d speculators. Everything is all right out West and around Danville. The country don't need any legislation. Then, I don't take any stock in your d—d asset currency.' As usual your ignorance and prejudice were all sufficient then."

After reviewing the bill which had been prepared, he said, by representative bankers and known as the "Bankers' bill," Mr. Fowler declares if the proposed statute had been enacted into law there would have been no general suspension of banks throughout the country. He places the responsibility for failure to relieve the financial stress in the fall of 1907, when the entire country was looking to Congress for assistance, at the door of Speaker Cannon and Senator Aldrich, of Rhode Island.

"I appealed to you," Mr. Fowler writes, "for the privilege of bringing the bill up before the House for discussion only to receive your contemptuous refusal with the added information: 'You will get the Aldrich bill or nothing.'"

After reciting every action of the Speaker during the period when the question of financial legislation was taken before the sixtieth Congress, Mr. Fowler in his letter tells the Speaker:

"This is your record upon our financial and currency legislation. I challenge you to find a single living man with so rotten a one. It is a cerord of ignorance or political cowardice or a disgraceful hybrid of the two. And yet, sir, you assume to dictate the financial and currency legislation of a civilized country."

Informing Mr. Cannon that it was because of "the terrific consequences resulting from the crisis of 1907, because of your ignorance and prejudice and absolutely unchallenged power as Speaker of the House of Representatives," that he (Mr. Fowler) announced his candidacy for Speaker at the beginning of the sixty-first Congress, the New Jersey Representative says now his action was only for the purpose of taking from the Speaker his absolute control of the House of Representatives.

"As a result of that movement," continues the letter, "we now have a calendar day when all self-respecting members may call up bills in their own right, and will not hereafter be compelled to crawl on their bellies like cringing lizards to crave the indulgence of a recognition of the Speaker, which being granted, calls for gratitude and carries with it an obligation, an appreciation of which must be shown, of course, at the proper time or the recipient is written down as an ingrate."

Declaring that he fully realized what the penalty would be when he announced his candidacy for Speaker, Mr. Fowler continues:

"Do you suppose that I was not aware of your ignorance, prejudice, inordinate conceit, favoritism, putrid preferences—and like all such characters possessing absolue power, malice is the mainspring of your every action under such circumstances? Do not forget that I chose my course in plain sight of your political guillotine and the political carcasses of those you had decapitated; but that it had no terrors for me.

"Has it occurred to you at any time recently that you are so intoxicated with your power and so blind-

DELINQUENTS' TAX LIST

One Hundred and Seventy-Seven Have Failed to Pay City.

LARGE COLLECTIONS RECENTLY

Property Must Be Sold by Municipality in Accordance With the Laws.

The delinquent tax list in the city has been reduced from 312 names to 177 and since Saturday about $9,000 has been received by Tax Collector William R. Townsend. The list published today in The Daily Press is compulsory and in accordance with the law of 1903, which provides for the publication of all property owners' names whose taxes are in arrears, and which requires this to be done every year instead of every three years as was customary under the Martin act.

When a parcel of real estate is sold for taxes due the city a certificate is issued to the purchaser setting forth the facts in the case and the previous owner of the property may repurchase the parcel within two years by giving sixty days' notice either at the beginning or at the end of the two years' term.

All sorts of stories come to the listening ears of the collector as excuses for the non-payment of the levy, but as the law is inexorable he can only sympathize and await further developments. An hour spent by a reporter of The Daily Press in the office of the collector revealed some pathetic conditions. The closing of factories or short time pay and other causes led some of the smaller house owners to plead for extensions of time.

One woman whose years were more than the allotted three score and ten, placed her tax bill on the counter of the collector's window and after a search through her worn out reticule brought to light the necessary amount of her indebtedness most of which was in small change and was evidently the savings of a year. "I am sorry," she said, "that I was so behind hand with the money, sir, but times have been hard and money scarce, and the shop has not been running full time and I had hard work scraping and saving till the last cent was in the bag Saturday night. But, praises be, we are safe for another year, and they do say that business is going to be better now that the tariff is fixed up and my man will have steady work." There is no telling how long her tale of woe would have continued had not the reecipted tax bill been handed through the window.

Another case which attracted the reporter's attention was that of a man who knew that the valuation of his property was altogether too high. He was sure the city was taking advantage of him some way, but could not give the particulars. And, as Collector Townsend says, there is no end to the hard luck stories that come in through the window.

During the reporter's stay in the office some forty-seven men and women walked in, laid down their money then turned around and walked right out again, and everyone of these had a different story to tell of hard times and poor luck. About $6,000 was taken in Saturday morning.

DUNELLEN BUILDING BOOM; DEMAND EXCEEDS SUPPLY.

Dunellen is experiencing a boom which is provoking widespread comment. During the four months from March 15 to July 15 no less than thirty-eight houses have been built and are occupied. Today there are more demands for houses than can be met. Inquiries for dwelling houses are daily occurrences.

Houses have been recently completed on Prospect avenue for Charles Wrage, P. J. Quinn and Frank Smalley. On Washington avenue Paul Schneider and John P. Fenner have built houses. The Watchung Investment Co. have built two on Third street and the Dunellen Home and Investment Co. one on Dunellen avenue. Professor A. A. Titsworth has bought from Henry Wrage a plot of lots corner of Walnut street and Whittier avenue, on which buildings will shortly be erected.

'PHONE STATIONS LOOTED

Smooth Thief Gets $42 from Booths at Local Hotel and a Drug Store.

WAS HIDDEN AS HE WORKED.

Well Dressed Man With Black Satchel Makes Big Haul—Similar Operations Elsewhere.

Telephone pay stations at the Hotel Iroquois and at Cadmus Bros.' drug store were looted yesterday, and about $42 in silver taken from the booth tills. Of this money, it is believed that $30 was taken from the hotel 'phone in the morning, and about $12 from the drug store in the afternoon. The police have a description of the thief, who worked leisurely, and whom Detective Sergeant Flynn believes to be the same man who robbed pay stations at Elizabeth Sunday and at Paterson and Dover last week.

A. L. Conant, a collector for the telephone company, discovered the loss at the hotel when he went there to make his regular monthly collection yesterday morning. The till seemed properly locked, but when he unfastened the Yale lock, he found that the metal till drawer was missing, and in the space beneath it lay a quarter, a nickel and a dime. The instrument is in the reading room of the hotel and no one had noticed any one enter or leave the booth. One of the men in the room at the time Conant discovered the loss said that he had just put the quarter in the instrument, making an out of town call.

The returns from this booth average about $30 a month, and it is claimed by the telephone company that this amount has been stolen. The Yale lock was not visibly damaged, although it jammed slightly as the collector tested it after discovering the loss. The police believe that the lock was forced by inserting a steel blade vertically in the upper part, and in this way springing the catch.

At Cadmus' drug store, where the robbery was discovered at about 4 o'clock in the afternoon by one of the company's "trouble men," the lock and the till drawer were both missing. A collection had been recently made, but it is believed that about $12 was taken.

It was Joseph Cadmus, one of the proprietors of the drug store, who furnished the police with the description of the thief. Mr. Cadmus was in the store, when the man entered the booth, and the robbery was effected "under his very nose." According to Mr. Cadmus, the thief is a man about 35 years of age, 5 feet 8 inches in height, and weighing about 150 pounds. He has a dark mustache and yesterday wore a brown suit and stiff brimmed straw hat. He entered the drug store at about 3 o'clock, and throwing down a black satchel he carried, entered the telephone booth. Mr. Cadmus heard no ring of the coin register, and the man seemed to be having trouble with the instrument. In a few minutes he came out of the booth, and seemed impatient.

"If that call comes in from New York," he said to Mr. Cadmus, "just say 'never mind.' I can't wait here all day." And he picked up the satchel and went away.

After the thief had left the store, Mr. Cadmus called up "Central" and reported trouble with the line, using the booth 'phone. The police believe that in order to avoid the rattle of pouring coins from the metal till drawer, the thief merely covered the open drawer with a soft cloth and transferred the entire drawer to his pocket. An investigation showed that no other pay stations had been robbed, although the telephone company reports that booths have been rifled within the past week in Dover, Paterson and Elizabeth.

Father Hogan, the curate of St. Mary's church, accompanied by a number of friends will be at the Cunard Line pier, New York, tomorrow, to give the returning priest a hearty welcome home.

After the celebration in Rome the members of the party separated, and Father Bogan visited Switzerland, England, France and Ireland. Father Hogan received word from Father Bogan last week, that his health was much improved.

The Caronia, on which Father Bogan is a passenger, left Queenstown on August 18.

ITALIAN FATALLY HURT BY A FALLING PILLAR

John Prince, an Italian, aged 45 years, of Bound Brook, was fatally injured yesterday afternoon at Lincoln, while engaged with several other workmen in putting up a concrete pillar for a new building. The pillar was placed in position, but before it was securely fastened, it fell over, crushing Prince.

Although in a dying condition, Prince was brought to this city on a train, but he died before reaching here. He was removed to the ambulance and taken to Cole's undertaking parlors. Later he was taken to his home in Bound Brook. Prince was married and has been a resident of Bound Brook for some time.

The funeral services will be held from the Roman Catholic church, Bound Brook, tomorrow morning at 9 o'clock and the burial will be at that place.

BOTH BIBLE AND FLAG FOR WASHINGTON SCHOOL

The members of Franklin, Somerset, Benevolent and Plainfield Councils, Jr. O. U. A. M., are planning to present a handsome Bible and an American flag when the new Washington Public School is formally accepted and taken possession of. The lodge men are now in communication with Henry M. Maxson, superintendent of schools, who will inform them of the time when the building is to be accepted.

The local Juniors have presented American flags to the various public schools of the borough and city, in accordance with the principles of the order that an American flag be displayed from every public school. It is the intention of the Juniors to have the presentations made by two prominent men of the State, whose names will be announced later.

TOO PRACTICAL JOKE ON THOMAS HANNA

What is supposed to be a joke perpetrated by friends has caused no end of annoyance to Thomas Hanna, formerly of this city. Newspaper offices have been flooded with telegrams coming from Winipeg, Manitoba, announcing that he had mysteriously disappeared from that city. But for the fact that Mr. Hanna was seen in Elizabeth this morning by a newspaper man, the announcement might have caused much alarm among his many friends here.

When interviewed by a reporter today, Mr. Hanna said that he left Winnipeg on June 1 and after a visit to the coast came directly to Elizabeth. He is at a loss to understand why his absence from Winnipeg should cause such a report. He said that he was not always in the habit of telling everyone of his plans.

This is two or three points below the figure estimated by the City Council committee on finance in the tax ordinance. The tabulated figures are as follows:

BICYCLE THIEF ESCAPES

Lucius Taylor, The Big Negro, Wiggles Out of Window at Headquarters.

CAUGHT BY SERGEANT FLYNN.

Prisoner Uses Button to Plug Catch on Door—Ripping Window Shade Gives the Warning.

Lucius Taylor, the alleged bicycle thief, made a desperate attempt to get out of the clutches of the local police this noon and was caught only through the prompt action of Detective Sergeant Flynn. Taylor had made careful preparations to get away, laying his plans to outwit the police by a very simple device. He removed a button from his trousers and plugged up the catch on the door leading from the reception room to the cell room. This trick worked well as it was not discovered until after Taylor's escape.

While Captain Frederickson's attention was engaged with a visitor while on his way out of headquarters to go to his dinner, Taylor slipped out of the room into which he had been allowed to go to empty a pail, made his way to the office of the judge of the court, in the rear, and, pulling aside the window shade jumped through the window and escaped into Fourth street where he "borrowed" a wheel and shot away up toward Park avenue, through Fifth to Arlington where he was caught by Sergeant Flynn.

Sergeant Flynn's first intimation that any thing was wrong was when he heard the ripping of the shade from its roller. He looked in to investigate and saw the open door of the cell room. Taking a hasty glance in and discovering the absence of the big negro, he rushed out, mounted his wheel and started in pursuit, with the above result.

Taylor was remanded to his cell this morning by Judge Runyon pending the further investigation of the record of the man. It is expected that before tomorrow morning a full confession will be forthcoming.

CONTROL RAHWAY BANK

Union County Syndicate Obtain Majority of Institution's Stock.

MR. HYER NEGOTIATES DEAL.

E. R. Ackerman, John Kean, F. H. Smith, H. F. Kean and Others the New Owners.

Through their counsel, Fred C. Hyer, of Rahway, a syndicate of Union county capitalists this afternoon will obtain control of the Rahway National Bank, one of the leading financial institutions of Union county. Among the leading figures in the transaction are Hamilton F. Kean, formerly Republican chairman of Union and the senior member of the New York banking house of Kean, Cortwright and Co.; State Senator Ernest R. Ackerman, president of the Lawrence Cement Company of New York; Frank H. Smith, Republican chairman and county register of deeds, and United States Senator John Kean.

By this change, Messrs. Smith, Ackerman, Hamilton Kean and others will control Rahway's oldest financial institution. Some months ago these capitalists with others organized the Rahway Trust Company, which is now doing a prosperous business. Each of the new controlling members is also interested in other banks in New York and New Jersey. Mr. Smith, for instnce, is a director of the strong Plainfield Trust Company. United States Senator John Kean is a director of the Federal Trust Company of New York. Senator Ackerman is a director of the Plainfield Trust Company, while Hamilton F. Kean is a director of several New York banking houses.

Over the telephone today, Mr. Smith declined to say anything about the matter, referring The Daily Press representative to Mr. Hyer. Mr. Hyer admitted over the telephone that the report was true and likewise admitted that he had negotiated the transaction for the Union county capitalists. He said that the matter would be closed at Elizabeth this afternoon as at that time the formal transfer of the Rahway National bank stock would take place. He would neither admit nor confirm the report that Mr. Smith had provided a fund of $110,000 to consumate the deal.

After talking with Mr. Hyer, the Daily Press representative got an admission from Mr. Smith that the transaction would be closed this afternoon. "It only means," said the latter, "that the present prosperous policy of the Rahway National Bank will be continued. It will be of benefit to the people of Rahway."

PARENTS—TAKE NOTICE!

A young man, fifteen years old, entered the Drake Business College of this city about four months ago and began the Shorthand course. Today, he is employed by the largest manufacturing concern in Plainfield at a salary of eight dollars per week, for the start. He has been filling this position for one month and the indications are that he will remain there. Could he have made a more profitable investment? Could any other school have done better by him considering his age? If Drake College did as well by your son or daughter, would you hesitate to recommend the school to your friends?

No other school in this State enjoys such facilities for placing their graduates. When you attend one of the Drake schools, you have the influence of seven large colleges back of you in the business world. There are over 18,000 graduates of the Drake schools now holding responsible positions in some of the large business houses of New York and New Jersey.

It is the aim of this institution to fit young men and young women for business in the shortest time possible and at the least possible expense, and if we are to judge by the number of young men and young women who are daily accepting good positions, it appears that this college is accomplishing its purpose. Yesterday, three young men and two young women enrolled for the fall term, which opens Monday, August 30. A few months from now you will read of them accepting responsible positions in the business world. Why not have your son or daughter among the successful graduates? Send in your enrollment at once. Their beautiful new catalogue, just from the press, containing full information regarding the courses of study, rates of tuition, cost of books, etc., will be mailed to you on request. The church element of Scotch Plains is making a protest against the Sunday ball games at that place. Furs Going Up---You Better Buy Now.

We told you some time ago that since we had placed our orders for the furs offered in this sale that prices had advanced mightily, and there has been another jump of 15 per cent. in the tariff, which will advance furs still further up the scale. Black Lynx Skins, of which we have a plentiful supply in stock and on order, have advanced 135 per cent., and are growing scarcer. Skunk Skins, Skunk Dyed Coon Skins, Mink Skins and Sable Skins have all been tremendously advanced.

Yet notwithstanding the higher prices now asked for pelts and for finished fur garments we are selling furs in this midsummer sale at lower prices than prevailed last year, and at much lower prices than will prevail when the season rightly opens and current prices have to be asked.

Our patrons will profit enormously by selecting furs now. If desirable we will reserve them on the payment of a small deposit, and you can pay the balance when the winter season opens, when you are ready to wear the furs.

ARRIVED

The only car selling under $2,000 having full floating type rear axle, annular ball bearings throughout; double drop frame and 115 inch wheel base.

It won the Indiana Light Car race on the 18th of June, averaged 51.5 miles per hour for 232 miles. On straightaways its recorded speed exceeded 75 miles per hour.

In the 202-mile race over the Santa Monica course in California, on the 10th of July, the "30" won with an average of 55.2 miles an hour. In both of these contests the "30" motor was the smallest entered.

Any car that can go from Denver to Mexico City or can go 208 miles a day for 100 consecutive days, as a Chalmers-Detroit "30" did, is a pretty safe car to buy.

We strongly advise placing your order early as the Chalmers entire output for 1910 will be sold out early.

Orders filled in rotation.

CHEAP COFFEE MOST COSTLY

Costs More in the End Than Coffee That Is Higher Priced.

Cheap coffee is the most expensive kind you can use—for it takes so much more in making. And then it is flat and insipid in taste after it is made.

Hotel Astor Coffee will go a much farther than any 25-cent coffee because it is more thoroughly roasted—and roasting is what brings out the flavor of the coffee bean. This flavor in coffee comes from certain essential oils, and Hotel Astor Coffee is made of selected beans that are richest in these oils.

Hotel Astor Coffee owes its full, rich, delicious taste to the fact that it is a rare blend of a number of the finest coffees grown. This blend was first perfected for use by the Hotel Astor, New York, and was later put on the general market in response to an insistent demand.

It is sold by nearly all good grocers in one and three-pounds tins—in the bean, ground or pulverized. And every can contains the famous Hotel Astor recipe for coffee making.

But if your grocer does not keep it, write the importers, B. Fischer & Co., 190 Franklin street, New York City, giving his name and address, and they will tell you where to get it.

Manager Dorflinger, of the Plainfield Baseball Club, has two more games scheduled. Next Saturday his aggregation will play Scotch Plains on Crescent Oval, and the following Saturday the locals will play at Rahway. The latter will not play in Plainfield this season. "Dave" Driscoll would like to schedule two more games with Plainfield and this may be done. The last contest between the locals and New Brunswick was far from being satisfactory, hence the desire for two additional games.

Ortleib, who did most of the twirling for the Plainfield Baseball Club this season, is through, and Brewer Johnson has been engaged to finish the season. Washburn, who played short-stop, has also been dropped. O'Loughlin will cover right field permanently in place of Nolan, who left Plainfield "in the hole" two weeks ago to play with East Millstone for more money.

Bert Trotter covered short for Plainfield at Dunellen, Saturday, and did well. He was a little weak with the stick.

Mathewson has whitewashed the Reds three times this season.

Larry Doyle is getting so he can adjust the non-slinging twine with a simple twist of the wrist.

Pretty good pitching that of Beebe and Backman, holding the Brooklyns to two runs in twenty-four consecutive innings.

The St. Louis Nationals have made another trade. Charles, the infielder, has been traded to Cincinnati for Mike Mowrey.

The time of the year has come when likely pennant winners take pencil and paper nightly and figure out their chances from every angle.

Three of the best young players of the year happen to be second basemen—Collins of the Athletics, Egan of the Cincinnatis and Miller of the Pittsburgs.

Why is it that a batter takes an unholy delight in swatting a slow ball for a base hit? Probably for the same reason that a pitcher delights in fooling the batter with a slow ball.

Put Griffith on the coaching lines and he can detect more illegalities in the opposing pitchers' delivery which the umpires ought to correct than all the rest of the managers in the game.

Among pitchers who can stand lots of work Arellanes of the Boston Red Sox looms up. He has taken part in sixteen parts of games and eighteen whole games so far this season.

Somebody has discovered a new pitching "record" for Overall. In twenty-nine games this season the big Cub has struck out more men than base hits have been made off him—151 strikeouts and 143 hits.

Jim McGuire never was a fast mover himself, but he knows the value of speed in modern baseball. He showed this while he was manager in Boston and probably realizes that more of the quality won't hurt the Clevelands.

Storke and Barbeau are to get a slice of the world's series prize money after all of the Pirates win the pennant. Fred Clarke, it is understood, so informed them when he traded them to St. Louis, the money to be provided by the Pittsburg players personally.

Manager Stallings of the Highlanders called on Ban Johnson in Chicago last Saturday and told him of a lot more evidence to substantiate New York's claim that Pitcher Vaughn is the rightful property of the New York club. Stallings and Johnson are to meet in Chicago this morning and take up the matter, and the American League pesident and member of the National Commission is to ask that Herrmann as chairman of the commission reopen the case.

There is no reason why the St. Louis-Pittsburg deal shouldn't be beneficial to both teams. The Pittsburg team gets a third baseman who rounds out its infield to greater smoothness, adding a touch of value for a team making a pennant fight. The St. Louis club gets what it much needed, an additional infielder and also a couple of players likely to be of value in the reconstruction of the team. Managers don't make deals to "get the better" of somebody, but to strengthen their own teams.

Regular services will be resumed at the First Presbyterian church on Sunday, September 5.

MAKE ARRANGEMENTS FOR SPECIAL ELECTION

The Union County Board of Registration and Elections at a meeting in its rooms at the court house, Elizabeth, yesterday afternoon, filled vacancies on various district election boards and also arranged for the publication of notice of the special election next month. At that election the proposed amendments to the State Constitution will be submitted to the voters for approval or rejection. The amendments in question effect the organization of the courts. The election is scheduled for Tuesday, September 14.

On motion of Ralph L. Morrow, publication of notice of the special election was ordered in the Elizabeth Daily Journal, the Plainfield Daily Press and the Cranford Citizen, and on motion of Robert J. McAdam notice will also be published in the Elizabeth Times, the Summit Record and the Rahway News Herald. John Neagle and Theodore LaRue were approved as election officers in the first district of the Third ward and James E. Johnson and Charles G. Elliott for Fanwood. Vacancies in the second district of the Fourth ward will be filled at a meeting tomorrow when the certificates will be issued to all district election officers.

THE KENNEDYS REHASH WORD FIGHT IN COURT

Mrs. Josephine Kennedy, wife of Michael J. Kennedy, of West Second street, and sister-in-law of John W. Kennedy, of Central avenue, had "Poor John" brought to the city court this morning to answer for alleged abuse, physical and vocal, when her fifteen-year-old son John was threatened with a whipping last Thursday night. The hearing developed the fact that there is little love wasted between the principals, and that each and every one has a vocabulary which just bristles with jagged, dark blue words and phrases whenever they speak of or to each other.

Judge Runyon listened to the "merits" of the case for an hour this morning, during which most of the testimony was "what he said" or "what she said," and therefore unprintable. When it was all over, Martin B. Stutsman, Mrs. Kennedy's attorney, and Robert Newton Crane, who represented "Poor John," each tried to show the court how greivously his client had been sinned against. The magistrate finally ruled that the Michael Kennedys and the John Kennedys keep away from each other. And each counsel said that was all his client wished.

John Kennedy, the younger, who helps his father by driving a cab, and is in the habit of getting home late on this account, has asked his uncle to "see him home" nights, because he once found some "bums" asleep in the stable, and was frightened. Last Thursday night, uncle and boy went into a lunch wagon and had food and drink before going home. While there, an argument arose about a bag of tobacco, said to belong to Uncle John. Words were exchanged and finally the boy started for home. The uncle followed, and threatened to give the boy a beating for talking to him the way he said he did in the lunch wagon. And the lad roared for help.

Mother and father came to his rescue, and John's wife also came out and hung around the suburbs, attracted by the glare of vile language snapping the air.

At the hearing today each of the principals got pretty well worked up about the case, except Michael, who didn't come to court. The uncle couldn't stop giving testimony, even after he left the witness stand, and Mrs. Josephine started to give more testimony after Judge Runyon had announced his decision.

S. O. SPRINKLING WAGON IS ON THE JOB HERE

A demonstration of another one of the numerous road oil preparations intended to do away with the dust nuisance, is being made in the city and borough today by George M. Saybolt, of Jersey City, representing the Standard Oil Company. The demonstration was made this morning on Crescent avenue, between Seventh street and Park avenue, and this afternoon on certain streets of the borough.

The road oil preparation, a product of the Standard Oil Company, was put on with an automatic sprinkler, the invention of Mr. Saybolt, and one of the features is that with this machine the oil can be laid on the road from the thinness of a sheet of paper to a deluge. It is claimed that it cannot be tracked into the house and that it not only keeps the dust down, but there are none of the obnoxious odors noticeable in some of the preparations.

Soon after the oil is sprinkled on the road it is absorbed by the dirt and the thoroughfare can be used immediately without the least bit of trouble. The demonstration this morning was witnessed by Street Commissioner A. J. Gavett, of this city; Mayor Samuel Townsend, Councilman C. L. Nichols and John L. Watson, of North Plainfield, and a number of other interested citizens.

The sprinkler while large is very compact and the capacity of the tanks for holding the oil is sufficient to cover a considerable distance. It requires about fifty minutes to "reload" the machine. This afternoon several important thoroughfares in the borough were treated with the oil. Where municipalities use the preparation arrangements can be made to have it put on with one of the company machines.

PEACEMAKER SCALDED IN A PECULIAR WAY.

Roselle, Aug. 24.—While he and a man named Cohen were trying to separate their wives, who were fighting, Samuel Dallin, of Rivington street, was scalded yesterday, when a pail of boiling milk fell from a shelf on him. He was burned on the neck and shoulders. Dr. Mortimer Pierson sent him to the General Hospital, where it is said he will recover.

A fight, which the police say was the outcome of the trouble between the two women in the morning, occurred last night during a service at the place of worship attended by Dallin and Cohen. Warrants for the arrest of the disturbers were issued yesterday by Justice of the Peace Van E. Roosa.

ed by your conceit that you have to all intents and purposes come to consider it a divine right founded on the motto of despotism, 'The King can do no wrong?' Do you not believe that every member who insurges against you or the rules commits treason in your sight and must be unceremoniously shot?"

Then the New Jersey member proceeds to take up the question of Mr. Cannon's lack of party loyalty. He makes the direct charge that the Speaker has been guilty of plotting against the Ways and Means Committee of the House and against President Taft. Charging the Speaker with entering into a conspiracy with Senator Aldrich to defeat the Payne tariff bill, Mr. Fowler asks the Speaker:

"Did you not enter into a conspiracy with Mr. Aldrich to pack the conferrees on the part of the House for the purpose of adopting the Senate bill so far as possible instead of the House bill, with a few exceptions, when you were honor bound to do everything in your power to secure the adoption of the House bill?"

Speaker Cannon is asked to take the American people into his confidence and tell them "whether he has not already entered into another conspiracy involving our financial and currency legislation."

"Have you already determined," asks Mr. Fowler, "to bind American commerce hand and foot and throw her to the wolves of speculation, there to remain until, because of some overwhelming financial cataclysm, the people shall rise in their might and set her free, clothed and in her right mind, by wise and just financial and curency legislation?"

PATERSON CHIEF WANTS "BISHOP'S LAW" ENFORCED.

Paterson, Aug. 24.—Police Chief John Bimson on Sunday told the members of the police department that they were violating their oath of office in not entering complaints against saloon keepers who were violating the "bishop's law." He declared that if saloon-keepers econtinued to disregard the law and policeman would not make complaints he would see to it that those patrolmen on whose beats the law-breaking occurred were brought before the police commission.

"It was only for a short time," said the chief to the policemen, "that the law was observed here. A few complaints were made and then the matter was never heard of. I have made personal observations on Sundays about the city and must demand that the law be enforced and that you do your duty. If you do not then I will go before the commissioners and see to it that you are punished."

Chief Bimson denied yesterday that he said the members of the police department were looked upon as a joke in this regard. In speaking this morning he said that the "bishops' law" must be enforced, and he was going to see that it was or know the reason why.

FORT MAY ATTEND THE TAX CONFERENCE

Governor Fort has promised, if his official duties will permit, to attend the third international conference on State and local taxation to be held in Louisville, Ky., from September 21 to 24, under the auspices of the International Tax association. Vigorous opposition to the new federal corporation tax will be a feature of the conference.

These conferences are usually attended by delegates representing universities and colleges that maintain a special course in public finance, or at which that subject receives special attention in a general course of economics, and others who have developed a special interest in the subject of State and local taxation, as well as the governors of the States and territories, and three delegates from each.

It is said that at the coming conference Allen Ripley Foote, president of the association, will offer a resolution that will precipitate a lively debate. It will condemn the new corporation income tax, which President Taft is said to have drafted.

President Foote, who has investigated the feeling in various sections of the country, says the new federal tax scheme is condemned everywhere, as nobody knows what income it will produce, for there is no way to learn the number of live corporations in the country, to say nothing of those that are earning a profit.

At the first conference of the association, held in Columbus and Toronto last year, a resolution was adopted demanding that inheritance taxes should be preserved as sources of State income without federal interference. This stand has been indorsed by the governors of seventeen States, while nine State Legislatures have adopted resolutions taking a similar stand.

N. O. Moore, Jr., manager for the Recorder Press, accompanied by his mother, left Sunday for the West. Mr. Moore went to Milton, Wis., to attend the Seventh-Day Baptist conference, while his mother goes to College View, Neb., to make a visit.

LOCAL AMUSEMENTS.

A fine old Southern colonel and his faithful orderly who are still fighting the battle of the late War of the Rebellion and who live entirely by military discipline, are said to furnish some delightful comedy in the new melodrama, "Billy, the Kid," which comes to the Plainfield theatre tonight. The play itself is reported to be an exceptionally strong one, replete in highly dramatic situations, yet telling a straightforward story most interestingly.

"In Dreamland," the dramatic fantasy by Emmet Devoy, although new to theatre-goers, is well known to patrons of high class vaudeville. The piece is the one act sketch used by Mr. Devoy and his company with phenomenal success on the Orpheum, similar team appearing in musical comedy is at all comparable with them, the refinement of their work appealing to the best class of theatre-goers. Cole is decidedly unique in his eccentric comedy and dancing, and Johnson, in addition to possessing a pleasing baritone voice, is an accomplished pianist. They write their own plays, compose and orchestrate the music and stage the productions, beside essaying the principal roles. Both these young colored men have had the benefit of valuable experience while associated with the distinguished management of Klaw and Erlanger, for whom they have written numerous song numbers and composed the score of an entire musical comedy. They have evolved a picturesque play and novel theme by using a Negro and Indian motive for their comedy, "The Red Moon." The music is characteristic, bright and catchy, and the song numbers will prove big hits. Stage settings of surpassing beauty and beautiful costumes have been provided by the management, who have spared no expense in making "The Red Moon" the most sumptuous and picturesque production in which colored performers have ever been seen. A cast of the foremost negro stars are engaged to assist Cole and Johnson.

In its new and elaborate form it has scored as great a success as in vaudeville and it comes to the Plainfield theatre tomorrow night with the endorsement of press and public.

The Plainfield theatre announces, as one of the principal bookings for this season, Harry B. Smith and Max Hoffman's big beauty show, "The Parisian Model," which comes direct from its phenomenal three hundred night run at the big Broadway theatre, New York city. Heading the company will be dainty Grace Hazard, who will introduce during the action of the comedy her well-known specialty "Five Feet of Comic Opera." The company numbers some seventy people, and the management presents a new and elaborate scenic outfit. All of the costumes are new and an exact replica of those which created a furore on Broadway. The play is booked here Saturday, matinee and night.

WILL REQUIRE $75,000 FOR SPECIAL ELECTION.

Trenton, Aug. 24.—It is estimated that the aggregate cost of the special election upon the adoption of the proposed constitutional amendments, on September 4, will be $75,000, part of which will be borne by the State and part by the various counties. There are 1,348 election districts in the State, and there are four election officers for each, making 5,392 officers in all.

On that day they will do double duty, as it will also be a registry day, thus requiring them to register voters as well as conduct the amendment election. On account of this extra service their pay for the day will be $8 each. Thus this item of expense alone will be $43,136.

Another large item will be that for printing the 1,350,000 ballots of large size, and for advertising the election in the newspapers. This will cost the State about $15,000. There will have to be added to that expense of renting the voting places, 1,348 of them, and it is estimated this will cost not less than $10,000, which will fall on the counties, as will the bil for the pay of election officers.

Besides these, there will be some $300 for expressage on the twenty tons of ballots to the various county seats, from where they are distributed to the municipalities, the pay of the State Board of Canvassers, and other miscellaneous items, which will carry the total up to nearly $75,000.

IMPROVES PLAN TO ORGANIZE IN UNION.

The following committee will present the constitution for approval: John P. Dengler, John B. Bunnell, Daniel H. Beach and Ambrose B. Kline. The association will hold its first regular meeting on Friday night, September 3, when officers will be elected.

"UNCLE DAN" HOST OF CORRESPONDENTS

Daniel S. Voorhees, State treasurer, and known more familiarly to the newspaper men as "Uncle Dan," issued invitations to the members of the New Jersey Legislative Correspondents' club to visit him next Saturday at Lake Hopatcong, where he has plans for a day on the lake which will live in the memories of the boys for some time. He was busily engaged yesterday arranging to get as much fun in the day as could well be crammed in, and the plans include a ride on one of the finest lakes in the country.

"Uncle Dan" said yesterday that he had arranged for the weather to be moderate, not too cool nor too warm, just right for all of the fun which is to be crowded in the day.

"I owe much to the gentlemen of the New Jersey press," he said. "They have always been exceedingly kind to me, and I take this little way of showing some small appreciation for their many kindnesses. Come up to Lake Hopatcong and see God's country."

There is to be no politics in the trip, simply a social time for the gentlemen of the press.

A Prayer.

Give me, O Lord, that quietness of heart which makes the most of labor and of rest. Save me from passionate excitement, petulant fretfulness and idle fear, keeping me ever in the restful presence of Thy love. Teach me to be alert and wise in all responsibilities without hurry and without neglect. Tame Thou and rule my tongue, that I may not transgress Thy law of love. When others censure, may I seek Thine image in each fellow man, judging with charity as one who shall be judged. Banish envy from my thoughts and hatred from my lips. Help me to be content, amid the strife of tongues, with my unspoken thought. When anxious cares threaten my peace, help me to run to Thee, that I may find my rest and be made strong for calm endurance and for valiant service. In the name of Jesus Christ, my Lord. Amen.—Christian Work and Evangelist.

Test of Financial Recovery.

The noteworthy increase in customs receipts for the year ending June, 1909, over the last fiscal year affords a proof of the rapidity with which the United States recovered from its financial depression. The receipts for the last year were $301,209,863, as against $286,113,130. This is all the more remarkable when it is remembered that for the first six months of the year we were still suffering frome panic conditions. —World's Finance in Van Norden Magazine.

SOME STATE NEWS BRIEFS

Former Assemblyman J. Wiggans Thorn is being mentioned as a Republican candidate for receiver of taxes in Trenton.

Peter Kanneglesser, of Mays Landing, fell dead in his boat on Lake Lenape, at that place, Sunday. He was seen by persons on shore and his body was removed to his home.

Mr. and Mrs. Bernard Levin, of 326 North Broad street, Trenton, Sunday, in the presence of their children and grandchildren, celebrated the golden anniversary of their marriage.

The body of an unidentified man was found cut to pieces along the Reading Railroad tracks, about a half-mile west of the Trenton Junction station, early Sunday morning by a track walker.

Confessing that he has been stealing bicycles for more than a year, Frank Grazstin, thirty-two years old, of 1235 Pearl street, Philadelphia, was committed to the Camden City jail Sunday for a hearing.

Attacked by a bulldog near his home, 1144 Marion street, Camden, Sunday, Horace Turner, three years old, was bitten on the left arm, but not seriously. The wound was cauterized at Cooper Hospital.

Attacked by apoplexy, Edward E. Kinsley, sixty-nine years old, fell downstairs and died soon afterward at his home in Bordentown. He served in the infantry in the Civil War. Besides a widow he leaves six children.

Elaborate exercises, in which Rev. Diomede Falconio, the apostolic delegate at Washington, will have a leading part, will be held in Trenton on September 12, when the new Italian parochial school connected with St. Joachim's church will be dedicated.

Harry B. Perry, of Trenton, for more than thirty years a passenger conductor on the New York division of the Pennsylvania Railroad, was found dead in his bed Sunday. Vertigo was the cause of death. Perry complained of feeling ill when he retired Friday night.

In a fight over a trivial matter early Sunday morning, Stanley Darr, twenty years old, of 218 Atlantic avenue, Camden, was so badly beaten that he sustained a fracture of the skull. He was taken to the Homeopthic Hospital in an unconscious condition, but physicians have hope for recovery. His assailant escaped.

Overcome by benzine fumes while at work on the battleship Michigan at the New York Shipyard in Camden, William H. Gilbert, a painter, thirty-two years old, of 924 South Fourth street, Camden, was hurried to Cooper Hospital, where he was revived with difficulty. Gilbert was able to leave the institution some hours later.

Mrs. Galloway, wife of Rev. J. B. Galloway, pastor of the Third Presbyterian church, Paterson, started yesterday for Santa Fe, N. M., to join her husband, who has been there since June 1. Mr. Galloway has been suffering from tuberculosis for a year. Mrs. Galloway said that the tone of her husband's letters to her had been cheerful, and that there was nothing in them to indicate that his health was worse.

Fire came near destroying the boathouse district in Ventnor Sunday. It started in the boathouse occupied by Charles Emes, of Philadelphia. Mrs. Emes was sitting on the porch at the time, and had only time to get her three children and make her escape. She did not even save their summer clothing. Word was sent to the Atlantic City fire department for help, and two companies were rushed to the scene. The total loss is estimated at about $20,000.

Entering the home of City Detective Moffett, at Third street and Kaighn avenue, Camden, at 6 o'clock Sunday morning, Michatel Hattan, sixty years old, well known to the police, robbed the refrigerator of nearly everything that had been purchased for the family's Sunday dinner. Neighbors saw him leave with a package, and they awakened the detective. With a description of the thief, Moffett went in hot pursuit, and found him eating meat in a nearby alley.

There was much excitement at the picnic of the Paterson Athletic Club at Willard Park, about midnight on Saturday, when Edward Ballentine, of 205 Ellison street, Paterson, claimed that somebody had put poison in his drinks. He raved for a few minutes and acted like a manman. He was sent to St. Joseph's Hospital. He was kept under observation until yesterday morning, when an examinatoin proved that he had not been poisoned. He was then allowed to go to his home.

ACCUSED OF WIFE'S DEATH, HE GOES MAD.

When told Sunday afternoon that his wife had died and that he was accused of having caused her death, John Laughlin, 29 years old, of 167 Broadway, Bayonne, suddenly became insane. Laughlin has been in police headquarters since Thursday. He is violent, and constant watch over him is kept to prevent his doing himself harm.

Mrs. Laughlin was taken to the hospital on Thursday. Her husband declared that she was suffering from alcoholism. According to the police, she had been beaten by him. Tessie Miller, 10 years old, told Police Inspector Patrick J. Tierney that she had seen Laughlin beat his wife with a strap, and that he had pulled her out of bed and unmercifully kicked her.

Laughlin walks up and down his cell crying and declaring, "I didn't do it." At times he shakes the bars, and again imagines he is at work. He was employed as assistant engineer at the Standard Oil Company works in the Constable Hook section.

BRENSINGER IS OUT OF THE BRIGADE.

Governor Fort has accepted the application for retirement made by Brigadier-General Joseph H. Brensinger, commandant of the First Brigade, National Guard, and the date for the election of his successor will be set for the near future. General Brensinger made his application for retirement at the end of the encampment of the First Brigade at Sea Girt, August 2. Up to yesterday, as stated yesterday morning, he had not received official notification of its acceptance from the adjutant general's office.

Provided the terms of the agreement made by the field officers of the First and Fourth regiments at the time of the election of Brensinger, early in the spring, are carried out, Colonel Henry W. Freeman, of the First Regiment, will be elected commandant of the brigade to serve until November 4, when he will reach his sixty-fourth year, the age limit for active service under the provisions of the Vredenburgh law.

In the event of Freeman's promotion at the coming brigade election, it is anticipated that there will be a contest over the selection of his successor as head of the First Regiment. The candidates are Lieutenant-Colonel Arthur Rowland, inspector of small arms practise, formerly a major in the regiment, and Lieutenant-Colonel John D. Fraser, of the First. Rowland's supporters claim a majority of the votes in the regiment.

LITTLE HERO DIES TRYING TO RESCUE.

In an heroic effort to save the life of his three-year-old playmate, Frank Ickiske, eight years old, was drowned with him at Elizabeth Saturday night. The other boy was Michael Musynzki, and they both lived at 663 South Front street.

The boys were playing tag on the dock when the smaller child slipped over the edge. He caught himself on a spile, and Frank rushed to save him from falling into the water.

After holding his playmate up for several minutes, Frank became exhausted and both fell into the water and sank. Frank came up and supported himself by holding on to a pile, but he finally sank, too.

Michael's body was found at 7 o'clock by Joseph Plank and Edward Van Pelt by means of grappling irons. Frank's body was recovered by the same young men Sunday night.

Mrs. John Musynzki, mother of the smaller boy, rushed to the dock at the first alarm and attempted to jump into the water and drown herself. She was forcibly restrained by her husband.

County Physician Westcott was notified of the tragedy and permitted the removal of the bodies to Engel's morgue. The boys will be buried in the same grave at Mt. Oliver Cemetery today, and their funeral was held together at St. Adelbert's church.

Pat Cronin and the Foretellin' Lady

BY ELLIS PARKER BUTLER

(Copyright, by J. B. Lippincott Co.)

Once there lived in Ireland, when all of us was young, a lady that had the gift of foretellin' what would come to pass, and the knowledge of all kinds of magic, both black and white and mixed; but trade was poor with her, for she could foretell only the unlucky things, and not the good ones, and that is a poor way to build up a foretellin' business, as many told her.

But over behind the hill lived one man that was not afraid of the worst she could foretell, for he was married to Maggie Murphy, and it was a saying in that part of the country that any one that dared to marry Maggie Murphy would be afraid of nothing whatever, and that whatever happened he would be glad of it.

So Pat Cronin—and that was the poor fellow's name—went to the foretellin' lady to find out what she could foretell, him having been married to Maggie Murphy going on a month and feeling that a foretell of sudden death would be the best news she could foretell to him, sudden death being quicker than the kind he was getting at the end of a broom.

The foretellin' lady, trade being so poor with her, was glad to see him, and gave him the best seat she had, which was all the same with the worst, there being only one, and took his hand and immediate began to weep tears as big as chestnuts.

"Wurroo!" she cries. "I see be th' lines of yer palm ye are Maggie Murphy's man, and 'tis bad luck ye have ahead of ye."

"I had an intimation of th' same mesilf, ma'am," says Pat, no bit scared; "go on, ma'am, and tell me the truth of it."

"Well, then," says the fortellin' lady, "I see by the lines of yer palm that ye will have as many children as ye have fingers and toes."

At that Pat Cronin fell into a dead faint, and it was twenty-four hours before he came to himself.

When Pat, with the tears streaming down his face, told Maggie the words of the foretellin' lady, she was glad, for she was that fond of children!

"Praise be!" she said. "'Twill be a grand family we will be havin', Pat, wid as many as ye have fingers and toes, for ye have five fingers on one hand and five on the next, and five toes on each foot, and, whether ye add or multiply or divide, 'tis twinty it makes."

"I was always the unlucky creature," says Pat, who liked children no better than a pig likes a ring in its nose.

"'Twill be a grand thing t' have twinty sons and darters t' care for me whin I'm old," says Maggie. "Th' first would likely be a thumb, and a boy, and th' name fer him will be Patrick, for I will have him christened nothin' else but after his father."

"Bad cess t' him!" says Pat.

"And th' next would be a girrl, belike," says Maggie, "and she will be christened Mary, after me mother."

"Say no more," said Pat hopelessly; "mebby th' foretell will not come true."

"And th' next will be Larry," says Maggie, "afther me own dad, bless his soul."

"I was born on a Friday," says Pat, "and th' bad luck follies me."

"Don't ye think Bridget w'u'd be a fine name for th' next girl?" asks Maggie, quite cheerful.

"Ten fingers I have," says Pat, with a sigh, "and not a duck in th' worrld that has any! And ten toes I have, and a horse has but one on each foot!"

"That's four," says Maggie—meaning the children she had found names for, and not the number of toes a horse has—"and five," she says, counting them off on her fingers, "will be Michael, and six will be Anne, and seven will be Terry, and eight will be Maggie, and nine will be Dennis, and tin will be Lizzie, and that's all th' fingers."

"'Tis plinty," says Pat, "and any man that wants more is a born fool."

"And for the toes," says Maggie, as pleased as a boy in pig-killing time, "elivin will be Garry, and twilve will be Gerty, and thirrteen will be John——"

"Thirrteen is an unlucky number," says Pat, "but twinty is worse."

"And fourteen will be Susan," says Maggie, "and fifteen will be James, and sixteen will be Dora, and sivinteen will be Mark, and eighteen will be Cora, and nineteen will be Luke, and twinty will be Maria, and——"

"Sthop!" says Pat. "Thank th' saints I have no more toes, and 'tis temptin' me to murder ye will be if go beyant twinty!"

It was plain to see he was not pleased with the foretell the foretellin' lady had foretold for him, but Maggie gave him no peace with her always saying over the names lest she forget them. She would sit on the three legged stool at the door of the hut any time of day in her bare feet, as is the way in that county, counting off the names on her fingers and toes lest she forget them or how they went in order.

The hate of it all was so to Pat that he came to the pass where he could not bear to see his fingers and toes, and took no wearing shoes in midsummer, which was a thing unheard of in that part, and at last he wore his mittens all the time and slept in his brogans, lest he should awaken in the night and see his toes. He had lost all affection for his fingers and toes, because of the bad luck they were going to bring to him, and that is a sad state to be in, as any one knows, and cruel hard on the fingers and toes, which work hard all day for one and ask nothing but a bit of affection now and then.

So one day the thumb of his left hand got tired of the way things were going, and spoke to the four fingers that stood alongside of it, and the first chance they got they got underneath the saw that Pat was using and got sawed off.

"'Twill serve him right," they said; but they did not know the true feelings of Pat Cronin, for when he saw his hand he gave one great shout and began to dance a jig.

"Hooroo!" he shouted. "'Th' luck has turned, and 'tis a glad day for Pat Cronin! There goes Anne and Terry and little Maggie and Dennis and Lizzie, and there be but fifteen left!" and with that he ran off home to tell the news to Maggie, knowing it would disappoint her.

It was sad news indeed to Maggie, and she that fond of children! And she wept for five days, so that folks came over the hill to see her weep; but as for Pat Cronin he was wild with joy, and quit being a carpenter, and went to work for Phelim Casey, who had a saw-mill, with a buzz-saw in it.

"'Tis wonderful what bad luck some folks can have around a saw-mill! 'Twas full a year before Pat Cronin was successful in getting his right foot in the saw, but 'twas a beautiful job the saw did when he got it there, and he had no complaint to make, for it deducted Garry and Gerty and John and Susan and James as clean and nice as if they had never been.

She would hear no more of his going back to the saw-mill after that, and kept him about the hut every minute of the day, so that she could keep an eye on all that was left of the children that the foretellin' lady had foretold, from little Patrick, who was a thumb, to little Maria, who was the little toe on his left foot, and she cherished them as if she was a manicure lady with only one customer and no chance of another. Day by day she made him sit by her side as she went about the cottage, with his one good hand laid out flat on the table and his one good foot propped up on a stool in plain view. It was not hard work except for the temper it aroused in her to see him sitting there doing nothing, while she did not dare to let him out of her sight, but every day her temper got worse and more of it, and at last she gave it a little ease by throwing a flat-iron at him, which would have done no harm had her aim not been upset by her anger, so that she missed his head and the iron came down and mashed little Patrick and Mary and Larry and Bridget and Michael.

Sure, that was one joke Pat had on Maggie, and 'twould have done you good to have heard him laugh when the surgeon came and cut off his fingers and his thumb, one at a time.

Then times got worse for Pat Cronin and Maggie, for a man with no fingers and only five toes to his name is not such a good worker as one with more, so they packed up everything they owned but the pig and started for America.

"We will take no more chances," said Maggie, "and I have here a box to nail up your foot in, so that it may go safe to Ameriky, and no harrm come to little Dora and Mark and Cora and Luke and Maria;" and with that she brought forth a fine box, just large enough to hold his foot, and made him put his foot in it, and she nailed the lid on, but when she saw him smiling she knew there was something wrong, and she pried the lid off, and, behold you, in nailing it on she had spoiled two more of his toes, so that the surgeon had to come and amputate little Luke and Maria.

As soon as they reached New York Pat set up in business as a public man and applied for a job as a millionaire, and laid his character away, and all seemed going well, and Maggie was number four hundred and one in the Four Hundred, and had the offer of the first vacant place in the three hundreds, when one day she came running to him in tears.

"Pat," says she, "and do you remember the foretell the foretellin' woman foretold to you?"

"Sure I do," he says. "Could I forget it?"

"Well," she says, "how many fingers and toes have ye got left?"

"I dunno," he says; "for I have forgot, I have been so busy."

"Count thim," she says, "for 'tis important I sh'u'd know."

Wan—two—tree, he counted "and that is all I have left."

At that Mrs. Cronin looked pained and shocked, and shook her head sadly.

"Alas!" she said, "'twill never do at all. T'ree children is an outrageous large family, and not at all what folks in Ameriky has. W'u'd ye be havin' ev'ry wan think we are but ignorant foreigners, Pat?"

"I would not," says he; "I would do as th' Americans do, and be as th' Americans be. What is it you w'u'd be havin' me do, Marguerite?"

"T' save th' honor and glory of th' family," says she, "and t' prevint ridicule fallin' upon us, ye must remove wan of yer toes, Pat."

"For why?" says he.

"Because of the foretell as foretold by th' foretellin' lady," says she, "that says ye will have as many children as ye have fingers and toes."

"But I will have but two left," says he sadly.

"It seems t' be th' custom," says she.

And with that Pat got the carving knife, and then there were only little Mark and little Cora left of all his twenty fingers and toes.

MONROE A. C. WINS FAST GAME, 2-0

The Plainfield and Monroe A. C. teams played a fast game Saturday afternoon, the latter club winning by a score of 2 to 0. The Monroe boys gave an exhibition of fielding that would be hard to excel. They had many difficult chances and accepted them all without an error. Slocum was in the box for the Plainfield A. C. and he struck out fifteen batsmen, allowed three hits and gave one base on balls. Hallard, who opposed him, fanned four, but only two hits were secured off his delivery.

The runs were scored as follows: Howe was given a pass, Hallard next up, fanned and the ball tipped Catcher Mooney's glove. He thinking it was a foul tip walked after the ball. Howe scored on the play. The second tally was made on Bayrd's fine two-bagger, Nugent's corking single a moment later bringing him home. The teams will meet again Labor Day morning. The score:

Plainfield A. C. Win 7 to 5.

The Plainfield A. C. defeated the Warren A. C. Saturday afternoon by a score of 7 to 5. Johnston and Mooney were in the points for the winning team and Montross and Mosher did the battery work for the opposing aggregation. Johnston pitched a fine game, securing ten strike outs and giving but one free pass. Montross struck out eight and held his opponents in good style. Luhtman led in the batting, securing four singles out of four times at the bat. Hanson slammed out a home run and the fielding of Moran was a feature. Both catchers did good work. The score by innings:

GOLF.

Although held without any preliminary announcement except in the neighborhood, a good many spectators followed the match between the young homebred Orren Terry and George Low at the Canoe Brook Country Club, Summit, last Saturday. It was the first half of a 72 hole match and Terry was one up. The second 36 holes will be at Baltusrol next Thursday. Terry had an advantage in being on his own stamping ground, a situation which will favor Low for the renewal of the strife. Low led at the turn by 1 up, and after that Terry had the advantage of a very close and well played match. He was 1 up at eighteen holes, the margin by which he subsequently won. Terry had a 2 on the 125 yard hole. The cards were: Terry, 73, 72—145; Low, 74, 73—147.

The championship of the White Mountains next Thursday, Friday and Saturday will be at the Waumbek Golf Club, of which the Murphys of Lakewood are prominent members. Isaac Mackie is on a flying trip to Waumbek to do some coaching and later to join in a tournament at Maplewood with Aleck Smith, George Low and some of the Massachusetts professionals. The Abenaqui amateur tournament is at Rye Beach on the same days as the Waumbek fixture—not on the Sound, but Rye Beach in New Hampshire. Other tournaments are far afield, including the Lake Geneva, Ill., Country Club fixture and the Nebraska State championship at Omaha. J. C. Punderford now holds the White Mountains and G. H. Gaines the Nebraska championship.

Walter J. Travis tells this story in the August semi-monthly number of the American Golfer: "Playing the fifth hole (304 yards) at Garden City recently John M. Ward's approach came within a hair of killing a robin alongside the hole. 'Pretty near birdie,' said John to his opponent. Holing out for a 3 he sententiously observed as he picked his ball out of the cup. 'Twas a birdie after all.' A 'birdie,' as every one knows, is a hole which is made in one stroke under par."

A confirmation of the report that Miss Dorothy Campbell, the North Berwick girl, who is woman champion of Great Britain, has accepted an invitation to play in the similar contest of the United States Golf Association at the Merion course on October 4 to 9 is of interest. She will sail on September 10 with Miss F. Teacher, who won the Scottish championship two years ago; the Misses S. Temple and G. Spurling, of Westwood Ho, and Mr. and Mrs. C. H. Gray of Barnhurst. Miss Campbell will be the third holder of the British title to play at Merion. Miss Lucy Dodd took part in the woman's championship of 1905 there, and before that there was a special tournament there—a sort of reception on the links—for Miss Rhona Adair, who arrived there after our championship had been decided. That the British players are to be at Merion will keep our best players on their games and possibly tempt back the young matrons who were so brilliant on the links when golfing in single blessedness as Miss Genevieve Hecker, Miss Vanderhoff, Miss Bessie Anthony, Miss Lucy Herron and Miss J. Anna Carpenter.

Flemington the Champion.

Flemington, Aug. 24.—By defeating the High Bridge baseball team at that place Saturday afternoon by the score of 8 to 2, the Flemington club won the championship of Hunterdon county. The Flemington club held the championship for many years, until it was grasped by High Bridge two years ago. This year the teams played a series of four games, three of which were won by Flemington. High Bridge narrowly escaped being shut out Saturday, being unable to score until the ninth inning.

BATTERED UP IN FIGHT BOUND BROOK MAN HERE.

Terribly battered about the face and head, a man who gives his name as Christopher Gorman, of South Second street, Bound Brook, lies in Muhlenberg Hospital, and can give no particulars of a bar-room set-to at Bound Brook, when he was injured last night. Gorman came to this city on a main line trolley car, and was removed to the hospital in the patrol wagon upon his arrival here, at about 9:30 o'clock last night.

The conductor of the trolley car says that Gorman was helped aboard his car by several friends at the Bound Brook trolley stand. His head was bandaged and bleeding at the time.

An examination at the hospital showed that Gorman is badly bruised about the nose and jaws, as if by blows of someone's fist. No bones are broken. The police will not hold the man.

'FOWLER A JOKE'--CANNON

"All of Congress Knows He is a Joke" Says the Speaker.

HIS ANSWER TO THE TIRADE.

"Uncle Joe" Uses Profane Words in Expressing His Contempt for the Representative of This District.

The letter of Representative Fowler denouncing Speaker Cannon's financial record in Congress was shown to Mr. Cannon yesterday at Mackinac Island, Michigan, where the Speaker is spending his vacation. The Speaker, hurt, angry and sore, said many things about Mr. Fowler and the letter which he specifically marked down as not for presentation to the public.

"Why in h—— should I notice Fowler?" asked the Speaker in blazing tones when the proof sheets of the Fowler denunciation were handed him. However, he read every word of it, and he winced perceptibly at times.

"To those who have the patience to read this letter, if any such there be, it will appear that when, in the exercise of the duties thrown upon me as Speaker of the House of Representatives, I failed to make him chairman of the Committee on Banking and Currency to his mind I became thoroughly selfish and generally a bad citizen and Representative.

"Will you speak specifically of any of the items in the Fowler arraignment?" the Speaker was asked.

"Why in the h—— should I answer him?" he replied. "He is a d—— joke. All of Congress knows he is a joke."

"Well, what about his specific charges as regards the alleged packing of the Conference Committee on the tariff bill?" the Speaker was asked.

"Put that question specifically and I will answer it," said the Speaker.

"Was the Conference Committee on the part of the House named through any arrangement between you and Senator Aldrich, or were the House conferrees named in the manner or form charged by Representative Fowler?" was the categorical question submitted.

This is the dictated reply of the Speaker:

"It is beneath my contempt or dignity to notice any statement made by Fowler that there was any sort of an arrangement by which the House tariff conferrees were named. It is below my notice."

The Speaker closed with the statement that he would not further dignify the Fowler letter by discussing it, publicly or privately. "I am through with Fowler and the Fowler letter," he said.

ATTENTION, YOUNG FOLKS!

If you were suddenly informed that hereafter you must be self supporting, or in other words, earn your own livelihood, what would you do? If you had previously attended a good business college and had a thorough knowledge of business and shorthand you would have no cause for worry. But if you have had no business training, well, read carefully the following:

Young men and young women are daily calling at the Drake Business College of this city to make arrangements to begin a course in the school when the Fall term opens, Monday morning, August 30. They have learned by comparing the various schools that the best to attend is the largest school, as it naturally would have the greatest influence in the business world. There are seven Drake schools in the vicinity of New York city, which have successfully graduated over 18,000 young men and young women and have furnished them with good paying positions. The Drake College Company maintains a large employment bureau with offices in the Tribune building, New York city. The sole purpose of this Employment Bureau is to look after the interests of the Drake Graduates regardless of the number of positions it may have previously found for them. During the last few weeks, the Drake College of Plainfield has had fully a dozen calls for stenographers that they were unable to fill owing to the scarcity of Drake College Graduates out of employment. When you attend one of these colleges you may be sure that you can complete the full course in the least time, at the least expense and that you have the influence of the largest and most popular business college in the State of New Jersey. A beautiful catalogue containing detailed information regarding the work of the school will be mailed, on request, to any reader of this paper. The office will be open each evening until 10 p. m. when visitors are welcome to inspect the school.

TAYLOR HELD FOR THEFT

Big Negro Who Broke Jail Remanded for the Grand Jury.

ALLEGE HE STOLE A WHEEL.

Prisoner Is Positively Identified by Two Cabmen for Theft on June 7—He Denies It.

Lucius Taylor, the giant negro, who escaped from his cell at police headquarters yesterday and was captured by Detective Sergeant Flynn at the point of a revolver a few minutes later on Arlington avenue, was taken to the county jail at Elizabeth this afternoon in default of $200 bail, imposed by City Judge Runyon. Chris Mobus and Thomas Higgins, two hackmen, positively identified Taylor as the man who took the bicycle belonging to William Murphy, a telegraph boy, from in front of the North Avenue station on the night of June 7. William H. Murphy, the boy's father, swore out a warrant for the man this morning, and he will be held to await the action of the grand jury. Taylor absolutely denied the charge of theft.

According to the story of the hackmen, Taylor, who was released from State's prison on June 7, came to this city, where he has relatives, and according to the story told by the hackmen, was at the North avenue station at shortly after 10 o'clock that night. They positively identified him by his gigantic build and his small ears.

"Say, boys, I'm just out of the coop," Taylor is alleged to have said to the hackmen. "I haven't any money, but there's a wheel up there by the curb that I'd like to take. Do you think I can get away with it?" The drivers thought he was joking, and replied: "Go as far as you like." A train drew in at about this time, and one of the hackmen got a "fare." Mobus, seeing afterwards that the wheel was missing, reported it to the boy, and drove after Taylor in his carriage. He could not locate him, and reported the matter to the police by telephone.

Taylor stands two inches over six feet, and the wheel he stole—a brand new one—has a twenty-inch frame. The hackmen say he tumbled off several times before he succeeded in mounting and riding off. Taylor, who had asked for a hearing before City Judge Runyon, positively denied the charge, and calmly assured the hackmen that they must be mistaken. The identification was absolute.

The police kept a close watch over the big prisoner after his escape, and Taylor is decidedly discouraged because of his failure to get away. He talked freely about his plan to get out. "I worked too quick," he said, "and wasn't careful enough. That's the trouble when you're in a hurry, you ain't careful enough.

The colored man gained his temporary freedom by jumping from the window in City Judge Runyon's private office. Detective Sergeant Flynn heard the shade tear as the man went through the window, and pursued him on a wheel, which he took from an East Fourth street cyclist, unknown to him at the time. The rider was considerably surprised at the sudden request to dismount and loan the bike, but everything was satisfactorily explained when the policeman returned with his prisoner. Flynn overtook Taylor, who was on foot, on Arlington avenue, and captured him at the point of a revolver. The negro attempted no resistance.

Bowman—Debele.

Miss Margaret Ida Debele, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles F. Debele, of the Pine Grove Farm, Rock avenue, and Martin J. Bowman, of Perkasie, Pa., were married yesterday afternoon at 2 o'clock by the Rev. Cornelius Schenck at his home on West Front street. Only the immediate families of the couple witnessed the ceremony. The couple left yesterday afternoon for Perkasie, where the groom has a farm.

HOLTON WILL CONTEST

Physician Testifies to the Making of Rich Woman's Will.

FIGHTING FOR THE ESTATE.

Many Lawyers in the Case Which Is Being Heard Before Judge Schenck of Somerville.

The first hearing in the Miss Mary E. Holton will contest was held yesterday before Judge Schenck in the Somerset County Orphans' court at Somerville. There was a large number of interested persons present, including the relatives who seek to have the will probated and those who oppose this action.

William A. Coddington, of the firm of Reed and Coddington, was present to represent the executors, who want the will probated. Col. Nelson Y. Dungan and A. M. Beekman, of Somerville; A. C. Streitwolf, Jr., of New Brunswick, and Winfield S. Angleman, of this city, were there in behalf of the relatives who seek to prevent the probating of the instrument, while Hugh K. Gaston was present in behalf of Former Sheriff Edward E. Cooper, who a few weeks ago was put in charge of the estate pending the litigation.

The whole afternoon was taken up with the examination of Dr. J. Hervey Buchanan, one of the subscribers to the will. He testified in detail as to what took place at the time the will was signed. He stated that besides himself, there were present Mrs. Barnes, a nurse, Reuben Knox, the lawyer, and Miss Mary E. Holton. He said that she was in bed, propped up with pillows. He also testified that she appeared to be very ill and her death was only a question of time. He further stated that her hand was considerably swollen.

The witness further said that about ten days previous to the time of signing the will, on a Sunday and Monday, he signed codicils to a previous will. The present will which is now being contested was signed on May 5, last. At the end of three hours, the time required for the examination, an adjournment was taken to September 10, when Mrs. Barnes will be examined.

It is estimated that the present value of the estate it about $25,000, $15,000 personal and $10,000 in realty. During the year previous to her death Miss Holton gave away approximately about $100,000 in realty and cash, chiefly to various societies in the Baptist denomination. If the contestants of the will are successful in preventing the probate of the will, they will seek to have these transfers of property set aside.

REV. JOHN Y. BROEK IS BUSY IN THE WEST.

Rev. John Y. Broek, pastor of Trinity Reformed church, who is spending his vacation at his former home, Grand Rapids, Mich., writes to a Plainfield friend that he is to be present at the laying of the cornerstone services of the First Reformed church, Grandville, Mich., a growing suburb of Grand Rapids, Tuesday afternoon, August 31.

Since going away, Mr. Broek has been doing a little mission work. He was instrumental in purchasing for the Grandville church the pipe organ now in use in the First Reformed church, Somerville. It is to make way for a larger instrument in the Somerville church. On Sunday Mr. Broek will preach in Trinity Refromed church, Grand Rapids. In commenting on this fact, he says that "it sounds so much like Plainfield that I could not turn it down."

In reference to the laying of the corner-stone of the church at Grandville, Mr. Broek says that he promised to attend, and the church arranged the services so that he and his brother, Rev. Albertus Broek, of Newark, could be present. He adds that he is enjoying his vacation and expects to be in his pulpit at Trinity Reformed church on Sunday, September 5.

Miss Boylan a Fall Bride.

Mr. and Mrs. J. M. Boylan, of Regent street, announce the engagement of their daughter, Miss Mildred Boylan, to John Ammerman, of Mountain avenue. The marriage will take place in the early fall. Mr. Ammerman is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Addis Ammerman.

Visitation Date Changed.

The date of the fraternal visit of Plainfield Lodge, No. 885, B. P. O. E., to Dover lodge has been changed from Thursday, September 2, to Wednesday, September 1. The local Elks, to the number of about fifty, will make the trip by automobiles.

NEIGHBORS' ROW AIRED IN THE POLICE COURT

A West End delegation of Russian folk thronged the city court-room today when Mrs. Harry Cohen lodged a complaint against Mrs. Fanny Mutrick's twelve-year-old son Joseph, who yesterday threw a stone through her window as a means of avenging corporal punishment of his little sister by a member of the Cohen family.

The lineup at the bar of justice comprised Mr. and Mrs. Cohen, an interpreter, their colored washerwoman, Mrs. Cohen, her son and daughter, their interpreter and an obliging neighbor. With the exception of the two interpreters, all talked at once. The Mutricks live upstairs over the Cohens, on West Third street. The families may be called neighborly only in point of contiguity.

Like the old woman who lived in a shoe, Mrs. Mutrick believes she has too many children, according to her statement in court. Mrs. Cohen's home also looks like the Gerry Society's rooms when all the children are at home. The youngsters inherit the neighborly feelings of their parents. Judge Runyon braved the foreign jargon for about a half hour, and then declared that both parties were at fault, and suspended sentence all round, with the suggestion that hostilities cease.

FOUNTAINS SHUT OFF IN FEAR OF GLANDERS

Assistant Health Officer John O'Brien has shut off the fountains in five places in this city owing to the prelaence of glanders in Newark, which has increased to an alarming extent during the past few days. The health department of Newark has lost all control over the spread of the disease and in order to prevent its spread to this city extraordinary precautions are being taken.

David D. Chandler, the Newark Health Officer, has notified Mr. O'Brien that it will be dangerous to keep the fountains running as at any moment an infected horse may start the disease here. Once started it will be a difficult matter to prevent the spread of glanders. Horse owners are advised to use their own pails for watering their horses while out of the city and to be careful that the feed bags used are those in use in their own stables. In any event it is hazardous to use any pails or feed bags belonging to any stable other than those used in the home stables. The disease is causing the deaths of ten or a dozen horses a day in Newark.

The fountains to be shut off are located as follows: West Front street near Grant avenue; West Second street near New street; Liberty street near West Third; Muhlenberg place corner of South Second and West Eighth at the City Park.

POSTMASTER HOME FROM BIG CONVENTION

Postmaster Elias H. Bird has returned from Toledo, Ohio, where last week he attended the annual convention of the National Association of Postmasters. He was the only postmaster from New Jersey at the gathering and he cannot speak too highly of the courtesies extended and the good time he had. While in Toledo he witnessed the laying of the corner-stone of the new postoffice building in that city. Postmaster-General Frank Hitchcock was in charge of the exercises.

There was reported 398 first-class postoffices in the United States, and there were present 278 postmasters, including the officials from Washington. Mr. Bird says that much good resulted from the convention in the way of new ideas presented for the benefit of the association. He returned home by the way of Detroit and Buffalo.

Referring to the enterprise of the western cities, Mr. Bird says that in many respects they are far ahead of eastern cities. This he said was particularly true as to trolley service, electric lighting and hotels. One night he counted twenty-nine arc lights on one block in Toledo. As to trolley service he says it is possible to reach every point quickly and the cars of the most modern type are operated frequently.

Mr. Gaffney is a popular reporter on the Courier-News and has many friends as has his bride. Mr. and Mrs. Gaffney will reside in this city.

NEW 1910 HUDSON CAR ARRIVED

The Hudson "20" on exhibition at the salesroom of Andrew C. Thompson Automobile Co. is attracting an unusual amount of attention. This little car shows many features, which heretofore has been found only in very high priced cars, naturally the first thing the visitor wants to see is the motor, and the designer of the Hudson car is particularly proud of this part of the machine.

The Hudson motor is of the Renault type; it has a stroke of 4½ inches, which is long in proportion to the bore which is 3¾. The European designers are fast adopting the long stroke motor, and the Hudson people claim it possesses many advantages which should recommend it to the average owner.

The spring suspension of the Hudson follows the practice used on the majority of the high priced cars, being semi-elliptic in front and ¾ elliptic in rear. The springs seem to be unusual long and heavy and capable of supporting much more weight than they will ever be called upon to carry.

Mr. Thompson says everyone is very enthusiastic about the little car, and the only difficulty is going to be in getting enough cars to supply the demand. ***

JOHN MOTTLEY WEDS MISS MARY E. SMITH

An elaborate wedding was celebrated in St. Bernard's R. C. church at Raritan this afternoon at 4 o'clock when Miss Mary E. Smith, the eldest daughter of Mrs. Catharine Smith, of First avenue, Raritan, became the bride of John Mottley, the youngest son of Mrs. Mary Mottley, of Richmond street, this city.

Rev. Father J. J. Zimmer, pastor of St. Bernard's church performed the ceremony. The altar was prettily decorated with cut flowers, palms and ferns. The church was filled with the friends and relatives of the couple.

The bride was given away by her brother, William J. Smith Promptly at 4 o'clock the bride entered the church leaning on the arm of her brother, preceded by the ushers and bridesmaid. Edward F. Purcell, of Raritan, presided at the organ and as the bridal procession passed up the aisle the strains of Mendelssohn's wedding march were heard.

The bride was attired in mousseline satin, trimmed with rose point lace and chiffon and wore a large picture hat to match and carried a bouquet of bridal roses and lillies of the valley. Miss Katharine C. Moran, of Arlington, was the bridesmaid. She was gowned in a lace robe over taffeta and also wore a picture hat and carried a bouquet of pink asters.

J. C. Callahan, of this city was best man. The ushers were Frank A. Cook, of Raritan, a cousin of the bride, and James P. Mottley, a cousin of the groom, of this city. In an exchange of gifts, the bride presented the groom with a gold ring set with rubies, while the groom's gift to the bride was a piano. The bridesmaid received a gold bracelet from the bride and the groom presented gold stick pins to the ushers.

A reception followed the ceremony and a sumptuous wedding dinner was served at the home of the bride's mother. The music was furnished by the Crescent Orchestra augmented in the evening by the Crescent Cornet band. A splendid musical program being rendered in the evening.

The newly wedded pair left on a late train for Philadelphia, from where they will visit Washington, D. C., Old Point Comfort, Va., and Atlantic City. They will reside at the groom's newly prepared home on Richmond and East Third streets, where Mr. Mottley is in business.

Repairing Brick Pavement.

Street Commissioner Gavett's men are gradually completing the repairs to the brick pavement in the business section of the city. Possibly, the worst spots are to be found on Park avenue, between North avenue and Second street, where large cracks have developed in the pavement. The cost of this work will come out of the money withheld by the city from Contractor C. M. Meeker for repairs. A sufficient sum was held back to cover this work.

FATHER BOGAN RETURNS

Delightful Trip Abroad Ends This Morning—Welcomed by Ringing of Bells.

"THERE'S NO PLACE LIKE HOME"

Some of the Incidents of the Voyage, Celebrates Twenty-fourth Anniversary of Ordination.

Rev. Father Bernard M. Bogan, rector of St. Mary's church, returned this morning at about 10 o'clock and his coming was heralded by the ringing of the church bell, which no doubt as Father Bogan says, "Startled the vicinity and my parishioners." Father Bogan looks as well as he say he feels, but when seen by the Press reporter was awfully hungry. "This morning," he said, "I ordered a steak from my steward for breakfast and he brought me one that needed a hammer to straighten it out. This circumstance accounts for my hunger.

Rev. B. M. Bogan.

"We had a delightful trip home of six and a half days and the congenial company made the voyage all the more enjoyable. This was my first trip abroad and I can assure you that every minute was crowded with pleasure for me, except perhaps when in Italy they tried to make me a street cleaning commissioner by throwing me out of my carriage and making me clean up the street with my clothing.

"I was in the company of Archbishop Farley when he was tendered a reception by Cardinal Logue, who became so friendly with John D. Rockefeller when the eminent prelate made his famous visit to this country. The reception took place in Ireland, at Kingstown, and was an interesting as well as an enjoyable function. In fact it was one of the most enjoyable incidents of the trip. We found the Cardinal just as lovable and hospitable as ever.

"At a special audience I had with His Holiness, Pius X, I was authorized to bestow the Apostolic benediction on the congregation of St. Mary's. While in Southern Italy I had the pleasure of visiting the former home of Marion Crawford, the novelist and Amalfi, the beautiful. I found these places so attractive that I was loath to leave them, but after all, there is no place like home.

"Rome I found to be modern in all its various phases and quite different from what my imagination had led me to expect. There I attended the banquet given by the alumni of the American College which was given in honor of the fiftieth anniversary of its founding. On board the Carpathia, the boat on which I sailed in May, quite a celebration was given in my honor the occasion being the twenty-fourth anniversary of my ordination as a priest. This happened on May 30, while we were passing the Azores.

When asked whether he had gained any weight Father Bogan said that the only wait he had was at Glasnevon, Ireland, where he had to cool his heels waiting for a tram car which never came. Speaking of the famous places in France, particularly the old churches, he said that as a matter of fact the only thing they could boast of was their antiquity and their beauty. As for progressiveness they are not to be compared with the churches here.

Father Bogan described the ring presented by the Pope to Archbishop Farley as a most beautiful gem and it was the admiration of all the priests in the company. As to the rumor that Archbishop Farley was to be made a Cardinal, Father Bogan said it was only a rumor, as those astute men in the Vatican are not given to divulging the inner secrets of the Holy See.

Fathers Hogan and Sciola will now be given a vacation while Father Bogan takes up the duties of the parish.

Great Fur Buying Enthusiasm

Only a Few More Days—Sales are bounding ahead of all previous sales; furs, like diamonds, must be bought on faith unless you are an expert. People believe in our furs, because of a twelve years acquaintance at special August sales with growing success has proved every excellence and made certain all that we claim.

In this broad, choice range there is perfect selection that makes satisfaction doubly assured. The low prices have even set some people doubting. The fact that the furs are here is proof of the good character, and the exceedingly low prices prevailing now. Heed what a large New York furrier says as to what the new tariff means to fur buyers later.

OWING TO THE 35% TARIFF WHICH MEANS AN INCREASE OF 15% AFFECTING NEAR SEAL, HUDSON SEAL, CARACUL AND SQUIRREL WE HAVE TO RAISE THE PRICE OF GARMENTS ABOVE MENTIONED 15%. WILL, HOWEVER, DELIVER EVERYTHING ACCORDING TO OUR AGREEMENT AS BOOKED DURING YOUR AUGUST SALE.

This proves our business foresight in booking sufficiently in advance in such large quantities as to ward off all price advances. The benefit is yours in this greatest of all great fur sales, with the additional raise of 15%, the price savings exceed what we have already offered. An actual money saving of more than 1-4 to 1-3 on prices that you will be compelled to pay in the regular fur season. A reasonable deposit secures your choice until December 1st. In the interval you can pay a little at a time, just as you feel you can spare the cash. In the meantime we will store furs free of charge until paid in full. Sales are bounding ahead of all previous records and comment is unanimous that L. S. Plaut & Co.'s is surely the place for dependable furs.

Washburn, who was recently released by Manager Dorflinger of the Plainfield Baseball Club, played a fast game at short, but in the last two or three contests developed a weakness that proved disastrous to the team's chances.

When Scotch Plains lines up against Plainfield at Crescent Oval, Saturday, there will surely be something doing. These clubs are very evenly matched and it is a toss up as to who will win. Johnson, who formerly pitched for the Brooklyn, Atlantic League club, will oppose "Warry" MacLaughlin and that will mean a pitcher's battle for sure.

It is rather remarkable that while the Plainfield Baseball Club has been able to defeat Scotch Plains, this season, it cannot turn the trick on Rahway, while the 'Plains boys have been putting the kibosh on Rahway every time the teams meet.

Fred Tenney, the Giants' first baseman, is again suffering with a lame heel. He will probably have to put the foot in a plaster cast for about ten days.

A serious question just now is whether the Bostons or the Washingtons will be the first team to lose one hundred games.

Recruit Cole, of the White Sox, is breaking into fast company with a crash of hits. He slammed the New York pitchers for four bingles in two games.

Hal. Chase, who has been out of the game owing to an injury, expects to join the Yankees in Detroit. The team's best inside workers are missing with he and Elberfield both out of the game.

It seems that while the Boston club on June 28 gave Ritchey ten days notice of unconditional release, notice of the same was not received by President Heydler at National League headquarters.

GOLF.

In all probability the national amateur championship tournament of the United States Golf Association will be decided this year without the presence of the title holder. Jerome D. Travers, winner of the event at Garden City last September, and at Cleveland in 1907, stated at his home in Montclair last night that he doubted if he would be able to attend the tournament at Wheaton the week of September 6.

Travers has not been in the best of health ever since he returned from abroad, and, for that matter, his only competitive appearance since then was at the national open championship over the Englewood course in June. Although absent from the links for so long, the champion says that a week's practice would be sufficient to get him on his game again. He does not care, however, to take the long journey West unless he can do himself justice, but he does not intend to make a final decision in the matter for a week or so.

It is generally regarded that this year's championship will prove one of the best in the history of the game on this side of the Atlantic, more especially as the chances are bright for some foreign entrants. The Chicago district will be represented by its full strength, while the cream of the Pittsburg section will also be there. Thus far it is impossible to fortell how many will go on from Philadelphia, Boston and New York.

Alec Smith, champion of the Eastern Professional Golfers' Association, is as busy as a bee at Wykagyl just now. He managed to get away for a few days recently, playing several exhibition rounds over the Maplewood and Bretton Woods courses. During his stay in the mountains Smith developed rare form, as may be judged from the fact that out of half a dozen eighteen-hole rounds his card never showed a total worse than 70. In fact, with one exception all his rounds were below that figure.

After a vacation of a couple of weeks Dave Hunter, the Essex County Country Club "pro," is back again at the old stand. Dave is enthusiastic over the condition of the Hutton Park course, especially the greens, and he attributes the improvement to a new kind of fertilizer he has been using of late. Hunter has begun preparation for the Metropolitan open championship tournament.

It is like old times to see W. C. Freeman and Paul Wilcox playing again at Montclair. After the former changed his place of residence from Montclair to Brooklyn he confined his playing to occasional rounds at Dyker Meadow and Fox Hills, but he joined the New Jersey organization again recently. Incidentally, Freeman is playing a good game, and on more than one occasion he has given Tom Anderson, the professional, plenty to do. Wilcox's long absence from active playing was due to ill health, which is much improved now. He also is playing at the top of his game.

Devotees of the game who attend the Metropolitan open championship tournament at Wykagyl next month will not see the genial George Low, winner of the title at Hollywood a few years ago. The reason is that the Baltusrol professional has at last decided to get married, and it so happens that the dates for the two affairs conflict. The future Mrs. Low is, as the professional tells it, "a Scotch lassie."

OPPOSES NEW BRIDGE AT WASHINGTON AVE.

Discussing the probability of the improvement of the county line bridge on Washington avenue, a member of the Somerset County Board of Freeholders said today that it had been decided that the structure is altogether too valuable to throw away and there is no other place in the county where it can be used at present. It has been suggested that by strengthening the girders it would be possible to replace the present plank flooring with one of concrete. This could be done at little expense in comparison to a new structure.

The freeholders have entirely abandoned the custom of building bridges with a wooden flooring. They now see the folly of this in the Sycamore avenue, Grove street and Washington avenue structures. It is believed that the Grove street bridge will require attention before the one on Washington avenue, and there is no doubt but that arrangements will be made by the freeholders of both counties to repair them with concrete.

It is now recognized that the daily traffic of autos, horses and carriages over the county line bridges here is increasing at a rapid rate and something must be done to lessen the repairs each year. It is agreed that even if costs a little more at the outset, it is by far the cheapest in the long run and meets with the approval of the taxpayers.

At Proctor's.

"Romany Prince," the hypnotist, again entertained a capacity audience at Proctor's theatre, last night. Seven young men offered themselves as subjects for the hypnotist, and furnished lots of fun for the audience. He will close his engagement here tonight. The rest of the bill is fine. Tomorrow and for the rest of the week the new bill will include Mlle. Mabel and her performing animals, including dogs and a big baboon, introducing the airship monkey; Jack Lyle, black face comedian and Donnelly & Ratah, comedians.

PEACE CONFERENCE COMES TO A CLOSE

The Universal Peace Union and the Connecticut Christian Peace Society have just concluded their annual conference at Mystic, Conn. A "Memorial Hour" was held on Monday during which appropriate tributes were rendered in honor of deceased members. One speaker, Francis Gallagher, made special reference to John Hutchinson, who recently died, and who was the last survivor of the famous Hutchinson signers and musicians, so well remembered by Plainfielders.

It was stated that during sixty-three years he gave twelve thousand concerts. He was born in Milford, N. H., January 4, 1821, and died during the present year.

He was the eleventh son of Jesse and Mary Hutchinson.

One of the verses of their song, "The Old Granite State," braced the children's names as follows:

"David, Noah, Andrew Zeppy,
Caleb, Joshua, Jesse, Benny,
Judson, Rhoda, John and Asia,
And Abby are our names."

All the children were singers, but those who won the most renown were Judson, John, Asa and Abby, who made up the famous quartette. Their first appearance was on Thanksgiving Day, 1839, when they all took part in the concert in a Baptist church. They visited various sections of the country, including Rhode Island, and in 1845-46 visited Europe, meeting everywhere with uninterrupted success and arousing the greatest enthusiasm.

Music formed a large and attractive part of their service, the singers being skilled in the use of various instruments, including the piano, organ, guitar, violin, violincello and melodeon. It is well said of them, "the harmony of this band was never surpassed by mortal throats. It moved to tears, it reached into the solemn depths of the soul; it was God-given and heaven inspired."

Especially when it is remembered that never in a single song did they stoop to the utterance of a vulgar or debasing word. Their music was pitched to the tune of humanity. They sang on the side of human rights. They gave a voice to the wants of weary, wayside hearts. They chanted the gospel of universal emancipation.

Members of the Hutchinson family, including John Wallace, sang in the Army of the Potomac before the proclamation of emancipation by President Lincoln, when some of our leading civil and military leaders did not care that songs of freedom and emancipation should be sung. They were urged to continue the singing by no less a personage than the beloved President Lincoln, who had gladly and with profit listened to their songs, not only in Springfield, but also in the White House at Washington.

It will be of interest to many who in the early days, and especially while in the Union Army during the Civil War, were entertained and inspired by the presence and service of the Hutchinson family to be informed that even to the time of his death John's songs rang out with much of the old time enthusiasm, especially when he sang, accompanied by Mrs. Hutchinson, also a noted singer and musician.

"God bless our land
From sea to sea;
May all its years of joy increase,
Strife, hate and war forever cease.
And down the ages yet to be Around its brow bind fair and free
The trophied victories of peace."

SEWING MACHINE COLLECTOR A VICTIM OF AN ASSAULT.

Henry Gaither, a collector for the local branch of the Singer Sewing Machine Company, was forceably ejected from the apartments of Nancy Shelton, colored, of West Third street, by Oscar Jenkins, her cousin, on Monday afternoon, when he went to see the woman about payments on a sewing machine, which she has had for five years. Gaither, who lives on Somerset street, swore out a warrant against the man and woman yesterday and the pair were arraigned before Judge William N. Runyon this morning, when Jenkins was fined $5, while sentence was suspended on Nancy.

The woman was entertaining company when the collector came to urge a payment. Words were exchanged and Nancy attempted to put Gaither out. The disturbance aroused Jenkins, who was asleep in an adjoining room, and he came out and ejected the sewing machine man, with many threats and some profanity, it is said.

UNION VILLAGE CHURCH FAIR A BIG SUCCESS.

The peach festival held last night under the auspices of the Ladies' Aid Society of the Methodist church at Union Village, was a decided social and financial success. The grounds were brilliantly illuminated by Japanese lanterns, the many booths and stands were splendidly decorated with the national colors and there were seats and tables provided to accommodate everyone.

The "cabbage patch" was a decided innovation and the children especially dipped into Mrs. Wiggs' pasture time after time. The candy sold was made by the ladies of the village and all who tasted voted it of the best. Old and young enjoyed fishing in the "pond" and the prizes taken would dazzle those accustomed to fishing on other preserves.

The society of "Our Men" of Berkeley Heights was represented at the festival by a party of about fifty and their arrival there was heralded by the Lyceum yell.

"BUNGALOW MAN'S" DAUGHTER GET PRIZE BUNGALOW.

Miss Mildred Jeffery, the six-year-old daughter of William Jeffery, "The Bungalow Man," of Berkeley Heights, is now the owner of the bungalow built by the Master Builders' Association, which won first prize in industrial parade awards at the time of the Charter Day celebration. The little woman will be "at home" in the tiny bungalow after this week.

"The Bungalow Man," who recently closed a deal for the prize-winning house, arranged today for its removal to Berkeley Heights, where it will be placed near his home. A "bungalow warming" is planned, at which Berkeley Heights little people will be the guests of Mr. Jeffery's only daughter.

Sunday will be known as "Women's Day" at the Shiloh Baptist church. Rev. Mr. Garris, of Newark, will preach both morning and night, at 11 and 8 o'clock. All officers' wives are requested to be present at these services.

FREEHOLDERS AWARD A BRIDGE CONTRACT

The Freeholders of Somerset and Morris counties have awarded the contract for the new bridge over the Passaic river at Smalleytown, the dividing line between the counties, to the Dover Boiler Works, the bid being $1,887. These figures are unusually low for such work and are considered most advantageous. William T. Kirk's bid was about $150 higher, while Arthur E. Smith's figures were about $200 more than those of the successful bidder.

The bridge will be constructed of concrete and iron and will have a span of eighty-eight feet. There will be a centre pier of solid concrete. There will be iron girders and concrete floor. The structure is on the road from Watchung to Stirling, the distance between the two points being about three miles. There remains about 1,800 feet to be improved to connect Somerset with Morris county and early next year this will be made a county thoroughfare.

With the completion of the road improvements at Blawenburg, Warrenville, and Greenbrook road in the borough, Somerset county will have about ninety-five miles if improved roads, the value of which cannot be estimated at present.

BYRNE'S DEATH RECALLS "MOREY LETTER" FORGERY.

Jersey City, Aug. 25.—Charles Alfred Byrne, journalist and playwright, who figured prominently in the Garfield campaign of 1880 as publisher of a newspaper, in which appeared the forged Morey letter, purporting to give General James A. Garfield's views on the Chinese question, died yesterday in St. Francis' Hospital, this city. He was taken ill Sunday at the Union House, in Brielle, where he was spending the summer with his wife. He was hurried to the hospital, and died shortly after an operation for appendicitis.

Byrne had a strenuous career as a publisher. Between 1875 and 1884 he started five publications, of which the most promising, financially, was called The Dramatic Mirror, and which lived a little more than three years.

In 1879 Byrne started a daily paper called Truth. In the Garfield-Hancock campaign he published in Truth what purported to be a letter from James A. Garfield to H. L. Morey, of Lynn, Mass., containing a paragraph to the effect that individuals or companies had the right to buy labor where they could get it the cheapest, and that the treaty with China should be religiously kept until the corporate interests were conserved in the matter of labor.

The letter was denounced by General Garfield as a forgery. Byrne and three men associated with him in the publication of the paper were arrested and indicted on a charge of forgery.

It was proved that no such person as "H. L. Morey" existed, and that the letter was forged for political purposes. Byrne and his associates were not prosecuted, and Truth soon afterward passed from Byrne's control.

Byrne started The Dramatic Times in 1881, The Evening Standard in 1883 and The Journalist in 1884, to none of which came any great measure of success. He then turned his attention to writing comic operas and plays. During the last two seasons he published two small papers called The Playgoer and Opera.

Byrne was born in London, England, and was educated in Brussels and Paris. His first wife was a comic opera singer named Norman. In 1904 she sued him for divorce. He later married Grace Belasco, who was mentioned in connection with his wife's suit for divorce, and who was with him at the time he died. They had no children.

WOMAN, HUSBAND KILLED, HAD BLAIRSTOWN SISTER.

Blairstown, Aug. 25.—Mrs. George L. Marion, who was shot and killed by her husband in the office of the chief of police at Wilkes-Barre, Pa., last week, was a sister of Mrs. Floyd Gariss, of this place. Marion worked on the Lackawanna Railroad's cut-off, and the woman came here about two weeks ago to keep house for Mrs. Gariss while the latter went to Canada to visit relatives. It was here Mrs. Marion met James Brooks, a locomotive fireman for the cut-off contractors.

In a short time the pair went away together, taking along the three-year-old Marion boy.

On August 13 they secured from the prothonotary at Stroudsburg, Pa., a marriage license. She gave her name as Frances Lee Marion and said she was a daughter of Amos and Anna M. Lee, of Chicago, Ill., and was twenty-nine years old; also that she had been married, but that her husband had died on February 27, 1908. Brooks stated that he was twenty-six years old and the son of Thomas and Esther Brooks, of Wilkes-Barre. On the afternoon of April 13 the man and woman were married by Rev. Karl von Krug, pastor of the East Stroudsburg Presbyterian church. They left later for Wilkes-Barre, where Brooks deserted the woman.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank H. Smith leave tomorrow morning for a brief visit with relatives at Westerly, R. I.

GOVERNOR MAY SAVE BOY FROM DEATH IN CHAIR.

Trenton, Aug. 25.—It is probable that when Governor Fort calls a special meeting of the members of the Court of Pardons next month, the death sentence of Walter Zeller, of Vineland, will be commuted to life imprisonment. Zeller is under a reprieve which saved him from paying the penalty several weeks ago of slaying his aged grandfather.

At the last meeting of the Court of Pardons commutation was refused because the members were almost unanimous in the opinion that the boy should suffer the death penalty. Governor Fort has never been in favor of interfering with death sentences, but it is understood that he has changed his mind relative to the Zeller case since the last meeting of the court, and it is expected that he will vote for commutation, and that his action will save the boy's life. In fact, State officials say the Executive would not have granted the reprieve if he did not intend to urge that Zeller be given life imprisonment.

TWO WOMEN KILLED BY SHORE EXPRESS TRAIN.

Westville, Aug. 25.—While crossing the tracks of the West Jersey and Seashore Railroad, at the South Westville station, Monday night, Mrs. Jane Frazier, of the latter place, and Mrs. Driscoll, seventy years old, of Thirteenth street and Girard avenue, Philadelphia, were instantly killed by an electric express train from Atlantic City. Their bodies, fearfully mangled, were taken to the Woodbury morgue, and Coroner Hunter is conducting an investigation.

Mrs. Frazier and her companion had gone to the station to catch the 9:30 train for Camden, and in some manner failed to see the rapidly approaching express, which runs at a speed of about fifty miles an hour at that point. Mrs. Driscoll, who was seventy years old, and a former nurse, had been visiting the home of Mrs. Frazier.

Compton Avenue About Finished.

The work of macadamizing Compton avenue is about completed and that thoroughfare is now being treated with a road oil preparation as a finishing touch. The avenue has been macadamized from curb to curb making it one of the best in the city. Prior to the improvement the street was one of the worst, especially in wet weather. Wagons have frequently been known to sink to the hubs and it was with difficulty that horses were able to get through.

LOCAL AMUSEMENTS.

The much heralded comedy fantasy, "In Dreamland," Emmett Devoy's latest and best effort, will be the attraction at the Plainfield theatre tonight. The story in brief is that of Bob Hammond, a complacent well-to-do young man of the present day. The first act takes place in the living room of the Hammond's fashionable uptown house. It is Emmett Devoy, Author and Star, of "In Dreamland," at Plainfield Theatre Tonight.

Mrs. Hammond's birthday and the young wife is very much piqued because her husband has forgotten that fact. To the annoyance of his wife and disgust of his mother-in-law, Hammond has a decided leaning towards spirtualism. His own creature comforts and confabs with visitors from the other world absorb him to the exclusion of everything else. He returns home filled with enthusiasm over a conclave of shades that is to take place that night. In consequence he declines to take part in some minor social affairs planned by his wife and is left to his own devices. Hammond falls asleep on a lounge and a spiritualistic seance begins in earnest. A daughter of Venus, the goddess of love, appears with a magic wand that deals out thunder and lightning with Jove-like power and the self-satisfied young man of the world is put through enough mental torture while "in dreamland" to bring about a thorough reformation.

"The Red Moon," Cole and Johnson's newest musical comedy offering, will be presented at the Plainfield theatre tomorrow night with magnificent stage settings, new and handsome costumes, special novelties in dancing introduced, clean and mirthful comedy. Not the least pleasing of the more substantial features in the new musical comedy are the lyrics provided by Bob Cole. They are of good form, fit well into the story of the piece and are lacking in neither humor nor rhythm. Their fitness in fact is one of the distinguishing features of the entertainment and is a vast improvement on the generally inappropriate interpolations made in the average musical entertainment. Cole and Johnson, the talented young colored stars, write, compose and stage their own comedies. A company of the cleverest of colored performers support the stars. Notably among them are Sam Lucas, Andrew Tribble, Theo. Pankey, Wesley Jenkins, Henry Gant, the sweet singers, Anna Cook, Fanny Wise, and the most winsome and charming of colored singers, Abbie Mitchell. A score of bright catchy song numbers and a chorus of fifty dusky belles are other features of the performance.

"The Parisian Model," headed by dainty and petite Grace Hazard, is an early booking at the Plainfield theatre for Saturday matinee and night. The comedy, the joint work of Messrs. Smith and Hoffman, has fulfilled the most lavish promises of the enthusiastic press agent. Capacity houses are the rule wherever the musical comedy is presented, and the many complimentary comments, of even the most conservative critics, have lured the public to a music play of the kind that makes it wish there were more of the variety. There is not a dull moment in the performance, and Julian Mitchell has surpassed his previous efforts in the attractiveness of the stage management. The costumes and settings defy improvement.

CURE YOUR KIDNEYS.

Do Not Endanger Life When a Plainfield Citizen Shows You the Cure.

Why will people continue to suffer the agonies of kidney complaint, backache, urinary disorders, lameness, headaches, languor, why allow themselves to become chronic invalids, when a certain cure is offered them?

Doan's Kidney Pills is the remedy to use, because it gives to the kidneys the help they need to perform their work.

If you have any, even one, of the symptoms of kidney diseases, cure yourself now, before diabetes, dropsy or Bright's disease sets in. Read this Plainfield testimony:

Mrs. M. Newman, 532 West Fifth street, Plainfield, N. J., says: "A constant pain in my limbs was the principal symptom of my kidney trouble. When I saw Doan's Kidney Pills advertised, I procured a box at Randolph's Pharmacy and soon after I began taking them, the pains in my limbs disappeared. I heartily recommend Doan's Kidney Pills."

For sale by all dealers. Price 50 cents. Foster-Milburn Co., Buffalo, New York, sole agents for the United States.

Remember the name—Doan's—and take no other.

SOME STATE NEWS BRIEFS

One of the signs of the waning summer is the presence of weakfish up Toms River in the partly brackish water.

Samuel Garwood, of Paulsboro, who was severely bitten by a dog last week, has endured much agony from the wounds, but it is expected that he will recover.

For expectorating upon women who refused to buy his goods, George Smith, a shoestring peddler, from Philadelphia, was committed for twenty days to the Burlington county jail from Mt. Holly.

The oyster catching season will open in Maurice River Cove on September 1. Oystermen are procuring permits from Superintendent Bacon to "try" their beds before the opening. The bivalves are reported to be in excellent condition.

Ray Brown, thirteen years old, while playing in the vicinity of his home, 969 East Twenty-third street, Paterson, was bitten on the left thigh by a dog. He walked to the General Hospital and had the wound cauterized.

The first glass-melting fire of the season was placed under the tank at the Millville Bottle Works, and the blowers and tending boys have been notified to be ready for work on September 7, when the entire plant will hum with industry.

Leaning out an engine cab window, Gerald Westcott, twenty-seven years old, of 1537 North Opal street, Philadelphia, a fireman on the Atlantic City Railroad, had his scalp badly lacerated when his head came into contact with a shed cornice.

In collision with a trolley car in King street, Gloucester City, Annie Leonard, six years old, of 415 Hudson street, was hurried to Cooper Hospital, Camden, where it was found that the little one had sustained bad body bruises and is probably injured internally.

An attempt to derail the Mantua trolley car, on the Public Service line, was frustrated yesterday. A rail was placed across the tracks at the foot of Cooper Hill. The car was loaded with passengers, but the motorman spied the obstruction in time to avert a calamity. An investigation is being made.

Falling about thirty feet from a scaffold, Ulysses Matthews, twenty-nine years old, of 731 Sycamore street, was believed to have been dangerously injured at the plant of the Campbell Preserving Company, in Camden, but at Cooper Hospital physicians found the man had escaped with sprains of the arms and right wrist.

Mrs. Horace Leigh, of Trenton, narrowly escaped death at her summer camp on the Delaware River, near Yardley, Sunday, when a bullet tore through the tent in which she was standing and passed within a few inches of her head. The missile also tore the canvass of an adjoining tent and narrowly missed Mrs. Leigh's young daughter. Efforts were made to ascertain by whom the bullet was fired, but without result.

After a vitriolic quarrel in Atlantic City Council last night between Councilman Riddle, of Chelsea, and Chairman Walter Buzby, of the Street Board, the Chelsea councilman, withdrew all offers he had made looking to the sale of the Knife and Fork Inn, at Pacific and Albany avenues, to the city for $30,000, in connection with the Albany avenue boulevard enterprise. During the debate Council was charged with rank extravagance in recent bitulithic paving awards.

Wilson J. Purvis' horse Noble is dead at the age of thirty-five years, and the children of Rosenhayn are talking of saving their pennies for a monument to his memory. This old animal was distinguished for his love for children. For years the horse was allowed to roam the streets in the evening to take his head down and allow the children to crawl up his neck to his back while others were busy climbing up by the tail route, then he would walk around until all had a good ride.

The Paterson police were notified last night that a child was being neglected at the house at 16 Broadway, and Captain Taylor sent Colonel Shelby and Mrs. McCann, the matron at the police station, to investigate. They found a seven-month-old baby, barely clothed, on a porch with a couple of women. They were told that the child belonged to Mrs. Eliza Beattie, a servant, who lived there. The child was brought to the police station, and later Mrs. McCann took it to the almshouse, where it will be cared for. Later Mrs. Beattie called at police headquarters and asked about the child. Captain Taylor gave her a lecture and decided to hold her on a complaint of neglecting her child.

Finding and Losing.

In the newspaper, my children, are eleven advertisements of something lost as against one lonely advertisement of something found. What does it signify? That finding is a dozen times rarer than losing, to be sure. Certainly, after two thousand years of the Sermon on the Mount, it isn't possible that people who find are so much less anxious to rush into print than are people whose lose.—Puck.

MY LADY OF THE ROSES

By Richard King

"Bewitching." Yes, that was the word which best expressed her. "Bewitching. Absolutely bewitching."

Waving masses of nut-brown hair held together Grecian fashion in bands of gold and arranged becomingly with all that apparent carelessness which bespoke a first-rate coiffeur; pretty, piquant, somewhat indefinite, features set in a face whose contour was a perfect oval; the dearest little rosebud mouth, all pouts and infectious laughter.

As it so happened, the table where she and her companion were seated stood in close proximity to our own, though from where I was sitting I had an absolutely uninterrupted view of them both, while Shiela, who was with me, was placed with her back turned towards them—which, after all, was just as it should be, seeing women never can understand these things.

So, you see, I was wise in not telling Shiela anything about the lovely creature sitting opposite me. For one thing, because she would not have understood, and for another thing, the fair stranger and myself had carried on our language-of-the-eye love affair so well that in spite of the distance between us, and a huge bowl of crimson and white roses placed upon her table nearly hiding her from my sight, when she raised her glass of champagne to her lips she looked at me lovingly over the brim and deliberately smiled.

The note I scribbled to my lovely vis-a-vis was the absurdest thing in the world. Yet now, as I look back upon the incident, it strikes me as being wonderfully discreet for a man whose friends imagine his whole life to be made up of blunders.

"In the dead of night," I wrote, "the world is full of ghosts—restless beings seeking happiness and repose. Should there be hope for one of them to-night, take from the bowl of roses in front of you a crimson rose; if, however, there is no hope, then take a white one."

I saw the waiter slip the note into her lap. I saw her unfold it under shadow of the table, and I saw her read it and double it up, slipping it quickly into the jeweled satchel at her side; and then, all on the tiptoe of excitement, I waited impatiently for her to act as I desired. Yet, for a long time, she did absolutely nothing at all but look about her, and I was in despair lest some wording of my letter should have given offense. Then, suddenly, in a supremely quiet way, as if the most natural thing in the world, she stretched out her hand towards the roses in front of her. She must have known that my eyes were upon her, devouring her every movement; she must have heard, too, the beating of my heart, for she tantalizingly played, first with a white rose and then with a red one, until I could have almost cried out in the agony of suspense. At last, just as the tension was becoming well-nigh unbearable, she suddenly broke off the reddest among the red roses and fastened it carelessly to the front of her corsage over her heart.

Then, indeed, I was happy. Then indeed, I felt at last that life was worth living, and that if this world was not exactly as happy as heaven, it at least had moments that all the pleasures of paradise could not surpass.

In the middle of my perplexity I saw my lady of the roses and her companion rise from their seats. I observed, too, the covert looks of admiration that she excited among the onlookers by all the graceful suppleness of her superb figure.

As she moved forward, gathering her beautiful wraps around her, our eyes for one brief delirious moment met in perfect understanding. I saw the beautifully-molded arm and the pearl-tipped fingers that I so longed to grasp, and I saw, to my utter astonishment and dismay, that, as she passed my table, she unpinned the rose fastened to her corsage and crumpled it up, disdainfully, scattering its crimson petals at my feet.

I had hardly recovered from my mortification when, on looking up with the greatest effort at complete indifference I have ever striven after in my life, I found to my dismay, that the lovely lady of the roses and her companion had suddenly disappeared.

The only thing that anyone was able to tell me was that they had both casually entered the hotel, taken dinner in the restaurant, and disappeared directly afterward. Beyond that, all was enveloped in inpenetrable mystery. In fact, I never saw either of them again, though it is true that a few days afterward, I learned she had returned the next day, asked some leading questions concerning myself from the manager of the hotel, and had gone away again immediately. The only definite information they could give me was that she had driven up in a magnificent motor car upon which a coronet was emblazoned; that she had every appearance of being a lady of the greatest fashion, and that her evident embarrassment had caused a certain amount of curiosity as to the object of her visit among the personnel of the hotel. And this circumstance explains somewhat the odd telegram that I received some weeks later. It was dispatched from a fashionable European watering place, and ran as follows: "If you were here with me to-night—you and I alone—I should not scatter crimson roses at your feet, but we would gather and cherish them together."

COL. MARGERUM IS WIZARD OF FAIRS.

How Trenton Interstate Fair Was Made of National Fame.

Progressive and liberal in its policy, magnificent in its plan and scope and perfect in its countless details, the great Interstate Fair at Trenton, N. J., has developed in the past ten years, under the guidance of its secretary, Colonel M. R. Margerum, until it has won by right of its irresistible enterprise a place that is second only to the national expositions. The fame of the Trenton fair is a matter for comment from Maine to California—its astonishing success in the past is a topic of absorbing interest.

Although 2,000,000 persons have visited the Interstate Fair, few of that vast throng have comprehended the magnitude of the exposition and what it has cost in time, thought, money and labor to create such a giant of industry, instruction, entertainment and amusement.

The Interstate Fair track embraces 120 acres of valuable land, on which have been erected more than fifteen acres of buildings.

This year it will cost at least $75,000 to make the fair, and the employment of 400 persons will be necessary before the gates can be opened Monday morning, Sept. 27.

The number of exhibitors this fall will reach the grand total of 4,000—in every sense a record breaker and so greatly in excess of the number of exhibitors listed for any other fair in the United States for 1909 as to make comparison impossible.

Between eight and nine acres will be occupied this fall by the display of machinery and farming implements. Except at the St. Louis national exposition, there has never before in the history of this country been such a remarkable array of all that is new, novel and interesting in this line.

The man who is responsible for this splendid enterprise, who has given it such prestige that Trenton is proud to be its home, is just the sort of man one would select for big things. Secretary Margerum was one of Trenton's leading business men before he accepted the responsible position of directing the Interstate Fair. He had made good in everything he had undertaken, and it needed a man of his strength and striking personality to get behind the fair and lift it out of the stagnant pool into which it had fallen.

In addition to his work with the big fair, Mr. Margerum is president of the People's Brewing company, general manager of the Windsor hotel, treasurer of the Mercer Bottling company and a prominent factor in several other prosperous enterprises.

Former Governor Stokes honored Mr. Margerum by appointing him on his personal staff, and he is still one of the most popular officers in the New Jersey national guard.

The day after the 1908 fair closed Secretary Margerum began working for this year's fair, and this rapid fire method will give the best impression of how he has built up the unrivaled Trenton fair.

TRENTON A DOG MECCA.

State Fair's Kennel Club Bench Show in September.

Under the auspices of the Interstate Fair Kennel club one of the most noteworthy dog shows of the season will be conducted Wednesday and Thursday, Sept. 29 and 30, with James Watson of Hackensack as the manager.

Mr. Watson is so well known as a promoter of bench exhibits that it is hardly necessary to say much as to his qualifications. He has been closely connected with every successful show in the past ten years, and he will put all of this experience into the work of making the Interstate show the best of his career.

The directors of the fair have decided to make the dog show free to all patrons of the fair. In former years an extra admission was always charged for this attraction, but this will be done away with this fall.

Mr. Watson has been going the rounds of all the big dog shows for the past two months with most gratifying results. He feels assured of at least 800 entries for the Interstate event, which will make it one of the leaders of the year for the United States.

County Board Makes Appointments for Constitutional Election.

SOLVE A LOCAL MUDDLE.

City Clerk Must Furnish Books for Newly Created District Here.

The Union County Board of Registration and Elections at a meeting at the Court House, Elizabeth, yesterday afternoon announced the complete list of district election officers for the special constitutional election to be held on Tuesday, September 14. A number of vacancies were filled on the district boards and arrangements were made to enable the local boards to make their registry. For this purpose, the county board will lend its registry books of the last general election to the district boards and will have the use of the county clerk's books for this election.

Belated formal notification on the party of the city clerk of Plainfield to the county clerk of a change in the election districts in the Second ward since the last election, has left the new third district without any new registry books. Before the county clerk had received notice, the Secretary of State had supplied to him all the material for the election boards. MRS. ELIZABETH DONOVON FOUND DEAD IN BED.

Mrs. Elizabeth Jane Donovon, for forty years a resident of this city, was found dead in bed this morning by her daughter, Miss Elizabeth Donovan. She was fifty-eight years of age.

Mrs. Donovon was about as usual yesterday, and seemed in her customary good health. Death is supposed to have been caused by heart trouble. Born in Bucks county, Pennsylvania, she came to this city when a girl, and is well known to many local people. Surviving her are a son, George, and four daughters, Mrs. Dudley Fisher, of Newark, and the Misses Elizabeth, Nora and Theresa Donovon, of this city.

James Mair Recovers.

James Mair, of North Plainfield, who was injured in an automobile accident about two weeks ago, breaking several ribs, was discharged from Muhlenberg hospital, yesterday. Mr. Mair was returning home one night with J. A. Staats in the latter's machine, when there was a collison with a team of mules owned by J. D. Loizeaux. Mr. Mair was thrown out and one of the mules was injured to such an extent that it had to be shot.

TEMPORARILY DERANGED, HE COMMITS SUICIDE

John Borngasser, a farmer living near Belle Mead, committed suicide Tuesday night by shooting himself in the head with a combination rifle and shotgun. Borngasser was released from the Somerset County Jail at Somerville Tuesday afternoon at the request of his wife.

Borngasser recently sold for $1,800 the farm which he bought a year ago for $2,700. He sold the property to a Bayonne man on Sunday. He became conscience stricken at having done business on Sunday and worried over his act until his mind became unbalanced.

He lived with his wife and child and his sister on the farm. He acted so strangely a few days ago that his wife caused him to be committed to the county jail for examination as to his sanity. Mrs. Borngasser on Monday induced the man who had bought the farm to consent to its transfer to its originl owner on condition that Borngasser refund $100 which he had paid him to bind the bargain.

Mrs. Borngasser communicated the news to her husband with the hope that it would quiet his mind and lead to his recovery. It seemed to, and he was released. He drove twelve miles across country to his home, and almost at once on his arrival he became violently insane and drove everybody out of the house. As they stood outside they heard the report of a gun. Borngasser's sister ran into the house and found that her brother had killed himself.

PRESS READERS—ATTENTION.

The Drake Business Colleges of New York and New Jersey are managed by experienced, wide-awake school men. The management of the Plainfield Drake College recently adopted this form of advertising for the Fall Term. The idea introduced by this school apparently met with the approval of other business colleges, as it is now being imitated. However, we present herewith, kind reader, a few more points of superiority which we believe worthy of the earnest consideration.

A year ago, this college employed the services of a prominent young Plainfielder to give lectures on Business Law to the students of the Day School. The work has proved very interesting and advantageous to the student. Among the principal subjects taken up are Bills and Notes, Partnerships, Contracts, Agencies, Real and Personal Property and Corporations. The student is impressed with the value of fully understanding the details of any contract he may be a party to. The commitment of definitions are not deemed essential but the student is taught a proper view point of the law by a general introduction to the same and its practical application in ordinary business life. Business men often lose through an imperfect knowledge of business law. Unfortunately they realize too late the truth of the maxim, "Ignorance of the law is an excuse for no one." The Drake College insists, therefore, that the course be practical in its application. No other business college in this vicinity teaches this important subject.

The college is also equipped with some of the most modern and valuable office appliances in use in the large business houses. It recently installed the cabinet system of letter filing, combined with a Rapid Roller Copier, an appliance which makes a neat copy of a typewritten letter, cuts it any desired length and perforates the copy for filing purposes in the cabinet. This work can now be done in a few seconds without soiling the hands and with practically no exertion to the operator. The school is also equipped with one of the new Edison Oscillating Mimeographs, a machine which prints over 500 letters an hour. Drake College leads in the equipment of office appliances. If you desire a "thorough business training" attend a college which is equipped to give you thorough instruction in the use of all office appliances, as well as teaching business and shorthand.

When you attend a Drake School you may be assured of the following facts: (1) You will receive the most thorough and complete business training to be secured in Plainfield; (2) Your course will take the least time; (3) You will secure the same at the least expense. (4) You will have the influence of the largest and most progressive chain of business colleges in the State of New Jersey. (5) You will not be out of employment while competent to do office work.

We are daily getting requests for our new catalogue from readers of this paper. In one hour Wednesday we received four enrollments. Have you investigated? Fall term opens Monday morning, August 30.

SOLD STOLEN RAGS TO SEE MOVING PICTURES

The desire to go to a moving picture show last night overwhelmed Joseph Mutnick and Charles Garfinkle, two West Third street boys not yet in their 'teens, and because their combined capital amounted to two cents, they stole some junk from Bernard Epstein, a neighbor junkman, and disposed of it to a rival junkman. With the twenty cents net proceeds passed in to the playhouse and watched the flims roll for two solid hours.

Despite the fact that the two cents had been given to Epstein's little son as hush money, the junkman found out that thirty pounds of rags and five rubbers had been stolen. No satisfaction could be gained from the boys' parents, so they were brought before Judge Runyon at the city court this morning.

The confession in court was complete, although Joseph, who was the stone-thrower in the recent Cohen-Mutnick family feud, and was in court yesterday to answer this charge, ducked all blame at today's hearing. He said that he didn't want to go to the moving picture show, but that Charles "made him." It developed that the idea originated with Joseph. The junkman didn't want to press the charge, but Judge Runyon felt that a dollar would be a fairer recompense for thirty pounds of rags and five rubbers, and he ordered that each boy give Epstein fifty cents before 9 o'clock tomorrow morning. This was appreciated as a punishment, and the lads left court together in haste to earn the money.

HELP IS NEEDED FOR ANNUAL FREE OUTING

The free outing to be given to the poor on Labor Day by the local corps of the Salvation Army is progressing favorably and by the middle of next week will be near completion. The many charitably disposed people of this city are responding freely. One well-known citizen has volunteered to provide the ice cream for the occasion and many others have promised provisions and given cash, but the undertaking is big and much is still needed to make it a success. Conveyances of all kinds are wanted any any persons who can spare his carriage, automobile or wagon for about one hour in the morning or afternoon kindly communicate with the local headquarters on East Second street, by 'phone or mail.

Persons desirous of going will apply for tickets any evening next week at the hall on East Second street before 7:15 o'clock, or at the tent on Watchung avenue after the services. No questions asked as to any person's creed or nationality, only that they are deserving.

While the outing is specially gotten up for the most needy ones yet everybody is cordially invited to attend and enjoy a profitable day on the mountain top.

GO HOME WITH THEIR DEAD.

Mrs. and Miss McLean Carried to Train—Hurt in Auto Crash.

The bodies of George A. McLean, Sr., and his son, George McLean, Jr., who were killed in an automobile accident between New Brunswick and Metuchen last Saturday, were taken to Chicago yesterday from New Brunswick for burial, on a special car attached to the Western express.

Accompanying the bodies were Mrs. McLean and Miss Dorothy McLean, widow and daughter of George A. McLean, both of whom were injured in the accident. Mrs. McLean was taken to the train in an invalid's chair, while the daughter, whose arms were broken, was conveyed on board in a cot.

The Misses Jeannette and Harriet MacDonald, nieces of Mrs. McLean, who were also in the accident, are still in St. Peter's Hospital at New Brunswick, and will be unable to leave for several weeks.

PROHIBITION CAMPAIGN

Governor Glenn, of North Carolina, to Tour New Jersey.

HERE ON SEPTEMBER 14.

The Anti-Saloon League's Crusade Will Cover All the Important Communities.

Governor R. B. Glenn, of North Carolina, a week from Sunday will begin a tour of New Jersey, which will include every county, also Plainfield, in the interest of prohibition. He visited the State last year and attracted great crowds. He is scheduled to speak in this city on Tuesday, September 14, the day the special election is held on the constitutional amendments. On Sunday night, September 27, he will speak at Elizabeth.

The open defiance of liquor dealers in Atlantic City, has led the Anti-Saloon League of the State to start a vigorous campaign which, the most ardent hope, will lead in a year or so to New Jersey joining the list of prohibition States.

During the entire summer the Anti-Saloon League has been working on its organization for local option in the various counties, and in Sussex, Hunterdon, Burlington, Cape May, Salem and one or two others it is concentrating energy and hopes to win this fall. In Hunterdon county Mr. Kinsey is going from town to town with a tent, making two night stands, and with speakers from New York, Newark and nearby places is furnishing "dry" oratory to the people. In Sussex much time is being spent to defeat Senator Price. Assemblyman Morris is out for the nomination on the local option platform, the fight being carried squarely into the ranks of the old parties.

TROLLEYMEN'S OUTING AT RIVERSIDE TODAY

Under the auspices of the New Brunswick Public Service Railway Social Athletic Club, the trolleymen and conductors of the New Brunswick division of the P. S. C., are holding their annual picnic at Riverside Park, this afternoon. It will be continued tonight.

This afternoon there will be a baseball game between the Elizabeth and New Brunswick men, a 100 yard dash, a fat men's race, roller skating race between contestants from Somerset and Middlesex counties. At 2:30 o'clock, George Luhr, supervisor of the central division, made a fine address, praising the men for their good work and urging greater cooperation in advancing the interests of the company, as well as their own. Addresses were also made by Supervisor N. W. Bolen, J. J. Gettings, division superintendent and George Powers, one of the road officials.

After a spread in the large auditorium, there was a program of vocal and instrumental music, including songs by Thomas Burke, of New Brunswick. Tonight there will be a prize waltz with contestants from Somerset and Middlesex counties, concluding with a dance. The men on the Plainfield and Dunellen division are planning for an outing to be held within a short time.

NOW ONLY 103 OF 361 VOTING MACHINES LEFT

When the Secretary of State gets the returns from the election of Tuesday, which resulted in Trenton in withdrawing from voting all of the machines, there will be left in commission for the fall election 103 machines out of 361 which were in use when Governor Fort was elected.

These machines are divided as follows: Bergen county, 2; Burlington, 6; Camden, 8; Cape May, 3; Essex, 9; Hudson, 19; Mercer, 3; Middlesex, 3; Monmouth, 5; Passaic, 26; Salem, 2; Sussex, 1, and Union, 7.

When the State embarked in the voting machine purchasing 81 were bought the first year, 190 the next year and 90 the last year, making 361 in all. Many of these machines are now stored in the vaults under the State house in wooden cases, to preserve them until there is a new demand for voting machines.

It will be seen from a look at the figures where the voting machines are the thickest, after the battle of the ballots against them, that they are the most numerous where the intelligence of machinery is the highest, notably in Passaic county.

LIVERYMEN WARNED TO WATCH FOR GLANDERS

Assistant Health Officer John O'Brien, Jr., visited all the local livery stables today and urged that the proprietors of the various "horse hotels" examine each and every "transient" horse for symptoms of glanders, the disease which is dangerously epidemic in Newark and this section of the State. This warning to the liverymen is a precautionary move on the part of the local health board in the campaign against the disease here, and is in conjunction with the action of shutting off the local drinking troughs temporarily.

"Glanders is the most dangerous of the diseases of the horse," said Mr. O'Brien this morning. "It is fatal unless treated promptly in the incipient stage, and it spreads with alarming rapidity. Should a few cases of it develop in this city, all horse owners will be subject to loss, and a disastrous plague might result.

"The disease is transmitted by the saliva of the affected horse, and for this reason especial care must be taken when an animal is given a drink. Germ laden saliva floating on a water trough is practically certain to infect every horse that drinks there. And with water pails it is the same way. In order to perfectly protect his animal, each horse owner should carry his own water pail and should take care that it is washed out in nothing but the purest water.

"Danger lurks on the check posts and trees, too. An affected horse licking the surface of a post or tree leaves the germ of the disease for the infection of the next horse. The board fully appreciates the danger, and is taking every precautionary measure. I have described the symptoms of glanders to the liverymen, and any horse which seems to be infected will be reported at once and examined by a veterinarian."

Conclude Union Service.

The union church services for this summer were concluded with the one of last Sunday. Several of the local churches will be closed next Sunday and the week following will be re-opened for fall and winter activities. The union services which extended during July and August were a great success, each one being largely attended.

Park Club Activities.

Everything is in readiness at the Park Club for the resumption of fall and winter social activities about September 1. The club is planning a very busy season, making it more popular than ever. Later in the fall the customary bowling tournaments will be started, including the Central Journal Bowling League tournament.

Will Witness Boat Carnival.

Among the Plainfielders who will witness the boat carnival on Deal Lake tonight, will be Mr. and Mrs. A. L. Force, as guests of Mr. and Mrs. R. A. Meeker at their bungalow on the shore of the lake, nearly opposite Fenton farm.

GERMAN SYNOD MEETS AT NEW BRUNSWICK

The beautiful edifice of the German Reformed church at New Brunswick will be the scene next month, from September 8 to the 14, of the annual session of the Eastern Snyod of the German Reformed church in America, and Rev. M. H. Qual, the pastor, and his congregation are busily working on the reception of the ministers.

The Eastern division includes all the German Reformed churches in Pennsylvania, New Jersey, New York State and New England States, and some eighty odd clergymen will attend the sessions.

It will be one of the most notable gatherings in New Brunswick in some time, and Rev. Mr. Qual is to be congratulated upon securing the session for that city.

Sessions will be held morning, afternoon and night during the conference. The ministers will arrive there on Friday and will be directed to the home of members of the church and others who have kindly consented to take them. The first session will be held on Friday afternoon in the church and officers will be elected and business transacted.

The Ladies' Aid Society is busy planning entertainments for the clergy and they will also provide dinner and supper, to be served in the basement of the church, during their stay.

On Sunday, September 10, holy communion services will be held, at which several of the ministers will take part.

The ladies will also give the ministers an outing, the nature of which has not yet been made known.

On Saturday evening an alumni banquet will be served and speeches made.

Auto Trip to Rhode Island.

County Engineer and Mrs. Frank J. Hubbard and the latter's sister, Miss Ethel Titsworth and Mr. and Mrs. James E. Kimball, of this city, left this morning in Mr. Hubbard's automobile, for Westerly, R. I., where they will remain for a couple of weeks.

Col. Wilson Convalescing.

Col. John F. Wilson, of "Tunlaw," who has been seriously ill at his home, has recovered sufficiently to go out riding. He is much improved, although very weak from the recent severe attack of stomach trouble.

Commercial Law Lectures.

The lectures on Commercial Law which have hitherto been given by J. Henry Crane, at the Plainfield Business College, will be given during the coming season by Martin B. Stutsman.

—There are many kinds of muskmelons, but none excell in flavor the delicious Rockyfords, sold at Neuman Brothers. They will have a large assortment for tomorrow's trade.

ACCUSED BY GALLAGHER

Marshal Sliney, of Dunellen, "Intoxicated While on Duty" Lost Revolver and "Billy."

"WAS CARRIED ON TRUCK."

Mayor Swackhamer and Common Council Told of Officer's Conduct in Formal Complaint.

What is said to have been a matter of common comment for some time came to a head last night when Michael A. Gallagher filed charges of conduct unbecoming an officer against Marshal William Sliney, of Dunellen. The charges of drunkenness and other offences, which are printed below, are self-explanatory and coincide with reports of recent occurrences in that borough.

It is alleged that the recent arrest and imprisonment of a young man who found the marshal's revolver and "billy" in an out-house was the result of a condition bordering on inebriety of Marshal Sliney.

In an interview this morning, Mr. Gallagher said that by advice of counsel he took a witness when he served the complaint with Mayor Swackhamer and when he called upon Firman H. Joyce to accompany him the latter consented. After Mr. Gallagher had served the papers, Councilman Joyce informed the Mayor that if those charges were true Sliney was no fit man for the position of marshal.

Furthermore, Mr. Joyce informed Mayor Swackhamer in the presence of Mr. Gallagher that a citizen and taxpayer of Dunellen, whose name he withheld, came personally to him and informed him if anyone wanted to know anything about Sliney all that was necessary for him to do was to go to the Lincoln Hotel and observe Sliney's conduct there.

Dunellen, N. J., Aug. 25, 1909.

To the Honorable Mayor and Common Council of Dunellen, N. J.

Gentlemen—As a citizen and taxpayer of the borough I demand to prefer charges against Marshal William Sliney, upon the charges of conduct unbecoming an officer. The said charges consist of being drunk and disorderly, both on and off duty. Date and proof of charges I will furnish you upon application. A further charge I can and do make is that he has made it his business to personally interview a number of the residents of your borough, and making remarks detrimental to my good name and business. At the time of his appointment a citizen and a taxpayer protested against his appointment and gave his reasons which I deem good and sufficient grounds at that time why he should not have been appointed marshal. I will call your attention to one charge in particular, to one that was common talk at the time. I refer you to the afternoon at Chestnut street and North avenue that Marshal Sliney was in such a state of intoxication that he fell down three times after being helped up several times by a man who was in his company and named Conkling, and this man was assisted by a man named John Keene, who was coming home from work. When a lady living in the neighborhood went out in the street and informed James Benson that Sliney had more than he wanted and for him to go to him, and James Benson, who was driving Councilman Huff's truck went to where Marshal Sliney lay on the ground, Benson, Conkling and Keene loaded him on Councilman George Huff's truck, and he was driven to Dewey Park woods, where he was unloaded from the truck. This was about 5 o'clock in the afternoon as the factory whistle had just blown for quitting time. Every effort was made not to let the factory hands see him. He, Marshal Sliney, was loaded on the truck while women of the neighborhood were looking on. Now, Marshal Sliney was left in the woods in the shade of a tree until about 7 o'clock, when the party returned to Dewey Park to take him home to the borough to do police duty, which he was paid for by the taxpayers of the borough. His condition at that hour was such that the party returned to the borough without him, and returned sometime later during the night when he was brought to the borough on a trolley car. Now the borough had no police protection for which the taxpayers are paying, that for which you wished to raise Marshal Sliney's salary to sixty-five dollars a month.

Trusting in the interests of the taxpayers of the borough that you will investigate these charges immediately.

Respectfully,
MICHAEL A. GALLAGHER.

SPORTS HERE AND THERE

GOLF.

Programs have appeared simultaneously for the open championship tournaments of the Metropolitan Golf Association and the Western Golf Association, the former to be held over the links of the Wykagyl Country Club and the latter at the Skokie Country Club. As has previously been announced, the dates also conflict, the Metropolitan being listed for September 15, 16 and 17 and the Western on the two last named dates. Another fly in the ointment lies in the fact that the Intercollegiate Golf Association championship tournament at Apawamis is on the tapis for the same week.

From a professional point of view the clash in dates between the two open events is deplored for the reason that some of the leaders would like to take part in both. As for the intercollegiate affair, the only inconvenience it works is with the gallery, which will have to decide between Apawamis and Wykagyl.

Had the Metropolitan Golf Association been so disposed it could easily have taken a different week, especially as the Western and the college bodies selected their dates months ago. So fars as the monetary incentive goes, it is "Hobson's choice" between the East and the West. The former offers $535 in prizes for its championship proper, or $10 more than the Western. Where the Metropolitan draws ahead is in its extra day to be devoted to amateurs and "pros," the prizes then amounting to $200.

Wednesday, September 15, has been set aside as the extra day at the Metropolitan, when there will be an 18-hole four-ball competition under the auspices of the Wykagyl Country Club. Teams will consist of an amateur and a professional, and need not necessarily represent the same club. Amateur winners will receive suitable prizes. There will be no fee, and post entries will be received.

The championship will, as usual, consist of seventy-two holes, thirty-six on September 16 and a like number on the next day, for which the following eight moneys have been offered: First, $150; second, $100; third, $75; fourth, $50 fifth, $40; sixth, $30; seventh, $20; eighth, $10. Six special $10 prizes have also been offered for the best morning round, best afternoon round and best score for thirty-six holes on September 16, and the same on the next day.

As yet it is impossible to tell just how the professionals will divide up. Undoubtedly a majority of those located in this section will play at Wykagyl, while the Chicago set may be depended upon to try their luck at Skokie. One exception, however, will be found in Tom Anderson, Jr., at present located at Shelter Island. Anderson has decided to compete in the West. At the national open championship at Englewood he got in the money with a score of 300. Gil Nichols, of the Wilmington Country Club, has also expressed himself as desirous of competing in the Western, but George Sargent, the national open title holder, expects to play at Wykagyl.

The program of the Western event calls for five money prizes, as follows: First, $200; second, $150; third, $75; fourth, $50, and fifth, $25. In addition to these, the winner will receive a gold medal emblematic of the Western championship, and there will be a special price of $25 for the player making the best eighteen-hole score.

The competition will consist of seventy-two holes, medal play—thirty-six on Thursday, September 16, and thirty-six on the following day. All entries, accompanied by the usual $5 fee, must be in the hands of Trigg Waller, secretary of the association, No. 115 Adams street, Chicago, not later than 6 p. m. Monday, September 13. Professionals may make their entries directly to the secretary of the association, but the entries of amateurs must be sent through the secretaries of their clubs. The Skokie Country Club is located at Glencoe, Ill. Will Anderson is the present Western open champion. He won the title a year ago at St. Louis with a score of 299.

NO POLITICS IN CENSUS.

President Says All Officials Must Give Up Party Places.

Washington, Aug. 26.—President Taft is leaving nothing undone to make it clear that he does not intend that census work and politics shall be mixed. Acting Secretary Mallory of the Department of Commerce and Labor yesterday received a letter from Mr. Carpenter, secretary to the President, stating that Census Supervisors who hold political places, such as Secretaryships or Chairmanships of County Committees, must give up either their political or Government offices.

In a number of States, and this is particularly true of the South, Republican politicians have been recommended for appointment as Supervisors of the census. Complaint was made that as the Supervisors have authority to appoint enumerators it would be possible for them to build up powerful political machines. Mr. Carpenter's letter was then written at the direction of the President.

As this is not a season of political activity it is likely that the effect will be wholesale resignations on the part of persons holding local Republican or Democratic party places.

No Race Prejudice Here.

Elizabeth, Aug. 26.—In the round-up of nationalities represented on the Democratic outing of last Wednesday, was included the greatest cosmopolitan gathering that ever left Elizabeth on a picnic. In the crowd of 1,100 persons, were English, Irish, Scotch, French, Hungarians, Poles, Austrians, Russians, Prussians, Italians, Jews, Norwegians, Danes, Swedes, Spaniards, Canadians, negroes and one Indian. This probably will figure as a record-breaker not alone for Elizabeth but for any excursion that ever took place in New Jersey.

ELIZABETH'S MAYOR PREDICTS HOT CAMPAIGN.

Elizabeth, Aug. 26.—Mayor Mravlag, the Republican chief executive of Elizabeth, forcibly expressed some of his views as regards the political outlook for next fall.

The Mayor thinks there will be lively scrapping in the Democratic wards between rival aspirants for aldermen, in the outcome of which he can only see substantial Republican gains. The Mayor concedes that his former Democratic opponent, General Collins, whom he defeated last year, is the real leader of his party in Elizabeth, and has the political ability to maintain this position. At the same time the Mayor believes that owing to factional fights among Democratic aspirants for office, "Boss" Collins will have his own troubles to hold down the turbulent element in the party.

A big bone of contention is the comptrollership which is now filled by former Mayor Peter Bonnett. The Democratic leaders claim he is too old to hold the job any longer, and besides they claim he is in poor health. Mayor Mravlag, however, predicts that Bonnett will put up a fight to retain the juicy plum when the time comes.

Another fight is that for city treasurer now held by John J. McGrath, who wants another term of three years. He has a strong opponent in the field in Fred Zlor, secretary of the city and county Democratic executive committee, and who was only beaten six years ago by Mr. McGrath by one vote.

In these hot contests Mayor Mravlag sees much hope for Republican success owing to the bitterness he believes they will engender among the Democrats who now control the aldermanic board.

The Mayor also thinks that former Democratic Comptroller Albert H. Carlson, if he should enter the lists, would prove a formidable, if not a winning candidate. The ex-comptroller is quoted as saying that while not an aspirant, he would, if named by the Mayor and elected by the Board of Aldermen, again accept the position.

E. F. C. YOUNG'S ESTATE VALUED AT $1,787,022

New York, Aug. 26.—The transfer tax appraiser's report on the estate of Edward F. C. Young, the Jersey City banker, who died on December 6 last, was filed here yesterday. It showed that Mr. Young left a net estate of $168,000 in this State and a personal estate of $1,608,094 in New Jersey. The net value of the entire personal estate is $1,787,022.

Two bequests of $25,000 were made to Sybill E. Young and Natalie Y. Smith, grandchildren, and $100 a month for life to Joseph W. Strober. The residue of the estate is held in trust for the widow, Harriet M. Young, and on her death it is to be divided equally between Edward L. Young, a son, and Hattie L. Smith, a daughter.

Among Mr. Young's stock holdings were $507,000 New Jersey Title and Guaranty Company, $150,000 First National Bank of Jersey City, $305,000 Joseph Dixon Crucible Company, $50,000 Bankers' Trust Company and $76,800 of the American Telephone Company.

WHIPPING AGE ENDS AT SIX, DECLARES EXPERT.

Pittsburg, Aug. 26.—"Anyone who is always dosing a child with paregoric is a fool.

"Do not touch a child, unless you mean it.

"Appeals through the epidermis to a child that misbehaves should be started and finished before the child has reached the age of 6, though there are some rare exceptions. Then the appeal should be through the same porous agency and should be quite sincere."

These statements were made by Dr. Earl Barnes, of Philadelphia, in a lecture before the Allegheny county teachers' institute.

LAND 1,500 POUND SHARK.

An elephant shark, the second caught this season, was landed at Galilee yesterday. It measured sixteen feet and weighed 1,500 pounds. The shark was shipped to New York.

Captain Frank Webber and crew landed the shark, which put up a hard fight. It was found fast in the nets of the off shore pound as the fishermen attempted to make the lift. Careful use of a few prongs and other weapons was required to get the shark safely into the big sea skiff.

Some time ago Mr. Stolte suffered a stroke of paralysis in one of his arms. Monday night he tried to walk through a dark hall at his home, rubbing his arm along the wall as a guide, when suddenly he encountered an open space at the head of the stairs and was thrown violently down the fight.

CRANFORD GOLF LINKS ARE TO BE LIKE CONEY.

Cranford, Aug. 26.—Women of Cranford who are members of the younger social set have planned to turn the Cranford Golf Club and grounds into a miniature Coney Island tomorrow night.

Those interested say that there will be no necessity for the members of the club to go to Luna Park and its shows, as they will be reproduced on the club grounds.

Two very pretty young women are to do the Salome dance, another is to be a gypsy fortune teller. The tallest an of the club has agreed to help the women by standing on stilts labeled as a "giant," while a "pygmy" has also been engaged.

There will be cane racks and a prominent physician will loan his head, at which visitors may throw baseballs for cigars. The side shows will be scattered about the lawns.

Used Oil to Make House Burn.

Jersey City, Aug. 26.—On his way home Tuesday night Edward Croke discovered a fire at the three-story vacant house at 170 Academy street. When the firemen had extinguished the flames they found the front porch had been soaked with kerosene and an old teapot hidden under the steps was filled with oil. The police are at sea as to the prepetrator.

The boy was engaged at play with a number of his playmates and approached too near the horse, which viciously kicked him, breaking the boy's nose and badly lacerating his face. He was cared for here by Dr. Brown, after which the little patient was conveyed to the hospital.

Indorse Edge for Assembly.

Atlantic City, Aug. 26.—The Second Ward Republican organization has indorsed Colonel Walter E. Edge, the newspaper publisher, for the nomination for Assembly, and it is said to be likely that he will accept the indorsement and go in to win at the primaries. It has been stated that Colonel Edge might be a candidate for Senator to succeed Senator Wilson next year, and the Assembly election would materially aid him in that endeavor.

HEBREWS' FEAST OF THE NEW YEAR IS NIGH

Orthodox Hebrews are preparing for the ten-day festival in celebration of the coming of the Jewish year, which begins on the evening of September 15. Services will be held in all the synagogues, and special musical festivals are being planned. This is the great Hebrew feast of the year, combining, as it does, with the feasting a period of repentance The principal days are the first and last. The first day is known as Tishri and the last Yom Kippur, the Day of Atonement. On this day a most rigid fast is kept and the greater part of the day is spent by all within the sacred precincts of the synagogue.

The observance this year will be on a much larger scale than was that of last. According to the Jewish calendar the coming year will be 5670.

With the Hebrews certain days in the ten-day period will be observed as business holidays, when all the shops and business houses run by Hebrews, will be closed and no business done. All through the time prescribed by the Mosaic law, the synagogues are crowded with praying men and women, and, with the addition of special music, the services are made very attractive.

MOVE FOR MISS BUTTON AS PROBATION OFFICER.

Oscar P. Button, of West Grand street, Elizabeth,, is busy circulating a petition to have his daughter appointed Union county probation officer to fill the vacancy caused by the death of Mrs. Emily E. Williamson. The petition is being largely signed.

Judge Atwater has the appointing power, but has held up the matter until he returns from vacation.

PEAT FUEL IMPRACTICABLE.

The peat fuel industry on which millions of dollars have been spent in exploitation is discussed by H. H. Windsor in an editorial in the Popular Mechanics. Among other things, Mr. Windsor says:

"It seems unlikely that peat as a source of power, or even heat, will be a practical proposition, at least for many years to come, as the cost of extracting the water (which constitutes 80 per cent. or more of its weight when dug) either by natural or mechanical methods, leaves the net result too small. The price of coal in this country, together with the possibilities of water powers and windmills, puts peat as power in the class of those things which are possible, but not profitable; and this condition will doubtless continue for many years. Our coal depots are too large and accessible to permit peat to come into competition, and it must always labor under the same disadvantage as the lignite of the Dakotas—that of large bulk for any given weight.

"Much more likely is it that before peat can hope to become a commercial commodity of any consequence, our electricians will have perfected long-distance transmission of electricity which will enable them to gather the intense heat of Death Valley and other southwestern deserts for delivery in every city from the Atlantic to the Pacific."

TO EXAMINE STATE ROADS.

Atlantic City, Aug. 26.—State Road Commissioner Gilkyson is to accompany the freeholders of the county on Saturday in automobiles for a long tour over State roads, in order to ascertain what material is best suited for the local traffic.

One of the objects is to secure information about a new material for county roads which the county plans to use on a twelve-mile stretch from Pleasantville to Somers Point.

Didn't Want It.

"Don't you want your nice bread and butter, Annie?" asked her father. Annie shook her head. "It's a shame to waste such nice bread and butter," continued her father. "I'll eat it myself." Anne watched the process with big eyes and a look of expectancy on her face.

Finally, when the last mouthful had disappeared, Anne asked: "Papa, did it tickle?"

"Tickle!" said her father, "Why no; what do you mean?"

"I thought it would tickle," said Anne. "It had a long hair on it."—Delineator.

Telegrapher's Mishap.

Rahway, Aug. 26.—Charles Martin, of Upper Rahway, night telegraph operator at Tottenville, Staten Island, broke his collarbone Tuesday through falling headlong from an elevation when trying to close a window in the office. The night watchman, hearing Mr. Martin groaning, came to his assistance and summoned a physician. Mr. Martin was sent home later, and is resting easily today.

Bitten by Cat.

Russell Beall, the ten-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. George Beall, of South Bound Brook, while digging potatoes in a field in the rear of the house yesterday afternoon, was attacked and bitten in the hand by a Maltese cat. The wound was cauterized by a physician and the cat killed.

The vote was extremely light, only 118 votes being cast all day, from 6 o'clock in the morning until 7 at night. The vote stood 92 in favor of bonding the municipality, 22 against and four rejected ballots.

Bridgeton capitalists are forming a syndicate which will be organized under the laws of the State for the purpose of purchasing property and carrying on a general farming business. The syndicate proposes to purchase ten or more big farms in Cumberland county and operate them under one management. The capital stock will be fixed at $100,000 and practically all of the money has been subscribed now.

At Mt. Holly yesterday two automobiles met in a head-on collision at High and Washington streets. They were owned by Charles M. Lanning, of Burlington, and Harry C. Valentine, of Trenton. The cars were badly wrecked. The occupants were thrown out and bruised, but only John G. Boss, of Trenton, who was in the Valentine car, was badly hurt. He was cut about the head and some of the bones of his right wrist were broken.

When a trolley car came into collison with a team he was driving on the Haddonfield turnpike, near the city line, Camden, Tuesday night, Kurt Stutterheim, fifty-four years old, of Mt. Ephraim, sustained a fracture of the skull and died on the way to Cooper Hospital. An automobilist, who declined to give his name, turned his machine into an ambulance and hurried the man to the institution. Stutterheim was employed by Joseph Johnson, a concrete worker.

The inquest into the deaths of Mrs. John Frazier and Mrs. H. Driscoll, who were killed by an electric train at the South Westville station Monday night, was held by Coroner Hunter yesterday afternoon and a verdict exonerating the railroad company was rendered, but with a recommendation that gates and a watchman be placed at the crossing. All the train's crew testified to the facts of the case, the motorman stating that it was impossible to stop the train in time to avert the accident.

CHRISTIAN ENDEAVOR.

Prayer Meeting Topic For the Week Beginning Aug. 29, 1909.

By REV. S. H. DOYLE.

Topic.—Home missions; our cosmopolitan population.—Luke xiii, 22-30.

One of the great factors in home mission work today is that of the population of our great cities, many of whom have no abiding place, but wander about from place to place, and hundreds of thousands of whom are strangers from strange lands and consequently unfamiliar with our national customs and institutions and religion. The supreme court of the United States has decided that Christianity is our national religion, yet they know little or nothing about it, and many of them care less. Yet there need be no despair and no fear concerning the large number of immigrants in our large cities. Many classes of them are of course undesirable—illiterate, anarchistic and irreligious. But the public schools will take care of the illiteracy. In the section of our cities where these foreigners segregate the children attend the public schools. They are taught, of course, in the English language, and it is remarkable what progress they make both in education and in patterning after American customs and habits. Take the Italians, whom so many people dread. In Philadelphia one section of the city contains 90,000 Italians. The changes made in the young people and children in a few years must be seen to be fully comprehended. They are a handsome race, with their dark skin and intensely black eyes, and when properly cleaned and nicely dressed they are a class of young people of whom any nation might be proud. But they are apt to learn, and in two or three generations, through intermarrying, which is sure to increase, as it has already begun, we shall not be able to recognize them as immigrants from southern Italy. Many of the boys and girls and young men and women are employed in large department stores and in various kinds of factories. Their fathers may be "dagos" and their mothers keepers of small shops, but the children will never be. Education in the public schools and association with American children will change all this in one generation.

The undesirable populations if they attempt or do wrong will be cared for by the police departments of our great cities. But, after all, they are not, in general, classes of criminals. Many of them must have their beer and other drinks, but they usually get them Saturday nights and take them to their homes, where they have what they call "a good time." In drink they may be quarrelsome, but only among themselves. Few Americans if they attend to their own business will be disturbed by foreigners. Though they may look rough, usually as a result of the kind of work they do, they are remarkably inoffensive. They respect womanhood. They work steadily at the hardest kind of work—build our railroads, mine our coal and other ores. The Italians are exceedingly jealous and hesitate not a minute to kill any one who interferes with their love affairs or casts any reflection upon their daughters or wives. There is no menace to the nation even in the millions of foreigners within our boundaries. They will soon learn to love Old Glory and shout as the rest of us, though we, too, are of foreign descent unless we are Indians.

When it comes to their religion the church must take care of that. Christ preached in the streets of towns and cities, and we must do likewise. They will not come to us, so we must go to them, and that means to begin in the streets or in temporary places amid them. Street preaching is more popular today. We are all getting used to it, and it may have been providentially arranged for such a time as this and such a work. Our Italian mission was established in a large city of our land by street preaching. Then followed a tent, next a tabernacle of iron, and today they worship in a fine stone church building capable of seating 1,700 people. A daily kindergarten is provided for and carried on. The church has fully 500 active members and a great following. Another work was begun among foreigners by the formation of a Sunday class for them. Today a mission has been organized, and preparations are being made for the erection of a church building. "All things are possible with God." Get in religious touch with the foreigners about you, whether they be one or two families in a small hamlet or hundreds of thousands in a large city.

A Fundamental Thought.

Again and again we need to come back to this fundamental thought: The Christian Endeavor movement can prosper only as Christ is in the members and its members are in Christ.—Rev. Francis E. Clark, D. D.

The Christian Endeavor Pledge.

Relying on Jesus my strength to supply,
I vow that to please Him in all things I'll try.
The rule of my life I will make it each day
My Bible to read and in secret to pray.
The church both my presence and help shall receive,
Or conscience a reason to Jesus must give.
Throughout my whole life, just as far as I know,
I'll firmly endeavor the Christ life to show.
As an active Endeavorer I vow to be true
And answer to Jesus for what I should do—
To speak, read or pray and each service attend
And, if hindered from roll call, some token to send.

—Australian Roll Call.

Adventure of a Sunfish

Jonah's Experience with the Whale Duplicated

"The aggravating independence of the black bass in Sand pond up our way," said Hon. Thomas James Ham, editor of the Citizen at H——, "is exceeded only by the cool impudence of the pickerel in those waters, unless it may be by the tenacity of life of thin sunfish. Judging from a little Jonah and the whale sort of play by one of those pickerel and a Sand pond sunfish that I witnessed, I don't know but what the sunfish is entitled to ranking place.

"In company with a friend, I had gone to Sand pond with the intention of coming home with a few of those aggravatingly independent black bass. We depended on catching our live bait from the schools of minnows in the outlet of the pond.

"Fishing with tiny minnow hooks tied to black linen thread for lines, we had nearly filled our pail with bait when my companion hooked a sunfish. As he was drawing it slowly in a large pickerel darted out from somewhere among the thick weeds at the margin of the outlet and made a vicious strike at the sunfish just as it was pulled out.

"The splash of the big fish's tail as it turned after its unsuccessful strike threw the water almost into the boat. The sunfish was quickly dropped back into the pond, we both being curious to see if the pickerel would have the audacity to make another rush for it.

"The little fish had gone scarcely two feet from the boat, with the hook in its upper jaw, when the pickerel promptly showed that it had all its impudence with it. It shot from its lair among the tiny pads, where it had disappeared, and seized the sunfish.

"The momentum of this second rush carried the pickerel ahead with the sunfish in its jaw three or four feet. There it stopped in plain sight of us and deliberately made its preparations for gorging its prey, giving us purposely, I verily believe, an exhibition of its processes as well as of its utter disregard for our presence.

"The pickerel had seized the sunfish tail first, but by a series of quick, jerky movements of its big jaws it turned the sunfish until its head was where its tail had been. Then the pickerel gave a gulp or two, and the sunfish disappeared somewhere in the depths of the big and impudent fish.

"The sunfish seemed to be about three inches long. After swallowing its prey the pickerel remained motionless a few seconds, as if gloating over its captive and illustrating its contempt for our presence. Then it turned and started for deep water.

"The hook was fast in the sunfish, and the sunfish was a foot or so down in the pickerel's interior, and we could see no way in which the pickerel could reach the point it had started for unless it gave back the hook and the fish, took them and the boat along with it, or gave itself up to the fisherman. The first we believed quite impossible. The second we had our doubts about. The third we hoped for.

"When the line drew taut the pickerel seemed to be for the first time aware that it had got itself into a situation that might make trouble for it, and for a time it seemed that the big and now disturbed fish had some intention of taking the boat and us along with it after all. The linen line was small, but very stout, but as wire snells are not regarded as any too formidable tackle to have next to a pickerel when he takes the hook, the prospects for the line holding out against that big fellow until he was captured were by no means assuring.

"My friend and I understood pretty well the handling of light tackle, and if the pickerel had persisted in retaining the sunfish and in his efforts to kidnap the boat and us he certainly would have been our meat. For two or three minutes the big, strong fish was so handled that the slight minnow line defied his attempts to snap it in two, and he was hauled from the water and almost landed.

"At that critical moment in the pickerel's fight he must have concluded that it was better for him to give up his breakfast rather than lose forever the opportunity for getting another, for he set his internal arrangements to work disgorging the sunfish, dropped back into the water, and went his way.

"The sunfish, still fast to the hook, had run the gauntlet of the pickerel's spiked jaws and had been a good while in its stomach. Such an experience, it would seem, should have been enough to satisfy the ambition of any ordinary fish. So we thought at any rate when we released it from the hook and tossed into the water, as we supposed, dead.

"Well, this fish wasn't an ordinary fish. It was a Sand pond fish, and wasn't so easily satisfied as all that. It lay on the water stiff and motionless and badly scared for a few seconds, and then began to shiver and wriggle about. Presently it dived beneath the surface, swimming strong, but like a cripple. It was quickly surrounded by scores of full grown sunfish, which escorted the wounded little fellow tenderly away until they were hidden among the rushes.

"We got quite a few of those aggravatingly independent black bass, before we left the pond."

A. L. Wilbur presents Cole and Johnson this season in an entirely new production, written, staged and produced by the clever colored stars, "The Red Moon," a musical comedy in three acts, furnishes a unique contrast of characters between the negro and the American Indian. The humor and situations of the comedy are drawn from the negro characters while the Indian element contributes to the picturesqueness of the story. The music is bright and charming and considered the best that the clever song-writers have ever done. The management has provided stage settings of surpassing beauty, and the costumes are in texture, design and coloring a veritable feast for the eye. A company of dashing, dancing, dusky dames with a cast composed of the greatest colored stars is promised when Cole and Johnson appear in "The Red Moon" at the Plainfield theatre tonight.

Model," plays expertly on the bagpipes. While in Scotland last summer she decided to learn to play the pipes and sought instruction from Pipe-Major Henry Forsythe, who is piper to the Prince of Wales. Owing to Miss Hazard's size a set of pipes just half the usual dimensions had to be made to order for her use. After two months' tuition her teacher declared, as teachers do, he had never known such a promising pupil. The material for the Scotch costume worn by Miss Hazard while playing the pipes was purchased in Edinburgh. A Glasgow tailor designed the kilt, jacket, sash and sporron. The plaid or tartan, as they say in Scotland, is that of the MacGregor clan. "The Parisian Model" will be presented at the Plainfield theatre on Saturday afternoon and night.

One of the prettiest and truest-to-nature stage pictures ever created in the cotton picking scene in the ever-popular production of Stetson's "Uncle Tom's Cabin," which is to be seen at the Plainfield theatre, Tuesday, August 31. It is a true facsimile of an ideal home on the Red river, the setting having been constructed and painted from actual photographs, secured by Manager Leon Washburn. Mr. Washburn is most exacting, even in the most minor details of a production. Where another manager would be contented with papier mache plants, Manager Washburn must have the real article. He engaged the services of a chemist who finally produced a shellac by the use of which the cotton plant may be preserved in its natural state indefinitely. The several hundred plants used in the Stetson production are exactly as they were when removed from a Louisiana plantation in the height of the cotton picking season. Words utterly fail in even faintly depicting this beautiful picture. It must be seen to be appreciated.

WOMAN'S DREAM HUNT FOR AN ELIZABETH MAN.

San Francisco, Aug. 26.—Miss Gertrude Brookes, who came to this city ten days ago in search of George Tolemie, a prominent Elk, of Elizabeth, whom she had known in childhood, has left the St. Francis Hotel, here, because she was unable to meet her bill. Action was dictated by Miss Brookes' stand as to her family connections. She claimed that she was the daughter of Lieutenant-Commander Frank L. Brookes, of the United States navy. No such name, however, was found in the navy register.

To safeguard any possible loss by the hotel, the management held Miss Brookes' baggage. A friend of hers in Sacramento telephoned that he would guarantee the expenses incurred by Miss Brookes during her ten days' stay at the St. Francis, but the promise was not strong enough to deter the management from taking action. Miss Brookes left the hotel without baggage.

All along the young woman has claimed that she would shortly come into a fortune of $250,000, $50,000 of which was to be delivered to her Saturday.

George Tolemie, whom Miss Brookes came in search of, disappeared about last March. He was supposed to have been kidnapped while in Idaho.

Miss Brookes said that she had a dream, telling her that Tolemie would shortly be in San Francisco.

YOUTH IS ACQUITTED OF RAILROAD ROBBERY.

Frank Hyden, the Paterson youth, who was arrested at Port Morris early Sunday morning and held on suspicion of being implicated in the shooting of Detective Mason Gilliland, a Lackawanna detective, near the Hackensack bridge Saturday night, was discharged Monday. Young Hyden, the police believe, was with the gang that did the shooting, but there is no evidence to indicate that he took any active part in the hold-up or had anything to do with the shooting.

The names of nearly a dozen of the thugs are now known to the railroad detectives and a vigorous investigation is being made. Much freight has been stolen from the cars in transit between the Hackensack bridge and Washington, and it is believed that much of the work has been done by the youths who have been stealing rides on the freight trains going west as far as Port Morris, where the trains are reorganized, and then beating their way back to the vicinity of Paterson on coal hoppers.

Over forty prisoners have been taken during the past month and lodged in the Dover Jail until their cases could be investigated. In nearly all their cases the evidence was not sufficient to hold them, while in a few instances the youthful lawbreakers were given short terms in the county jail.

SHIP BRINGS REPORT OF PASSING HUGE ICEBERG.

Hoboken, Aug. 26.—When the Scandnavian-American liner United States arriver at her pier Tuesday morning the captain reported passing one of the largest icebergs ever chanced upon by that vessel during her ocean-going career. The berg was encountered August 20 in latitude 46 degrees, 40 minutes north and longtitude 47 degrees west. The captain estimated the berg to be about 400 feet long and 200 feet high. The decks were crowded with passengers anxious to witness the splendor of the sun's rays reflected from the berg.

When the passengers were leaving the ship here Consul-General from Denmark M. J. T. C. Clan was not recognized by the customs-house inspectors, and he was held up and asked to submit to a search. He grew indignant and explained his right to enter without molestation as a foreign representative. The officials, when they learned his identity, apologized.

One of the passengers to come ashore was Dick Nelson, of Brooklyn, who declared that his victories abroad have determined him to seek a fight with "Battling" Nelson, whom he believes he can defeat.

WOMEN INJURED WHEN BIG AUTO OVERTURNS.

Long Branch, Aug. 26.—Attempting to pass a wagon on the Oceanport road, near Monmouth Park race track, shortly after 6 o'clock Monday night, a big automobile, owned by Nicholas W. Anthony, president of the North American Coal Company of New York, whose summer home is at Allenhurst, was overturned in a ditch.

Mrs. Anthony, wife of the owner of the car, had her left arm broken in two places, while her guest, a Mrs. Adams, also of New York, was cut about the face.

The party had been to Red Bank and were en route for Allenhurst when the accident happened. There was a soft spot in the road where the chauffeur attempted to turn out. Instantly the machine was in the ditch, overturned. The two women were pinned under the wreck. The chauffeur and coachman on the front seat were unhurt. The injured women were removed to Oceanport, where Dr. E. W. Crater attended them. Later they were sent home in a motor car.

BASEBALL.

"Dave" Driscoll's fast aggregation from New Brunswick, will play Bound Brook at the latter place Saturday. Jimmy Clinton will be opposed by Langstaff, who was formerly with New Brunswick.

All roads will lead to Crescent Oval, Saturday, where Manager Dorflinger's aggregation will meet Scotch Plains. Both clubs are in fine condition for a battle royal and the fans will not be disappointed in the least.

McKenna, who is well known here, and who formerly pitched for Plainfield under Manager Daab, is now a regular box artist for New Brunswick, playing on Sunday.

President Carpenter, of the Tri-State League, has made a statement that with the exception of Reading, every club in the league has lost money this season. That being true, the future of the Tri-State is not at all certain. The manager of the Trenton team tried to give the fans there an inferior grade of ball and they refused to stand for it, hence the decision to play the rest of the games away from home this season.

There is considerable talk about organizing a State league in New Jersey next season, to take in Trenton, New Brunswick, Elizabeth, Jersey City, Newark and two or three other cities. All are good paying towns and if properly managed should be a success. It's too bad that Plainfield is not large enough to be included in such a league.

Speaking of baseball conditions here, the class of ball now being played by the Plainfield Baseball Club is about as costly as the fans will put up for. Anything more expensive would be a failure, at present. Besides, work has been so slack in the local shops during the past year the men who would patronize games haven't got the money just now.

"Dave" Driscoll appears to have "caught on" in great shape in New Brunswick, where he is very popular. He was always popular as a Plainfield player. He knows the game from the inside and is capable of developing a fast team.

Pittsburg Signs Luyster.

"Flick" Luyster, the star twirler, formerly with Frank Burke's Elizabeth Stars, but more recently with the Eastern Carolina League, has been signed by the Pittsburg Nationals and will join the team at the end of the season. Recently, Luyster pitched two no-hit games for his club and this attracted the attention of the Pitsburg scou. Luyster is well known here.

MONUMENT TO PILGRIMS IS NEARING COMPLETION.

Provincetown, Aug. 26.—Except for interior fittings the Cape Cod Pilgrims Memorial Monument on Town Hill stands completed. The last stone of the mammoth pile, towering 250 feet above ground level, or 350 feet above the level of the sea, which it overlooks for miles, has been laid. There was but one day over two years between the date of the laying of the cornerstone by President Roosevelt in 1907 and the date of the placing of the last of the component stones. These stones were contributed by 125 towns in Massachusetts, by a number of towns in England and by many patriotic societies and other organizations. Each bears the name and date of its donor. The total cost of the monument will be $100,000, of which the Government contributed $40,000, the State $25,000 and the town $5,000. Nothing remains to be done except install the inside fittings.

The monument commemorates the first landing of the Pilgrims on American soil, their six weeks' exploration in search of an abiding place and the drawing up of their historic pact in the cabin of the Mayflower. The great tower will serve as a day beacon to the mariners bound in, an assistance such as the little shallop Mayflower had not during the winds and storms of the early winter of 1620. The erection of the monument at Provincetown was the outcome of a long controversy between Provincetown and Plymouth over the question as to which place had prior claim to the Pilgrim Fathers.

WITH HIS LEG BROKEN BLOODGOOD SWAM ASHORE.

Elizabeth, Aug. 26.—Nicholas Earl and William O'Brien, watchman on the plant of the New Jersey Dry Dock Company at Elizabethport, heard groans near the dock at 1:30 yesterday morning. On investigating they found Edward Bloodgood, of 115 Elizabeth avenue, Elizabethport, lying on the ground with his right leg broken. Bloodgood's body was partly in the water. He had been on John Farron's boat, and in trying to jump from it to the dock he slipped and fell into the water. In falling his leg struck a timber and was broken. He managed to swim ashore and crawled a short distance out of the water, but was unable to get any further. An ambulance was summoned and he was removed to the Alexian Hospital.

Had it not been for the watchmen's timely discovery he would have been drowned when the tide rose.

VALE, ATLANTIC LID.

Trenton, Aug. 26.—The State will probably take no further action this year looking toward the Sunday closing of Atlantic City hotels and amusement places. In notifying Mayor Stoy that it is his duty and the duty of his municipal associates to enforce the State law regulating such things, the State authorities feel that they have done their full duty under the statute and are not likely to do anything further in response to the demands of the reform element.

Asked today if he proposed to take any further steps toward clamping down the Atlantic City lid, Attorney General Wilson replied that by giving the law and order officers of the resort the official notification directed to Mayor Stoy, directing him to proceed to enforce the Sunday excise laws, he had exhausted his power under the statute and there seemed to be nothing further for the State's legal department to do.

Blind Man as Life-Saver.

Atlantic City, Aug. 26.—John Robinson, a fisherman, who is almost blind as a result of an accident that destroyed one of his eyes, plunged into the Thoroughfare last night and rescued ten-year-old Morris Hughes, who had fallen from a bridge. Robinson reached the lad by following his cries and then asked people on shore to call to him to guide him back to the bank.

BAR ASSOCIATION FAVORS AMENDMENT

Plainfield lawyers have received from the committee of the State Bar Association, information concerning the proposed constitutional amendments and urging them to vote for the same. In a letter accompanying an interview with Judge Heisley on the advisability of passing the amendments, is the following:

"I venture to call your attention particularly to the importance of the special election upon the proposed constitutional amendments to be held throughout the State on Tuesday, September 14.

"It seems to me a duty which the lawyers owe to the people of the State to explain fairly and honestly the provisions of the first three amendments which deal with the organization of the courts and their procedure. These are subjects upon which laymen have a right to ask the opinion of lawyers.

"I am of the opinion that they will make more simple the organization of the courts throughout the State and will also simplify the procedure of the courts. In short, I believe that they will tend strongly to make the administration of justice more simple, more speedy and less expensive.

"However you may vote upon the other amendments, I ask you to vote in favor of the first three. Strike out each word 'against' on the ballot to vote for each amendment."

EQUAL SUFFRAGE OR BLOOD.

Mrs. Goldzier of Bayonne Counsels Women to Arm and March on Trenton.

Mrs. Julia Goldzier, of Bayonne, who has asked the City Council of that city to appoint women on the police force, said yesterday that the suffragettes in this country should arm themselves and vote even if they had to do it with loaded rifles or at the point of the bayonets.

"No great cause was ever won without bloodshed," said Mrs. Goldzier. "If the Legislature will not grant us the right to vote the women should arm themselves, march to the Capitol at Trenton, and surround the building when the lawmakers are in executive session, and then give them the alternative of granting us the right of suffrage or being shot down.

"I guess they would choose the easier course then. If not, let them suffer the consequences, and the world would see then that we really meant business."

Asked for the details of this militant movement, Mrs. Goldzier said she herself was ready and willing to lead a company in the onslaught.

Odd Fellow, Eighty-eight, Celebrates

Nothan Long, the oldest Odd Fellow in Trenton and one of the oldest in the State, yesterday celebrated the eighty-eighth anniversary of his birth. He has been a resident at the Odd Fellows' Home, Trenton, since 1897. Officers and men staying at the institution held a celebration in his honor.

MR. CUNNINGHAM LEAVES

Popular Local Theatrical Man to Join Joe Weber's Forces.

HAS A HOST OF FRIENDS HERE.

"The Man Who Never Kicks"—Treasurer of Plainfield Theatre Since Its Opening.

Samuel W. Cunningham, who has been the treasurer of the Plainfield Theatre for the past four years, leaves Monday to assume the duties of his new position with Joe Weber, as manager of one of Mr. Weber's road companies. He takes with him the best wishes of the host of friends he has made during his stay in this city, who have come to know Mr. Cunningham as "the man who never kicks," and as a man with a constant smile and of quiet demeanor. His uniformly courteous treatment of those with whom he had business deals has become a byword among his friends and his kindly ways and all around good nature are things he will leave as a pleasant memory among his acquaintances.

Mr. Cunningham entered the theatrical business at the age of sixteen, having been engaged as office boy at the Wall Street theatre in Philadelphia, where he was born. After spending four years on this job he assumed the duties of assistant treasurer and bookkeeper at the old Empire Theatre in Philadelphia, which was afterwards torn down to make room for the new Walton Hotel. From the Empire his sphere of usefulness was transferred to the Grand Opera House, where he remained until the outbreak of the war with Spain. While with the Grand Opera House he combined the office of treasurer with that of press agent and immediately stepped into the favorable notice of the profession.

After the war was over Mr. Cunningham joined the forces of Henry W. Savage and remained in the employ of that impressario until he accepted the position with Manager Counihan, of the Plainfield Theatre. Mr. Cunnningham's new associates will find him to be a man of sterling character and one whom it is possible to admire without flattery.

PAID FOR STOLEN JUNK, GIVES MONEY TO CHARITY

Receiving one dollar at the city court this morning for the thirty pounds of rags and five rubbers stolen from him by Joseph Mutnick and Charles Garfinkle, two West Third street boys, who realized twenty cents on the junk and went to a moving picture show Tuesday, Bernard Epstein, of West Third street, told Judge Runyon that he wanted to give the money, paid by the boys, to the Children's Home.

Joseph Mutnick and Charles Garfinkle, the two boys who stole the junk, were severely reprimanded in court yesterday morning when Judge Runyon told them that they would have to pay fifty cents apiece to Epstein for the junk stolen. The two boys came to court this morning early and planked down their "fine," which they said they had earned yesterday.

The junkman later came to court to say that the money was to be given to the local charity, and this has been done.

Young's Store Opens Tomorrow.

WELCOME FATHER BOGAN

St. Mary's Sodality Gives Reception in Returning Priest's Honor.

TALKS OF HIS ENJOYABLE TRIP.

Following an Informal Program, A Dance is Enjoyed by the Young Women.

The Sodality of St. Mary's church, composed of young women of the parish, gave a delightful reception to Father B. M. Bogan, the pastor, in the commercial hall of the church, last night, it being in the nature of a welcome to the popular priest upon his return home from a three months' trip abroad.

The hall was attractively decorated with flowers and Chinese lanterns and a feature was the absence of formality. During the evening there was a program of instrumental music including a piano and violin duet by Miss Elizabeth Brown and Miss Mary Murray; violin solos by Miss Alice Quinn, accompanied by Miss Mary Smith, and piano selections by Miss Smith. Miss Meaney delivered an interesting address of welcome to Father Bogan, and the latter's response was full of wit. He briefly described his trip abroad, telling something of each country visited and relating a few of the many interesting incidents experienced by him.

After the informal program, dancing was enjoyed until a late hour. The committee in charge of the reception comprised Miss Mary Smith, Miss Meaney, Miss Elizabeth Brown and Miss Mary Murray.

STATE CERTIFICATES MUST BE HONORED

Every school teacher in New Jersey is affected by the decision of State Superintendent of Public Instruction Charles J. Baxter, that a State certificate is a valid license to teach in any district in this commonwealth, which, being interpreted, means that the local board must recognize a diploma from the State Normal Schools without examing the holder, unless the certificate does not cover some specific requisite of the place to which appointment is being sought.

Mr. Baxter, in a letter to City Superintendent Addison B. Poland, of Newark, says:

"Complaint has been made to this office by the holder of a State certificate that she is refused an appointment in Newark unless she takes an examination in theory and practice of teaching, drawing and music. A State certificate is a valid license to teach in any district in the State, but section 31 of the school law authorizes a city school district to require 'other and further qualifications to teach than shall have been prescribed by the rules and regulations of the State Board of Education.'

"It is quite probable that the third grade State certificates held by the teacher does not cover music, but it certainly does cover theory and practice of teaching and drawing. It does not seem, therefore that these subjects are included in the 'other and further qualifications' as prescribed in the section above quoted.

"It is not the desire of this department to in any way hamper your board in testing the qualifications of the teachers it proposes to employ, but the language of the act is so clear that if called upon to render a decision, as I am in this case, it would seem to be necessary to decide that the city board has no authority to require a re-examination in the subjects covered by the State certificate held. Before giving the decision, however, I should be very glad to hear from you in relation to the matter."

HELD WITHOUT BAIL ON DAUGHTER'S CHARGE.

After hearing a story of several attempted assaults from her sixteen-year-old daughter Julia, Mrs. Charles Crocta, of 423 Elmer street, Trenton, Wednesday caused the arrest of her husband, and that evening he was arraigned before 'Squire Lee Eisner, who committed him to the county jail, without bail, to await the action of the next grand jury. Crocta pleaded not guilty.

BUILDERS AT CLAMBAKE

Local Association Holds Its Annual Outing on the Mountains.

ERWIN NEIGHBOUR THE CHEF.

Baseball and Other Sports—A Fine Repast and Some Informal Speeches Make up Afternoon's Program.

The annual outing and clambake of the Master Builders' Association, at the farm of Charles W. Krausse on the Watchung Mountains, yesterday afternoon, was a success. The whole afternoon was given up to the affair and everyone thoroughly enjoyed the varied program. There were about fifty members and invited guests present and there was not a dull moment. The bake was prepared and served by Erwin Neighbour, and not a thing was left to be desired. The food and service was satisfactory in every respect.

It was about 12 o'clock when the crowd assembled and the first course comprised clam chowder. At 2 o'clock all kinds of cold meats and sandwiches were provided and at 3 o'clock the bake was served on the spacious grounds. Afterward the rest of the day was given up to all kinds of sports.

There was a three-inning baseball game, but everyone was so busy watching the play that the score was forgotten. It certainly was a scream to see the fat men on the team running bases. Among those who distinguished themselves in this respect were Howard Woolston and Arthur Giles. Others who played were Lorenzo and Warren Townley, Thomas Egany, Patrick Neylon, Alexander Milne and Harry Moulton.

Some of the men enjoyed pitching quoits and this furnished lots of amusement, especially when a copper snake, twenty-eight inches long was discovered coiled about one of the stakes. Led by George Wyckoff, several men finally succeeded in killing the reptile. It was brought home as a souvenir.

Among the guests of the association present were Chief T. O. Doane, and James E. Martine, who made informal speeches, congratulating the master builders on the success of the affair.

It was nearly 6 o'clock when the outing was concluded and the party returned home. The committee in charge comprised Thomas Egany, J. C. Hansen, A. W. Pangborn, Fred Masker, Charles W. Krause and L. T. Titsworth.

DEMENTED MAN ACCUSED OF BEING INCENDIARY.

The large barn on the Charles Eldridge farm, two miles from Shiloh, containing three horses, outbuildings, farming implements and harvested crops, was totally destroyed by fire about 11 o'clock Wednesday night.

The farm was occupied by Robert Spence, son-in-law of Mr. Eldridge. The loss is over $3,000. The fire was of incendiary origin and had been set at different parts of the barn. A partially demented colored man who has been loitering in the neighborhood is suspected.

Servant Caused Fire.

Fire broke out at the home of Mrs. Annie West, 15 Elmwood place, yesterday afternoon at 5:40 o'clock, when a servant who was cleaning mattresses with turpentine knocked over a lighted candle. An alarm was sent in from box 15 and the flames were extinguished with a loss of about $100.

Big Attraction at the Plainfield.

"The Parisian Model," which comes to the Plainfield theatre, tomorrow night, is one of the many strong attractions to be presented here this season by the new management, Proctor & Sanderson. The company, an unusually large one, is especially strong and includes a bevy of pretty women.

Judges at Baby Show.

Among the judges appointed to decide the merits of the juvenile contingent whose show will be one of the attractions at the carnival held at Asbury Park this week are Mayor Charles J. Fisk, and Mrs. W. G. Besler, both of this city.

Held in $200 Bail.

At the city court today, Harry Nelson, colored, of West Third street, was held by Judge Runyon in $200 bail on a serious charge, to await the action of the grand jury. Robert Newton Crane is his attorney.

TO BURY DR. DIXON AT HILLSIDE SUNDAY

Dr. D. J. Dixon, who died in Hoboken yesterday morning, was the only son of Colonel William Dixon, of Carlisle, Pa., and was fifty-three years of age. Dr. Dixon had been suffering from heart trouble and had been under the care of specialists all summer. He had been a resident of Hoboken for thirty years, and had practiced there for twenty-seven years. He was highly esteemed and was prominent socially and politically.

Dr. Dixon leaves a widow, a son, William Gillen Dixon, aged four, and a daughter, Mary Elizabeth, two years old. He was a brother-in-law of City Clerk James T. MacMurray, of Sandford avenue. The funeral will take place Sunday and the service will be conducted by the Masonic lodge of which Dr. Dixon was a member. The interment will be in Hillside Cemetery.

WILL WINTER COAL BE SEVEN A TON?

Local coal dealers know nothing about the reported increase in the price of anthracite coal for the winter months, based on an article in a coal trade journal, which states that coal may reach $7 a ton during the winter.

An investigation of the local outlook by a Daily Press reporter resulted in the statement by several dealers that no news of the advance had reached them. Should there be an advance by the "coal barons," they say, local prices must increase, but one coal dealer said that he would be willing to supply coal at $6.50 a ton until January first, whatever happens.

Coal is now quoted at $6.40 a ton, the regular price for August. On September 1, next Wednesday, the price will advance to $6.50 a ton, and should remain at that figure until April 1, when, it is said, it will drop to $6. From then until next September 1, it will advance at the rate of ten cents a ton per month. This is the customary range of prices in a year, and does not take into consideration any united action for a raise in price by the wholesale dealers.

It is reported that a movement is on foot for a decided increase in the price of bituminous coal during the winter.

HARVEY FISK & SONS IN AUTO TRACK SCHEME

Harvey Fisk & Sons, who are heavily interested in the Newark Meadows Company, are to have a financial interest in the proposed automobile race track and aviation park to be built on the Hackensack meadows. A syndicate of metropolitan real estate men and automobile racers, among whom is George Robertson, winner of the last Vanderbilt cup race, has obtained from the Newark Meadows Company an option on 460 acres of land on the Hackensack meadows, lying between the Newark Plank road and the Pennsylvania Railroad tracks. The proposed automobile racetrack will be five miles long, and will cost about $3,000,000.

Worthington M. Jacobus, a Newark civil engineer, has prepared plans for the park, and the track itself will be built upon suggestions by Robertson. It will consist of an oval two-mile track for speed racing, surrounded by a three-mile course, which with the former, will be used for road racing. On the outer track, directly opposite the grandstand, will be a series of hills and curves, including a "hair-pin" turn. One of the proposed hills will be 120 feet high, with a 12 to 18 per cent. grade. Those who have seen the plans say that a speed of 100 miles an hour can be attained on the course. The entire track will be within view of the grandstand, and stands will accommodate 100,00 spectators.

BIKE TAYLOR STOLE SOLD IN BOUND BROOK

Through information furnished by Charles Wuelfing, of Harris Lane, Beechwood Heights, the police have learned that two bicycles, stolen about two years ago by Lucius Taylor, the big colored jail-breaker, who is now in the Elizabeth county jail awaiting the action of the grand jury for larceny, were sold to Bound Brook people. One of the wheels, maroon colored, with wide handlebars and an old-fashioned spring saddle was bought by William Brown, a neighbor of Wuelfing, of $4, and is still in his possession. Taylor also sold a new Cleveland bicycle to a Bound Brook man at about the same time, but the purchaser has since moved away.

Two summers ago Taylor was employed by Wuelfing, who is a cooper, at Beechwood Heights, but he knew nothing of the colored man's record until he read of his arrest here. Learning that Taylor was accused of stealing the bicycle belonging to William Murphy, of North avenue, Wuelfing remembered that he had tried to sell bicycles to Bound Brook people while in his employ, and investigated the two cases he knew of. Detective Sergeant Flynn is making an effort to find the owner of the bicycle sold to Brown.

Speaking of Taylor as an employee, Wuelfing said that the colored man was a wonderfully industrious worker, after he was once waked up. His only trouble, Wuelfing says, is his desire to sleep late mornings, and the Beechwood Heights man told the police of his troubles in getting the big colored man out of bed and dressed for work. "Once started, though," said the cooper, "that man could do the work of three."

"Good Government; How to Get It."

A citizens' meeting for the township of Warren has been called for tomorrow evening at eight o'clock in Bintz's Hotel, Mount Bethel. The meeting will be addressed by William Jeffery, of Berkeley Heights, whose subject will be "Good Government and How to Get It." A large audience is expected and there is no doubt that Mr. Jeffery will speak, as usual, in his forceful, energetic, extemporaneous manner.

An Afternoon Jag.

James T. Brady, of North avenue, was arrested near the North avenue station at about 6 o'clock last night by Patrolman McCarthy. He was very drunk and was "bracing" pedestrians for "the price." At his hearing before Judge Runyon he said he didn't remember anything about the pan-handling, but was sure he was drunk. He has a good record, and sentence was suspended.

HEIRS ORGANIZE TO GET A BIG ESTATE

The Drake heirs met at the residence of Mrs. Joseph Ross, 145 West Front street yesterday afternoon with Mrs. Dunn, who started the movement to recover for the living heirs of Sir Francis Drake, the estate which is held in chancery in England. There were about thirty of the descendants of Sir Francis present at the meeting several of whom came from Philadelphia and other cities.

Mrs. Dunn read a lengthy manuscript giving details of the property and the possible amounts to be recovered in case the claims of the American heirs are proven. A permanent organization was formed with David Drake, of North Plainfield, as president. It was suggested that Mrs. Dunn become leading officer of the organization, but Mrs. Dunn declined in favor of Mr. Drake Eugene M. Laing was chairman of the meeting and Samuel S. Swackhamer was chosen counsel.

It is the intention of the heirs who compose the present organization to make formal claim for the part of the immense estate which, they say, belongs to them and its final settlement will require a long course of legal procedure. While many of the heirs are sceptical of the ultimate result there are those who are optimistic of the outcome.

MR. FROST TO BUILD HOME FOR "COURIER."

George H. Frost, of Watchung avenue, president of the Engineering News Publishing Company, has placed a contract with Frank B. Gilbreth, of 60 Broadway, New York, for the construction of a brick and reinforced concrete building on Park avenue, adjoining the Stirling building, to be used as a publishing house and particularly as a home for the Courier News. The building will be strictly fireproof and modern in every respect. It will be faced with brick and limestone. Frederick A. Waldron, of 37 Wall street, New York, has been retained as architect and industrial engineer in charge of the mechanical layout of the plant.

TWO LOCKJAW VICTIMS

Nine Year Old Boy and Eighteen Year Old Girl Both Critically Ill.

RECOVERY CHANCES SLIGHT.

Burns the Cause in One Instance and Rusty Nail Wound in the Other.

Two serious cases of tetanus received at Muhlenberg Hospital, one yesterday and the other today, demand the constant attention of the hospital physicians and nurses. In each case the patient is critically ill and the chances for recovery are very slight.

Archibald Hawthorne, the nine-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Bayard Hawthorne, formerly of this city, but now of New Market, was admitted to the hospital yesterday morning suffering from the disease. He had been ill about two weeks, when he received a slight burn on the arm from a lighted match. He did not improve as the attending physicians hoped that he would and suddenly tetanus developed. His condition became serious and yesterday he was removed to the hospital. He suffers intense agony. Today, the boy's condition was said to be very slightly improved, but his recovery is very doubtful.

Miss Annie Krotchy, a Polish girl eighteen years old, employed as a servant by Mr. and Mrs. N. W. French, of West Fourth street, was taken to the hospital suffering from tetanus. About two weeks ago she ran a rusty nail in her foot, but the injury entirely healed and nothing more was thought of the matter until two days ago, when tetanus developed. Her condition at once became serious, and today it was reported that her chances for recovery are slight. She, too, suffers intensely. Everything possible is being done for the two patients.

MUCH CATCHY MUSIC IN "THE RED MOON"

"The Red Moon," presented at the Plainfield theatre last night, by Cole and Johnson, was one of the best shows of the sort presented here in a long time. The play, a musical comedy, was written by Cole and Johnson, themselves graduates of the Boston Conservatory of Music. It is filled with wholesome fun that kept the audience laughing. Bob Cole sang his new chicken song, recalled the memories of a song which made him famous in his greatest successes. Johnson was equally funny in his original role.

The play abounded in catchy music, and pretty dances. There was not a weak spot in the large cast. The introduction of the Indian feature was a pleasing one and it is seldom that one sees an entire company and chorus so uniformly good. Undoubtedly the production was one of the most elaborate and costly ever given by a colored company. It was the first appearance of Cole and Johnson here since the days of Stillman Music Hall.

ASSESSOR TO DEFEND STANDARD OIL RATING.

Assessor Hinse, of Bayonne, whose novel methods of arriving at the taxable valuations of the Standard Oil Company plant in that assessing district has made the oil monopoly's officials sweat, appeared before the County Board of Taxation with his field books again yesterday afternoon. It is reported that he insisted that his valuations are all right and that he is prepared to defend them on appeal. The books were returned to the assessor by the county board, not for the purpose of having the values reduced, but in order that the assessor might have the report concurred in by the supervisors of taxes as required by the charter, a procedure that had been neglected for years. The county board is anxious to have Mr. Hinse take a positive stand on his valuations, but at present do not desire to place themselves on record, as when the appeal is finally made they will have to sit in judgment on the merits of the returns as made by the assessor.

New Jersey's Leading Grocers and Butchers

BASEBALL.

Plainfield vs. Scotch Plains at Crescent Oval, tomorrow, should be a strong attraction for the fans. Both teams will present their strongest lineup. The early season games between these clubs have been close and tomorrow's contest will doubtless be one of the hair-raising variety.

Ortlieb, formerly of the Plainfield Baseball Club, has signed with the Elizabeth team, which will contest with the Plainfield aggregation for county championship honors. Nolan, who recently played with Plainfield, will also be in the Elizabeth lineup, with Washburn, who played short for the local club.

New Brunswick will meet Bound Brook at the latter place tomorrow afternoon, when Clinton and Langstaff will be the pitchers.

The Rochester club is having a hard time of it maintaining its lead in the Eastern League. This week the team has had its own troubles in Newark and if it succeeds in getting away from that burg in the lead it will be remarkable.

By the way the race in the Eastern League is one of the prettiest of recent years, all eight clubs being closely bunched together. It is almost anyone's pennant as matters now stand.

Joe McGinnity, owner of the Newark Eastern League club, was given a three-days' suspension this week and his hopes were thereby shattered for pitching against Rochester on Wednesday. He had a run-in with Umpires Jack Toft and Billy Phyle after the first game in Newark on Sunday, and the suspension keeps him out of the game until today.

The fans generally are becoming somewhat disgusted with the "slush" handed to some of the players on the big league clubs in New York. One prominent fan in speaking of the matter yesterday said that to read the stories of some of the New York sporting writers one would be led to believe that there are only about a half dozen players who are worth mentioning. They get all the "bouquets," while nothing is said about the many other players who are putting up their usual good game every day and whose work is really responsible for victories.

One day it will be the pitcher, who is the "whole thing," and never a word is said about the other eight players, who perhaps have done more than anyone person to win the contest. It looks as though some of the writers are "playing favorites."

TO RAISE REGISTRY RATE TO 10 CENTS

Postmaster Elias H. Bird has received a bulletin from the postoffice department at Washington, announcing the raising of the rates for letter registration from 8 to 10 cents. The date for the proposed change has not been set, but it is understood that the plan will meet with general favor from post office officials throughout the country, as the trouble in delivering registered letters safely is very great and the profit small.

The decision of Postmaster General Hitchcock to increase the registry fee followed an extended inquiry into the registry ssytem by a special committee appointed by him. Mr. Hitchcock and the members of the committee had a long conference at Washington. It was decided to call in a score of registry officials of ripe experience and ability from various parts of the country for a more general meeting with the postmaster general next Monday.

It is understood to be Mr. Hitchcock's purpose to take up the registry ssytem first in considering all branches of the postal service for reorganization wherever greater efficiency and less expenditure may be effected. It is thought that the service may be placed on a more business-like basis without working undue hardship or imposing unreasonable burden on the public.

In his talk with a number of the delegates who attended the recent annual convention of the National Association of First Class Postmasters at Toledo, Mr. Hitchcock learned they were almost unanimously of the opinion that an increase in the registry fee from 8 to 10 cents would not be opposed, when it was understood that the government was losing several million dollars through the present ssytem of operation.

By law the postmaster general is authorized to make the registry fee as high as 20 cents. In 1874 it was reduced from 15 to 8 cents, but increased to 10 cents in 1875. It was reduced from 10 to 8 cents in 1893.

The registered service is the most expensive of any rendered by the department, owing to the precaution taken to insure correct delivery and absolute safety in the transmission of registered articles.

LEMUEL JOHNSON DIES SUDDENLY.

Lemuel Johnson, seventy-three years old, was found dead in the bed at his home at Whitehouse yesterday. Death was due to heart disease. A burial permit was granted by Coroner J. K. Naughright, of High Bridge, who viewed the remains. Mr. Johnson had been complaining for several days but his condition was not considered serious. He was about Wednesday night and seemed in his usual health.

Besides his widow, he leaves a brother, Alexander Johnson, of Phillipsburg, and a sister, Mrs. Gertrude Rittenhouse, of Plainfield. The funeral will be held at his late home tomorrow afternoon at 3:15. Rev. S. D. Decker, pastor of the Methodist church, will officiate. The interment will be in the Methodist cemetery at Whitehouse.

CHARGES AGAINST MARSHAL SLINEY OF SPITE 'TIS SAID.

The publication in yesterday's Daily Press of the communication and charges alleged against Marshal William Sliney, of Dunellen, caused no end of comment and it was said that James Benson, whom Gallagher claims was called upon to go to the assistsance of the alleged drunken Marshal, denies that he had anything to do with the case.

An effort was made today to locate Mr. Sliney to get his version of the affair, but the Marshal could not be found. Another man was seen, however, who said that it was rather late in the day for this string of complaints to be made, as the acts complained of occurred some time ago and on their face showed nothing but spite for an imagined grievance.

Mrs. Fred L. Stillman and daughter, Grace, of West Fourth street, are spending a few days with relatives in Rhode Island.

Mr. and Mrs. John Fowler Pound, of West Front street, have returned fro an extensive trip through Maine, spending most of the time at Bar Harbor.

UNUSUAL NEWSPAPER; G. M. MURRAY EDITOR

George Mosher Murray, a nephew of Roger Murray, of Madison avenue, is combining his pleasure while spending his vacation at the Twitchell Lake Inn, Big Moose, N. Y., with the editing of a most unusual newspaper, thus giving full swing to his ambition to become an editor. The paper is a two-page sheet, printed by hand with pen and ink and represents hours of patient labor. It is called "The Twitchell News," and it is newsy.

Master Murray shows his partiality for the gentler sex by devoting some of the most valuable space on the front page to the exploits of some of the fair ones who are in the colony of vacationists at this popular resort. For instance, the paper states that "not many women are real fishers, but Mrs. Stockdale sticks to it with good success. She has caught several large ones, right in this lake during the past week."

In another part of the sheet he says: "What is a better out door recreation for women? A woman can't walk and camp as some men do, but it is within the reach of all the feminine gender, who can get as far as Twitchell to go out on the lake and fish. A woman doesn't need to be a dreamy eyed summer hotel porcher, complaining of nothing to do; she can slip on 'any old thing' and go out and make the masculine anglers jealous."

Referring to an advertisement in a New York paper which calls attention to their roof garden, with Adirondack environments, Master Murray has this to say: "We could enjoy the show, but is a smoke laden atmosphere like the air we are inhaling here?"

Fishing on the Sabbath is evidently not an acceptable pastime for the guests of the hotel, because "we are sorry that a Sunday fisherman has corrupted our little lake." Speaking of the desecrator of the Sabbath the editor says: "We have no Sunday school, but we used to have a decent Sunday, which was a little different from the other days of the week. Will this be taken away from us, or shall we start a fight to preserve at least one day in seven from the routine of week days?" We hope not, Mr. Murray.

In the editorial column is found the following information: "The Twitchell News, edited by G. Murray, at Big Moose, every once in a while, subscription books are open to all. Mailed to any part of the globe at the same price." The price given on the first page is one cent.

A social item which will interest Plainfield people, especially those who attended the commencement exercises of the North Plainfield High School in June, reads: "Dr. E. A. Noble, who has a camp at the further end of the lake, has returned to the presidential chair of the Woman's College at Baltimore."

There is no manner of doubt that Editor Murray earns every dollar he gets from the publication of his newsy little paper. It would be impossible for any one person to print it in less than two or three hours, but perhaps the fact that the young man is the editor repays him for the trouble of getting it out. We hope so, anyway. He deserves to own a printing press, a pair of shears and a paste pot.

LOCAL AMUSEMENTS.

Nellie McHenry, last of the many famous soubrettes of our old days, such as Lotta, Maggie Mitchell and Annie Pixley, will be seen in a big revival of Bret Harte's famous novel "M'Liss," at the Plainfield theatre on Wednesday night, September 1. "M'Liss" is a play purely for the lover of melodrama. It is not the drama of today, depending on leaps from sixteen story-windows and hair breadth escapes by landing on slender telegraph wires, but it is a play with the atmosphere of the Sierras about it, where six shooters and knives take the place of ingenious dances invented by the modern melodrama author for creating interest in his play. The love story of this rugged little wild flower of the mountains is as natural as a breath of spring. "M'Liss" is a character that will live in the history of the stage for years and years. There is nothing artificial, it is pure, wholesome and real. Manager Wuertz has engaged a specially strong cast for the support of Miss McHenry and everything that money, the ingenuity of the stage mechanic and electricion has been done to make this revial of a famous play a noteworthy one. Miss McHenry will introduce several new songs and dances.

At Proctor's.

Proctor's new vaudeville bill attracted a capacity audience to the popular playhouse last night. Emmons, Emerson and Emmons, appear in a very funny sketch; La Tosca, contortionist, is a wonder; Jack Lyle, singing comedian, is unusually good, while the comedy pair in a Hebrew character sketch are clever. The pictures are the best ever.

1910 Chalmers-Detroit "30" $1,500

ARRIVED

The only car selling under $2,000 having full floating type rear axle, annular ball bearings throughout; double drop frame and 115 inch wheel base.

It won the Indiana Light Car race on the 18th of June, averaged 51.5 miles per hour for 232 miles. On straightaways its recorded speed exceeded 75 miles per hour.

In the 202-mile race over the Santa Monica course in California, on the 10th of July, the "30" won with an average of 55.2 miles an hour. In both of these contests the "30" motor was the smallest entered.

Any car that can go from Denver to Mexico City or can go 208 miles a day for 100 consecutive days, as a Chalmers-Detroit "30" did, is a pretty safe car to buy.

We strongly advise placing your order early as the Chalmers entire output for 1910 will be sold out early.

LOCAL AMUSEMENTS.

Patrons of the Plainfield theatre will be treated to a novel, enjoyable act tomorrow afternoon and night, when "The Parisian Model" comes with a large and carefully selected company. Miss Grace Hazard, a dainty singing comedienne, who has won success in various comic operas will be seen in her protean act, "Five feet of Comic Opera." Illustrative of the worth of this, her English engagements may be cited. Miss Hazard went to John Bull's island under contract for several weeks as a special feature at leading theatres. So popular was her unique act that the English managers insisted on her repeating the circuit at double the salary. The English press bestowed upon her high compliments for her artistic singing and acting and for the ingenuity of her act. Nothing more novel has been devised in its line. Once seeing her in this one acquires a taste for more. Miss Hazard sings excerpts from nine comic operas, appearing in correct costume for each character she portrays. Her "change of costume" is effected in full view of the audience without the borders being trimmed. She changes her costume through ingenious devices of her own invention, every stitch and every article having double uses. She recites bright verses while doing this. People wonder at the cleverness of Miss Hazard's costume arrangements. She will be heard in tuneful excerpts from "The Grand Duchess," "Fra Diavolo," "Chimes of Normandy," "The Mikado" and others. In her selection from "Rob Roy," she will play upon a set of bag pipes made expressly for her, the normal instruments being too large. She was instructed in the art of bag pipe playing by the regimental pipe-major of a Scotch Highland regiment. The audience is always carried away when it learns the trick by which Miss Hazard gets these bag pipes without leaving the stage. She is exactly five feet in height, this explaining the meaning of the title of her act.

Jollity, tender sentiment, lively dialogue, spectacular situations, thrilling climaxes and poetic justice—all are prettily blended in ancient honored "Uncle Tom's Cabin," which the renowned Stetson company will offer at the Plainfield theatre on Tuesday night. Throughout this grand old stage story is illustrated the vagaries of life and the versatility of human nature. The law of compensation, so dear to Emerson, is strictly observed. The pathetic death of Little Eva has no sooner covered the audience with sorrow's pall, than a stunning vaudeville number comes to restore the flooded or merely drooping soul. The Stetson company is the acknowledged leader in the production of Harriet Beecher Stowe's masterpiece. The cast is large in numbers and well distributed. The bloodhounds and ponies, the music and scenic effects, costumes and accessories are all of the best attainable. Specialties glitter through the evening like stars in a wintry sky. In the Leon-Wahsburn-Stetson Company there are all kinds of dramatic greatness. It is in a class by itself. Go and see it or you will miss the year's best offering.

D. M. Clarke, in writing "The White Squaw," which will be presented at the Plainfield theatre Thursday night, September 2, has endeavored to give the public something new and worth while. The interest starts at the beginning and does not drop until the end. The comedy is woven through the play and is a part of it, not a lot of horse play just to fill in. Don't miss the chance of having a real hearty laugh, and just a little tear by way of variation.

ON THE SHORE.

A glad day though a gray day,
For the wind blows fresh and the flashing spray
Swings out of the blue lake's fretted edge
To leap and laugh on the barren ledge.

A shore bird calls where the pine tops lie
In purple shadows against the sky,
And a seagull loses his circling form
In the silver veil of the coming storm.

A glad day though a gray day,
With the rush of the white-capped waves at play,
And the beaten clouds and the rain-washed sky
Where the screaming gulls sweep bravely by.
For the lure of the life of wind and sea
Laughs out to the pulse of life in me.
—Gunter's for August.

Rehearsal.

"Im afraid your wife is very bad still, James."

"Ah, yes, miss. But I do all I can. I read her the burial service twice a day to get her used to it!"—Pick-Me-Up.

In A MEXICAN JUNGLE.

For four or five miles our road passed through a marsh, and for a mile our horses splashed stirrup deep in water, writes Dillon Wallace in Outing. Then we reached the first rise of the foothills, and a tropical growth, dense and high, closed in upon us and shut out the last breath of air that in the open marsh below had fanned our cheeks and in some degree made tolerable the burning intensity of the noonday sun.

Stately palms and gigantic ferns, with a luxuriant tropical undergrowth, made impenetrable the jungle that lined our road. Marvelous flowering vines that entwined themselves in the forest trees, blooming shrubs with here and there beautiful orchids, and masses of wild honeysuckle, gave a setting of gorgeous color and charged the atmosphere with delicious perfume.

Brilliant plumaged parrots and parakeets screamed overhead, ugly looking lizards scurried out of our path, a gress-green snake coiled around the naked trunk of a tree, high up in air, swayed his head back and forth in defiance, and an unseen animal crashed awy into the jungle as we approached. It was very wonderful to me and I experienced a strange sensation of having lived through all this before in some far away mystic past, just beyond any positive remembrance. It was like a dream that one tries vainly to recall—"a sleep and a forgetting." Perhaps it was only the impression made upon my mind by pictures that I had seen in early childhood.

Neither Randall nor I had been in a saddle for over twenty years, and we hailed with joy the Indian village of Libertad, the first settlement that we had reached, when we rode into it at two o'clock in the afternoon, for here it was decided that we should rest ourselves and our horses for an hour and eat some luncheon. Naked children ran into the houses when we appeared, not because they were ashamed of their nakedness, for they had never worn clothing any more than the pigs and donkeys that shared the houses with them; but becaus they were startled at the sudden appearance of so many strange Americanos.

LILIES IN GENERAL.

While we find lily ponds in almost every park or public garden of any kind, it is a matter of comment that they seldom are found in private grounds. This is strange, too, when it is considered that they are much less trouble to start and maintain than the ordinary dry land flower bed. It is equally true that there are few more pleasing decorations to any estate.

Aquatic plants for the home garden are not grown as much as they should be. Amateurs who hesitate for fear of failure are wrong, for water lilies require far less care than tender budding plants and are less expensive.

Any swampy or boggy ground can easily be converted into an aquatic garden. Flowering shrubs, trees and ferns will grow luxuriously near a pond. When you decide upon the location of your pond, which should be at the lowest point of the garden, dig out the soil from eighteen inches to three feet deep, depending on the severity of the winters in your locality. The lilies must be planted deep enough to prevent them frosting.

An inexpensive way to make your pond hold water is to line it with common clay. Cover the bottom and sides of the pond with this clay three or four inches thick and beat firmly until solid and even.

The best method is to plant your water lilies in boxes or tubs. Use very rich soil, as coarse as possible. Rough pieces of sod and lumps of earth should be mixed in. Boxes holding five or six cubic feet will accommodate strong growing plants and others holding half that much will be large enough for the weaker growing plants.

If the pond is large, the soil may be placed on the bottom and the plants set in it, but in smaller ponds under this method the roots or the stronger plants will quickly cover the bottom, crowding out the weaker.

MOTORCYCLE FIRE BRIGADES.

If the experiments being carried on with motorcycles in connection with the Buffalo fire department prove as successful as claimed, motorcycle brigades may soon become a part of the firefighting forces of a number of the larger cities of the country, says Popular Mechanics in the July number.

The motorcycles used carry chemical extinguishers mounted in spring brackets on each side of the rear wheel of the motorcycle, enabling the operator to detach them quickly. The machine is also equipped with an automatic stand, which takes care of itself when the machine is pushed off and resets itself when the fire is reached, also a loud alarm bell. It is said that about 80 per cent. of alarms turned in are what firemen call "lace curtain fires." A trained fireman on the spot at the earliest possible moment, with a couple of chemical extinguishers as his firefighting ammunition, would often catch such a fire before it has time to develop into a serious affair, and it is for this purpose that the motorcycle equipment has been designed.

Declaring his belief that land owned by the Marlborough-Blenheim and Brighton Hotel companies, of Atlantic City, is assessed for much less than its proper value, Councilman William Riddle, head of the city finance board, yesterday made a demand on the County Board of Taxation that the assessments of something over $300,000 on the two big properties be increased to at least $700,000.

Baseball and General Sports

GOLF.

Golf activities will be resumed at the Plainfield Country Club on Labor Day, Monday, September 6, with a Labor Day Handicap competition, 36 holes, morning and afternoon for cups presented by Henry D. Hibbard and Alexander Gilbert.

There will also be started the weekly competition for the Fall Handicap cup, similar to the Spring Handicap cup play in the early summer. The club presents the cup for this competition, Classes A and B.

The popularity of the Plainfield Country Club is constantly growing, especially since the completion of the improvements at the clubhouse. The weekly dinner dance is largely attended and proves a source of great pleasure to the members and their friends.

This is the first season in the history of the Plainfield Country Club when a weekly competition was not continued during July and August. However, so many members are away, it was thought advisable to suspend this play until fall.

This fact has not lessened the interest in the game on the part of the stay-at-homes. Every week a large field is out to enjoy the play, although no record is kept of the scores.

The Park Golf Club has enjoyed a year of unusual prosperity. In addition to electing about fifty new members, the course is crowded weekly with players. Special efforts have been made to keep the course in the best condition and certain improvements have been the means of making it more attractive.

The women's competitions will also be resumed at the Plainfield Country Club, in September. More than usual interest was manifested early in the year on the part of the women and they are looking forward to a busy fall. Among the best women players of the club are Miss Maud VanBoskerck, Mrs. Arthur Wellington Opp, Miss Martha Robert and Mrs. H. Reeve Stockton.

Mrs. N. Pendleton Rogers formerly devoted a lot of time to play at the Plainfield Country Club, but the illness of her son, Lieut. Rogers has prevented this in a measure this season. Now that he is much better she has been able to resume her favorite game.

Baseball Games Tomorrow.

The local baseball games scheduled for tomorrow are as follows: Plainfield Baseball club vs. Scotch Plains, at Crescent Oval; St. Mary's A. C. vs. Dunellen Field Club, at Dunellen; Greenpoint Y. M. C. A. vs. Plainfield Y. M. C. A., in Brooklyn; Plainfield A. C. vs. Berkeley Heights, at Berkeley Heights; Climax A. C. vs. Monroe A. C., at Clinton avenue; Peerless Baseball club vs. Milltown A. C. at Milltown.

Plainfield Horses in the Money.

Plainfield horses were successful in the two-day race meet held at Ewingville, near Trenton, under the auspices of the Gentlemen's Driving Association, Wednesday and yesterday. The first day, "The Minister," owned by N. M. Giles, took second money in the 2:19 trot, and C. S. Brower's "Mary S.," took third money in the 2:29 pace. Yesterday A. C. Blair's "Aron B.," won first money in the 2:17 trot. The horses left today for Wilmington, Del., where they will race at the New Castle county fair.

Rev. C. W. F. Atlee, pastor of the South Plainfield Baptist church, will preach at the Seventh-Day Baptist church, tomorrow morning.

Y. M. C. A. Play Greenpoint.

The Y. M. C. A. nine will go to Brooklyn tomorrow and play the strong team of the Greenpoint Branch of the Brooklyn Y. M. C. A. Mr. Bingaman will take along two good batteries and the lineup will be one of the strongest put in the field this summer. Miller or Slocum will be the slab artist and Linke or Stover will be at the receiving end. The locals hope to bring home the Brooklyn ball.

—This is the height of the season for muskmelons and Neuman Bros. are receiving daily large shipments of the choice Rockyford variety. There are none better and the prices are right.

50,000 BEND KNEE TO "QUEEN TITANIA"

Fifty thousand persons gathered on the banks of picturesque Deal lake last night and welcomed Queen Titania IX., Miss Henrietta Eiker, of South Orange, to her kingdom. The queen entered her realm on her royal barge, and in honor of the occasion a magnificent aquatic pageant was held on the lake, in which scores of beautifully decorated water craft participated.

It was the opening fete of carnival week and its glowing success presages unsurpassed brilliance for the events that are to come. With the passing of the Deal lake carnival Queen Titania retires and will remain in oblivion until her coronation next Tuesday evening in the Stadium on the beach front.

As soon as the night began to lower, the lights were turned on, myriads of electric battleships encircling the carnival course. Houses on either bank of the lake were ablaze with light, as were the abutting boat liveries.

Last night's fete was on the military order and patriotic enthusiasm was rampant when the national salute of twenty-one guns, fired by the first battery of the State National Guard, announced the coming of Titania and her court. Bugles were sounded, there was a glare of red fire about the lake banks, and the royal barge of the queen appeared and encircled the lake, followed by the other decorated craft.

There was a lull in the proceedings as her majesty ordered her launch stopped at the grand pavilion, and she alighted to be welcomed to Asbury Park's shores by Mayor T. Frank Appleby.

—The premises at 92 Summit avenue have been sold to J. W. Dean, of Dover, who will occupy the house about October 1. The sale was made through J. V. E. Vanderhoef for Thomas E. Curran.

—Inasmuch as the next regular meeting of the Common Council falls on Monday, September 6, and that being a holiday, it will probably be held the following night September 7.

Friendship Council, No. 81, Jr. O. U. A. M., has purchased a piano for the lodge rooms from the Mathushek & Son Piano Company, of this city.

MARTIN FOR GRAND CHIEF

Plainfield Man to Be Chosen Grand Chief by Eagle Knights.

AT GRAND CASTLE SESSION.

Twenty-sixth Annual Convention at Trenton on Monday, September 6—Many to Attend.

The Grand Castle of New Jersey, Knights of the Golden Eagle, will convene in twenty-sixth annual session in the Ribsam building, Trenton, on Labor Day, Monday, September 6, at 11 o'clock with Grand Chief Sidney J. Hall, of Millville, presiding. Headquarters will be established at the Hotel Windsor in that place. About 200 delegates from the various castles of the State are expected to attend the session.

Reports for the year as compiled by Grand Master of Records A. L. Clark, of this city will show that substantial work has been accomplished throughout the State by the efficient grand chief and his line officers.

An interesting feature of the session will be a contest for the position of grand sir herald, which is the first of the promotive offices. For this post there are a number of candidates in the field and most of them actively at work. Among them are Grand First Guardsman John D. F. Morgan, of Blackwood Castle No. 1, who is a member of the Camden bar; District Grand Chief Andrew G. Appel, of Palmyra; Past Chief I. D. Eilenberg, of Vineland, and Past Chief Peter F. Alberse, the president of a real estate company of Paterson. The contest is in such a shape at present that no one can predict the winner.

The incoming grand chief will be Horace J. Martin, of this city, who is the present grand vice chief, while Grand Sir Herald Martin L. Ferris, of Asbury Park, will be promoted to the post of grand vice chief.

The annual session of the Supreme Castle of the United States will be held in Yonkers, N. Y., in October. Grand Chief Sidney J. Hall, of Millville, will be official representative from the Grand Castle of New Jersey.

Women of the Golden Eagle of New Jersey will meet in Trenton in annual session at the same time.

BERKELEY HEIGHTS TICKET.

The Berkeley Lyceum at Berkeley Heights was crowded Thursday evening on the occasion of a special meeting of the Township Improvement Society to consider names to be voted on at the coming election.

A petition was prepared containing seventy signatures out of the eighty-two Republicans, placing William Jeffery in nomination for member in the Union County Republican Committee.

A complete ticket was arranged, with the exception of three offices, which will be taken up later. The proposed candidates for the other officers on the Republican ticket are as follows: Collector of taxes, Augustus M. Layat; township committee, Frank C. Shaffer; delegate to State convention, Bernard F. Cummings; alternate, John W. English; constable, Rudolph A. Shaffer; surveyor of highways, Joseph Amiano; poundkeeper, Giuliano Carluccio.

George Gage Injured in a Fall.

George Gage, aged 17 years, a painter, fell from a ladder, a distance of twelve feet, this morning, and received a severe nervous shock. He was working on a house on Kensington avenue, when the accident occurred. He was first taken to the office of Dr. B. VanD. Hedges on Watchung avenue, and then to Muhlenberg Hospital. An examination showed that no bones were broken and the man is not seriously injured. He will probably be able to leave the hospital by tomorrow.

Archibald Hawthorne Improved.

Archibald Hawthorne, the nine-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Bayard Hawthorne, of New Market, who has been seriously ill with tetanus at the hospital, has been showing steady improvement during the past forty-eight hours and his chances for recovery are considered better. Miss Annie Krotchy, the Polish girl, who is also suffering from tetanus, is still in a critical condition and little hope for recovery is entertained.

A Treat for the Children.

The members of the "Silver Cross" Circle of King's Daughters, are this afternoon giving the children and mothers at the baby camp on the mountains, their weekly supply of ice cream and cake.

METEORITE FALLS HERE

Mass of Metal Dug Up After Cooling Off in Eight Feet of Earth.

WEIGHS NEARLY 30 POUNDS.

First Body from Space to Lodge in Plainfield—Now at Somerset School.

A meteorite which fell on the farm of Frank Smith on August 10 was dug up yesterday from a depth of eight feet and was found cool enough to handle. It contains about eight cubic inches of iron, carbon and silicate and weighs 29¾ pounds. It has been placed in the museum of the North Plainfield school. When it fell the molten mass described a wide curve through the air and illuminated the whole neighborhood and narrowly missed striking Mr. Smith's house.

The mass of mineral is uneven and has several protuberances resembling stones with ragged edges, but a file in the hands of an expert revealed the substances to be iron in various degrees of hardness. Carbon and coke are found on the surface of the meteorite and it is a curiosity from the fact that it is the first visitor from the heavens known to have fallen in this vicinty.

It will no doubt, form an interesting topic for the discussion of the pupils of the higher grades in the Somerset school and parts of the heavenly visitor will probably be analyzed to ascertain the exact chemical and mineral formation. Its density of composition is responsible for the great weight of the small mass. The meteorite was given to Mr. MacDonald, janitor of the school.

TALKED ON EDUCATION AT MOUNTAIN COLLEGE

T. D. Senser, assistant State superintendent of public instruction of Trenton, gave a lecture on education at Mount Saint Mary's College Tuesday night, when he came to this city with his wife, who was a guest of the Mother Superior for the night.

"It is cheaper to educate than to restrain or support," said the lecturer, and he went on to say that each child today should be fitted not only to live, but to take an active part in those affairs which make up his environment. The aim of education, he said, is to produce citizens of self restraint and self support, and he spoke in detail of the value of this sort of industrial education.

The lecturer also dealt with points in the work of Sunday-school instruction, as carried on at the college during the summer months, and he congratulated the Mother Superior and members of the faculty on the evidences of efficiency and progress in instruction, especially along the lines of industrial art, taught in the well-equipped manual training department.

The organization has about twenty-five members.

Among the invited guests will be United States Senators John Kean and Frank O. Briggs; Congressman Ira W. Wood and the other five Republican Congressmen from this State; also Postmaster Edward Morgan, of New York city. Postmaster-General Frank Hitchcock has been invited and is expected to be present.

'JOY RIDERS' IN TROUBLE

Somerville Party's Auto-Drink Fest Stopped by Police.

CAR OWNER GETS AWAY.

O. H. Osgoodby, Who Drove Car, Didn't Show Up at Court—Police Will Investigate.

Released on his own recognizance after his arrest as an automobile "joy-rider" by Patrolman Andrew Saffron at a Park avenue hotel last night, O. H. Osgoodby, of Somerville, whose automobile was seized by the police because he was said to be too much under the influence of liquor to run it, did not put in an appearance at the city court this morning. John D. Hall, of Somerville, who with a man whose name the police have yet to learn was a guest of Osgoodby and a passenger in the machine, was locked up for the night, helplessly intoxicated, and at his hearing before Judge Runyon today was freed with suspended sentence on a charge of intoxication.

Hall, whom the patrolman characterizes as "the joliest drunk I ever arrested," appeared to have been a victim of circumstances, and as he succumbed to the influence the quickest of the three, who drove to this city in the machine from Somerville, his companions sought to put him in a Park avenue hotel for the night, and were planning to continue their "joy-ride." When the hotel man saw Hall, who "had about as much vigor as a bag of meal," he refused to take him in, and his companions, it is said, "heaved" him back into the tonneau and were about to start on when the policeman interfered.

At his hearing this morning, Hall acknowledged that he was too drunk last night to remember much of what happened, but he told the court that in company with Osgoodby and the other man,—whom he says is a Plainfielder—he started out in the machine from Somerville at about 8 o'clock. Osgoodby drove the car, and the party had drinks at Somerville, Bound Brook and Dunellen, with a few extra ones in this city before their arrest.

When Patrolman Saffron found the party, all were in a more or less maudlin condition from drink, he says, and Osgoodby was in his opinion in no condition to run the machine. Accordingly the party was brought to police headquarters and the automobile taken to a local garage. At headquarters, Hall, who was "helpless," was locked up, and the others were released. Osgoodby agreed to be in court for a hearing this morning, and went back to Somerville on the train.

His non-appearance this morning caused delay at the hearing, and he will be brought to this city for arraignment before Judge Runyon.

BABY CAMP SERVICE TOMORROW AFTERNOON.

Those who attend the four o'clock service at the Baby Camp on the mountain tomorrow afternoon, are assured of an unusually interesting hour. The program will be in charge of George E. Hall, assisted by members of the Swedish church of this city. Rev. Theodore Englund, their pastor, is to address the meeting. A distinctly attractive feature will be the musical program rendered by the Swedish choir and orchestra. These numbers include both vocal and instrumental selections, and the choir will sing some of their music in the Swedish language.

This is to be the last service at the Baby Camp for the summer, and many people from Plainfield and vicinity will doubtless avail themselves of this opportunity of spending a delightful afternoon in this attractive spot.

Created a Disturbance.

Thomas Kelly, of Dunellen, was arrested this morning for being drunk and raising a disturbance at the grounds where "Uncle Tom's Cabin" is showing today. It took the combined efforts of Marshal Sliney, Constable Pierce and a horse and wagon to land Kelly in the lock-up.

Rev. Dr. Freeman to Preach.

Rev. Dr. John Newton Freeman, of the Fourth Presbyterian church, tomorrow morning at 10:30 o'clock. The evening service will be omitted. Dr. Freeman officiated at this church very acceptably for several months after the resignation of Rev. Dr. W. R. Richards.

HARRY'S ROMANCE IS SHATTERED BY COURT

"Lovers once; strangers now," an old, old story, means Hattie Dawson, a colored borough domestic, and Harry Palmer, colored, of West Third street, henceforth. The dusky maid has forsworn her "special company" and Harry has been told that he can no longer be her "heavy beau" without police interference. Judge William N. Runyon pressed into service by the woman's complaint of unsought attentions, gave this "advice to the lovelorn at the city court this morning.

The judicially terminated romance dates from September 15, 1908, Harry says, and all went well until "another," whose home is in New York city, caused the transfer of Hattie's affections about a month ago. His rival's success was a cruel blow to Harry, who says that "me and her" were to have been married next month. The roots of love had struck deepest in the man's heart, and he refused to give up his sweetheart. Hattie says Harry "dogged" her on the street, and threatened to kill her if she married the metropolitan rival. Fear, she says, led to the complaint heard in the city court this morning, and although the ruling was agreed to, it will be "Heart-broken Harry" for awhile at least.

For Hattie the local romance couldn't have been without its joys, for Harry told the Judge of treats to moving picture shows and beer, and added "I dress that girl from her feet to her head," as a staggerer to show that his love was true. Hattie denied the clothing expenditures, and said that she stood for the rest under protest.

Perhaps a new method of holding the love of a lady friend was developed when Harry acknowledged that he had slapped the girl when she had told him that he was no longer "it" and had spurned his persistent attentions. "I think too much of her to hurt her, Judge," Harry said, "but I did slap her."

Hattie was positive in her refusal to have anything more to do with Harry, and Judge Runyon ruled that they act as strangers henceforth. The girl was overjoyed, but Harry—Well, "the world goes on just the same."

ASBURY PARK CARNIVAL.

Queen Titania IX, who made her first public appearance Thursday evening at the Deal Lake carnival, where she reviewed the boat parade, was in "retreat" yesterday and did not show herself to her thousands of loyal admirers. She was resting for today, when she again dons royal raiment and, with her court, attends the musical festivals to be given in her honor at the Amphitheatre adjacent to the beach.

This afternoon one thousand children, drilled by Professor Oscar J. Ehrgott, of New York city, will appear in the cantata "Childhood Fancies," from the pen of Paul Bliss, and dedicated to Queen Titania IX. The army of tots will sing and dance for their ruler, and the goblins, elfs and fairies will pose in tableaus. Tomorrow evening a company of amateurs, many of them summer visitors at the hotels, will render the musical comedy "The Mocking Bird" for Titania's approval. Professor Ehrgott will also have charge of the evening entertainment.

Then will come another rest until next Tuesday evening, when Titania will be publicly crowned at the Amphitheatre. The following evening the annual masquerade frolic on the boardwalk will make plenty of fun for the Queen and the thousands of masked participants. Puck will have charge of the masque fete, and will select the maskers who are to be presented with prize scarfs by the Queen in person.

There are over eight hundred entries for the baby parade, to be held next Thursday afternoon. New names are being recorded daily, and the carnival commission is counting on having over one thousand babies and children in the pageant, the closing event of the carnival.

Robert M. Johnson, named as the prospective appointee of census supedintendent, declares his conviction that Atlantic City will show nearly 50,000 permanent population after the count is announced. He supervised the State census five years ago, when the total reached 38,000. Since then Atlantic City has shown rapid indications of development, and the bigger figure is confidently expected. In the entire county he believes the total will reach 75,000. There will be twenty-six enumerators named to count the population.

"THE PARISIAN MODEL," BIG MUSICAL COMEDY

Julian Mitchell, of New York, who has charge of all the spectacular productions for Klaw & Erlanger and Ziegfeld, will personally supervise the performances of "The Parisian Model," at the Plainfield theatre, this afternoon and tonight. "The Parisian Model," considered a musical triumph, will be shown here with the original New York cast, headed by Grace Hazard. There are sixty people in the company, including a handsome chorus of forty American beauties. The book and lyrics are by Harry B. Smith and the music by Max Hoffman.

The play, a musical comedy, is in three acts and four scenes, and it will be staged in the same elaborate manner that characterized its run of three hundred nights in New York. One of the big features is the famous skating rink scene, and the whole play abounds in catchy music. The New York Sun says: "It is the newest and greatest girl show of them all. The women in the audience agreed that the gowns were dreams. The chorus was a delight to the eye."

SERVICES AT NETHERWOOD TOMORROW ESPECIALLY FINE

At the Netherwood Fresh Air Home tomorrow afternoon at 4 o'clock Dr. Robert F. Pierce, of New York city, the well known black board artist will have charge of the services. The music, as usual will be a feature; solos will be sung by Mr. Jeffrys and Mr. Townsend.

These services have always been an inspiration to the children and mothers of the camp as well as to those of this neighborhood who have attended them regularly and the meeting tomorrow will be no exception. Everyone will be welcome.

NEW MODERN HOTEL HERE

To Occupy Site of Iroquois at Park Avenue and East Second Street.

NEW YORK PARTIES TO BUILD.

Grill Room, Elevators and Every Up-to-Date Convenience—Finest in the State.

What will probably be an innovation which will please not only Plainfield people but those hundreds of visitors who annually come here to attend the horse and dog shows and who are numerous, too, during the social season and at other times, will be the new hotel which will some day not very far hence be erected on the present site of the Iroquois.

From reliable sources The Daily Press received information this morning that a modern hotel of fire proof structure will replace the Iroquois now occupying the corner of Park avenue and Second street. This hostelry has been known under the name of the Roselle Hotel, Park avenue Hoael, City Hotel and others and was bought from Charles R. Maltbie by John Albert Staats five years ago.

When the present lease expires New York parties who have long desired to find a suitable site for a modern hotel building in this city will build one, and the expiring lease of the Iroquois presents an exceptional opportunity and an ideal location. The three story brick structure which now adorns the corner will be razed to the ground and a modern one will replace it.

It is proposed to have everything strictly up to date in every department including a grill room, elevators, and the best cuisine that money can procure. From the present plans which are nearly complete it is believed that the new hotel will be the finest in the State, without exception. All the ground now occupied by the Iroquois will be used as well as the 158 feet on East Second street, which will admit of a first-class ten-story structure being erected.

It has been the custom for years for people desiring first class hotel accommodations to take the short trip to New York city, preferring the journey to putting up with mediocre service and accommodations.

The new hotel will have every conceivable convenience that will conduce to the comfort of its patrons. Nothing will be omitted that care and a desire to satisfy will procure. When Mr. Staats was seen this morning he preferred not to say who the prospective builders are, but he would go so far as to say that the hotel is an assured fact and Plainfield will soon see a modern, up to the minute hotel in the most central location in this city.

REGAN'S CASE POSTPONED UNTIL NEXT TUESDAY.

The case against Patrick Regan, which was to have been tried in the North Plainfield court this morning was postponed until Tuesday morning, August 31. Regan was haled to court on complaint of Mrs. Jennie Goldstein, who claims that Regan is responsible for the nervous prostration from which her young daughter is suffering.

Mrs. Goldstein's daughter, with two other young girls, was hunting for mushrooms in a lot leased by Regan who caused Marshal Pope to hurry to the scene. Meanwhile, it is alleged, Regan made the girls stand lined up against the fence until the arrival of officer Pope, thereby causing a nervousness which has made the child ill. Judge William Newcorn represents Mrs. Goldstein and Samuel S. Swackhamer appears for Regan.

Registry Book Supplied.

Arrangements have been made by City Clerk MacMurray to obtain the needed registry book for the newly created third district of the Second ward for the special election on September 14. Following the law, it has been the city clerk's custom to formally notify the County Board of Freeholders of any changes in election districts. This he did three months ago, immediately after the new district was formed. The requisition for election supplies is made by the County Clerk on the Secretary of State, and the former not being aware of the changed conditions in the Second ward here did not receive a registry book for the new district.

LOCAL AMUSEMENTS.

Max Hoffman, one of the collaborators of the highly successful musical comedy "The Parisian Model," which is here tonight, besides being a most excellent musician, is reputed to be an all around "good fellow," clever wit and raconteur. He is accredited with the following clever and amusing story, which he tells as an actual conversation between the wives of two of his musician friends: Two ladies who had known each other in years gone by, met on the street. Both of them were married to musicians. One of them who had been married for some years, was pushing a baby carriage in which were a set of fine triplets, all girls. The other lady had been in the bonds of matrimony only a couple of weeks. "What beautiful children!" exclaimed the newly married one with great interest, after the two friends had exchanged greetings. "Yes," replied the proud mother, "and it was the funniest coincidence, at our wedding supper the boys who played with my husband in the orchestra serenaded him, and they played 'Three Little Maids,' from 'The Mikado.' Isn't that queer!" The newly one gasped for breath and turned pale with horror. "Merciful heavens!" she exclaimed. "At our wedding supper a couple of weeks ago Tom's friends serenaded him also, and they rendered the sextet from 'Lucia.'"

Jollity, tender sentiment, lively dialogue, spectacular situations, thrilling climaxes and poetic justice all are prettily blended in ancient honored "Uncle Tom's Cabin," which the renowned Stetson company will offer at the Plainfield Theatre on Tuesday night. Throughout this grand old stage story is illustrated the vagaries of life and the versatility of human nature. The law of compensation, so dear to Emerson, is strictly observed. The pathetic death of Little Eva has no sooner covered the audience with sorrow's pall, than a stunning vaudeville number comes to restore the flooded or merely drooping soul. The Stetson company is the acknowledged leader in the production of Harriet Beecher Stowe's masterpiece. The cast is large in numbers and well distributed. The bloodhounds and ponies, the music and scenic effects, costumes and accessories are all of the best attainable. Specialties glitter through the evening like stars in a wintry sky. In the Leon-Washburn-Stetson Company there are all kinds of dramatic greatness. It is in a class by itself. Go and see it or you will miss the year's best offering.

The knowledge that Nellie McHenry was to revive "M'Liss" again has caused considerable stir in the theatrical world all over the country. This charming little lady, last of all the soubrettes who made western characters famous in the old days, will be seen at the Plainfield theatre on Wednesday, September 1. There is nothing to say about the plot of this old familiar piece, as nearly all theatregoers remember it. Though it is pleasant to think that one can go and see this delightful play with its human heart story and its breath of the West, instead of having to sit through the clap-trap that is called melodrama of the present day. An entire new production has been built and everything is in keeping with the piece.

The patrons of the Plainfield theatre will have a genuine treat witnessing that really excellent play, "The White Squaw," on Thursday, September 2. It has humor, it has sentiment, it has true dramatic situations, and is presented by an exceptionally clever cast of players, including Miss Della Clarke, Miss Grace Cahill, Miss Mindle Kohman, Mr. Joseph Gillow, Mr. Edmond Carew and Mr. Wm. Kohman.

LAST OF CONSTITUTION CREW, AGED 105, INJURED.

Philadelphia, Aug. 28.—William Macabee, aged 105 years, the sole survivor of the crew of the famous old United States frigate Constitution, is in a serious condition in the hospital of the United States Naval Home in this city with a fractured thigh. The veteran was recently strolling down the corridor of the home, when he fell and broke his thigh.

"Old Bill," as he is called, was born in Baltimore in 1803, enlisted as a cabin boy on the Constitution shortly after the War of 1812, and became an able seaman on the famous craft. He was in active service during the Civil War and remained in the government service until age compelled him to retire to the Naval Home.

On his 100th birthday Macabee was visited by Secretary Moody, accompanied by a staff of men high in the ranks of the navy.

Since then each birthday has been properly celebrated with a dinner and "extra rations" all around, his comrades joining in the celebration.

At the various masses at St. Mary's church tomorrow morning, Father B. M. Bogan, pastor, will extend a welcome to his parishioners and explain the details of the Papal benediction which he received from the Pope and which he will give to his people within a short time.

AN ALASKAN GLACIER IS NAMED PRINCETON.

The George W. Perkins excursion party, while cruising along a vast stretch of Alaskan coast, discovered on the west coast of Knights Island a new glacier, emptying into Prince William Sound. The ice river is two miles long and is 200 fet high in front. The Yucatan sailed near in 100 fathoms of water. The glacier was named Princeton, being christened by Miss Perkins, daughter of the financier.

The excursionists all went out to the glacier in small boats. Miss Perkins made a daring dash in a swift launch, and, amid falling ice, smashed a bottle of champagne on the face of the glacier, exclaimin:

"I name the Princeton." Mr. Perkins will ask the United States Government to place the location and name on the official maps. The E. H. Harriman Alaska excursion, several years ago, discovered and named the Yale, Harvard and Harriman glaciers.

The Perkins party sailed in the Yucatan last night for Seattle via Sitka. The Alaskan cruise has lasted two months.

SHOT "RIDING THE GOAT."

During an initiation in the Elks lodge at Albany, Ga., Wednesday night, Cleave Cox, who was helping conduct the initiation, was shot through the leg with a twenty-two-calibre ball from a cartridge that was thought to be blank. The floor of the lodgeroom shows the marks of several bullets fired during the initiation.

An investigation after the accident revealed that in some unaccountable manner cartridges of the kind used in shooting galleries had become mixed with the blank cartridges used in itiation.

The baseball game of greatest local interest today will be played at Crescent Oval, between the Plainfield Baseball Club and Scotch Plains. Both clubs are evenly matched and it will be a contest well worth seeing. "Warry" MacLaughlin will pitch for the 'Plains and Johnson for Plainfield.

Many local fans journeyed to New York this week to see the New York Pittsburg and Chicago series, and not a few wagers were laid on the result.

If you want to get the correct returns of the big league games watch The Daily Press bulletin each night. The service is prompt and always accurate.

There should be plenty of interest in the forthcoming series of games between Plainfield and Elizabeth for county championship honors. All the players are well known and have ability. The games should be largely attended. Manager Dorflinger has no doubt but that his aggregation will win out.

This afternoon New Brunswick and Bound Brook will meet at the latter place and the game will doubtless attract many fans.

Despite the fact that the St. Louis Nationals used sixteen men in the game with Boston on Thursday, Roger Bresnahan's aggregation could not win. The Doves took the contest by a score of 10 to 8.

Rochester got back at Baltimore on Thursday, defeating the Orioles by a score of 11 to 5. They are making a great fight to hold the lead in the Eastern League.

Ames failed to stop Pittsburg on Thursday and in consequence the Smoky City delegation got away with the game by a score of 6 to 3.

The Detroit club made it three straight with the Philadelphia Athletics, thereby increasing their lead. Baseball writers insist that the Washingtons are the second team of the Detroits, the Senators being in the cellar, as usual.

GOLF.

Professionals are busy practising these days for the open championships of the Metropolitan Golf Association and the Western Golf Association, which take place at Wykagyl and Skokie on conflicting dates, September 16 and 17 have been selected by both parties. Tom Anderson, Jr., who has had the green at Shelter Island during the summer, will end his engagement there shortly and he intends to spend a week with his father, Tom Anderson, who is the "pro" at Montclair. The younger Anderson will go to Chicago to compete in the Western open instead of remaining in this vicinity and having a try at the Metropolitan title. His brother Will is the present Western open champion.

Members of the Forest Hill Field Club who have been "burning" up the course with their low scores recently will probably find it harder to get round in the low eighties next month. Tom Gourley, the professional, has men working hard on the two new holes north of the clubhouse, and it is expected that they will be placed in commission shortly. The first will be about five hundred yards and the next only a trifle shorter. After these will come a new ravine hole, which will be the shortest of the wee ones. This will necessitate a change in the order of the holes south of the railroad and incidentally make it possible to relieve much of the crossing of the line of play so objectionable at present.

The first share in the sweep at the Baltusrol Golf Club went to H. R. Townsend, his 74 net being aided by a 7-stroke allowance. George C. Howell qualified for the Taylor cup.

All save one of the matches in the second round for the August Cup have been played at the Forest Hill Field Club. Floyd Spencer defeated W. T. Becker by 2 up, while Ed. Pierson beat Dr. Washington by a 4 and 3 margin. In the other contest E. E. Allsopp beat E. Hodgkinson by 6 up and 5 to play. The ball sweepstakes resulted in a tie at 73 net between Harry Cristi and Pierson.

N. Y. AMUSEMENTS.

In giving "Arsene Lupin" its first performance in English dress at the Lyceum theatre, New York, on Thursday, August 26, the same night he produced it in London, Charles Frohman at one stroke afforded the English speaking world what may be safely called the most absorbingly interesting detective-thief play the modern stage has yet seen. William Courteray, Sidney Herbert and Doris Keane have the chief parts on a cast that numbers over thirty persons—a rather plentiful number for a play that is a combination of straight drama and straight comedy. All the elements that are generally supposed to constitute a good play are so cleverly woven in "Arsene Lupin" that the career of this comedy will probably be one of indefinite length and the organizations playing it will doubtless be multiplied without end by Mr. Frohman. "Arsene Lupin" is in three acts and four scenes, by Francis De Croisset and Maurice Leblanc, and is at present the great vogue in Paris. Its story begins at the palatial home of Gounay-Martin, a plebian grown tremendously rich.

Springer's "Grand Opera House" began the season with "The Girl from Rectors" as the attraction, which begins its second week at that popular house on Monday night. This successful comedy of Paul M. Potter's has enjoyed a run of nearly one whole year at Weber's theatre. The original cast will be seen here during its presentation. The ensuing season marks Mr. Springer's tenth as manager of this beautiful playhouse. Manager Springer has many novelties in store for his patrons, and promises them that the season of 1909-1910 will be an epoch making one in the history of the "Grand." Among the Broadway successes to be seen there during the month of August and September are "Polly of the Circus," George M. Cohan in "The Yankee Prince," Joe Weber in "The Merry Widow and the Devil" and "The Thief."

"The Love Cure" at the New Amsterdam theatre on Wednesday night will tell a romantic story of life of the playhouse, the chief figures being players and much of the action taking place on the stage of the "Novelty theatre." Very briefly told, the plot deals with the love affairs of Nellie Vauhn, star of the company playing at the theatre. Torelli, her leading man, worships her, but because of the difference in their ages will not declare his passion. Alfred Blake, son of a wealthy New Yorker of social rank, also odores the charming cantarice, but is also too respectful to intrude. The elder Blake discovers his son's infatuation and appeals to Nellie to "cure" the youth. When the "cure" is about to be made, however, Nellie discovers that Alfred is the young man whose almost impersonal devotion has made so great an impression upon her. Nevertheless she undertakes the task she has promised to fulfill, and endeavors to disgust Alfred with all stage folk, including herself. In this she is aided by Torelli. It is not until the final moment of the action that the climax is reached, the spectator's interest, according to the up-State critics, being held unfailingly until the final impressive dramatic scene.

WOMAN SAVES PET BY BEATING DOG CATCHER.

Charles Hazard, of Elizabeth, dog catcher, came to grief yesterday in Fulton street, near Second street, Elizabethport. Then and there he received a sound walloping from an enraged woman whose pet dog he tried to capture. He followed the dog into the yard, where the owner attacked him with a club. He had seized the dog, but had to relinquish it in order to protect himself from the shower of blows that was rained in his head and shoulders by the infuriated woman, who chased him out of the yard and followed him almost to his wagon. He will apply in police court for a warrant for his assailant's arrest.

STRAIN TOO GREAT.

Hundreds of Plainfield Readers Find Daily Toil a Burden.

The hustle and worry of business men.
The hard work and stooping of workmen.
The woman's household cares.
Are too great a strain on the kidneys.
Backache, headache, sideache.
Kidney troubles, urinary troubles follow.
A Plainfield citizen tells you how to cure them all.

A. C. Lazzi, 44 Elm place, Plainfield, N. J., says: "I have used Doan's Kidney Pills off and on for five years and from my experience with them, I feel that I cannot give them too much praise. I have to do a great deal of stooping at my work and I think that my kidneys became weakened in this way. I suffered from a dull, grinding pain in my back and also had attacks of rheumatism. Another source of annoyance was irregular passages of the kidney secretions. I finally began using Doan's Kidney Pills procured at Randolph's drug store and I was soon in good health. Since then hard work has brought on one or two slight attacks of backache but a few doses of Doan's Kidney Pills have never failed to give me instant relief."

For sale by all dealers. Price 50 cents. Foster-Milburn Co., Buffalo, New York, sole agents for the United States.

Remember the name—Doan's—and take no other.

Plainfield, N. J., August 28, 1909.

Will the notorious Diss De Bar who claims she's lived several hundred years, kindly relate if Bryan was a candidate in her youth.—Newark Star.

And will she also be good enough to tell us how long, oh, how long, will one James Smith, Jr., continue his aspirations to be returned to the United States Senate?

The Newark Evening News in feeding editorial molasses to Charles Newell Fowler as a result of his attack on Cannon makes the statement that the Fifth district man's unusual vote when last a candidate was largely due to his making Cannonism an issue at the time. In the words of a former contemporary, "rats." Every man at all familiar with political conditions at that time knows full well that his 6,000 majority was accounted for by the fact that it was Presidential year and that the Democrats had put in the field against him a nominee of little or no strength.

It seems almost needless to say that the crack-a-jack jingles accompanying the cartoons are by the exceptionally gifted and most popular Judge William N. Runyon—a man of many, many excellent and commendable parts who plays them all well. Without any hint from us, the majority of our readers have known that only the Judge could so well and so wittily compile these verses. He does them in a jiffy and he does them most happily; and be it added that—living up to that failing for which he is known, he does them without recompense, taking his pay in the satisfaction he justly feels in affording pleasure for others.

HUPMOBILE VICTOR AT BRIGHTON BEACH

In the six hour automobile race at Brighton Beach, yesterday, the Hupmobile entered by Joseph J. Hynes, a private owner, and driven by Fred Woltmann, made a most remarkable record in winning the event for small cars. Five machines participated and the race furnished one of the most exciting events ever witnessed at Brighton.

The New York Herald today commening on the race says:

"The Hupmobile was entered by Joseph Hynes, a private owner. He is said to be a real estate man and to have entered the car on a dare. The machine is probably the least costly on the market, and its good showing today is rather convincing proof that it is worth while, despite its small price.

"The Hupmobile held its lead to the end, winning with a total of 226 miles for the six hours. The No. 5 S. P. O. was second with 212, and the Mitchell third, with 182 miles."

F. L. C. Martin is the New Jersey agent for the Hupmobile, and Elmer E. Cutting is the demonstrator. Mr. Martin in speaking of the car's achelvement yesterday, said: "It is undoubtedly the cheapest, good car on the market. It is possible to operate the car from thirty to forty miles with one gallon of gasolene. It has the staying and wearing qualities not to be found in any other car of this type."

The Hupmobile is manufactured by the Hupp Motor Car Company, of Detroit. The demand for the car is far in excess of the output, the factory being run day and night.

Frederick Hamilton, a brakeman on the Lackawanna Railroad, who lives at 188 Jackson street, Paterson, while stepping from one freight car to another in the Hoboken yards Thursday evening, slipped in between the cars and was badly bruised. He was taken to St. Joseph's Hospital, Paterson.

Skulls and human bones in large numbers are being unearthed daily by men employed by Contractor Hicks, who is erecting the gymnasium at the Young Women's Christian Association, on East Hanover street, Trenton. It is said that the bones being unearthed are those of Revolutionary soldiers.

MINUTES OF THE FREEHOLDERS LAST MEETING.

Regular meeting of the Board of Chosen Freeholders of the County of Union, N. J., held on Thursday, August 5, 1909, at 2:30 p. m.

Roll call showed the following members present: Director King, Freeholders Adams, Cady, Cladek, Crane, Darby, Doane, Garrison, Haviland, Jensen, Jones, Krouse, Martin, Meisel, Perry, Robison, Smith, Stephan, Swain and Wilbur—20.

On motion of Freeholder Cady it was ordered that the reading of the minutes of the previous meeting be dispensed with and that the same be approved as per printed copies on the member's desks.

Communications.

From Miss Emily E. Hornblower, expressing "many thanks for your kind sympathy" on the death of her aunt, Mrs. Emily E. Williamson, which was received and placed on file.

The following invitation was presented and read:

July 19, 1909.

Major Benjamin King, Director Board of Chosen Freeholders:

Sir—We have the honor to extend to yourself, your honorable board and the ex-members thereof, a most cordial invitation to attend the annual encampment of the Second Regiment, N. G. N. J., on Wednesday, August 11, as the guests of the Union county officers.

Very respectfully,
CONRAD HALL,
Captain Company I.
H. B. KITCHELL,
Captain Company K.
ROBERT J. MONTGOMERY,
Captain Company C.

On motion of Freeholder Cady received and accepted with thanks.

From the Town Clerk of Westfield, as follows:

July 7, 1909.

Honorable Board of Chosen Freeholders of Union county.

Gentlemen—At a meeting of the Council of the Town of Westfield held last evening the clerk was directed to call your attention to the defective conditions of the county road known as Westfield avenue, between South avenue and North avenue, particularly under the railroad bridge, and to request that you have the road improved.

Yours very truly,
LLOYD THOMPSON,
Town Clerk.

On motion of Freeholder Cady received and referred to the County Road Committee.

From J. P. Kelly:

July 29, 1909.

Board of Chosen Freeholders of the County of Union.

Gentlemen—On June 12, 1908, Charles Bahr who resides at 730 Monroe avenue, this city, and who carries on business as a milkman here, was driving along Neck Lane, which is, I understand, a county road. Without any warning the front wheels of his wagon slipped through a culvert, in the road, which was in very bad condition. Mr. Bahr was thrown out head foremost and landed on his head and shoulder, with his left arm underneath. He broke three fingers of his left hand and was severely shaken up and bruised. He has been more or less crippled in the left hand since that time and it is a question now whether he will be ever able to gain the full use of his hand.

Mr. Bahr desires to call this matter to your attention and is satisfied that after your board makes such investigation as it may deem proper, it will make such compensation to Mr. Bahr as will to some extent repay him for what he has been compelled to expend for medical service and hospital attendance, and for loss of time and injury to his business.

Will you kindly give this matter your attention and advise me of the result of your investigation? Mr. Bahr does not desire any litigation and would much prefer some reasonable settlement as in the judgment of your board will seem proper.

Very truly yours,
J. P. KELLY.

On motion of Freeholder Cady received and referred to the County Attorney and the freeholders from City of Elizabeth.

From George B. Vanderpool, Summit:

July 17, 1909.

Honorable Board of Chosen Freeholders of the County of Union.

Gentlemen—I desire to thank the board very earnestly for the application of road oil made in front of my property on the Morris turnpike, near Chatham bridge, in the First ward in the City of Summit.

It has been a matter of great interest to me to observe the effect of this oil upon the roadway, and I find that it is far superior to any other material that I have seen used for that purpose. The increased comfort to all persons living near the road or passing along it, owing to the absence of dust, is additional cause for gratitude to your honorable board. I am in a position to know that the frequent use of this oil will save the county all of its cost in the preservation and maintenance of the roads whereon it is applied. Modern conditions demand a road binder and preservative of this nature, and I am satisfied that your oil is unsurpassed as a road builder—binding and holding the macadam in place, resisting the action of water and the great wear and tear of the rapidly moving automobiles.

Will you kindly send me the name of this oil and of the parties by whom it is made? Im a thinking of buying some for private use.

Very truly yours,
GEORGE B. VANDERPOOL.

Union County Board of Freeholders:

Gentlemen—Not by way of complaint, but suggestion only, the bridge over the mill race on the Scotch Plains road leading to Berkeley Heights, right at the Harmsworth Woolen Mills, there is an old wooden bridge, and as I passed over it today I thought my automobile would go through it, but I got out to examine it and found that it had sagged a great deal and that the boards are badly worn and the bridge needs to be reconstructed. I do not know whether it is a county line bridge or not, so take the precaution of notifying the Somerset County Board of Freeholders and the Township Committee of North Plainfield Township. It would be a good thing to have an iron bridge at that point if it is compatible with the performance of your duties. Believe me to be

Yours truly,

From William H. Hoover, Jr., as follows:

July 24, 1909.

Honorable Board of Chosen Freeholders of Union county:

Gentlemen—Those rattletrap ferryboats plying between Staten Island and New Jersey crossing, the Arthur and Kill Von Kull, piratically holding up the people by wasting their time, charging an excess of fare, and endangering their lives and otherwise, should be put out of business as soon as possible.

The people have an undoubted right of free passage to and from Staten Island, and it is up to your honorable body to provide a temporary bridge at once.

The petty municipalities of Staten Island and New Jersey, together with the boards of trade and other interests have proven themselves utterly incompetent and unfit to deal practically with this subject for the past fifty years or more.

It makes no difference whether the bridge is located at Elizabethport or at Trembley's Point, or any other point which you may deem proper. A temporary structure can be improvised and placed in operation at once, and then discussed afterward.

A common wooden bridge built of spruce piles and cheap planking and having a simple draw might possibly cost five thousand dollars complete. Build it, and let objectors howl as much as they like.

Yours very truly,
WILLIAM H. HOOVER, JR.

On motion of Freeholder Cady received and placed on file.

Plainfield, July 28, 1909.

Board of Freeholders.

Gentlemen—I am requested to notify you that you have a bridge on Jackson street, Netherwood, that is on my ground about twenty-two feet, taking about that much of our lot in the front, and we would like to have that ground just as soon as we can have it, as we have parties looking to buy it, and we would like to have the ground our deeds call for and this is delaying us from selling it. Hoping you will do something at once.

Respectfully,
CHARLES P. DALEY.

In Memoriam Mrs. Emily E. Williamson.

To the Board of Chosen Freeholders of the County of Union.

Your committee appointed by the Director of this board to report at this meeting what action should be taken by the board in regard to the death of Mrs. Emily E. Williamson, late probation officer of the County of Union, respectfully recommends that the following minute be adopted and entered in full in the minutes of the Board of Chosen Freeholders of the County of Union:

The Board of Chosen Freeholders of the County of Union desire to place on record a tribute to the memory of Mrs. Emily E. Williamson, late probation officer of the County of Union, who died on the thirteenth day of July, nineteen hundred and nine. As probation officer of the County of Union since February, 1902, at which time she was first appointed by His Honor, Judge Benjamin A. Vail, and until the day of her death, having been reappointed by His Honor, Judge Edward S. Atwater, Mrs. Williamson faithfully and zealously attended to the duties with which she became entrusted; ever, as probation officer of the County of Union, her attention has been unstintingly given to matters pertaining to the office and to the general welfare of the people of the County of Union. Her keen intellect supreme tact and profound sympathy were valuable assests to the people of this county, and especially those whom she was called upon to watch over, guide, and raise up—to the latter she was an adviser and a friend rather than a probation officer and one who was always ready to aid them, even at her own loss. To those of the board and its officers who were brought into association with her from time to time, her friendship will be a pleasant memory and her course of conduct a stimulating example.

Recognizing the wealth of sterling qualities of Mrs. Emily E. Willimson, the Board of Chosen Freeholders of Union county hereby desire to pay tribute to the memory of a former officer of this county and to express to the many who sorrow at her death its deep appreciation of her serviceable life and direct that this memoriam be recorded in the book of minutes and an engrossed copy of this report be placed in a suitable frame and hung in the probation office.

HENRY KROUSE,
S. P. T. WILBUR,
GEORGE B. CLADEK,
PETER H. MEISEL,
N. R. LEAVITT,
Committee.
BENJAMIN KING,
Director.

The foregoing preamble and resolutions were adopted without dissent.

By Committee on Chatham Bridge.

To the Union County Board of Freeholders.

Gentlemen—Your committee appointed to examine and report upon the conditions of the line bridge over Passaic River, from Morris turnpike, Summit, would respectfully report: We have examined this bridge in connection with the committee from Morris county. We find the bridge nearly worn out and in a dangerous condition. We would therefore recommend that a new arch bridge be built of reinforced concrete at an expense to Union county not to exceed $6,500.

JOHN N. CADY,
PETER H. MEISEL,
WILLIAM H. GARRISON,
Committee.

Freeholder Swain moved that the report be received and the recommendations adopted, which was so ordered on roll call by an unanimous vote.

By Committee on Pine Grove Avenue Bridge, Summit:

To the Board of Freeholders of Union County.

Gentlemen—Your committee appointed to meet and consider the matter of the raising of the grade of Pine Grove avenue bridge, Summit, respectfully report that they have met a committee of the Common Council of Summit, and would recommend that the grade of the bridge be raised by the constduction of a new wall on the west side, in order to allow for city sewer pipes and provide a sidewalk to meet the proposed widening of the avenue at an expense not to exceed the sum of $2,500.

JOHN N. CADY,
CHARLES A. SMITH,
W. H. SWAIN,
Committee.

Freeholder Garrison moved that the report be received and recommendation adopted, which was so ordered on roll call by a nnanimous vote.

By the Committee on North Avenue Bridge, Cranford.

To the Board of Chosen Freeholders of the County of Union.

Gentlemen—Your committee to whom was referred the duty of preparing plans and receiving proposals for the construction of a bridge over the Rahway River on North avenue, Cranford, would report that they have had plans prepared by the County Engineers for a plate girder type of bridge and also for a riveted pony truss type, both types providing for a permanent floor system of reinforced concrete, and have received bids for same on July 30 last, as follows:

Arthur E. Smith, Plainfield, plate girder, $7,945; truss, $7,841; extra concrete per cu. yard, $8.00.

W. E. Warren, Mt. Vernon, N. Y., plate girder, $7,792; truss, $8,045, extra concrete per cu. yard, $8.00.

Snare & Treist Co., 143 Liberty street, New York (no check), plate girder, $9,960; truss, $9,490; extra conrete, per cu. yard, $12.00; rein, $11.00.

Wormser Goodman Construction Co., 2 Rector street, New York, plate girder, $8,891; truss, $8,740; extra concrete per cu. yard, $7.50.

A. E. Sandford Co., foot Fourth avenue, Newark, plate girder, $9,275; truss, $9,475; extra concrete per cu. yard, $12.00.

Schwiers & Sutton Co., 90 West St., New York, plate girder, $10,830; truss, $11,150; extra concrete per cu. yard, $8.50.

Union County Const. Co., Cranford, plate girder, $8,935; truss, $8,870.

Eastern Steel Co., Broadway, New York, plate girder, $8,950; truss, $8,950.

The bid of W. E. Warren, Mt. Vernon, N. Y., being the lowest for the plate girder type at $7,792, and the bid of Arthur E. Smith, Plainfield, being the lowest of the pony truss type at $7,841.

After consultation your committee has decided that the plate girder type of bridge is the best suited for the location in question, but they are entirely unacquainted with Mr. Warren or his ability to do the work, and we therefore recommend that the bridge be constructed in accordance with the plans and specifications for the plate girder type of bridge, and that the contract be awarded to W. E. Warren, Mt. Vernon, N. Y., at his bid of $7,792 (being the lowest proposal received for this work), providing Mr. Warren shall submit satisfactory evidence to this committee of his financial standing and his ability to construct this work in a workmanlike manner, to be evidenced by similar work which he has done.

E. K. ADAMS,
GEORGE B. CLADEK,
WILLIAM H. GARRISON,
CHARLES A. SMITH,
PETER H. MEISEL,
Committee.

Freeholder Cladek moved that the report be received and recommendation adopted, which was so ordered on roll call by an unanimous vote.

FORM OF BALLOT

FIRST AMENDMENT.

FOR
AGAINST — THIS AMENDMENT.

Strike out paragraph ten of Section VII of Article IV, and change the numbers of the following paragraphs to correspond.

SECOND AMENDMENT.

FOR
AGAINST — THIS AMENDMENT.

Change paragraph ten of Article V to read as follows:

10. The Governor or person administering the government, and four citizens of State appointed by the Governor, by and with the advice and consent of the Senate, shall constitute the Board of Pardons. The members of said Board, or any three of them, of whom the Governor or person administering the government shall be one, may remit fines and forfeitures, and grant reprieves, commutations, pardons and paroles, after conviction in all cases except impeachment. The four members specialy appointed shall hold office for five years, and receive for their services a compensation which shall not be diminished during the term of their appointment.

THIRD AMENDMENT.

FOR
AGAINST — THIS AMENDMENT.

(The different paragraphs of this amendment being necessarily interdependent, are considered as one amendment.)

Change Section I of Article VI so as to read as follows:

SECTION I.

The judicial power shall be vested in a court for the trial of impeachments, a Supreme Court, County Courts, and such other courts, inferior to the Supreme Court, as may be established by law, which inferior courts the Legislature may alter or abolish as the public good shall require.

Strike out all of Sections II, IV, V, VI and VII of Article VI, change the number of Section III of Article VI to Section II, and insert the following sections in Article VI:

SECTION III.

Any judge of any of the courts of the State may be removed for disability continuing for one year, or for refusal to perform the duties of his office, by a vote of two-thirds of all of the members of the Senate and of two-thirds of all the members of the House of Assembly voting separately, after a hearing before both Houses in joint session.

SECTION IV.

1. The Supreme Court shall be organized in three divisions, namely, the Appeals Division, the Law Division and the Chancery Division. It shall consist of a Presiding Justice of the Appeals Division, who shall be styled the Chief Justice, a Presiding Justice of the Law Division, who shall be styled the President Justice, and a Presiding Justice of the Chancery Division, who shall be styled the Chancellor, and eighteen Associate Justices, which number may be increased by law.

2. The Appeals Division shall consist of the Chief Justice, and six other Justices of the Supreme Court to be assigned by the Governor. A Justice of the Supreme Court assigned by the Governor to the Appeals Division shall serve in said division until the end of his term.

The remaining justices shall be assigned by the Supreme Court to the Law or Chancery Division, as the business of the Court may require.

3. Whenever the number of causes before the Appeals Division shall be so great that the Division cannot promptly hear and determine them, the Governor shall, when authorized by statute, temporarily assign five of the justices of the other divisions to sit in the Appeals Division, which shall thereupon sit in two divisions for the hearing and decision of causes pending at the time of such assignment.

4. Four justices shall be necessary to constitute a quorum on the final hearing of any cause in the Appeals Division, but the Supreme Court may provide by rule for the making of interlocutory orders by a lesser number of justices or by one justice; such orders to be subject to revision by the Appeals Division.

On the hearing of a cause in the Appeals Division, no justice who has given a judicial opinion in the cause in favor of or against the judgment, order or decree under review shall sit at the hearing to review such judgment, order or decree, but the reasons for such opinion shall be assigned to the Court in writing.

5. A majority of all the members of the Supreme Court, to be presided over by the Chief Justice, shall constitute a quorum for the assignment of justices, and for the appointment of officers, and the enactment of rules.

6. The Supreme Court shall appoint one or more reporters, not exceeding three, to report the decisions of the Court, and shall by rule define his or their duties and powers. The reporters shall hold office for five years, subject, however, to removal at the discretion of the Court.

SECTION V.

1. The Appeals Division shall have and exercise the appellate jurisdiction heretofore possessed by the Court of Errors and Appeals, the jurisdiction heretofore possessed by the Supreme Court on writ of error, and the jurisdiction heretofore possessed by the Prerogative Court on appeal, and by the Ordinary on appeal, and such further appellate jurisdiction as may be conferred upon it by law, together with such original jurisdiction as may be incident to the complete determination of any cause on review, saving, however, the right of trial by jury.

2. The jurisdiction hertofore possessed by the Supreme Court and the Justices thereof, is hereby conferred on the Appeals Division, and the jurisdiction heretofore possessed by the Circuit Courts and the Judges thereof, and such further original jurisdiction not of an equitable nature, and such further appellate jurisdiction from inferior courts as may be conferred by statute, shall be exercised by the Law Division of the Supreme Court and by the several justices thereof, in accordance with rules of practice and procedure prescribed by statute, or in the absence of statute by the Supreme Court.

3. The jurisdiction heretofore possessed by the Prerogative Court and the Ordinary, not hereby conferred on the Appeals Division, and the jurisdiction heretofore possessed by the Court of Chancery and the Chancellor, and such further original equity jurisdiction as may be conferred by statute, and such further orignal jurisdiction as is now conferable on the Prerogative Court shall be exercised by the Chancery Division and by the Chancellor and the several justices of said division in accordance with rules and practice and procedure prescribed by statute, or, in the absence of statute, by the Supreme Court, but the justices of that division shall be under such control and supervision by the Chancellor as shall be provided by the Supreme Court.

4. Terms of the Supreme Court presided over by a single Justice of the Law Division for the trial of issues joined in or brought to the Law Division of the Supreme Court shall be held in the several counties at times fixed by the Supreme Court. Until so fixed, such trial terms shall be held at the places and times now fixed by law for the holding of the Courts of Common Pleas in the several counties.

5. The Supreme Court may provide by rule for the transfer of any cause or issue from the Law Division to the Chancery Division, or from the Chancery Division to the Law Division of the Supreme Court, and from the County Court to the Law Division or the Chancery Division of the Supreme Court, and for the giving of complete legal and equitable relief in any cause in the court or division where it may be pending.

6. Nothing herein contained shall prevent the alteration, by law, of any statutory power or jurisdiction conferred upon any court or judge since the adoption of the Constitution in the year one thousand eight hundred and forty-four, and nothing herein contained shall prevent the Legislature from conferring upon any inferior court which may hereafter be established such power or jurisdiction as was exercised by or which may now be conferred upon the inferior courts mentioned in section 1 of Article VI of the Constitution of 1844.

SECTION VI.

The County Courts shall have and exercise, in all cases within the county such original common law jurisdiction concurrent with the Supreme Court, and such other jurisdiction heretofore exercised by courts inferior to the Supreme Court and the Prerogative Court as may be provided by law. The final judgments of the County Courts may be brought for review before the Supreme Court in the Appeals Division. Until otherwise provided, the jurisdiction heretofore exercised by the Courts of Common Pleas, Orphans' Courts, Courts of Oyer and Terminer, Courts of Quarter Sessions, or by the judges thereof, shall be exercised by the County Courts pursuant to rules prescribed by the Supreme Court. The justices of the Law Division of the Supreme Court shall be ex-officio judges of the County Courts. All other jurisdiction or authority now vested in any court, judge or magistrate with jurisdiction inferior to the courts in this section mentioned, and not superseded by this article, shall continue to be exercised by such court, judge or magistrate until the Legislature shall otherwise provide.

SECTION VII.

This amendment to the Constitution shall not cause the abatement of any suit or proceeding pending when it takes effect. The Supreme Court shall make such general and special rules and orders as may be necessary for the tranfer of all suits and proceedings to the appropriate division or court created by this amendment. Matters pending when this amendment takes effect shall be decided by the judge or judges to whom they were submitted, and the order, judgment or decree made or advised by said judge shall be entered as that of the division or court to which the suit or proceeding shall have been transferred.

Fifth—Strike out paragraphs 1, 2, 5 and 8 of section II of Article VII; and substitute the following paragraphs in place of paragraphs 1 and 2, and change the numbers of the paragraphs following 5 to correspond:

1. The Chief Justice of the Supreme Court, the President Justice of the Law Division, the Chancellor and the Associate Justices of the Supreme Court shall be nominated by the Governor and appointed by him, with the advice and consent of the Senate. They shall not be less than thirty-five years of age, and shall have been practicing attorneys in the State for at least ten years. The County Judges shall not be less than thirty years of age, and shall have been practicing attorneys in this State for at least five years. They shall hold office for the term of five years; shall at stated times receive for their services such compensation, which shall not be diminished during their term of office, as the Legislature in its discretion shall fix for each county, and they shall hold no other office under the government of the State or of the United States, and shall not engage in practice of the law in the courts of the county where they hold court during their term of office. NO LID WANTED BY THE BOSSES

That machine leaders are in full sympathy with City Judge Martin E. Keffer's declaration that Atlantic City's Sunday policy suits Atlantic City and its visitors, regardless of what a few reformers may think about it, was evidenced Wednesday night, when the Republican machine in the Third Ward followed the organization forces in the three other balliwicks of the resort in unanimously indorsing the judge, now under summons to appear and explain his attitude in the Supreme Court, to succeed himself. Keffer's declaration of Wednesday, in which he said the city administration would fight the ministerial crusaders tooth and nail and raise the Continental Sunday issue when the next Legislature meets, is now declared to be the battle slogan of the resort in its fight for unrestricted liberty.

Keffer is directly in touch with Mayor Stoy, who still refuses to admit he has any notice from Attorney General Wilson to close up the town and clamp on the lid by raids next Sunday, and it is reported that saloon men and big hotel owners stand ready to supply all the money needed to finance a fight for favorable legislation that will command the attention of the whole country.

Machine forces in the Third Ward defied conservative voters there last night by indorsing Willia Malia, a saloon man, and Victor Freisinger, proprietor of Old Vienna, one of the most famous of the Bohemian resorts on the boardwalk, for City Council, to succeed Samuel W. Moore, a wealthey merchant and beach front owner, and Daniel S. White, president of the Hotel Traymore Company and former chairman of the Finance Board, who incurred the wrath of the bosses by fighting what is termed the beach front steal. White has declared he will be a candidate against the men put up by the ringleaders, and the battle is bound to gravely complicate the Sunday situation.

It was currently reported yesterday that the political backers of Sunday baseball at the Inlet Park, the issue upon which the whole Sunday war was based at its inception, have decided to surrender. It is said to be the plan of the backers to advertise the Sunday game as usual up to Saturday night and then call off the game while pastors in their pulpits on Sunday morning are voicing ringing protests against the defiant leaders of the opposition.

SERVICE AT BABY CAMP

Rev. Theodore Englund Talks to the Little Ones at the Mountain Camp.

GEORGE E. HALL GIVES TALK.

Music Is Provided and Contributions Are Received at the Season's Final Meeting.

Despite the threatening weather, the largest audience of the summer gathered at the Baby Camp on the mountain yesterday afternoon to enjoy the last service of the season.

Over 200 people were present, and the stage provided by George E. Hall for transportation to and from the camp, was taxed to its utmost capacity to accommodate passengers. In addition to this, his two automobiles made several trips up the mountain and return, but even then a number of people walked from the trolley to the camp.

The meeting, which was in charge of Mr. Hall, was unusually interesting, and included a program of vocal and instrumental music rendered in a highly pleasing manner by the choir and orchestra of the Swedish church, of this city. A choir of nine voices sang sweetly, "Shall you, shall I?" and "When the roll is called up yonder, I'll be there." The orchestra, consisting of a zither, two guitars and two violins, rendered the selections, "Throw out the life line," and "Saved through Jesus' Blood." In addition to these numbers, the choir sang one piece in Swedish, accompanied by the orchestra.

The speaker of the meeting was the pastor of the Swedish church, Rev. Theodore Englund, who talked so earnestly and with such marked sympathy and helpfulness, as to enjoy the unabated interest of his entire audience from beginning to end of his address.

"The Old Time Religion" might be called the theme upon which he spoke, and taking the Twenty-third Psalm and several other passages of Scripture as the basis of his remarks, he told how the Swedish people in their own country are brought up to love God's Word and to live a Christian life; and how, when they come to this country they are in danger of losing sight of the teachings of their childhood, because of the attractions of a newer world that offer such sore temptations. With marked tenderness he spoke of the simple childlike faith of the Swedish people, who are taught to lean upon God in all their troubles and darker experiences of life. Mr. Englund told his audience how deeply interested he is in any work that has for its object the comfort and welfare of little children; and by way of emphasis cited an instance of child life in New York city that was most pathetic.

Both the words of the speaker and the musical portion of the program appealed to the audience with a peculiar helpfulness, and Mr. Hall voiced the feelings of every one present when he said that Mr. Englund need offer no apology for his imperfect use of the English language, for he had spoken in the language of the heart, which is understood by us all, whether natives of Sweden, America or any other land.

Mr. Hall spoke of the splendid work that has been carried on at the camp under the management of the matron, Mrs. Bird, and that although no collections have been taken at the meetings this summer, voluntary contributions are always very acceptable, and are made to go as far as possible in carrying on the work of the summer camp. At the close of the meeting a number from the audience handed in their contributions, aggregating a considerable sum. Seventeen hundred children and mothers have been cared for this summer. Some of this number have been given a new lease of life because of the days spent on this mountain, and every one who has had any share at all in this beautiful work, has been made to feel it a privilege to minister to the wants of the sick, to the comfort and well-earned rest of tired and overworked mothers, and to the happiness of the little children. Speakers, singers and musicians have been especially kind in giving their services at these meetings, which have grown more and more popular with each succeeding Sunday.

Through the kindness of Mr. Hall, who, throughout the summer has furnished transportation for all who have attended the Sunday afternoon services, the people of Plainfield and adjoining towns have had the privilege of spending an hour in this delightful spot, surrounded by influences that have been helpful and inspiring. This four o'clock service has now become a recognized phase of camp life on the mountain, and next summer will no doubt see these meetings continued on even a larger scale.

REV. DR. DICKINSON HERE

Rochester Divine Addresses Four Congregations at First Baptist.

THE FINAL UNION SERVICE.

He Preaches For Rev. Dr. Chambliss In the Morning—His Text "Not Doubting."

Rev. Dr. John Taylor Dickinson, of Rochester, N. Y., occupied the pulpit of the First Baptist church, yesterday, morning and evening, preaching to large congregations. The evening service was attended by the congregations of the Trinity Reformed, First Presbyterian, First M. E. and First baptist churches, it being the last union meeting for the season.

Dr. Dickinson's discourse treated with the discouragements in life, citing those experienced by Moses when he tried to lead his people in the right path toward God. He said that some people get the idea that God does not want them to work for Him, that He can get along without their aid. This, the preacher said, was not so. On the contrary God wants everyone to do all they can for Him and His cause and thus upbuild the Kingdom of God.

The preacher also referred to the fact that there comes a time in the life of everyone when they must decide between accepting or rejecting Christ, and he impressed upon his hearers the importance of making the right decision. When Moses was so discouraged over the way his people acted, God gave him encouragement which proved a great source of help and strength.

In the morning Dr. Dickinson delivered an interesting discourse on the topic of "Not Doubting." He urged all to serve God faithfully and to put implicit faith in Him, not doubting but that everything would come out all right. He made a special point of friendship and said that when one finds a real true friend they should cling to them. Other points of the discourse were to be earnest in serving God and to constantly pray for His Spirit.

THEY GET THEIR MAIL UNDER FICTITIOUS NAMES

One of the results of the recent annual convention of postmasters at Toledo is that several officials have recently issued orders to hold all mail addressed under fictitious names to young girls and boys. The order has been in force at the local postoffice for several years. Postmaster Bird says he has not been troubled so much with boys and girls as with married men and women, who frequently request him to hold certain mail. There is no ruling that gives Mr. Bird the right to refuse in the case of adults, but he has repeatedly declined to hold mail for young people.

"It has been a custom for girls to get mail at the general delivery window without the knowledge of their parents," said Mr. Bird today. "Where the clerks know that the girls are getting letters under fictitious names they will hold up the mail and stamping it 'fictitious' forward it to the dead letter office in Washington. The experienced general delivery letter clerks have a pretty good memory of faces and names and in this way the practice is reduced to a minimum.

GOOD GOVERNMENT TALK

Warren Township's Men Get Some Points from "The Bungalow Man."

WAS A HEART-TO-HEART TALK.

Speaker Tells What Has Been Accomplished In New Providence Township.

At a large and enthusiastic meeting of the citizens of Warren Township, held in the schoolhouse at Mount Bethel on Saturday evening, William Jeffery, of Berkeley Heights, "made good," as usual. At the opening of the meeting, William Henry Rogers, former committeeman of the township of Warren, was elected temporary chairman.

Mr. Jeffery spoke for one hour and made some telling points and aroused the audience at intervals to prolonged applause. In part he said that all citizens of whatever party or creed should band themselves together to promote the best interests of the township, that is what has been done, is being done and will be done in the future in the Townships of New Providence. He declared that Republicans should srtive to make the Republican party better and Democrats to make the Democratic party better and the way to do it is to secure the best men from the respective parties for offices; all this for county, state and federal elections but that for township elections, party lines should be ignored and cast aside and the township should come first and the party second, thereby enabling men of no pronounced political creed but who may possess stirling qualities and ability, to accept public office in the township. That the people of Warren Township should look well to it that they do not secure old-time politicians but to infuse new life and give the younger men a chance to help the township.

"This will serve three purposes or more," said Mr. Jeffery. "It will get a wiggle on the old ones, educate the young ones who may become elected to office and set up an example for the children to follow. It will give the younger element something to think about and keep them out of the grog shops. It will centralize the attention of the citizens of Warren on the people of Warren instead of on themselves individually. It will help to eliminate the awful spirit of selfishness which makes it hard for people to see any good in others. It will ennoble the children, make them breath the air of love and peace which must follow the life of usefulness to others. It will stimulate the mothers of the township to better things and to help the fathers stand up for better government. I see a grand future for the township of Warren if the men who are here assembled continue their interest for good government. It is an inspiration to see so many kindly, honest faces and strong bodies, evidences of the toil you men undergo every day. You, the farmers and workingmen of Warren Township and all other townships and of the country, are the salt of the earth and God's chosen people. Fear nothing or no one.

"Proceed with your work for home and family.

"If those who impede the march of progress in your township, get in your way, remove them gently but firmly, not because you hate them but because you love them. As a learned friend of mine writes, 'My dog tried to bite me. I liked the dog so I kicked him lovingly in the jaw.' He understood that argument. My grocer tried to cheat me. I liked the grocer. I would not kick him in the jaw but I told him lovingly that I would not deal with him again. He understood that argument. My baby tried to slap me. I liked the baby but I would not kick her in the jaw or even cease to play with her. I kissed her lovingly on the cheek. She understood that argument. There are thousands of laws in the State of New Jersey calculated to make us honest and to love one another. Now won't you be good? Do your duty in order to secure to yourself better government in the township of Warren, is obvious and you must metaphorically kick the undesirable office-holders in the jaw or in other words, kick the dear creatures and put them out of offiffice gently, but firmly.

"We accomplished wonderful results in the township of New Providence." Here Mr. Jeffery enumerat-

YOUNG POLISH GIRL IS A VICTIM OF TETANUS

Miss Annie Krotchy, the seventeen-year-old Polish girl, who was ill at Muhlenberg Hospital with tetanus, died at the institution on Saturday, following the most intense agony. Her condition was such that from the time she was admitted to the hospital the physicians agreed that she could not recover. The girl ran a splinter in her foot two weeks ago, but the injury healed quickly and nothing more was thought of the matter until she was suddenly seized with tetanus.

At the hospital everything possible was done for the patient with the hope of baffling the dread disease. Miss Krotchy was employed as a servant in the family of N. W. French, of West Fourth street, and the family did all that was possible for the girl. The funeral service was held at 10 o'clock this morning from the home of friends at 657 South Second street, and Father B. M. Bogan, of St. Mary's church, officiated. The burial was in St. Mary's cemetery.

HOLY NAME SOCIETIES TO HOLD DEMONSTRATION

As director of the Union County Union of the Holy Name Society, Father B. M. Bogan, has called a meeting to be held at the Lyceum, Elizabeth, Sunday afternoon, when final arrangements will be made for the annual demonstration of the county organization. This denomination will be held in that city on Sunday, October 10. There will be present at the preliminary meeting representatives from all the societies in the county.

Similar demonstrations will be held by the Holy Name Societies on October 10 at Newark, Jersey City, Morristown, Union Hill and Paterson, and the day is usually made one of the most important of any by those connected with the societies. At Elizabeth there will be a parade from Elizabethport to Elizabeth, and appropriate exercises will be held in front of the hospital on South Broad street, that city, with speeches by several persons prominent in the church.

ALLEGED JOY RIDERS' HEARING POSTPONED

O. H. Osgoodby, of Somerville, who failed to put in an appearance at the city court Saturday morning for a hearing, was arrested by Patrolman O'Keefe on a police warrant Saturday afternoon, when he came to this city to get his automobile from a local garage. His arrest Friday night with two friends terminated an alleged wild "joy ride," of which the police have not yet learned all the particulars. Taken to police headquarters, Osgoodby, who owns the automobile, was released on his own recognizance for a hearing the following day.

On the advice of his counsel, John Freck, of Somerville, Osgoodby has secured an adjournment of his hearing, and will be arraigned before Judge William N. Runyon Friday morning on a charge of reckless driving on Park avenue. Sentence was suspended on John D. Hall, a companion of Osgoodby in the machine, when he was arraigned before Judge Runyon on a charge of intoxication Saturday morning. Osgoodby and Hall both have stated that they did not know the name of the third man with the party.

The police have learned additional facts about the "joy ride" which started from Somerville at about 8 o'clock Friday night, but Osgoodby says he will have witnesses in court Friday to show that there was nothing wrong about the trip. It is reported that the machine was run on the sidewalk for part of the way up Park avenue just before the arrest of the party, and it is possible that a dispute about non-payment for several rounds of drinks at a local hotel will be aired at the hearing.

Osgoodby, who is a prominent real estate man in Somerville, was an opponent of Congressman Fowler in a recent election. At that time he was a resident of Cranford, and since then had been a resident of West Eighth street, this city, before removing to Somerville.

FREDERICK WENZEL DEAD; ILL SINCE LAST MAY

Frederick Wenzel, a veteran of the Civil War and a member of Winfield Scott Post No. 73 G. A. R., died at his home, 1314 West Front street, Saturday afternoon after a long illness, in his sixty-sixth year. He was junior vice-commander of Winfield Scott Post having held that office for the past three years. The funeral will be held tomorrow (Tuesday) afternoon from his late residence at 1:45 and the interment will be in Evergreen cemetery.

Mr. Wenzel enlisted in Company D, Thirty-first New Jersey Volunteers, September 17, 1862, and served nine months with that company, when he was honorably discharged. He enlisted when the company was recruited at Flemington and although slightly under the required age was passed by the recruiting officers because of his size. His record during the service in the army was an honorable one and Mr. Wenzel was held in high esteem by all who knew him. He was of a modest and retiring disposition and universally liked.

Mr. Wenzel was born in Germany and came to this country when four years old. He was a contractor and had lived in Plainfield for the past forty years. He leaves a brother William Wenzel, of Trenton, and a sister, Mrs. Philip Dahmer, of New York city.

Besides a widow nine children survive him. Mrs. Fred Dayton, Mrs. Samuel Wilson, John, Charles and William Wenzel, all of whom are married and Jennie, Leora, Bertha and Fred Wenzel, unmarried children. The funeral services gill be conducted by Rev. E. S Kemble, pastor of the Monroe Avenue Methodist church. The members of Winfield Scott Post will attend the funeral in a body and conduct the services at the grave.

Worshipped At Netherwood Church.

Dr. Cornelius Schenck, former pastor of Trinity church. The cozy little Netherwood church was comfortably filled. Mr. Royal A. Stout, the stated supply, was at his best and delivered a practical message on several kinds of needed "rest" from labors, taking his text from Hebrews 4:9. "There remaineth therefore a rest to the people of God."

HOPE'S TRIBUTE TO IRA WINTHROP TRAVELL

Resolutions of regret over the resignation of Assistant Superintendent Ira W. Travell, and appreciation of his work as a teacher and officer of the Sunday-school for the past sixteen years have been engrossed in a handsome Morocco leather bound book and signed by officers, teachers and pupils of Hope Chapel Sunday-school, about six hundred in number. The book was presented to Mr. Travell by Superintendent G. H. Condict at the conclusion of the Sunday-school session yesterday afternoon, when a farewell reception was tendered the retiring officer, who will shortly move to Morristown to take up his duties as superintendent of public schools there.

A handsome copy of Moulton's Readers' Bible, bound in leather, was also presented to Mr. Travell by Mr. Condict, in behalf of the officers, teachers and pupils of the school. Mr. Travell spoke his thanks after the presentations and in the course of his remarks referred to the gratifying growth of the Sunday-school during the sixteen years he has been connected there, and in connection with his appreciation of the gifts and farewell, wished success and growth to the school and a continuation of the loyalty which has marked its life.

The book of resolutions is about ten by twelve inches in size, and a handsome specimen of loose-leaf book-making. It is elaborately bound in Morocco leather, limp. The first page contains the resolutions, beautifully engrossed, and on the pages following are the signatures. These are headed by the names of Rev. J. S. Zelie, pastor of the Crescent Avenue church, and Rev. L. R. Howard, pastor of Hope chapel, and following are the names of the officers and the members of each class of the Sunday-school, headed by the teacher's name. The Readers' Bible is the literary revision of the Old and New testaments, and is handsomely bound in leather and suitably inscribed.

Miss Mary Hammond a Bride.

Miss Mary Hammond, of East Second street, and Thomas Monsell, of Manson place, were married at St. Mary's church, Wednesday afternoon, August 25, by Father B. M. Bogan, this being his first official act upon returning home from a trip abroad. The couple was attended by Joseph McCue, of Elizabeth, and Miss Mary Higgins, of this city. The altar was attractively decorated in honor of the bride, who is a member of the Sodality. After a honeymoon the couple will reside here.

SPROULL MAKES APPEAL

Urges Endeavorers to Increase Membership Twenty-five Per Cent.

PLANS FOR THE CONVENTION.

Nominating Committee For Annual Session To Be Held Here Next Month.

The president of the New Jersey Christian Endeavor Union, John T. Sproull, has issued a letter which was read at the local meetings last night.

Speaking of the work for the coming year, he says:

"You are probably aware that through the courtesy and help of the business interests of Atlantic City, New Jersey was enabled to present an invitation for the holding of the next International Convention of Christian Endeavor (to be held in 1911), to the Board of Trustees of the United Society at the convention in St. Paul, and it was unanimously accepted.

"Vacation season is nearly at end and our State convention is near at hand. What are your arrangements for a large attendance at Plainfield, October 6 to 8? The program will be one of special interest to every Endeavorer and the convention committee of Plainfield is preparing for a large attendance, and what will it profit if you are not there? Begin at once to plan for a large delegation from your society and see to it that you, yourself, go.

"As previously advised, unless our State secretary, Miss Ida B. Stephens, of Hackettstown, shall receive prior to October 5 application for at least 500 copies of a report of the proceedings and addresses of the Plainfield convention the same will not be published.

"The special work laid upon all the Christian Endeavor Societies for the next two years by Dr. Clark, in his address at St. Paul, was as follows: A 25 per cent. increase in the membership of all existing societies and an increase of 3,000 new junior, 2,000 new intermediate, 3,000 new young people's and 2,000 new senior societies, or an aggregate of 10,000 new societies, with 1,000,000 new members, all to be secured between now and the convention of 1911. New Jersey has pledged herself to gain her proportion of this increase, and we are depending upon you for the fulfilling of this pledge made in your behalf at the St. Paul convention. Every locality in our State must be thoroughly and intelligently canvassed for the organizing of new socities and to increase the interest and membership of those already existing. Will you take this matter up immediately in your society and go to work in your village, town or city?

"You will find below the names of the nominating committee, which will present at the coming convention in Plainfield nominees for the following officers for the coming year, namely, president, three vice-presidents, secretary, associate secretary and treasurer, and also for an advisory committee consisting of nine members, and the nominating committee will be very glad to receive any suggestions from you."

Mr. Sproull has appointed the following committee to nominate officers, to be chosen at the Plainfield convention: The Rev. Dr. P. T. Pockman, chairman, New Brunswick, N. J.; Mrs. L. Ida Dukes, 518 North Fifth street, Camden; the Rev. Dr. F. W. Johnson, Washington; J. K. Harriman, president Hudson County Local Union, Jersey City; H. A. Schultz, president Mercer County Local Union, Trenton.

Suspended Sentence For Miller.

Martin Miller, an employe of Frederick Harrington, of Greenbrook road, was arrested on complaint of his wife by Marshal Pope, of North Plainfield, yesterday, for disorderly conduct, superinduced by too liberal indulgence in booze. Mrs. Miller did not appear in court this morning to press the charge and Borough Recorder Dolliver suspended sentence after lecturing Miller on the evils of intemperance.

Lloyd VanMiddlesworth Weds.

Lloyd VanMiddlesworth, of this city, and Miss Hilda Lillian Davis, of Orange, were married Friday night at the home of Rev. Dr. Cornelius Schenck, on West Front street, the ceremony being performed by the latter. After a wedding trip the couple will reside in this city.

N. Y. AMUSEMENTS.

Frederic Thompson's production of "Polly of the Circus" begins a week's engagement at Springer's Grand Opera House tonight. Miss Edith Taliaferro then makes her debut in New York as a leading woman in a "grown up" part. At the head of her own company, Miss Taliaferro appeared as Polly last season in many of the largest cities of the country, and the manner of her reception precludes any doubt as to her achievement of an emphatic success here. All of the most important members of the original "Polly of the Circus" company are in the cast which supports Miss Taliaferro. These include John Findlay, Joseph Brennan, Earl Brown, James Cherry, Mattie Ferguson and J. B. Hollis. Following out his idea of always improving where improvement is possible, Mr. Thompson has added to the roster of circus acts which appear in the third act of the play, the Barlowe troupe of performing dogs and ponies. With this addition the circus ring features are sufficient in number and in variety to rank as a first class "tent show."

"Oh, Johnny, Get a Gun!"

A 13-Shot $40 Magazine Rifle for 3.50

A little while ago we sold a big lot of old army rifles at a price that created a sensation, and the hundreds who bought the guns were delighted with their bargain.

Now we are going to offer another lot of guns—far superior to the Springfield rifles—much better from a practical standpoint, for they are 13-shot Vetterlin Magazine Rifles, built for the Swiss government at a cost of $40 each, and lots of them had not been in use at all and are brand new.

These are the improved 81 Model bolt action Rifles, carrying 12 shots in the magazine and one in the barrel, making it possible to fire 13 times without reloading, and it has a range of 2,000 yards.

They are beautifully made, with finely grained walnut stocks and blue steel barrels. We guarantee every one to be in perfect condition, and will sell them all this week at the astonishing little price of $3.50.

ADVETISE IN THE DAILY PRESS

SOME STATE NEWS BRIEFS

Business men of Salem have decided to hold a carnival on October 5, 6 and 7, and the program is to be arranged at a special meeting this evening.

Salem County has always boasted of its large number of gunners, but, judging by the few licenses that have been granted, there will not be many out this season.

Ventnor City demands the building of a high pressure salt water main, at a cost of $30,000. The fire which destroyed several boathouses and cottages last Sunday impressed the authorities with the need of better protection, and the high pressure main, which would relieve the resort of the necessity of buying expensive fire apparatus, seems to be the most economical way to secure the protection. The city, too, has been called to vote upon the question of adopting paved streets in place of gravel.

Miss Stella Smith, of Millstone, has been visiting friends here for a short time.

Mrs. William McCrady, of this city, has been visiting her sister at Bound Brook.

ST. PETER AND THE UMPIRE.

An umpire stood
At Peter's gate
Waiting in dread
To hear his fate.

"You were a bad,
Hard man, said Peter
"Your wife complains
You used to beat her.
You oft were cross,
Unfair, severe,
You hit the booze
A lot I hear.
You used to break
The furniture,
You scorned the church
And robbed the poor;
You led a life
Of sin, and so
I'll have to send
You down below."
The umpire wept
To hear his fate,
And he pleaded thus
At Peter's gate:
"Nay, send me not
Below to dwell,
For, back on earth
I had my hell";—
His face was bathed
In briny tears—
"I was an ump
For three long years."

Then from the wall
The saint took down
A golden harp,
A jeweled crown;
And kind he spoke,
As angels can:
"You've had enough—
Come in, old man."

Plainfield, N. J., August 30, 1909.

"THE LURE OF THE MASK."

To take its place among the many good serials that The Daily Press has obtained publication rights from time to time, today we begin Harold McGrath's great story, "The Lure of the Mask." To quote the copyrighters: "What humans are chiefly hunting for nowadays is inspiration in one form or another. This story cannot fail to give our readers inspiration, and therefore its value can hardly be overestimated. The magic of the love of man for woman, that, aroused simply by the sound of a voice, causes a young millionaire to cross oceans and traverse foreign lands to find his fate was never better pictured. The story is intensely romantic and alluringly mysterious. The insidious evils of unwise marriage with foreign "noblemen" are cleverly shown and the familiar Italian brand of intrigue is laid bare. The author shows that the reward of patience and purity is happiness and that the wages of sin is death. He makes you laugh when he pictures the adventures of an American comic opera troupe stranded in foreign lands. He makes you thrill with the wander lust when he describes La Bella Napoli and the vine covered slopes that rim the Mediterranean."

Former Governor Stokes is home again. Now watch the political stories come out of Trenton.

HEALTH DEPARTMENT USES MOTOR CYCLE

The city has purchased a 3½ horse-power Simplex motorcycle for the use of the Board of Health, and the wheel was delivered this morning by the local agent. Assistant Health Officer O'Brien inspected it, and sent out Inspector C. A. Lamont to learn to ride.

Lamont ran up and down North avenue trying to start the machine for about thirteen laps before he thought to spark it, but was seen later flashing along the brick pave on the bike. The machine has been purchased to save travelling expenses by the inspector in his periodical visits to the out-lying dairies. It has heretofore been the custom to his rigs on inspection days, but with the new motorcycle both time and money will be saved, Mr. O'Brien says.

INTERESTING ILLUSTRATED LECTURE AT BABY CAMP.

Rev. Robert F. Y. Pierce, pastor of the Second Avenue Baptist church, New York city, gave an interesting illustrated talk to the children and mothers of Netherwood Fresh Air Home yesterday afternoon. There was a large attendance of Plainfield people who also enjoyed the service. Dr. Pierce is the illustrator for the International Sunday school literature and illustrated his talk with rapid fire drawings on paper.

A drawing of an escalop shell was used to show how life may be put into a dead and apparently useless body and made beautiful through love. The leaves of an open Bible on which Dr. Pierce drew a spider's web on one side and a life-like plant on the other, gave the audience a fair idea of how the evil one works to draw people to his ways. Other quickly drawn illustrations brought out the thoughts of pure and impure hearts and how to live as God would wish all to live. The children were quick to note the different sides of the thoughts as they were suggested and invariably selected the right one.

Miss Lottie Conger, of Fanwood, sang a solo and Mary Miller, one of the young helpers at the Home also sang very sweetly a medley of religious songs, which was much enjoyed. Next Sunday will see the last of the meetings for the summer. A good program will be arranged for that day and it is hoped that the pavilion will be filled.

Defeated New Brunswick 2 to 0.

The baseball fans of Bound Brook are greatly elated over their team's victory on Saturday in the game with New Brunswick. The Middlesex county boys were defeated by a score of 2 to 0. Langstaff pitched for Bound Brook, and was opposed by Jimmy Clinton. Both twirlers were in fine form. It is said that New Brunswick claims to have been "robbed" by Umpire Graham. That appears to be the usual cry of the former when defeated.

ELIZABETH DEFEATS PLAINFIELD'S TEAM

Johnson Brewer, the new boxman for the Plainfield B. B. C., met his first defeat at Elizabeth, yesterday, when the Betsyton ballplayers banged his delivery for a total of eleven hits and scored six runs. Although the Plainfielders got eight hits, they scored but a single tally, and that came in the fifth stick session.

Brewer was opposed by Ortlieb, an ex-twirler for the local nine, who quit the local uniform about two weeks ago. He kept the eight hits scored off his delivery pretty well scattered and was given errorless support. A big delegation of local fans saw the game, which was played at the Atlantic League grounds.

The Elizabeth nine started the run getting in the first, when three batsmen scored. A long line of zeros was broken in the eighth, when three more runs were hammered in. Bunched hits brought the lone run for the locals in the fifth.

The score:

Elizabeth	3	0	0	0	0	0	0	3	x	6	11	0

"THE DISTRICT SCHOOL" AT NETHERWOOD CAMP.

A delightful entertainment was given to the children of the Netherwood Fresh Air Home Saturday night by a company of young people who gave a very fair imitation of a district school in full operation. The costuming was screamingly funny and the mad entrance of the schoolmaster put the children on edge for what was to follow.

The entertainment was arranged for in a very short time, but the performance did not smack of unpreparedness. The old songs, the spelling bee and the finale, an impromptu set of verses, laudatory of Miss Curray, sung to the tune of "Good Night Ladies," were hugely enjoyed by the youngsters.

Those who took part were Miss Bock, Mr. and Mrs. George, Mr. and Mrs. Henry, Mrs. Raynor, Miss Marcom, Mrs. Benjamin Hadley, Miss Eva Hadley, Mrs. William Hadley, Miss Annie Smith, Miss Dorothy Smith, Miss Ollie Jones, Richard Harrigan, Miss Harrigan, Joseph and Theodore Lugford and Miss Florence Strubel.

SIDNEY PERRIN SPEAKS AT THE GOSPEL TENT.

Sidney T. Perrin addressed a large congregation in the Salvation Army tent last evening. The service opened with song and was followed by solos, one being sung by Edward Brunn and another by Mrs. Adjutant Straubel. George Speer accompanied the singing with the violin. Mr. Perrin read several portions of Scripture and took for his subject Matthew, sixteenth chapter and twenty-sixth verse, "For what is a man profited if he shall gain the whole world, and lose his own soul or what shall a man give in exchange for his soul?" He gave many strong illustrations which impressed the truth of the Scripture upon his hearers.

Meetings will be held in the tent every evening this week with the exception of Monday and Wednesday.

Knights of Columbus Clambake.

The annual outing and clambake of Watchung Council, Knights of Columbus, was held yesterday at Sebring's Farm, Greenbrook, and, as usual, was largely attended by members and friends of the order. The bake was prepared and served by Erwin Neighbour, who has established an enviable reputation for putting up the best ever in the way of a clambake.

Two Drunks Fined.

Thomas Kelly, who tried to break up the performance of Uncle Tom's Cabin, in Dunellen Saturday, was brought before Borough Recorder Campbell yesterday and fined $15 for being drunk and disorderly and resisting an officer. A plain drunk, named John Crawford, was let off with a two-dollar fine at the same session of the court.

Visitors See Meteorite.

Janitor MacDonald, of the North Plainfield High School, is being kept busy today exhibiting the meteorite which fell from the skies on August 16. The story printed in The Daily Press Saturday has evidently been widely read and is interesting people who delight in studying nature's freaks.

Accident Victim Goes Home.

Benjamin DuBois, of Whitehouse, whose left leg was amputated at Mohlenberg Hospital after a runaway accident at his home nearly two months ago, was discharged from the hospital Saturday and returned to his home yesterday. The limb was amputated about three weeks ago.

Luigi Carluano, of West Fourth street, was found in a helplessly intoxicated condition by Patrolman McGinley at Belvidere and South avenues at about 9 o'clock last night. At his arraignment this morning, Judge Runyon suspended sentence.

DROWNED MAN WAS BALTIMORE DENTIST.

Trenton, Augu. 30.—The man drowned in the canal here Wednesday while bathing is now believed to be Dr. Oscar F. Ching, of Baltimore, Md., a dentist.

Dispatches received here from Baltimore yesterday stated that Dr. Ching's father-in-law, Reginald Bowie, of Carroll avenue, Waverly, a suburb of Baltimore, recognized the description of the drowned man as that of his daughter's husband. The man's coat had the name O. F. Ching sewed in the lining and his Panama hat bore the inscription, Warner & Co., Baltimore.

Dr. Ching was about twenty-eight years old. About eleven years ago he married Miss Bernice Bowie. He resided with his wife's family at Waverly. Dr. Ching frequently took little trips to visit friends in neighboring States, who attended college with him in Baltimore. Last Wednesday week he left Baltimore for this city, and the following Wednesday Dr. R. Rutledge Copeland, a former partner, received a letter from Dr. Ching stating that he meant to return home Wednesday night.

After Dr. Ching came here his wife, with their three small children, went to the home of a relative in Anne Arundel county, and has not yet been informed of her husband's death.

The man divested himself of his clothing on the bank of the canal on the outskirts of this city and jumped into the stream, supposedly for a swim. Workmen at a nearby pottery saw the man come to the surface and strike out for shore. He had gone a short distance when he began to scream as if taken with cramps, and a few seconds later he sank. His body was afterward recovered and taken to a local morgue.

FORT PICKENS HERO DEAD.

General Jeremiah H. Gilman, who as a young lieutenant in the Union army held Fort Pickens against the Confederate forces at the beginning of the Civil War, is dead at the Oriental Hotel, Manhattan Beach. He was 79 years old and had been in ill health for several months.

At the outbreak of the war Lieutenant Gilman, with seventy men of the United States Artillery, held Fort Pickens, which was located on an island commanding Pensacola harbor, on the Florida coast.

Here he was beseiged by a force of 5,000 Confederate troops. Word of the fall of Fort Sumter came to the beseiged seventy, but their courage did not fail, and the only fort south of the Mason and Dixon line which remained in Union hands throughout the four years' struggle was held until reinforcements arrived by sea from New York.

DEATH OF ENGINEER WHO FOUND MEXICAN MINES.

Colonel William S. Morrow, who died Friday night at his home at Westfield, had for many years been interested in the development of mining properties. He was a mining engineer, and had crossed the Continent more than fifty times. He claimed to have been the original discoverer of the Sonora gold mines in Mexico, and for years had been interested in their development. Some years ago he organized a company to hold and work properties there. Mr. Morrow was in his seventy-ninth year. He was born in Ellicott City, Md., and for many years had been identified with mining interests, both in Pennsylvania and in the West.

He had lived at Westfield for the past eighteen years. Death was due to kidney trouble. His funeral will be held this afternoon at his late home at Westfield.

Mutilating Young Trees.

Residents of West Front street, between Sycamore and Giraud avenues, state that men and boys are constantly mutilating young trees along the brook by cutting off the branches, which are used to decorat- stores and street fruit stands.

W. J. Buttfield, of Rockview avenue, won the motor boat race for 3½ horse-power boats at Lake Placid in the Adirondacks, Wednesday afternoon. Mr. Buttfield is spending the summer at his cabin on the lake short.

ed the improvements to the citizens of that township. "But the thing which we have secured above all others in our township, is a larger measure of love for one another. The spirit of being willing to help the other fellow carry his load to relieve paid and suffering, to make life more cheerful to those who do not see as clearly as we do."

A vote of thanks was tendered to Mr. Jeffery and he will again address the citizens of Warren on Tuesday, September 7, in the ball room of Bintz's Hotel at Mount Bethel and will also address the ladies on the same day on "Good Government and Good Schools." Two very large meetings are anticipated.

AMONG OUR NEIGHBORS

PLAINS AND FANWOOD.

The local ball team played like schoolboys at Crescent Oval Saturday afternoon, the result was Plainfield trimmed them 6-0. MacLaughlin pitched good ball, but Mathewson could not have won the game with the support given "Warry." Three runs were made in the first inning on one hit, the runs being simply handed to the home team.

The Scotch Plains seconds won a hard fought 14 inning contest against the Garwood seconds Saturday afternoon at Garwood, the score being 7 to 6. The long contest has interested the Garwood fans and one of them has promised to put up a silver cup as a prize, providing the two teams will arrange a series of games for the trophy.

The local ball team defeated Rahway again yesterday afternoon, the score being 3 to 2. This is the third straight deefat the home team has given the Rahways this season. Rahway put it on to Plainfield, but the home team seems to be unable to do the trick.

Phil Smith pitched for the locals and had the game well in hand from the first, although he did not find it necessary to exert himself much. Had it not been for poor fielding on the part of an out-fielder he would have shut them out without a run.

THE FORUM.

One of Their Friends.

Editor, The Daily Press:

Now that the water in fountains and troughs has been turned off and the Board of Health has advised the use of private pails for horses, will the gentlemen composing that board kindly tell the public where to get the water to put in the pails. One of the fountains has, or had, running water which carries the scum from the horses mouths into the sewer and is therefore harmless. It is pitiful to see the suffering animals try to get a drink from an empty trough in this hot weather.

No Moore Money Yet.

Because of the fact that so few heirs turned out, the committee chosen some time ago to investigate the $80,000,000 land legacy owned by Benjamin, Thomas and William Moore, who died in England about a hundred years ago, no action was taken at the meeting of the Moore heirs with Mrs. Julia Downing, of East Fifth street Saturday night. The Moore, Pope, Hand and Giles families, of this city, are said to be direct descendants of the three Moore brothers, and an effort is being made to establish their claim to the estate.

Milk Wagon Smashed.

A horse attached to B. R. Waldron's milk wagon ran away Saturday night and managed to wreck the wagon without injuring himself. The horse was standing in Mr. Waldron's yard waiting for Mr. Waldron to drive after his supply of milk and becoming frightened at something dashed down the runway into Codington avenue, from there to Somerset street, where the wagon turned turtle, breaking the top and one wheel.

New Pupil Nurse.

Miss Natalie Anderson, of Bermuda, a new pupil nurse at Muhlenberg Hospital, started her probationary course Saturday.

THOSE desiring to own a farm should consult one who has been selling farms for years, and he is yours truly, William Henry Rogers, 136 Park avenue, Plainfield; telephone 44.

LOCAL AMUSEMENTS.

One of the real big treats of each theatrical season is that old but ever popular stage story, "Uncle Tom's Cabin," as presented by Stetson's big spectacular company, which will be seen at the Plainfield theatre tomorrow afternoon and night. As in former years, Manager Washburn has equipped his sterling company with all new effects and startling scenic, electrical and mechanical surprises are promised. The vaudeville and specialty numbers are said to be of the 1909 brand, while the negro melodies and the old southern plantation songs are rendered as only the genuine southern darkies know how to sing them.

"M'Liss," the stage version of Bret Harte's famous story, with "jolly" Nellie McHenry in the title role, will be seen at the Plainfield theatre on Wednesday night. "M'Liss" as all theatregoers know, is a story of a mountain girl's love. Villainy, adventure, and daring deeds help to make the plot absorbing, and the atmosphere is that of the west of Bret Harte and Mark Twain. Miss McHenry has surrounded herself with a capable acting company and the management has spared no expense in giving the little lady a beautiful scenic production.

If you want to see a novel play and have a good laugh, see "The White Squaw," which will be presented at the Plainfield theatre on Thursday evening. Neamata, the white squaw, has learned English well enough to read simple words and fairy tales; she however, has never seen a white woman since she can remember, and when Octavia her beautiful sister comes to the wigwam, she thinks her the fairy she has been reading about. This is a neat comedy scene that is screamingly funny. You will also feel sorry for Neamata when you see what education and social position has done for her sister, while Neamata's training has been by the two old Indians, Michabo and Ampata. What little English and French she knows has been taught her by Jacques Cautier, a French Canadian trapper, who is very much in love with her, and Bruce Marshall, a fur trader whom she loves. Bruce, however, is in love with Octavia and Neamata becomes desperately jealous. She then leanrs that Octavia is her sister, and the scenes following are dramatic and full of heart interest.

When theatrical people refer to a tremendous success in the business they speak of "the big show." That is how everyone refers to Geo. M. Cohan's best and original production "The Honeymooners," which proved such a phenomenal success for four months at the New Amsterdam theatre, New York city, and will be presented in this city on Friday night at the Plainfield theatre. "The Honeymooners" is just crowded with mirthful actions and the big girl revue is a challenge feature. Forty pretty, dainty, sweet little girls and they all sing and dance splendidly, too.

Saturday matinee and evening, September 4, we will have the new "Buster Brown" at the Plainfield theatre with Master Rice as "Buster." This is one of the best musical comedies that is now bidding for favor. It is fairly rampant with fun, while this season all the costumes are entirely new and most elaborate. The scenery is new, and new music and songs will be heard. The chorus is said to be large and most comely of face and form. This attraction should afford us an enjoyable evening.

The BOYNTON Square Fire-Pot

develops every atom of heat energy possible, by complete combustion, and leaves no clinkers and no waste.

The square pot burns less fuel and it thoroughly consumes all it takes—a double economy. All your earnings don't go into the fire when you run a BOYNTON.

For cleanliness and the trifling care necessary to run it the BOYNTON is easily the first choice of every man who takes the trouble to get acquainted with it. Look up the BOYNTON dealer in your town. The price is not prohibitive.

There are BOYNTON heating plants of all kinds. Ask about our Round or Sectional Boilers for Steam or Hot Water. Also Ranges.

RULES FOR BANK CUSTOMERS

The following rules are recommended to the attention of those who do business at the banks. They will be the means of saving a great deal of time and annoyance—by not following them.

1. If you have any business with a bank put it off until 3 o'clock, or, if possible, a little later, as it looks more business like to rush in as the bank is closing.

2. In depositing money try and get it upside down and wrong end foremost, so that the teller may have a little exercise in straightening it up before counting it.

3. It is best not to take your bank book with you, but call at another time and have it entered. You can thus make two trips to the bank where one would answer.

4. If a check is made payable to your order, be careful not to indorse it before handing it to the teller, but let him return it to you and wait while you indorse it; this helps to pass the time, and is a pleasure and relief to the teller.

5. You can generally save time when making a deposit by counting down your money to the teller, as you can nearly always count more speedily and correctly than he can.

6. If you make a deposit of $100 and give a check for $50, it is a good thing to call frequently at the bank and ask how your account stands, as it impresses the officers favorably with your business qualifications.

7. Never keep any record when your notes fall due, and then, if they are protested, censure the bank for not giving you notice.

8. Always date your checks ahead, it is a never-failing sign that you keep a good balance in bank; or, if you do not wish it generally known that you are doing a good business, do not deposit your money until about the time you expect your check will be in.

9. In depositing money never make out a deposit ticket. The teller has the blanks in his case for that purpose, and expects to fill them out himself. It annoys him to have you offer to do it; besides, if others are waiting, it gives them a chance to exercise patience, which is a great virtue.

10. In receiving money from a teller, never say in advance how you want it, but hand back each note separately and ask him to break it.

A strict observance of the foregoing rules will make your account desirable for any bank, and make you a general favorite with all the bank officers.

ESCAPED MURDER CHARGE TO BE RE-ARRESTED.

Bayonne, Aug. 30.—John Laughlin, who is alleged to have caused the death of his wife by beating her, and who was released Wednesday on the decision of County Physician Converse, that the woman's death was due to alcoholism, was re-arrested Thursday on the complaint of his sister-in-law and held by Recorder Mara without bail, on a charge of manslaughter.

According to the testimony Laughlin beat his wife on Sunday, August 15, while he was intoxicated. The following Thursday he was arrested. He became violent when notified of his wife's death Sunday night.

County Physician Charles B. Converse held a post-mortem examination Tuesday afternoon and decided that the woman's death was due to acute alcoholism and McLaughlin was set free. However, Recorder Hugh H. Mara deemed the testimony yesterday, of sufficient weight to hold Laughlin for the grand jury.

The Lure of the Mask

By HAROLD MAC GRATH

Copyright, 1908, by the Bobbs-Merrill Co.

What humans are chiefly hunting for nowadays is inspiration in one form or another. This story cannot fail to give its reader inspiration, and therefore its value can hardly be overestimated. The magic of the love of man for woman, that, aroused simply by the sound of a voice, causes a young millionaire to cross oceans and traverse foreign lands to find his fate was never better pictured. The story is intensely romantic and alluringly mysterious. The insidious evils of unwise marriage with foreign "noblemen" are cleverly shown, and the familiar Italian brand of intrigue is laid bare. The author shows that the reward of patience and purity is happiness and that the wages of sin is death. He makes you laugh when he pictures the adventures of an American comic opera troupe stranded in foreign lands. He makes you thrill with the wanderlust when he describes La Bella Napoli and the vine covered slopes that rim the Mediterranean.

CHAPTER I.

THE VOICE IN THE FOG.

OUT of the unromantic night out of the somber blurring January fog, came a voice lifted in song, a soprano, rich, full and round, young, yet matured, sweet and mysterious as a night bird's, haunting and elusive as the murmur of the sea in a shell—a lilt from "La Fille de Mme. Angot," a light opera long since forgotten in New York. Hillard, genuinely astonished, lowered his pipe and listened.

The voice rose and sank and soared again, drawing nearer and nearer. It was joyous and unrestrained, and there was youth in it, the touch of spring and the breath of flowers. The music was Lecocq's—that is to say, French—but the tongue was of a country which Hillard knew to be the garden of the world. Presently he observed a shadow emerge from the yellow mist, to come within the circle of light, which, faint as it was, limned in against the nothingness beyond the form of a woman. She walked directly under his window.

As the invisible comes suddenly out of the future to assume distinct proportions which either make or mar us, so did this unknown cantatrice come out of the fog that night and enter into Hillard's life, to readjust its ambitions, to divert its aimless course, to give impetus to it and a directness which hitherto it had not known.

"Ah!"

He leaned over the sill at a perilous angle, the bright coal of his pipe spilling comet-wise to the areaway below. He was only subconscious of having spoken, but this syllable was sufficient to spoil the enchantment. The voice ceased abruptly, with an odd break. The singer looked up. Possibly her astonishment surpassed even that of her audience. For a few minutes she had forgotten that she was in New York; she had forgotten the pain in her heart; there had been only an irresistible longing to sing.

Though she raised her face, he could distinguish no feature, for the light was behind. However, he was a man who made up his mind quickly. Brunette or blond, beautiful or otherwise, it needed but a moment to find out. Even as this decision was made he was in the upper hall, taking the stairs two at a bound. He ran out into the night bareheaded. Up the street he saw a flying shadow. Plainly she had anticipated his impulse. She was gone. He cupped his ear with his hand in vain. There was nothing but fog and silence.

"Well, if this doesn't beat the Dutch!" he murmured.

He laughed disappointedly. It did not matter that he was three and thirty. He still retained youth enough to feel chagrined at such a trivial defeat. Here had been something like a genuine adventure, and it had slipped like water through his clumsy fingers.

"Deuce take the fog! But for that I'd have caught her."

But reason promptly asked him what he should have done had he caught the singer. Yes, supposing he had, what excuse would he have had to offer? Who could she be? What peculiar whimsical freak had sent her singing past his window at 1 o'clock of the morning? A grand opera singer returning home from a late supper? But he dismissed this opinion even as he advanced it. He knew something about grand opera singers. They attend late suppers, it is true, but they ride home in luxurious carriages and never risk their golden voices in this careless if romantic fashion. As for being a comic opera star, he refused to admit the possibility, and he relegated this well satisfied constellation to the darks of limbo. He had heard a voice.

A policeman came lumbering over to add or subtract his quota of interest in the affair. Hillard wisely stopped and waited for him.

"I heard a woman singin'," the guardian of the law said roughly.

"So did I."

"Huh! See her?"

"For a moment," Hillard admitted.

"Well, we can't have none o' this in the streets. It's disorderly."

"My friend," said Hillard, rather annoyed at the policeman's tone, "you don't think for an instant that I was directing this operetta?"

"Think? Where's your hat?"

Hillard ran his hand over his head. The policeman had him here. "I did not bring it out."

"Too warm and summery, huh? It don't look good. I've been watchin' these parts fer a leddy. They call her Leddy Lightfinger, an' she has some o' the gents done to a pulp when it comes to liftin' jools an' trinkets. Somebody fergits to lock the front door, an' she finds it out. Why did you come out without yer lid?"

"Just forgot it, that's all."

"Which way'd she go?"

"You'll need a map and a searchlight. I started to run after her myself. I heard a voice from my window, I saw a woman; I made for the street; niente!"

"Huh?"

"Niente, nothing!"

"Oh, I see—dago. Seems to me now that this woman was singin' I-taly-an too." They were nearing the light, and the policeman gazed intently at the hatless young man. "Why, it's Mr. Hillard! I'm surprised. Well, well! Some day I'll run in a bunch o' these chorus leddies, jes' fer a lesson. They git lively at the restaurants over on Broadway, an' thin they raise the dead with their singin', which often as not is anything but singin'. An' here it is after 1."

"But this was not a chorus lady," replied Hillard, thoughtfully reaching into his vest for a cigar. "The lady had a singing voice."

Out of the somber fog came a voice lifted in song.

"Huh! They all think alike about that. But mebbe she wasn't bad at the business. Anyhow"—

"It was rather out of time and place, eh?" helpfully.

"That's about the size of it. This Leddy Lightfinger is a case. She has us all thinkin' on our nights off. Clever an' edjicated an' jabbers in half a dozen tongues. It's a thousan' to the man who jugs her. But she don't sing; at least they ain't any report to that effect. Perhaps your leddy was jes' lookin' a bit. But it's got to be stopped."

Hillard passed over the cigar, and the policeman bit off the end, nodding with approval at such foresight. "Didn't get a peep at her face?"

"Not a single feature. The light was behind her."

"An' how was she dressed?"

"In fog, for all I could see."

"On the level now, didn't you know who she was?" The policeman gave Hillard a sly dig in the ribs with his club.

"On my word!"

"Some swell, mebbe."

"Undoubtedly a lady. That's why it looks odd—why it brought me into the street. She sang in classic Italian. And, what's more, for the privilege of hearing that voice again I should not mind sitting on this cold curb till the milkman comes around in the morning."

"That wouldn't be fer long," laughed the policeman, taking out his watch and holding it close to the end of his cigar. "Twenty minutes after 1. Well, I must be gittin' back to me beat. Been to Italy?"

"I was born there," patiently.

"No! Why, you're no dago?"

"Not so much as an eyelash. The stork happened to drop the basket there, that's all."

"Ha, I see! Well, Ameriky is good enough fer me an' mine," complacently.

"I dare say!"

"An' if this stogy continues to behave we'll say no more about the vanishin' leddy." The policeman strolled off, his suspicions in nowise removed. He knew many rich young bachelors like Hillard. If it wasn't a chorus lady it was a prima donna, which was not far from being the same thing.

Hillard regained his room and leaned with his back to the radiator. He had an idea. It was rather green and salad, but as soon as his hands were warm he determined to put this idea into immediate use. The voice had stirred him deeply, stirred him with the longing to hear it again, to learn what extraordinary impulse had loosed the song.

Never the winter came with its weary round of rain and fog and snow that his heart and mind did not fly over the tideless southern sea to the land of his birth if not of his blood—Sorrento, that jewel of the sun bathed cliffs!

With a quick gesture of both hands—Latin, always Latin—he crossed the room to a small writing desk, turned on the lights and sat down. After several attempts he realized that the letter he had in mind was not the simplest to compose. There were a dozen futile efforts before he produced anything like satisfaction. Then he filled out a small check. A little later he stole downstairs, around the corner to the local branch of the postoffice and returned. It was only a blind throw, such as dicers sometimes make in the dark. But chance loves her true gamester, and to him she makes a faithful servant.

He picked up a novel. "I should be sorely tempted to call any other man a silly ass. Leddy Lightfinger—it would be a fine joke if my singer turned out to be that irregular person."

He fell to reading, but soon yawned. He shied the book into a corner, drew off his boots and cast them into the hall. A moment after his valet appeared, gathered up the boots and waited.

"I want nothing, Giovanni. I have only been around to the postoffice."

"I heard the door open and close four times, signor."

"It was I. If this fog does not change I shall want my riding breeches to morrow morning."

"It always rains here," Giovanni remarked.

"Not always. There are pleasant days in the spring and summer. It is because this is not Italy. The Hollander wonders how any reasonable being can dwell in a country where they do not drink gin. It's home, Giovanni. Rain pelts you from a different angle here. There is nothing more. You may go. It is 2 o'clock, and you are dead for sleep."

But Giovanni only bowed. He did not stir.

"It is seven years now, signor."

"So it is—seven this coming April."

"I am now an American citizen and may return to my good Italia without danger."

"That depends. If you do not run across any official who recognizes you."

Giovanni spread his hands. "Official memory seldom lasts so long as seven years. The signor has crossed four times in this period."

"I would gladly have taken you each time, as you know."

"Oh, yes! But in two or three years the police do not forget. In seven it is different."

"Ah!" Hillard was beginning to understand the trend of this conversation. "So, then, you wish to return?"

"Yes, signor. I have saved a little money," modestly.

"A little?" Hillard laughed. "For seven years you have received fifty American dollars every month, and out of it you do not spend as many copper centesimi. I am certain that you have 20,000 lire tucked away in your stocking—a fortune!"

"I buy the blacking for the signor's boots," gravely.

There was a baptism by immersion in Ocean Grove Friday, the first in the history of the famous Methodist resort. Mrs. Florence Reynolds, of New Brunswick, a member of the Methodist Episcopal church, was the one to receive the rite, which was performed at noon in the Ross swimming pool on the beach. Her pastor, the Rev. Dr. James William aMrshall, performed the ceremony.

DUNELLEN FIELD CLUB DEFEAT THE ST. MARY'S

The Dunellen Field Club defeated the St. Mary Baseball club, of this city, at Dunellen, Saturday afternoon, by a score of 10 to 5, in a most interesting contest. Lloyd held the Plainfield boys to six hits, while Dunellen gathered ten off of the delivery of Conover and Squires, who alternated in the box. Perhaps, the six errors by Plainfield helped more than anything to lose the game. The score:

GREENPOINT BRANCH DEFEATED BY Y.M.C.A.

The local Y. M. C. A. team went to the city of churches Saturday afternoon and took a game from the Greenpoint Branch of the Brooklyn Y. M. C. A., in an exciting contest before a large crowd. Miller pitched a telling game, only two hits being registered by his opponents during the nine innings. Evans and Peacock were back in the line up and strengthened the team. Evans, who had a broken hand, showed no ill-results from his lay off. Fritts captained the team and played a fine game at short, accepting seven chances without an error. In fact the whole team played a splendid tactful game and backed up the battery in professional style. Following is the score:

SCORED A SHUT OUT

Home Team Applies a Coat of Whitewash to 'Plains in Fast Game.

BREWER AND SEERY THE STARS

Plainfield's Machine-like Work Takes Starch out of Visitors—The Score is Six to Nothing.

Plainfield played up to league form Saturday afternoon and put up the best game they have played this season. Barring a low throw by Emery and a fumble by Carlstrom, the team worked like a well oiled piece of machinery, and shut the 'Plains men out, only one of their number getting as far as third base.

The credit of the victory is due in a large measure to the splendid battery work of Brewer and Seery, the latter making a couple of catches of the sensational order, while the former pitched masterly ball all the way. Another whose work stands out as of league calibre was that of Barnes at first base. Eleven put outs, two of them difficult unassisted plays made the fans roar with approval.

The story of the game is soon told. In the first and fifth innings Plainfield did all the scoring that was done. Boyd, the first man up in the first was given a life by Frentz and immediately stole second and third, capping the climax by stealing home on a short passed ball. This daring playing put the rest of the team on their mettle. Emery bunted safely and came all the way around on passed balls. Martin went out, McLoughlin to Ortlieb. Barnes whipped a single to right and came home when McLoughlin made a heave that went far out beyond the right foul line. Carlstrom, who had hit the ball, taking second on the misplay. Seery flied out to Baldwin, Carlstrom taking third on the throw in. On Brewer's hit to right center Carlstrom walked in so slowly that Brewer being tagged stealing second was out before Carlstrom crossed the rubber and umpire Paine refused to allow the run to count.

In the fifth session Boyd singled to right, Emery bunted safely and Frentz fumbled Martin's stinger, filling the bases. Boyd scored on Barnes' sacrifice. Emery and Martin came home on Stanton's hit to right. This ended the scoring.

The summary and box score tell the tale of what 'Plains could not do with Brewer's offerings. It was said that several of the 'Plains rooters had to walk home, but this could not be verified. Ortlieb, Plainfield's former artist, played a fairly good game at first for 'Plains and Frentz's game at second was weird.

The Netherwood F. C. has a record of winning twelve straight games, but the thirteenth was too much for them, and they went down to defeat before the fast South Plainfield B. B. C. by a score of 6 to 5. Saturday. Frederickson pitcher for Netherwood and put up a fine game. Smith twirled for South Plainfield and although he did not exert himself any he had the visitors guessing at all stages of the contest. Errors in the outfield allowed Netherwood to secore nearly all of their runs. Captain Mullin caught his usual fine game and made a remarkable running catch of a high foul that got considerable applause. Moran on first accepted every chance without an error and Hanson and W. Mullin on second and third played their positions in fine style. Hann and McDonough both got two baggers. The lineup:

C. and Paterson A. team, last year's Jersey State League champions, was played at Bound Brook, Saturday afternoon, resulting in a victory for the Bound Brook team with the total score of 47 to 35. Mr. Wildsmith did very well with the bat making fifteen runs in good style for the home team. Mr. Chara was the chief feature with his bowling ability, taking five wickets for ten runs, and G. Broadbent taking four for twenty-one runs.

J. J. CAREY, JR. MURDERED

Killed by "Sailor Jack" Allen, Notorious Bad Man, During Quarrel.

THE ASSAILANT IS CAPTURED.

Victim Was the Son of Assistant Warden of the Union County Court House.

James J. Carey, Jr., of 559 Livingston street, Elizabeth, was stabbed and mortally wounded late yesterday afternoon by John Allen, known as "Sailor Jack," at Magnolia avenue and Division street in that city. Carey died in the ambulance summoned from the Alexian Brothers' Hospital in Elizabeth.

Allen was driving a wagon along Magnolia avenue, when Carey and his brother William got into conversation with him, and later the three quarreled. William Carey says Allen whipped out a jack-knife, with a six or seven inch blade, and made a lunge at James Carey. The blade pierced the latter's chest above the collar bone and sank up to the hilt. The wound was about six inches deep. One of the important arteries was severed, and Carey was dying when the ambulance arrived.

Bystanders rushed to the aid of Carey as soon as the serious nature of the quarrel became apparent and probably saved his brother from being stabbed also. Allen was captured and held until the arrival of the police.

A telephone message was sent to police headquarters from the Jenkinson Rubber Company nearby and Patrolman Leonard and Special Officer Wind were sent to the scene. They took Allen to police headquarters.

Slayer Goes to Sleep.

After an examination by Chief George C. Tenney, Allen was locked up, to be arraigned before Judge Mahon tomorrow on a charge of murder. He caused a disturbance at police headquarters for a time, but later quieted down and went to sleep in his cell.

Allen is a notorious "bad man" in the downtown district. He has a police record and has served time for horse stealing. Carey was known as "Skit" Carey and was shot about ten years ago by a Chinaman.

Carey was a son of James J. Carey, Sr., who is the assistant warden at the county courthouse. He was 28 years old, and is survived by three brothers, Thomas, a constable; Frank and William Carey, and one sister, Mrs. Michael Donahue, all of this city. He was a communicant of the Holy Rosary church.

It has not been decided when the next meet will be held here.

MR. TRAINOR'S NEPHEW CURED OF LOCKJAW

Worked over by Dr. William H. Burke and trained nurses from New York city for the past three weeks, James McAloon, Jr., aged 11 years, who is the nephew of John Trainor, of Grant avenue, is now declared to be out of danger from tenanus, with which he was stricken on August 11. The remarkable work of the physician is attracting considerable attention by the physicians in the vicinity of Middletown, N. Y., where the boy is a patient at his father's home.

Visited by Mrs. Trainor several days ago, the boy seemed fatally stricken with the idiopathic form of the disease. The jaws were set, and it was impossible for him to take nourishment for a time. The physician and his assistants never gave up the fight, however, and today the boy is resting comfortably and the tense maxilliary muscles have become normally relaxed. Physicians declare that the boy will recover.

NEW POWER HOUSE FOR SPICER FACTORY.

The Spicer Universal Joint Mfg. Co. is building a new power house in the rear of their factory on property recently bought of Dr. M. L. Clawson. An artesian well is being driven for the plant at the southeast corner of the new building which will supply all the water needed for the factory. The well is being driven by J. S. Lewis, of Scotch Plains. It has now reached a depth of 48 feet but the work is held up owing to the failure of piping to arrive on time.

The new power house will be about thirty-eight feet square and one story high and ought to be completed by the end of September. The Spicer company is working two shifts, the night force working the same number of hours as the day gang, 9-4. A member of the firm said this morning that business was greatly on the increase and they were rushed with orders.

CRACK SHOT-PUTTER TO BECOME A FARMER.

Russell Lawrence, of this city, who has made a phenomenal record as a shot-putter, and who has been representing the New York Athletic Club, notably at the athletic games held at Seattle, recently, will enter Cornell, in the fall, and not Princeton as at first supposed. He will take an agricultural course at Ithaca, as he intends to become an expert farmer.

Berrill Wefers, the trainer for the New York A. C., speaks in the highest praise of Lawrence and says he appears to have a fine future. The latter first came into prominence when a student at John Leal's school for boys, and later at the Y. M. C. A., where he took part in numerous athletic contests under the auspices of the association. His latest achievement at Seattle was noteworthy for the fact that he finished second to Ralph Rose, who holds the world's record for shot-putting.

Auto 'Bus Station.

Arrangements are now being made to establish an auto 'bus line station at Brantingham's Hotel on Park avenue, near Avon Park. Officials of the company held a conference with Mr. Brantingham last night, when details were discussed. Mr. Brantingham suggested placing a red light at the corner of the entrance to his place, and this will be illuminated whenever there is anyone at his hotel wishing to go either to Plainfield or Metuchen, thus giving the bus driver a signal to stop.

Councilmanic Public Affairs Committee to Discuss Subject Tonight.

JOINT SEWER SCHEME ALSO.

Two or Three Sites Suggested for the Proposed Park for the Children in This City.

The Common Council's Public Affairs' committee will meet tonight and discuss the advisability and feasibility of establishing a city park and playgrounds. There may also be a discussion concerning a joint sewer ssytem to include Plainfield, North Plainfield, Fanwood, Scotch Plains and Dunellen.

As for the city park and playgrounds two or three sites have been proposed, one in the West End in the vicinity of Compton and West End avenues, and the other in the southwestern part of the city near Randolph road. Excellent propositions have been made for each site, it is said. Mayor Charles J. Fisk is an enthusiastic advocate of the playground idea and he is doing all that is possible to secure such an institution for the city.

The joint sewer proposition has been under consideration for a long time. Several propositions have been made, but nothing definite decided. The public affairs committee is now at work on one that it believes will meet with general approval, and a report will doubtless be presented in the near future. It is understood that Dunellen and North Plainfield, as well as Scotch Plains and Fanwood are anxious to join in the improvement.

MAY MERGE JERSEY GAS CORPORATIONS.

With the return of former Governor Edward C. Stokes Sunday from a one-week sojourn in England, it was admitted that his mission abroad was to secure the signature of Henry C. Kelsey and a few other holders of local gas securities to an agreement to form a public service gas company on similar lines to those on which the Public Service Railway Company was made part of the Public Service Corporation two years ago.

This, it is understood, is a step preliminary to the first issue of $50,000,000 bonds which the Public Service is authorized to issue. A few months ago an arrangement was entered into between President Thos. N. McCarter, of the P. S. C., and the house of J. Pierpont Morgan & Co., for the underwriting of a part of the proposed issue.

MRS. A. P. FOULK TO WED EDWARD RICHARDSON.

Announcement is made of the approaching marriage of Mrs. A. P. Foulk, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harry S. Sanderson, and Edward Richardson, both of Cranford. The ceremony will be performed Tuesday night, September 7, at the home of the bride in Cranford and will be attended only by the relatives and a few intimate friends. Mrs. Foulk has many friends here, where she is a frequent visitor.

Mr. Richardson has extensive mining interests at Durango, Mexico, and following his marriage to Mrs. Foulk the couple will leave at once for that place, where they will make their future home.

Somerset School Ready.

Among the many visitors to the Somerset school was a professor from one of the colleges in Massachusetts who was interested in the meteorite now in the possession of janitor MacDonald. The school itself is in spick span shape for the reception of pupils when the sessions begin. The desks look like new and the floor are in splendid condition having been oiled and polished until not a speck of dirt is visible. 150 tons of coal have been laid in as part of the winter supply and everything is in readiness for the opening.

INDEPENDENT G. O. P. LEADERS TO MEET

Within the course of a few days, the independent Republican leaders of the city will meet for an informal conference. The purpose will be to discuss freely and fully what position they will take during the coming campaign. A definite policy, it is expected, will be decided upon as has been the custom since the movement started here several years ago.

Beyond the mere fact that this meeting will be held nothing could be learned today for none of those approached felt authorized to say anything about the matter. In a day or two, several of the more prominent leaders will be back from their vacations and this will permit of a full representation. It was learned today that the discussion would have to do, in all probability, solely concerning the county and city situations.

FUNERAL SERVICES OF DR. WILLIAM F. SWALM.

The funeral service of Dr. William F. Swalm, brother of Alburtus Swalm, of this city, was held Sunday from the Church of Our Father, Grand avenue and Leffets place, Brooklyn. He was a prominent physician of Brooklyn and died last Thursday night at Shelter Island, where he had been spending the summer. He had been ill for several months with paralysis. He was in his seventy-third year.

Dr. Swalm wsa a veteran of the Civil War with rank of Brigadier-General, a member of the Loyal Legion, King's County Medical Society, War Veterans' Association, of the 14th Regiment, of which he was a surgeon. He served on Gen. McClellan's staff from 1861-62, from '62 to '65 he was made inspector of hospital by the United States Sanitary Commission with headquarters at City Point, Va. He is survived by a wife and one sister and two brothers, Mrs. Pascal C. Burke, Everett S. Swalm and Alburtus Swalm, the last named of this city.

HIS CURE FOR CRAMPS CAUSED DRUNKENNESS.

In the course of a whiskey and Jamaica ginger treatment for cramps yesterday, the supply of ginger used by Henry Jost, of West Fourth street, ran short. Henry continued with the treatment, however, without this ingredient. The result was that he was found helplessly drunk on Madison avenue, near West Front street, late in the afternoon by Patrolman Myers.

In an effort to put a cheerful outlook on the matter at his arraignment before Judge Runyon this morning, Henry giggled while trying to explain the case to the court, and this led the magistrate to ask if he had taken "laughing gas chasers" with his treatment. The defendant kept a straight face long enough to say that he'd never get drunk any more, and Judge Runyon suspended sentence.

FOR LABOR DAY RACES. DOVER IS PLANNING

The North Jersey Driving Association of Dover is making final arrangements for the races at the Dover Driving Park for the afternoon of Labor Day. There will be three classes, as follows: 2:35 trot for purse, $100; 2:20 trot or pace, purse $125; free-for-all trot or pace, $125. It is expected that one or more match races will be pulled off, as well as other features of interest.

The entries closed Saturday night, and the list comprises some of the best horses in the Eastern circuit. Every race this year has been interesting, and racing men are coming to regard Dover as one of the best racing centres in New Jersey. It is expected that the usual large attendance will be at the tracks.

JOE MANHATTAN GETS CONTRACT AT WESTFIELD.

Joe Manhattan, of this city, was the successful bidder for a $5,000 contract for furnishing flagging and curbing in the town of Westfield, the bids being opened at a meeting of the Westfield Council, last night. he bid called for 16,000 square feet of four foot flagging and 2,000 feet of 4x20 curbing, to be laid on South, Osborn and Dudley avenues and First street.

The other competitors were the Union County Construction Company and Edward Clark, of Elizabeth. Mr. Manhattan was low man, his bid being $14 lower than those of the other bidders. The work will be started within a week.

MOTHER IN HOSPITAL IS UNDER SUSPICION.

Hattie Huyck, a girl of sixteen, gave birth to a child Sunday at 159 Catherine street, Elizabeth. The child is dead and its body is in a morgue, while the mother is in the Elizabeth General Hospital in a serious condition. The police suspect that she can explain the death of the infant, and the matter is being investigated.

Her father is working in New York, where he went a week ago. He paid his daughter's board for one week at the place where she was stopping. The police say the father of the child is in Brooklyn. Two detectives went to the boarding-house Sunday with the patrol wagon and took Miss Muyck's two trunks and a valise to police headquarters. Meanwhile, pending the investigation, the police and the hospital authorities are withholding all information. County Physician Westcott will make an investigation and probably will order an autopsy to determine just what caused the child's death.

STATUE OF LINCOLN FOR EAST ORANGE.

F. Edwin Elwell, formerly curator of sculpture at the Metropolitan Museum of Art in New York, has just finished the modal of an heroic statue of Lincoln. It will be sent to the bronze foundry today and will be erected next spring in the parkway of East Orange.

Lincoln is depicted making an address, having removed his hat with his right hand, which hangs awkwardly by his side. The sculptor has sought to convey an impression of the sadness of Lincoln's eyes and the strength of character shown in his face. Lincoln is represented in his prime.

One of the friends of the early youth of Lincoln, who was a boy when Lincoln was a young man, and who is now eighty-five years old, said yesterday while looking at the statue in the sculptor's studio in Weehawken:

"It is the best portrait of Lincoln I have ever seen. It is the man himself."

May Petition Council.

There are so many complaints about the dusty condition of West End avenue in the borough, that it is likely a petition will be sent to the Borough Council soon, unless something is done to relieve the situation. There is almost constant auto and carriage travel over that thoroughfare and the dust is raised in clouds at such times. The fact that there are no dwellings along that particular section of the avenue does not alter the nuisance in the opinion of people who use the avenue so much.

Danish Lutheran services will be held tomorrow night at 8 o'clock in the W. C. T. U. hall. There will be preaching by Rev. J. P. Neilsen, of Philadelphia.

Mrs. Adjutant Straubel, assisted by her daughter, Miss Florence Straubel, will conduct the meeting at the Salvation Army tent on Watchung avenue, tonight at 8 o'clock. The public is invited.

LIDLESS BOXES FOR AMENDMENT BALLOTS.

Because of the fact that Hudson county election officers have found that the ballots to be used at the constitutional amendment election cannot be folded so as to be placed in the regular ballot boxes through the usual slits, the question has been raised as to what shall be done in the matter of boxes that will receive these unusually large ballots.

Assistant Attorney-General Nelson B. Gaskill has advised the Secretary of State that if these ballots will not go through the slits in the ballot-boxes the lids of the boxes may be left undone and the ballots deposited in the boxes through the open top.

The act providing for the constitutional election provides that the voting shall be done in conformity with the general election laws as far as is practicable. Assistant Attorney-General Gaskill holds the view that if the ballots will not go through the slit in the boxes then an impracticable situation arises which may be overcome by making the boxes practicable by using the entire top opening for depositing purposes.

He also holds that the absence of a box which has been adopted by custom for voting purposes cannot defeat the constitutional right of legal voters to cast their ballots, and is inclined to think that any kind of a box in the absence of the usually used one would be a legal receiving receptacle.

It is is not likely that complications of a serious nature will arise, from the fact that the slits in the boxes will not receive the constitutional ballots, because all election districts are provided with the generally used boxes, and all that is necessary to comply with the ruling of the attorney-general is to use the entire top opening instead of the slit for the reception of ballots

REGAN IS FINED AGAIN

North Plainfield Milkman Mulcted $5. for Disorderly Conduct.

GIRLS PRISONERS AT GATE.

Mrs. Regan Claims Trouble Is Result of Persecution Because of Land Purchase.

The case of Patrick Regan, who was summoned to the borough court on a charge of disorderly conduct brought by Mrs. Fannie Goldstein, of North Plainfield, was called before Borough Recorder C. M. Dolliver this morning and Regan was fined $5.

For a long time bad blood has existed between the Regan family and the Goldsteins and Regan has been in court before on complaint of Louis Goldstein. Regan is now under bonds to appear before the September grand jury on a charge of alleged felonious assault on one of the Goldstein children. In the complaint it is alleged that Regan fired two shots from a revolver at Goldstein's daughter on July 14 last. On this occasion Regan was fined ten dollars for breach of the peace and later was put under bonds on the more serious charge.

This morning eight witnesses appeared against Regan and convinced Recorder Dolliver that Regan had taken the law into his own hands and had created a disturbance for which he was amenable to the law. It was charged that Regan found some children, among whom was Goldstein's daughter Bertha, picking mushrooms in his lot. He led them to a gate and held them up until his wife had summoned Marshal Pope as a witness of the trespass. As a result of this detention the Goldstein girl was made ill and is still under the care of a physician.

Regan claimed that he had a right to act as he did because the children were on property belonging to him, when as a matter of fact the pasture belongs to Colonel J. F. Wilson, and is only leased by Regan. Regan claimed that the children had broken the fence in several places but when Marshal Pope asked to be shown where the fence had been broken Regan told him that he had no time to show him the broken fence.

Mr. Swackhamer, who represented Regan in his address to the court claimed that Regan had not violated any ordinance and that the charge of disorderly conduct had not been proved. Judge William Newcorn, representing Goldstein said that Regan, in his opinion, was not a law abiding citizen. He played a mean trick on the children when he led them to the gate and refused to let them depart and furthermore caused a crowd to collect which was against the law. Judge Newcorn asked the court to impose a heavy sentence in order to teach Regan that he must respect the law. Regan was found guilty and fined.

When Regan left the court a crowd of women and children followed him to his milk wagon on the opposite side of Somerset street and guyed him until, it is alleged, he picked up a milk bottle as if to throw it at his tormentors. In court, after sentence had been pronounced, Regan wanted Recorder Dolliver's permission to cross examine Judge Newcorn to endeavor to prove that the judge was himself not a law abiding citizen, but Regan was persuaded to keep quiet.

Mrs. Regan claims that the whole set of proceedings against her husband is purely persecution and is the result of Regan's purchase of a plot of ground in the rear of his home that the boys of the neighborhood wanted to use as a baseball field. They had no trouble until the Goldstein family moved into the neighborhood, she says.

After Judge's Recovery.

After five weeks' treatment at the Brookside sanitarium, on Somerset street, former City Judge Nelson Runyon, of East Ninth street, is about today apparently completely cured of a severe case of liver and stomach trouble. A great change is noticed in his physical condition and appearance and the judge is strong in his endorsement of Brookside sanitarium.

DESERTED DOVER, N. J., WIFE LOCATES SPOUSE.

After appealing to the authorities in her home town to assist her in bringing her husband, Ernest Colutchie, to account, Mrs. Sarah Colutchie was furnished with railroad fare for herself and three small children from Dover, N. J., to Baltimore by the chief of police there, and, arriving at Baltimore Saturday afternoon, appeared before Justice Llewellyn, at the Northeastern Police Station, and swore out a warrant for his arrest for non-support. Within half an hour after the warrant was sworn out Colutchie was arraigned before the magistrate to answer the charge.

Colutchie told Justice Llewellyn that he refused to live with his wife, but was willing to take care of the children. He was told that he must pay her $7 a week, which he agreed to. He could offer no security for this amount, which the magistrate placed at $500, and is being held at the stationhouse.

Mrs. Colutchie was given food for herself and the children by Justice Llewellyn and a place to sleep for the night at the stationhouse.

Miss Edith Glaentzer, of West Front street, has returned from a two weeks' vacation spent in New York.

THE DAILY PRESS.

Plainfield, N. J., August 31, 1909.

SOME STATE NEWS BRIEFS

After experimenting with male leaders, members of the Burlington Board of Education have decided that women make the best principals.

The police made a tour of the lower end of Gloucester late Saturday night and rounded up three men and three women stragglers, who were locked up for a hearing.

Little Joe Cohen, the two-year-old son of Mrs. Rebecca Cohen, of 37 High street, Paterson, died in the General Hospital last Saturday afternoon of burns received while stamping out a bonfire near his home last Friday.

As a branch of St. Paul's Roman Catholic church, a new edifice for the Polish worshippers, is soon to be erected in East Pearl street, Burlington, a Polish count, whose son is said to have been killed in this city while working under an assumed name some years ago, is said to have promised $10,000 toward the building as a memorial.

Surrounded by crowds of people, seven-year-old Mary Harding might have drowned in the shallow basin of the fountain in the State House Park, Trenton, had not William Riehill rescused her. The child endeavored to imitate her older companions in walking on the curbing surrounding the basin. She missed her footing and fell in. She was unconscious when Riehill pulled her out.

Ignatz Slaska, employed as a farmhand by Garret Hopper, of Fairlawn, while riding a bicycle last Saturday evening at Third and Madison avenues, Paterson, was run down and hurled from his bicycle by an automobile. The chauffeur continued on his way, scarcely looking around to observe what injuries the victim might have received. Slaska was taken to the General Hospital in the ambulance. His knees and legs were lacerated and contused. He was able to return home after the doctors dressed the wounds.

Thousands of bathers at Atlantic City gave Captain C. S. Coy, seventy-six years old, of Huntington County, Pa., a one-armed veteran of the Civil War, an ovation when he took his first plunge in the ocean today. Appearance of the grizzled veteran with an empty sleeve pinned up to his shoulder attracted a large throng to whom he conveyed the fact that a confederate shell had deprived him of his arm at Antietam. The aged soldier was as full of happiness as a small boy, and declared his first experience with salt water had made him ten years younger.

Police Judge Rees, of Trenton, yesterday directed that search be made for John K. Markavitch, whom Miss Antonie Takowski accuses of running off with $100 belonging to her on the eve of their expected wedding. The girl was smitten with the man. He had no work, and she gave him money for their wedding. She put up funds for an orchestra and bought wedding clothes for Markavitch and herself. Then she told him of the $100 in her trunk, the remainder of her savings. This money, she now says, has gone, together with the man. The judge says the police must get him for larceny.

MT. BETHEL PLEASURE CIRCLE SURPRISE MRS. GILLEM.

The members of the Mt. Bethel Pleasure Circle surprised their fellow member and friend, Mrs. Wilhelmina Gillem, of South Stirling, Thursday evening last, it being the anniversary of her birthday.

Mrs. Gillem was in ignorance of the plan until the guests walked up the path singing to her a birthday greeting. Nearly every one was masked, and a most enjoyable time was spent while Mrs. Gillem guessed who each individual was. Music, phonograph, singing and dancing, and a general round of fun made the evening thoroughly enjoyable. Refreshments were served about 11 o'clock—one of the features of evening was the presentation of a birthday cake with sixty lighted candles. Mrs. Adam Sachs, as a sailor girl, and Mrs. Glogger as a little girl, were very good, as were also Mrs. Dudderstadt as grandma and Robert Angster as grandpa. Guy D. Peck and Andrew Haye as Chinamen, Mrs. Matter and Mrs. Andrew Haye, Japanese, Miss Papst Red Cross nurse, Mrs. Angster, fashionable dressmaker and milliner, Miss Angster, Sis Hopkins, Mrs. Jacob Reinmann, Mrs. Steffen and Jacob Reinmann as colored folks were very good, as were Mrs. Hochdorffer as Apple Mary, Mrs. Guy D. Peck as a baby and Mr. Dudderstadt as a farmer. There were also several milk-maids, and a number of friends were unmasked.

HAMMERSTEIN PRESENTS MEYERBEER'S "PROPHET."

Mr. Hammerstein's first effort at educational opera brought together a great crowd of music lovers to the Manhattan Opera House in New York last night. Meyerbeer's "Prophet" was the educational means advanced for the benefit of the people. From all accounts this opera, which nearly all the impressarios have sidetracked because of fear of results, had as fine a representation as was ever given in the big city. The critics give credit to Mr. Hammerstein for the inaugural success of his scheme to educate the taste for classic music among people who cannot afford to pay the enormous prices that are demanded for seats during the regular season.

The "Prophet" was a great undertaking, but the newly imported singers were in every case equal to the demands made upon their voices and individually scored successes. The chorus, too, came in for hearty words of approval. With so commendable a first effort over with there is every reason to believe that the future performances at the Manhattan will jump into immediate favor.

NEWARK HEADQUARTERS FOR THE TECHNOLOGISTS.

Heilbrun read a paper on "Fireproof Buildings," Newark, N. J., was selected as headquarters. The officers of the Newark branch will for one year assume the direction of affairs of the national organization.

After the business session a steamboat ride on the Delaware was taken. The party visited League Island and the Torresdale filter plant.

WEDDING SECRET OUT.

Under the influence of the surroundings of a balmy summer evening along the placid waters of Lake Hopatcong acquaintance ripened into love and terminated in marriage after a brief courtship, when Homer S. Biddle, of 373 Summer avenue, and Miss Elizabeth Marie Fauls, of Brooklyn, were quietly married at the lake resort August 14 last. With the exception of Mrs. Charles Bohling, of Brooklyn, the bride's aunt, and Edward Chaplin, of Lake Hopatcong, a friend of the groom, who acted as witnesses, the event was a secret with the young couple, and it was not until yesterday that Mr. Biddle admitted the truth of the current whisperings to that effect. The ceremony was performed by Rev. John W. Paucher, of Succasunna.

LOCAL AMUSEMENTS.

One of the prettiest and truest-to-nature stage pictures ever created in the cotton picking scene in the ever-popular production of Stetson's "Uncle Tom's Cabin," which is to be seen at the Plainfield theatre tonight. It is a true fac-simile of an ideal home on the Red River, the setting having been constructed and painted from actual photographs, secured by Manager Leon Washburn. Mr. Washburn is most exacting; even in the most minor details of a production. Where another manager would be contented with papier mache plants, Manager Washburn must have the real article. He engaged the services of a chemist who finally produced a shellac by the use of which the cotton plant may be preserved in its natural state indefinitely. The several hundred plants used in the Stetson production are exactly as they were when removed from a Louisiana plantation in the height of the cotton picking season. Words utterly fail in even faintly depicting this beautiful picture. It must be seen to be appreciated.

If one wishes to be brought among the Sierras, do not forget to attend Nellie McHenry's performance of "M'Liss" at the Plainfield theatre tomorrow night. Real horses, a stage coach, and all necessary stage accessories go to make the surroundings up-to-date. Manager Wuerz has surrounded Miss McHenry with a strong and capable company among whom are Miss Julia Morris, late of Arizona, Miss Roxie Lansing and Messrs. Victor Horvey, Robert A. Bennett, P. H. Nannary. Special attention has been paid to both scenic and electrical effects.

Unusual scenic devices are used in the beautiful comedy drama, "The White Squaw." A full sized bark wigwam, showing a large collection of money to collect, is of great interest. The gun carried by Jacques

Scene in "The White Squaw," at Plainfield Theatre Next Thursday Night.

Cautier, the French Canadian trapper, was once owned by that great chief, Pontiac. The watch which is used by Michabo, was carried in the war of 1812 by Col. Kingsbury, the great grandfather of the author of the play. The clay dishes, tomahawks, bows and arrows might all tell wonderful tales could they but speak. Manager Egerton will present the play at the Plainfield theater on Thursday, September 2.

With a first class company of actors with acknowledged reputations, and undoubted ability, the management announces we are to have "Buster Brown" at the Plainfield theatre Saturday, Sept. 4, matinee and night, all rewritten, an entirely new edition and better than ever. This year, Master Rice, who plays "Buster" has fully demonstrated that he is the right little comique in the exact spot, for he is so immersed in and imbued with the spirit of Mr. Outcault's character that those who have seen him declare that he is not playing a part, that he is the typical 'Buster" himself. New and elaborate scenery and costumes grace the production this season, together with all new music and popular songs. Its a tuneful tonic for the season.

Thomas R. VanBoskerck and George T. VanBoskerck, of West Seventh street, have been sojourning at Spring Lake.

DAUGHTER OF ARIZONA TOWN SUCCESSFUL ON THE STAGE.

Bessie Merrill's father was killed by Mexican cattle thieves and her education was furnished by the citizens.

Bessie Merrill will appear at the Plainfield theatre Friday, September 3, in Geo. M. Cohan's musical play, "The Honeymooners." She is the soubrette of the show and it is she that leads the numbers of all the rapid fire dances of the Cohan style and is the life of any show in which she appears. Miss Merrill is the daughter of a sheriff of Gravestone, Arizona, and her childhood was spent on a cattle ranch in the West. Her father was killed while leading a vigilance committee against a band of Mexican cattle thieves and the little girl became the daughter of the town and was educated by subscriptions from the rough and ready citizens. It was while on a trip to Denver that Miss Merrill saw her first theatrical performance and caught the stage fever. Later she joined a small musical comedy company and did well from the start, and at the earnest solicitation of the people of Gravestone, the company was taken there for one performance and it is said that the leading cattlemen of the surrounding country almost compelled all the men they met to buy tickets and the result was a house that would have done credit to a big city and when Miss Merrill came on for her dance, a shower of dollars and buckskin sacks fell upon the stage, as a tribute of affection and admiration.

The Lure of the Mask

By HAROLD MAC GRATH

Hillard saw the twinkle in the black eyes. "I have never," he said truthfully, "asked you to black my boots."

"Penance, signor, penance for my sins, and I am not without gratitude. There was a time when I had rather cut off a hand than black a boot. But all that is changed. We of the Sabine hills are proud, as the signor knows. We are Romans out there. We despise the cities, and we do not hold out our palms for the traveler's pennies. I am a peasant, but always remember the blood of the Caesars. Who can say? Besides, I have held a sword for the church. I owe no allegiance to the puny house of Savoy!" There was no twinkle in the black eyes now. There was a ferocious gleam. "Pardon, signor. I grow boastful. I am old and should know better. But does the signor return to Italy in the spring?"

"I don't know, Giovanni; I don't know. But what's on your mind?"

"Nothing new, signor," with eyes cast down to hide the returning lights.

"You are a bloodthirsty ruffian!" said Hillard shortly.

"I am as the good God made me. Besides, the holy father will do something for one who fought for the cause."

"He will certainly not countenance bloodshed, Giovanni."

"He can absolve it."

"I was in hopes you had forgotten."

"Forgotten! The signor will never understand. She was so pretty and youthful and innocent! She sang like the nightingale. Up with the dawn, to sleep with the stars. We were alone, she and I. The sheep supported me, and she sold her roses and dried lavender. It was all so beautiful—till he came. Ah, had he loved her! But a plaything, a pastime! The signor never had a daughter. What is she now? A nameless thing in the streets!" Giovanni raised his arms tragically. The boots clattered to the floor. "Seven years! It is a long time for one of my blood to wait."

"Seven years! It is a long time to wait."

"Enough!" cried Hillard, but there was a hardness in his throat at the sight of the old man's tears. Where was the proud and stately man, the black bearded shepherd in faded blue linen, in picturesque garters, with his reedlike pipe, that he, Hillard, had known in his boyhood days? "I can give you only my sympathy for your loss," said Hillard, "but I abhor the spirit of revenge which cannot find satisfaction in anything save murder."

Giovanni bowed gravely and made off with his boots. Hillard remained staring thoughtfully at the many colored squares in the rug under his feet. It would be lonesome with Giovanni gone. The old man had evidently made up his mind. But the woman with the voice, would she see the notice in the paper? And if she did would she reply to it? What a foundation for a romance! Bah! He prepared for bed.

To those who reckon earthly treasures as the only thing worth having John Hillard was a fortunate young man. That he was without kith or kin was considered by many as an additional piece of good fortune. Born in Sorrento, in one of the charming villas which sweep down to the very brow of the cliffs, educated in Rome up to his fifteenth year, taken at that age from the dreamy, drifting land and thrust into the noisy, bustling life which was his inheritance; fatherless and motherless at twenty, a college youth who was forever mixing his Italian with his English and being laughed at, hating tumult and loving quiet, warm hearted and impulsive, yet meeting only habitual reserve from his compatriots whichever way he turned, it is not to be wondered at that he preferred the land of his birth to that of his blood.

The old house in which he lived was not in the fashionable quarter of the town, but that did not matter. Nor did it vary externally from any of its unpretentious neighbors. A cook, a butler and a valet were his retinue.

Giovanni sought his own room at the end of the hall, squatted on a low stool and solemnly began the business of blacking his master's boots. He was still as lean and tall as a Lombardy poplar, this handsome old Roman. His hair was white; there was now no black beard on his face, which was as brown and creased as Spanish levant, and some of the fullness was gone from his chest and arms, but for all that he carried his fifty odd years lightly. He worked swiftly tonight, but his mind was far away from his task.

There was a pitiful story, commonplace enough—a daughter, a loose living officer, a knife flung from a dark alley, the sudden flight to the south. Hillard had found him wandering through the streets of Naples, hiding from the carabinieri as best he could. Hillard contrived to smuggle him on the private yacht of a friend. He found a peasant who was reconsidering the advisability of digging sewers and laying railroad ties in the Eldorado of the west. A few pieces of silver and the passport changed hands. With this Giovanni blandly lied his way into the United States. After due time he applied for citizenship, and through Hillard's influence it was accorded him. He solemnly voted when elections came round and hoarded his wages, like the thrifty man he was. Some day he would return to Rome or Naples or Venice or Florence, as the case might be, and then!

When the boots shone flawlessly he carried them to Hillard's door and softly tiptoed back. He put his face against the cold window. He, too, had heard the voice. How his heart hurt him with its wild hope! But only for a moment. It was not the voice he hungered for. The words were Italian, but he knew that the woman who sang them was not.

HOW TO TELL GOOD COFFEE

How the Housewife Can Decide Which Is the Best Coffee to Buy.

Numerous "tricks of the trade" have made loose coffee buying very uncertain and unreliable.

But with the advent of the package coffee and the development of a more discriminating taste among the American people a change is taking place. The housewife is growing more particular.

She not only refuses to buy her coffee from the frequently unsanitary coffee bin, preferring to have it in the more aesthetic tin, but she is also showing a preference for the package coffee, correctly labeled. She has gradually been educated up to a point where she asks for a blend by name, and in so doing is more certain of getting a blend of coffee which is always uniform and just as represented.

It is now possible to serve at your own table the same delicious coffee that has helped make the fame of the Hotel Astor. This most perfect coffee, originally blended for the exclusive use of the Hotel Astor, is now packed for family use in air-tight tins—in the bean, ground or pulverized. Coffee sold under the name Hotel Astor Coffee is guaranteed to be the same in all respects as that served at the Hotel Astor, New York.

The Hotel Astor recipe for making coffee is in every tin, and requires less coffee than is used of lower grade coffees, from which it is impossible to realize such a rich, smooth and fragrant deliciousness.

Get a tin of Hotel Astor Coffee today. Sold by good grocers generally—and doubtless by yours. But if your grocer does not keep it, write the importers, B. Fischer & Co., 190 Franklin street, New York City, giving your grocer's name and address, and they will tell you where you can get it.

FOOTBALL TRICK SAVES LIVES.

Ralph O'Sullivan Snatches Child and Nurse from in Front of Flying Auto.

Ralph O'Sullivan, one of the managers for the New York Life Insurance Company, who played football before he had to earn his own living, showed at the railroad station at Summit that courage, the ability to think and act quickly, and the physical training that taught him the trick of throwing himself headlong at a given mark and then rolling to one side, stood him in good stead when he saved one, and probably two, lives and performed the act without more than slightly bruising himself and ruining a good suit of clothes.

O'Sullivan saved the life of a baby and prevented a nurse who inadvertently got in the way of an automobile from being crushed. He was in his way from his home to catch the 8:09 train for New York. As he reached Morris and Springfield avenues, near the Summit station, he saw a three-year-old baby break away from the nurse in charge and step directly in the path of a swiftly moving automobile. Without hesitation, O'Sullivan, who was on the other side of the street, lunged forward, as he would have done in the old football days, and, with none of his accuracy of eye lost, caught the child as his left shoulder hit the ground. Gripping the child in his arms, he rolled clear of the front wheels, and, brushing against the frantic nurse, who had followed the child, threw her also out of the way.

The baby was absolutely unhurt, and the maid was only shaken up. O'Sullivan himself was only bruised. With their hearts in their mouths the autoists made sure that no harm had been done, then passed on. The names of neither the autoosts nor the nurse and child were obtained by witnesses. O'Sullivan went to New York on a later train.

FATHER, LONG MISSING, DEAD.

Daughter's Search for Him Ends at His Grave—Killed 19 Years Ago.

After nineteen years' neglect, not knowing what had become of him, the grave of R. Grosstein in Evergreen Cemetery, New Brunswick, will be adorned by a tombstone Grosstein, while employed by the Pennsylvania Railroad, was struck by a train in 1890 and instantly killed. All efforts to find his family failed. The officials of the road gave him a decent burial, but ever since the grave has been forsaken.

It is now learned that his wife in New York awaited his return for many months and eventually died of a broken heart, leaving two little girls. Through friends the children were taken care of and fairly well educated. They were Yetta and Rebecca Grosstein. After they became old enough they inquired about their past history, and learned that their father had been employed on the Pennsylvania Railroad, and after years of searching found he had been killed in this city.

Accompanied by their guardian, Samuel Kopt, of 224 East Fortieth street, New York, they went to New Brunswick last week and saw Louis Cohn, president of the Temple Arsha Emeth. Mr. Cohn promised he would do all he could to learn where their father's grave was, and he consulted with the officials of Evergreen Cemetery. The records were examined and Mr. Grosstein's name found and the spot of his grave.

Word was sent to the daughters, and they have announced their intention of erecting a monument to their father's memory.

BASEBALL.

Stallings, according to a report, is very sweet of his "little" outfielder. Only 190 pounds of littleness.

Once last week the Highlanders made ten hits to oponents' four and yet lost the game, and later made thirteen hits to opponents' seven and lost. May be bad luck or bone headedness, maybe both.

Recent paragraphs speak dolefully of the way Wagner is falling off in his hitting. Very appaling. In his last four games Honus has made only nine safeties, including a triple and two doubles. He won't bat more than .400 if he keeps falling off at that rate.

It looks as if the two St. Louis teams would finish with the lowest average position, 6½, if they finish where they are now, with New York, Chicago and Boston all doing better than that. The most overrated ball team in the country at the beginning of the season was the Browns.

Some of the hardest long distance slugging ever seen took place in the games at the Polo Grounds last week, with the Reds, Pirates and Cubs battling against the Giants. There were seven home runs, eleven three baggers and eighteen two baggers. The Giants didn't get in on the home runs at all, but made six of the three baggers and eight of the doubles.

"The Rural Report," in the Newark Sunday Call, published the following last Sunday, and there are many Plainfield fans who recognize that it is a case of history repeating itself:

Monoghan says: "This here game of ball between Newton and Branchville is getting on my nerves. Both towns are paying from 50 to 100 bones a day for players, and we ain't getting our bait back in the betting. We are paying too much for local pride in hirelings, and the varlets ain't making good on either side. We are getting trimmed both ways and in the middle, and—what's the use? The whole system is rotten to the core and the whole bunch ought to be indicted under the gambling act and set to the pen. We have boys in the county that can play good ball, but the old sports won't give them a show; and they ain't getting the goods they pay good money for when they hire a lot of professional substitutes from the big leagues to hold up the dignity of the towns. It is only a question of which town can hire the best loose man on the big leagues, but the fight has assumed such proportions that there is no chance of getting the money back by betting; and meanwhile the native-born ball players are giving the sports the laugh."

The Netherwood Baseball club would like to arrange games with the Plainfield A. C. or the Monroe A. C., or any fast team. September 4 is an open date. Write J. B. Coughlin, 857 Leland avenue, Netherwood.

GOLF.

Golfing activity will be resumed in the meetropolitan district this week with the annual amateur tournament under the auspices of the New York Golf Club on the links at Van Cortlandt Park. The qualifying round of eighteen holes will be played Thursday morning, thirty-two to qualify and the match play rounds will be eighteen holes. A consolation cup has been offered for the beaten sixteen in the first round. The tournament committee consists of C. A. Timewell, W. H. Siebs, Curt Felix, and Francis J. Kelly.

Entries for the National amateur championship closed last night with Secretary R. C. Watson of the United States Golf Association. The committee will make pairings by the middle of the week for the qualifying round on Monday, Sept. 6, at the Chicago Golf Club, Wheaton, Ill., and the announcement of the entries and pairings will then be made.

The Forest Hill Field Club of Forest Hill, has just been elected a member of the Metropolitan Golf Association, bringing the total membership up to sixty-one clubs.

Entries for the metropolitan open championship, to be held on the Wykagyl Club links, New Rochelle, from Sept. 15 to 17, close on Sept. 11 with Secretary W. D. Vanderpool, 800 Broad street, Newark. The first day will be devoted to a special four-ball tournament for prizes offered by the club. The championship will consist of seventy-two holes, thirty-six holes being played each day, and eight prizes will be awarded of the aggregate value of $475, in addition to $60 in special prizes for the best eighteen-hole and thirty-six hole scores each day. Jack Hobens, of Englewood, is the present title holder.

Miss Dorothy Campbell, the British woman golf champion, will sail for this country on Sept. 10. She will be accompanied by Miss F. Techer, who won the Scottish championship two years ago; Miss S. Temple and Miss G. Spurling, of Westward Ho, and Mr. and Mrs. C. H. Gray, of Barnhurst. All of the women will compete in the women's national championship on the links of the Merion Cricket Club near Philadelphia from Oct. 4 to 9.

There will be a great influx of college golfers to New York within the next two weeks for the annual intercollegiate championship tournament, which will be held on the Apawamis links during the week of Sept. 13.

At Proctor's.

One of the best vaudeville bills yet presented at Proctor's theatre was offered last night and will continue until tomorrow night. The Weston Sisters, who are right off the Keith and Proctor circuit, and are exceedingly clever singers and dancers, head the bill. The Evans Trio, also off the big circuit, make a hit in an original sketch, while Will Paleau, a ventriloquist, and Bon. Morse, tramp comedian, complete the specialties. In addition the films d'art are the best ever.

1910 Chalmers-Detroit "30" $1,500

ARRIVED

The only car selling under $2,000 having full floating type rear axle, annular ball bearings throughout; double drop frame and 115 inch wheel base.

It won the Indiana Light Car race on the 18th of June, averaged 51.5 miles per hour for 232 miles. On straightaways its recorded speed exceeded 75 miles per hour.

In the 202-mile race over the Santa Monica course in California, on the 10th of July, the "30" won with an average of 55.2 miles an hour. In both of these contests the "30" motor was the smallest entered.

Any car that can go from Denver to Mexico City or can go 208 miles a day for 100 consecutive days, as a Chalmers-Detroit "30" did, is a pretty safe car to buy.

We strongly advise placing your order early as the Chalmers entire output for 1910 will be sold out early.
